FEDERALSBURG TESTS OUT NEW FIRE ENGINE

Federalsburg is the proud possessor of a new fire engine, which was delivered last Wednesday afternoon. It was purchased from the Howe Fire Apparatus Co., of Anderson, Ind., at a cost of between $5,000 and $6,000, and has a capacity of several hundred gallons a minute.

As it sailed into town, with siren sounding loudly, it immediately drew out a great crowd, and the rest of the afternoon was given over to tests. For two hours, at the bridge, its efficiency and possibilites were demonstrated and again in the evening, when it was taken to the river back of J. W. Hurlock's store. Here it hurled a stream of water clear to the top of the Methodist Protestant church steeple ,to the great satisfaction of the beholders. Members of the fire company made good use of these tests tc familiarize themselves with the engine and its various devices.

With this protection, there is no reason for the town or the southern part of the county to suffer great losses such as Federalsburg recently experienced.

WEATHER AND CROPS

Beginning on the 21st there was a sharp reaction from the cold weather of the preceding week and temperatures reached unusually high marks on several days during the early and middle portions of this week. The average temperature for the week was decidedly above normal. But the last two days were quite cold; with minimum temperatures generally slightly above freezing on the 2t7h and somewhat below freezing in the mountain section; however, there was but little frost deposit on the 27th.

The rainfall was light, occuring in the form of showers on the 23d and 24th. Rain would be beneficial generally, as the ground is getting too dry for good germination and growth.

The week was favorable for field work, and much plowing was done. Corn planting was begun in the southeastern counties.

Special reports on the effects of low temperature and frost of April 20 indicates that early potatoes, lettuce, asparagus, clover, peaches, plums, cherries and early strawberries were slightly damaged generally in the southern half of the Eastern Shore.

Wheat generally is backward and small, but some good fields are reported. It improved during this week.

Spring oats are coming up in the southern and eastern counties; they are not yet sown in the mountain sections. Rye is doing fairly well. Pastures are short; they are needing rain and higher temperature.

Strawberries and truck crops are about two weeks late. Early strawberries are beginning to bloom as far north as Frederick County.

Strawberries and truck crops are about two weeks late. Early strawberries are beginning to bloom as far north as Frederick County.

Tomato beds are being sown generally, while some early sown beds in the southast have plants ready to transplant; a few plants were set out in fields in Somerset County.

Tobacco plants and sweet potato slips are coming up in the beds and making fair progress.

The warm days of the 21st to 24th forced peaches, pears, cherries, and plums into bloom in the northern counties, except in western Maryland. Apples are blooming in the southern and central portions of the section.
