MORALS RELIGION AND COMMON SENSE

Backbone has made other men than chiropractors famous.

It takes more religion to preach to one than to a multitude.

When a man is wrapped up in himself he makes a pretty small parcel. Usually the more he is wrapped in himself the colder he is.

Don't see how little religion you can get along with but how much you can get.

If a man can get religion without knowing it, he may also lose it and never miss it.

The test of generosity is not what you give but what you have left.

Patience achieves more than force.

When a man starts singing his own praises it is pretty sure to be a solo.

Better shut up and seem dull, than to loosen up and seem foolish.

Nothing stays good unless we try to make it better.

Time spent in pitying oneself is the worst kind of idleness.

The secret of the joy of living is the proper appreciation of what we actually possess.

Eastern Shore Happenings

Del-Mar-Va may soon have a 50-foot commercial canal via the Sinepuxent Bay in Worcester County, Maryland.

A public hearing to consider the proposed improvement of the waterway from Chincoteague Island, Va., to Delaware Bay, in compliance with a resolution adopted by the United States House of Representatives, Committee on Rivers and Harbors, will be held at Ocean View, Delaware, at one o'clock on Thursday afternoon, April 15.

Promoters and interested backers of the proposed canal project are making preparations to be present at the initial hearing.

In Worcester County, the proposed canal will extend over 9 miles of the Sinepuxent Bay where shipping at present is impossible due to shallow waters. The remaining area of the Bay is deep enough to accomodate the plans of the promoters.

The new canal when completed, will be over six feet deep at mean low water and between 40 and 50 feet wide from Chincoteague Bay to and including Rehoboth Bay, Delaware, the Chief Engineers, who have surveyed the waterway, state.

Initial work on the construction of the huge project will cost $171,000, the total cost to amount to over $250,000, it is estimated. In addition $4,000 annually will be necessary for maintenance, it is declared by Government officials interested in the project.

Cambridge, April 12—Cambridge Temple, No. 24, Pythian Sisters, was instituted this afternoon by Grand Captain Jane Russell, of Midland, Md., assisted by Elizabeth Berkmyer, P. S. R., and Ella Brazell. Officers installed were: P. C., Mrs. Mary Winterling; M. E. C., Mrs. Frances Hapkins; E. S., Mrs. Annie Waller; E. J., Mrs. Iris Merrick; manager, Miss Elsie McNamara; M. R. C., Miss Cora McNamara; N. F., Mrs. Clara Rook; protector, Miss Winifred Tschantre; guard, Mrs. Lucy Kinnamon.

At the evening session the officers and degree staff of Delaware Temple, No. 1, Wilmington, filled the chairs and exemplified in the initiatory work.

The degree team made the trip from Wilmington by bus. A supper in its honor was served.

* * *

Elkton, April 12—A representative of the Sesqui-Centennial, to be held in Philadelphia, has made arrangements to have on exhibition there one of the first automobiles operated in Cecil county.

It was owned by the late Dr. T. A. Worrall, of North East, and operated by him over twenty years ago. It is still in good running condition.

* * *

Centreville, April 12—A. Howard Johnson, of Centreville, has been named Government representative in Queen Anne's county for the citizens' military training camps.

Chaplain J. Monroe Stick and Capt. C. C. Westball, U. S. A., were in the county in the interest of the camp at Fort Eustis, Virginia, from July 8 to August. Queen Anne's quota is five men.

* * *

Bridgeville, Del., April 8.—A health crusade pageant, in which over 200 pupils took part, was given at the Bridgeville High School under the auspices of the Parent-Teachers' Association. The crusade lasted twelve weeks and those taking part were awarded pins.

The Rev. George E. Eterling, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church, spoke on "Delaware Homes," and George Williams, of Millsboro, vice-president of the State Parent-Teachers' Association, delivered an address on "Illiteracy in Delaware."

* * *

Cambridge, April 11.—Officers and members of Cambridge Lodge, No. 82, Knights of Pythias, are all ready for the entertainment next week of the annual convention of the Grand Lodge of Maryland, which will assemble here for its fifty-eighth session on Tuesday and which will be in session for two days.

Hartley, Del., April 8—Residents here, fearing a recurrence of the fires recently started in the town, resulting in the loss of thousands of dollars' worth of property, including buildings and automobiles, remained on guard last night by refusing to go to bed.

The streets were patrolled by young men and lanterns displayed from many homes as a warning that the town was awake. Automobiles were left standing in front of homes rather than in garages.

* * *

Harrington, Del., April 8—The Harrington Chamber of Commerce, sponsoring a movement to make Harrington a great berry-shipping point and 100 farmers discussed the possibilities of growing berries on a large scale, at the fire house, under the auspices of the agricultural section of the chamber.

The speakers included Dean C. A. McCue, University of Delaware; W. J. Paskey, chairman of the agricultural section; Wilbur E. Jacobs, Harrington and Clyde Miller, route agent of the American Railways Express Company.

The Eastern Shore Dental Society met in Easton Wednesday evening. About forty were present which included twenty dentists from the counties of the Eastern Shore of Maryland and their wives. The afternoon was spent in a business meeting and in talking on questions of mutual interest. At seven o'clock a dinner was served. The afternon meeting was held in the parlors of the Hotel Avon and dinner was served in the dining room.

Dr. Thomas J. Claggett and Mrs. Claggett entertained the society at their home after dinner at a dance. Mrs. Claggett as hostess arranged a program in which a professional dancer from Baltimore entertained the guests during the intermissions.

The Eastern Shore Dental Society come to Easton but once annually and always have a fine time.

Centreville, April 11—One of the most unusual freaks of nature ever exhibited in Centreville was brought here this morning in the form of a double-headed calf which was born on the farm of Norman and Benjamin Cahall, near Ruthsburg. It lived but a few minutes. It was brought to Centreville by T. Herbert Everett, a veterinarian.

Both heads of the calf were perfectly formed and the body was normal in every detail. It weighed eighty pounds.

Queen Anne's countians will be interested to learn that a former Centreville boy is second in command of the Steamship Chantier, which is bearing the Byrd expedition into the frozen north, where intrepid flyers will make an effort to fly over the North Pole in aeroplanes.

He is James H. Slaughter, Jr., son of the late James H. Slaughter, who resided in Centreville for many years.

Last Monday morning, as second officer on the Chantier, he sailed from Brooklyn Navy Yard, bound for Norway and King's Bay, Spitzenberg.

An important summer colony development is in prospect along the Chesapeake Bay shore of Kent Island, as a result of the sale last week of Stoney Bar Farm, owned by Edmund B. Palmer, to Dr. Theodore Cook, wealthy Baltimore banker.

The farm, which lies one mile south of Stevensville, contains 227 acres of land, and borders on Chesapeake bay. The dome of the state capitol at Annapolis is plainly visible, and it is regarded as one of the outstanding beauty spots of this section of Kent Island.

Sale of the property was consummated by Charles M .Bright, county representative of the E. A. Strout Farm Agency, and though the price has not been made public, it is understood that a sizable sum was involved in the transaction.

It was stated yesterday that Dr. Cook contemplates the establishment of a summer colony on the site, and that he soon will begin the work of sub-dividing the tract.

Chestertown, April 11.—Tentative plans have been made by rural carriers in this and Queen Anne's counties to hold a fitting ceremonial in Millington on Decoration Day to commemorate the establishment of the first rural route on the Eastern Shore on May 1, 1900.

Few people on the Shore know that its first rural route was established in Millington, and officials of the Kent and Queen Anne's Letter Carriers' Association have determined to memorialize the event in a celebration that will stamp the establishment of the first Eastern Shore route as one of the most important events in its history.

A preliminary meeting was held in Centreville the past week, when members of the association from the two counties discussed the celebration, and it is probable that representatives of the service from each of the Shore counties, as well as prominent officials from the Postoffice Department in Washington, will be asked to deliver addresses.

Elkton, April 12.—Thirty guests escaped down ladders or through smoke-filled halls and stairways early today when fire wrecked the Howard Hotel and almost a half block of structures adjacent.

Although several of the hotel guests had narrow escapes, none was injured. Most of them, however, fled in their night clothing and lost virtually all of their personal effects. The fire, of undetermined origin, started in the kitchen of the three-story brick hotel, well known to hundreds of elopers who have been married in Elkton.

Loss Estimated at $60,000

George Voigt, one of the proprietors of the hotel, estimated the damage to this structure at $40,000. This, with the estimated damage to the other structures, brings the total loss to $60,000.

The blaze was discovered by Frank Leyhe, of Tampa, Fla., a hotel guest en route by automobile with his wife to New York. Clad only in his pajamas, Mr. Leyhe ran to the dining room and rang the dinner bell to arouse other guests. Then, taking his wife along with him, he started out in his automobile to find a fire engine house. Unfamiliar with Elkton, he was unsuccessful.
