To the lost world—now found.

And placed before your eyes in a vivid, startling story of romance and adventure.

Live with them in battles with savage native tribes—missing links.

Pass beyond—to the strange, unknown world of prehistoric monsters as big as fifteen elephants—flying reptiles as big as an aeroplane.

Fight for life with them against these monsters of the air, the land and the deep.

Back to London with a caged dinosaur.

Flee with them as he snapshis chains and runs wild down the streets, smashing trams and sky scrapers, crashing through Tower bridge.

Truly the marvel of the screen. It will hold you breathless, clinging to your seats—a picture you never will forget.

FIRE DESTROYS FERRY BOAT AT ROCK HALL

Blazing Craft Cut Adrfit To Save Wharves And Other Vessels; No One Abroad—Chestertown Firemen Fight Flames Threatening Along Nearby Docks

The ferry "Baltimore" of the Baltimore and Eastern Shore Ferry Co. was burned to the water's edge on Wednesday night of last week at Rock Hall.

Catching fire shortly before 8 p. m. while no one was aboard, as it was tied up in its slip at the Rock Hall pier, it was cut adrift and allowed to float out, a mass of flames, in order to prevent destruction of its sister ship, the "Eastern Shore," and the pier and warehouses.

The flames leaped through the craft quickly, and in little more than an hour the last of its charred hulk smouldered in the Chesapeake Bay.

The fire was discovered by W. Reybold Wilson, retired merchant and a stockholder in the ferry company, as he was strolling on the pier. The flames, apparently originating in the engine room where the fires had been left banked, already were breaking through the upper deck near the forward pilot house.

Mr. Wilson notified the night watchman, who was aboard the "Eastern Shore," in an adjoining slip. Capt. Hillary B. Akers, of the ferry company, was on the scene in a moment after the fire was discovered and ordered the whistle blown on the "Eastern Shore" and also phoned to Chestertown for the fire company.

When the firemen arrived with their chemical truck, the ship was a mass of flames and the fire was attacking the pier.

Residents of Rock Hall, fearing for the other ship and the warehouses on the pier, cut the Baltimore loose and with poles, shoved it out into the channel. The firemen continued their efforts to put out the incipent blazes set on the pier by flying sparks sent up in a great shower from the steamer.

The Baltimore and the Eastern Shore, which had been laid up for several days by the fog and the ice floes that covered the bay, were to have resumed their regular trips to Bay Shore on Thursday.

Both ships were purchased by the company about six years ago in New York at a price reported to be $125,000 each, when the ferry service was begun. This boat was valued at $150,000 with $70,000 insurance.

RADIO MUSIC ENTERS HOUSE THROUGH PHONE

John Jester, of Church Creek, of Dorchester county, had the unique experience of hearing a radio program over his telephone. The music came early in the morning and consisted of various selections.

The sounds were heard on both the first and second floors of the residence Mr. Jester loked carefully around the house to see if any one was playing without or within, but finding no one, he was forced to the conclusion that the music came through the telephone

Most remarkable of all is the fact that the phone had not been taken from the hook.

The music was also heard by Mrs. Jester. Mr. Jester is well known in business and religious circles, being a local preacher.

EXPLAIN HOW TO THAW FROZEN WATER PIPES

The middle of a frozen pipe should never be thawed first, says the United States Department of Agriculture—because expansion of the water confined by ice on both sides may burst the pipe. When thawing a water pipe, work toward the supply, opening a faucet to show when the flow starts. When thawing a waste or sewer pipe, work upward from the lower end to permit the water to drain away.

Apply boiling water or hot cloths to a frozen pipe is simple and effective. When there is no danger of fire, a torch or burning newspaper run back and forth along the frozen pipe gives quick results. Underground or otherwise inaccessible pipes may be thawed by opening the frozen pipe on the house end, inserting a small pipe or tube, and with the aid of a funnel at the other end of this small pipe, pouring boiling water into it, pushing it forward as the ice melts. More thaw pipe should be added at the outer end until a passage is made through the ice, when the thaw pipe should be quickly withdrawn.

M. K. NEWNAM DONATES BED TO CO. HEALTH ROOM

The public health committee met on Tuesday as usual. They are delighted to announce that the bed which was loaned about a year ago by Mr. M. K. Newnam for use in the public health center, has been donated by him outright. This is a splendid gift and is very much appreciated by Miss Jackson and the committee. Permission was given Miss Jackson to arrange for the building of a wardrobe for her use. Bills were paid as usual. The following report was submitted:

Much time has been spent in rural schools, seven of them having been visited in December and 178 pupils inspected. Typhoid vaccine was given to 16 contacts, but I find this disease has greatly decreased this month. At the tuberculosis clinic in Denton and Preston 20 cases were examined, several of which were advised sanatorium cases. In company with the sheriff, several homes were visited, from one of which four children were removed, as they were only partially clothed.

COOPERATIVE MARKETING TO BE TAUGHT IN SCHOOLS

The Department of Rural Education of the National Education Association in the recent meeting at Indianapolis announced a vigorous new policy looking to the preparation of farm children for intelligent participation in cooperative agriculture. The important facts concerning cooperative marketing which should be taught in the schools are being selected and put into text books and courses of study. They will be taught as far as possible to all pupils in the public schools—city and country alike—that all may have an intelligent and sympathetic understanding of the cooperative mode of agricultural life which promises to be the permanent type of the future.

The motives which impelled the National Education organization to take this step are as follows:

Every American believes that farm children should be given as good educational opportunities as other children have.

Educators now know how to develop as good educational facilities for farm children as other children have, when adequate support is given.

Farmers cannot get the money to support good schools except as they get it out of their crops.

They cannot get it out of their crops until they cease dumping them individually at a loss and begin to market them collectively at a profit.

They cannot do this successfull until they understand the basic principles of cooperative merchandising, the form which the marketing organizations take, and the absolute necessity for loyalty to the marketing group.
