PLANES VESUS MOSQUITOS PRACTICAL JAPAN ALWAYS 2,300,000 SICK SUZANNE'S FAMILY

The marines at Quantico, Va., will fight mosquitoes this Summer with flying machines.

Commander McLean will scatter from planes sawdust soaked in water containing a little arsenic. It isn't strong enough to hurt humans, birds, fishes—in fact, it's a good tonic for them.

But it will destroy mosquitoes in swamps, creeks or stagnant water instantly, just as a slap that does not hurt your cheek kills the mosquito.

The Government ought to be doing that work everywhere.

To rid the entire country of mosquitoes would be worth fifty times the national debt.

It is said that the Reckefeller Foundation, which seeks to PREVENT DISEASE, rather than to cure individuals, may try the flying machine mosquito attack. If successful, it would end yellow fever and malaria FOREVER.

While others talk the practical Japanese go straight ahead. Recently they completed a gigantic, long distance bombing airplane, so big it took seven railroad cars to carry it.

Yesterday Japan added to her powerful fleet a huge submarine of 2,000 tons, with all the latest devices, including heavy guns, a war submarine able to cross any ocean, able to carry and release flying machines.

While the United States solemnly discusses beer and the right of citizens to select their own beverages, Japan attends to things more important.

Chinese doctors are paid when their patients are well. No pay when they are sick. If Uncle Sam could arrange that for his children he would save money. Every day there are 2,000,000 sick people in the United States.

Allow $5 for each lost working day in these high wage times, and the total would appreciably reduce the national debt.

Worse than the loss of wages is shortening of life. Colds, that people neglect or despise, weaken the system permanently, and cut so many months from your life at the far end.

Science proves that canned vegetables retain their full quota of vitamins. This has been known for a long time to doctors that gave canned tomatoes to infants in public institutions, unable to afford fresh orange juice. The juice of the tomato is rich in vitamins, which makes it important to include a well-made tomato soup or canned tomstoes, stewed, in the regular family diet.

Rev. C. E. Wagner, of the Methodist Episcopal Church, says belief in immortality is growing feeble. He knows, undoubtedly, but the statement is amazing.

What is worth while if hope of immortality be taken away? "The satisfaction of providing for your children, which is a kind of immortality," you may say. What satisfaction is that, if children in their turn are born only to die and forever remain dead?

But immortality IS real. Matter and force are indestructible. Would the wisdom that controls this universe doom CONSCIOUSNESS, the light of the soul, to eternal death, while giving perpetual existence to force and matter?

Suzanne Lenglen is to be married and every stirpiculturist, convinced that the race can be improved by scientific selection of parents, will be interested in the French champion's children.

The happy husband-to-be is Jacques Brindejones Offenbach, grandson of Offenbach, who composed the music for the "Tales of Hoffmann," including the "O Belle Nuit, O Nuit d'Amour" song.

Madame Lenglen's young man, inheriting his grandfather's talent, is a poet of ability. Suzanne Lenglen, with her marvelous coordination of mind, nerves and muscles, and her ardent temperament should have wonderful children, with the right father.

On the other hand, the children may not even be able to play tennis. You can't breed humans by any known rule.

About Your Health

Things You Should Know

MEASLES.

Do not get the idea that measles is a simple, childhood disease. Medical skill has conquered all of the acute, infectuous diseases, except this really dangerous, epidemic thing. Measles runs a definite course if uncomplicated. It is better not to try to "break up" measles, unless you are fond of trouble.

The chief measure in the treatment of the attack is nursing. Errors in nursing are responsible for most fatalities from the possible complication; Pneumonia may set in; Bright's disease may follow the attack; the eyes may be permanently damaged by too bright light in the sick-room——and so on.

A very grave danger is, in letting the patient out of his bed before he has thoroughly recovered, —better be safe than sorry. Encourage the appearance of the eruption by giving abundance of hot drinks—all the patient will tolerate. Sometimes the diagnosis is in doubt—the fever high, the distress great. If there is a remote possibility of measles, do not do anything that would retard the eruption coming out, such as cold baths for the fever, or depressing medicines for pain or cough.

Give abundance of cream-tartar and water during the febrile staze. Allow only soft or liquid diet. Nurse your patient and, if disease is uncomplicated, he will get well. Of course you will call a physician —that's the first thing to do, then, quarantine the case, and fumigate well after recovery.

SHORE NEWS

Chestertown, April 11.—Tentative plans have been made by rural carriers in this and Queen Anne's counties to hold a fitting ceremonial in Millington on Decoration Day to commemorate the establishment of the first rural route on the Eastern Shore on May 1, 1900.

Few people on the Shore know that its first rural route was established in Millington, and officials of the Kent and Queen Anne's Letter Carriers' Association have determined to memorialize the event in a celebration that will stamp the establishment of the first Eastern Shore route as one of the most important events in its history.

A preliminary meeting was held in Centreville the past week, when members of the association from the two counties discussed the celebration, and it is probable that representatives of the service from each of the Shore counties, as well as prominent officials from the Postoffice Department in Washington, will be asked to deliver addresses.

* * *

An important summer colony development is in prospect along the Chesapeake Bay shore of Kent Island, as a result of the sale last week of Stoney Bar Farm, owned by Edmund B. Palmer, to Dr. Theodore Cook, wealthy Baltimore banker.

The farm, which lies one mile south of Stevensville, contains 227 acres of land, and borders on Chesapeake bay. The dome of the state capitol at Annapolis is plainly visible, and it is regarded as one of the outstanding beauty spots of this section of Kent Island.

Sale of the property was consummated by Charles M .Bright, county representative of the E. A. Strout Farm Agency, and though the price has not been made public, it is understood that a sizable sum was involved in the transaction.

It was stated yesterday that Dr. Cook contemplates the establishment of a summer colony on the site, and that he soon will begin the work of sub-dividing the tract.
