Shakespeare Up-to-Date Tells Motorists' Terrible Toll

SHAKESPEARE'S seven ages of mankind made no reference to the number who were cut off in their prime by automobiles. If he had, suggests the Stewart-Warner Safety Council, it might have run something like this parody on his famous lines:

At first the infant,
Killed by a truck while in his nurse's arms,
And then the careless schoolboy with his marbles,
Playing in the streets after his lessons
Are over. And then the lover,
Absent-minded, walking with a box of candy
Under his arm, to see his loved one,
Is struck by a taxi and hurtled to the ground.
Next comes the gay young blood
Out for his evening's entertainment, whom
Sixty miles an hour lands forty years too soon
Upon a slab in some unfriendly morgue.
And then the banker, full of worldly pride and honors,
Jay-walks across the street between two mighty deals of finance,
And wakes to find Saint Peter quizzing him.
Next, the family man, with years upon him,
Confused and jostled in the crowd,
Missteps, and dies amid thanksgiving
That his last premium was paid up.
And last, hoary age, tottering and feeble,
Perhaps with crutch, or eye too dimmed with time,
An easy victim for some selfish motorist,
Sans care, sans thought, sans skill, sans everything—but speed.

The chart above shows what proportion of all accidents happening to each age group are automobile accidents. The toll is highest for the very young and very old. This situation is explained partly by the heedlessness of the young and the infirmity of old age. Moreover, these two groups are least involved in industrial accidents which makes their automobile casualties constitute a larger part of their total accidents.

F. J. WRIGHT

Jeweler Optometrist

If you could see the "little extras" that we do for your clothes, you would understand why we already have so many satisfied customers.

Your clothes are not merely pressed by us.

Instead, after the experienced operator has used the new steam pressing method—the latest method that actually shapes and not merely "flattens" your clothes, and which renews the freshness of the fabric—he examines each piece thoroughly, giving those little masterly finishing touches that distinguish a craftsmanlike job.

Let us convince you.

Just call Denton 108 on the phone, or drop in at our shop if you are in a hurry, for we do "pressing while you wait."

And remember, we're experts in Tailoring, Cleaning, Repairing, Altering and Dyeing.
