MORALS RELIGION AND COMMON SENSE

IN OLD FABLES—THE FOXES' QUARREL

Two foxes lived together in the depths of a forest. They never had a cross word with each other. At last one of them said, in very polite fox language, "Let us try to get up a quarrel," "Very well," said the other, "just as you please; but how shall we do it?" "Oh it is easy enough," said the first; "two-legged people quarrel and I don't see why we should not, too." So they tried all sorts of ways but could not get up a quarrel, because they were use to getnle, peaceful words that one or the other of them was always giving way and the quarrel never came off. Finally, the fox that had first spoken of the matter brought two little stones into their den. Laying them down before his companion he said, "There now; you say that those stones are yours and I'll say they are mine; then we can get up a quarrel and scratch and fight each other just as the two-legged people do. All ready now. I'll begin. Those stones are mine." "Very well," answered the other fox, very gently, "you are welcome to them." "But we shall never get up a quarrel at all at this rate," said the first fox, jumping up and licking his lips. "You old simpleton, don't you know that it takes two to make a quarrel?"

Eastern Shore Happenings

The action of the city council last Friday night in awarding a contract for street lighting insures a "White Way" for Dover early in the spring.

The contract calls for 44 standards, approximately 13 feet high. These standards will be placed on Lockerman street, just inside the curb, from the railroad station to the postoffice and on State street from the postoffice to Hotel Richardson.

The standards will be spaced 125 feet apart, three to each side of a block. The lighting units are to be the General Electric form No. 9 Novalux, all glass, having either 600 candle power lamps or the 400 candle power tip up gas filled lamp.

The present plan is to burn all the lights up to midnight and 11 to burn after that time. When all of the lights are on, there will be 3,600 candle power to the block, or approximately 12 candle power for each lineal foot.

Representatives of the Del-Mar-Va Fair Association held a meeting at Salisbury Friday of last week to discuss dates and other matters concerning the coming fair season. The representatives were guests at a luncheon at the Wicomico hotel. The following fair dates were decided on: Harrington, six day fair, opens on July 26th; Pocomoke, four days, opens August 3; Tasley, four days, opens August 10th; Salisbury, open on August 17th; Cambridge on August 24th.

Attempts will be made to make this season a banner season and an effort will be made to get good, clean racing and amusements.

That the Breyer Ice Cream company of Philadelphia plans the construction of a mammoth and modern new milk station at Millington some time early this year, is the substance of a report circulated in Millington this week. Additional credence is given the rumor because of the fact that officials of the company were here this week, instigating sites along the tracks of the Pennsylvania railroad.

Last year the shipments of milk to Philadelphia from the Millington dairying area aggregated 4,389,500 lbs.

For several years the Breyer company has operated a plant just south of Chester river in South Millington. Because of the steadily increasing volume, however, it is stated that the Philadelphia firm will construct a fine, commodious building immediately adjacent to the railway tracks in Millington.

Easton, Feb. 5—Dr. J. W. Corrigan, of Easton, has returned from New York, where he went with an Irish wolfhound, which was sold by Mrs. Glen Stewart, to Rudolph Valentino, the movie star.

Mrs. Stewart has sold a number of these dogs to prominent people at prices up to $5,000 each.

Easton, Feb. 5—Fishermen from Tilghman's Island in the Chesapeake bay reported that while fishing there they saw several sea lions. The men had been fishing with drift nets in the deep waters of the bay with success. This week, however, several boats returned with very small catches, and mous appetites of the sea lions, who mou appetites of the sea lions, who seem to be following the large schools of rock and herring now runing.

Chestertown, Feb. 5—Taxpayers in the vicinity of Warwick, Cecil county, and Massey, in Kent, are making efforts to have the dirt road between the two points improved with a new concrete highway during the coming spring and summer. The move is no only because of the value to the farmers and shippers but for the fact that the present road is the only unimproved link in the shore trail, which leads from northern cities through Massey, Millington and Sudlersville to Ocean City and points South, giving a continuous stretch of improved road practically the entire length of the Atlantic seaboard from New York to Cape Charles.

Just what steps will be taken to secure the necessary funds have not been worked out, as the county commissioners state there will be little, if any, money available this year for lateral road building under which heading this highway comes.

Salisbury, Feb. 5—A mural painting depicting Biblical scenes, in life-size characters, will be executed on a panel behind the pulpit in Bethseda Methodist Protestant church, as a memorial from the congregation to Oscar Lee Morris, former member of the official board and prominent business man, who was killed last September in an auto accdient.

Edwin Howland Blashfield, one of America's most noted mural painters, will do the work, which will require six months. Mr. Blashfield arrived here yesterday from New York, to inspect the proposed site and determine the lighting effects before selecting the scene to be painted.

Seaford, Feb. 5—During the storm of Wednesday night and yesterday, Mrs. Jennie Richardson, wife of Capt. Willis Richardson, of this town, formerly of Cambridge, had a narrow escape from probable death, when a ball of fire shot out from an electrical bridge lamp, under which she was sitting, passed over her lap and set the floor on fire. The blaze was extinguished before serious damage was done.

The storm was accompanied by thunder and lightning, a rare thing at this time in southern Delaware. A high wind prevailed, demolishing a shed 150 feet long belonging to the Allen Packing Company, and telegraph and telephone wires were blown down.

The dredging of the Vine's Branch canal in southeastern Sussex county, near the town of Frankford, is perhaps the greatest drainage project ever attempted at local expense in the eastern part of the United States. When this canal is completed, which will be in from one to two more years, it is estimated it will drain about 30,000 acres of rich, sandy loam land.

This canal, five miles of which is completed, will be about 22 feet wide and from 8 to 12 feet deep. The five mile section now completed was dug about three years ago at the private expense of L. L. Layton of Georgetown, and lies entirely on his own holdings.

The total length of the canal, with its tributaries, will be at least twenty-two miles long, worming its way from Long's Pond one mile east of the town and near Lowe's Cross Roads, about 5 miles from Laurel. This canal will also be connected with the source of the Pocomoke river, which flows into the Chesapeake bay.

C. Washington Purnell, owner and proprietor of the Atlantic hotel in Ocean City which was recently burned to the ground, will soon have construction under way for a new hotel.

Mr. Purnell plans to erect a four-story frame structure with about 100 rooms. The land is being cleared of all debris and work will start on the new building immediately after the data has been prepared.

The new hotel will have the form of the letter L, the upright section being along the boardwalk and the base running parallel with the cross street near Dr. Townsend's pharmacy.

Mr. Purnell plans a structure that will permit the addition of other sections when the time warrants. Ultimately the proposed building with its later additions will have a central point.

It is planned to have construction rushed so the hotel wil be ready for occupancy by July 1st.

Seaford, Feb. 8—Dr. William F McKown, 70 years old, well known dentist, died yesterday at his home in Federalsburg. He had practiced in Seaford, East New Market, and several other peninsula towns before opening an office in Federalsburg. He is survived by a widow and several children.

Chestertown, Feb. 8—Howard Lewis and Willie Wilkinson, two prisoners who made their escape from jail here early Friday morning by digging a hole in nthe wall under their cell window, have been recaptured and landed in jail here. Lewis was captured by Deputy Sheriff Harry Redding as he was passing through Galena, presumably en route to Wilmington. This morning Sheriff Goodman was notified by Wilmington authorities that Wilkinson had been captured.

Goodman went to Wilmington and returned with Wilkinson. Both prisoners are being held in close confinement until their trials at the April term of court. Each is charged with larceny.

Our Mary's Message

I Envy You

"The simpler things are after all the real things of life. Neither the compliments of the multitude, the honors of high places nor the pleasures that money buys can compensate for the simple joys of a happy family, a smile from a loved one or an honest friend's handclasp."

MAKING YOUR EYES SPRINT
—what a price you pay!

Forcing defective eyes to see is like trying to keep up with a champion sprinter—both take a tremendous toll of nervous energy.
You yourself, perhaps, are making far-sighted or near-sighted eyes give clear vision in spite of their defects.
The price you pay is too great!
