ouching Eloquence.

ave a very rhetorical magistrate sit. An Indian was lately arres- drunkenness, and brought before

Child of the whispering forest, son of grassy plains, it grieves my heart to see u here," said his honor. "Only a few more moons will come and go before you will be gathered home to the happy hunting-grounds of your brothers gone before. You are an aged tree. Time has shorn you of your strength. You can no longer chase the wild condurango and follow the roe-buck. The buffalo grazes in front of your lodge, and your arm is not strong enough to draw the bow. The rumbling thunder and the sharp lightning make you afraid. Once you could not count the camp-fires of your tribe, so many did they number; now there is nothing left of your tribe but yourself, two old army blankets, and a shot-gun with the lock out of repair. Son of the forest, why is this thus, and what do you mean by coming into my trapping grounds and getting drunk?'

"The white chief has spoken many wise words,' replied the Indian, in measured tones' resting one foot on the edge of a spittoon. "My race has fallen like the leaves—been washed away as water washes out the mark of chalk. I stand alone.—My camp fire has gone out, and my lodge is cold and has no mat. Kawnee Kekick has tears in his eyes when he looks to the West and no longer sees the smoke of the camp-fires. Our great chieftains have fallen, our warrors are dust, and the wolf utters his lonesome howl on the spot where stood our big village. I am sad.'

"The red man may go," said his honor. "I cannot give you back your dead; I cannot cover the hills and meadows with forest again; the wild fox and dear have sought deeper glens, and no power can waken the warriors whose whoops ring from hill to river. Go tack to your lodge, beware of fire-water; keep in nights; vote early and often, and be virtuous and you'll be happy."

Family Newspapers.

Their value is by no means appreciated, but the rapidity with which people are waking up to their necessity and usefulness is one of the significant signs of the times.—Few families are now content with one newspaper. The thirst for knowledge is not easily satisfied, and books, though useful, yet, absolutely necessary in their place, fail to meet the demand of youth or age. Our family newspaper is eagerly sought and its contents are eagerly devoured; then comes the demand for national and foreign news. Next to the political come the literary and scientific journals. Lastly, the moral and religious journals. All these are demanded to satisfy the cravings of the active mind. Family newspapers are valuable to material prosperity. They advertise the town. They spread before the reader a map on which may be traced character design and progress. If a stranger calls at a hotel he first inquires for the newspaper; if a friend comes from a distance the next thing after family greeting he inquires for your family paper, and you feel discomfited if you are unable to find a late copy and confounded if you are compelled to say you do not take it. Family newspapers are just as necessary to fit a family for its true position in life as food or raiment. Show us a ragged, bare-footed boy rather than an ignorant one. His head will cover his feet in after life if he is well supplied with newspapers. Show us the child who is eager for newspapers. He will make his mark in the world if you gratify that desire for knowledge. Other things equal, it is a sure that never fails. A family newspaper is a family need.

CHARITY.—We don't mean alms giving. A man may give his money to every beggar he meets. He may subscribe and pay to all benevolent objects of the day; he may build churches and school-houses, and send fuel to the widow, and educate the orphans, and yet not be charitable in the true sense of the word. Much good is done by even bad men, to "show off." Pride prompts some to give what stinginess would withhold. Vainglory writes the name to a thousand dollar benefaction, and parsimony would scratch out the name if it had a good chance. Charity means honest love for man because he is a man, irrespective of all surroundings. The charity of a cent to a needy person may be real charity, when the gift of one hundred dollars may be the price paid to get the name of being charitable. He who does not give for the love of God and man, need not give at all, so far as the giver is concerned, for the giver will not be "twice blessed," and hardly once. He who gives good advice in the right spirit, has charity. Some really good people exhort the sinful in so domineering a style, that anger is the result instead of penitence. Others, again, rebuke so strongly on the "I am holier than thou" principle, that the person rebuked, despairing of ever becoming so saintly as the censor, in despair becomes a greater offender than ever.

An old man in Connecticut had a poor cranky bit of a wife, who regularly once a week got up in the night and invited the family to see her die. She gave away her things, spoke her last words, made her peace with heaven, and then about eight she got up in the usual way and disappointed everybody by going at her household duties as if nothing had happened. The old man got sick of it finally, and went out and got a coffin, a real nice cashmere shroud, a wreath of immortells with "Farewell, Mary Ann,' worked in, and a handful of silver plated screws. Laying the screwdriver beside the collection, he invited her to just holler die once more. "Do it, said he, "and in you go, and this farewell business is over.' Mary Ann is at this moment baking buckwheat cakes for a large and admiring family, while they dry apples in the coffin up in the garret.

"A blind beggar had a brother, and the brother died; but the one that died had no brother. What relation was the blind beggar to the one that died?"

The Sultan and Satan.

There is an eastern story of a Sultan who overslept himself, so as not to awaken at the hour of prayer. So the devil came and waked him, and told him pray. "Who are you?" said the Sultan. "O, no matter," replied the other; my act is good, is it not? No matter who does the good action, so long as it is good.' "Yes,' replied Sultan, "but I think you are Satan. I know your face; you have some bad motive.' "But,' says the other, "I am not so bad as I am painted. You see I have left off my horns and tail. I am a pretty good fellow, after all. I was an angel once, and I still keep some of my original goodness.' "That's all very well, replied the sagacious and prudent Caliph, "but you are the tempter; that's your business; and I wish to know why you want me to get up and pray.' "Well,' said the devil, with a flirt of impatience, "if you must know, I will tell you. If you had slept and forgotten your prayers you would have been sorry for it afterward and been a penitent; but, if you go on, as now, and do not neglect a single prayer for ten years, you will be so satisfied with yourself that it will be worse for you than if you had missed one sometimes and repented of it. God loves your fault mixed with penitence, more than your virtue seasoned with pride."

The Moon as a Habitation.

A hundred years ago the existence of life on the moon was hotly debated, and a majority of semi-scientific people took the affirmative of the question. It seemed impossible to them that the beautiful orb should be a vacant globe. But the progress of telescopic construction has left no doubt on the subject. Says a recent writer in the British Quarterly Review:

"Our inquiry resolves itself into a kind of inquest upon the moon, and after listening to a number of witnesses we are compelled to admit that the theory of intelligent occupation dies a violent death. Fire, air, earth and water have all declared against it. The tyrannous heat which burns by day, and the curdling cold which desolates by night, are alike hostile to vitality. The meagre of utterly missing atmosphere forbids the supposition that life exists unless we can believe that flesh and blood are able to flourish in vacuo. The rocky surface of the orb, which is clothed by no ascertained deposits of soil, appears as unfavorable to fertility as a macadamized road; and the want of water—the very life's blood of our own globe—seems to exhaust all hope that rational creatures, bearing any marked resemblance to ourselves, can possible tenant so unfinished a world."

Long Prayers.

Dr. Talmage has something to say on the question of praying: "We are confident that for one reason for the long prayers with which we are some times afflicted in religious meetings is an incapacity to wind up. After the brother has been praying long enough you see that he is trying to find 'Amen.' He does not want to come too suddenly upon it, and so he gradually makes that way; but he is like a Brooklyn ferryboat aiming for the warf, when there is a good deal of ice in the river, and he backs in and out, at last reaching it with blundering strokes. Many of the brethern in their prayers take one-third of the time to get started and another third to stop. Why not with your first sentence plunge into what you most want, and stop when you get through without any circumgyrations? Men keep on after they ought to stop, because they do not known how to let down brakes. We have a recommendation to make: If any isolated 'Amen' would sound abrupt at the time you want to close, do as the Psalmist did when the prayers of David the son of Jesse were ended, exclaiming "Amen and Amen!'

THE THIEF'S VICTORY.—A good many years ago one of the most notorious theives in the United States had a confidential conversation with a gentleman who is now one of our most efficient detectives, and expressed a desire to reform. "Why do you wish to live so much on the square said the gentleman. "Because," replied the thief, "I have a wife and children to whom I am very much attached; they have no idea of the mode in which I am making my living; the children are growing up, and are beginning to wonder why I leave home so often, and what I do; and if ever I am to reform now is the time." The gentleman warmly approved the idea, and to further it loaned the man several hundred dollars with which to begin an honest business.—The reformed man at once broke off all his associations, lived a perfectly honest life, would have no dishonest person call on him, devoted himself for years closely to business, raised his family respectably, did a great many acts of unostentatious charity, and died not long since esteemed by all who knew him. His children are doing well and are highly respectable. The money advanced was long since repaid.

LIGHT AND ELECTRICITY. — Attempts have been made to combine the wave theory of light and electricity by supposing that the vibration of the ether which produce the phenomena of electricity are longitudinal, resembling those of sound, while the phenomena of light are protracted by transverse vibrations of the same medium. Another theory which has found many believers, is that electricity consists of two fluids, and that a body is electrified positively or negatively, according as one or the other is in excess, a theory quite in contradiction with that which assumes the existence of a single fluid, upon the excess or deficiency of which the phenomena depend. Now, the theory has been advanced by Prof. Edlung, of Sweden, that this single fluid is the ether by whose vibrations light is produced—a body being charged positively when it contains an excess of ether, and negatively when the ether is deficient,

VINEGAR BITTERS

VEGETABLE — FREE FROM ALCOHOL

PURELY — CALIFORNIA

DR. WALKER'S — EUREKA

VINEGAR BITTERS

Dr. J. Walker's California Vinegar Bitters are a purely Vegetable preparation, made chiefly from the native herbs found on the lower ranges of the Sierra Nevada mountains of California, the medicinal properties of which are extracted therefrom without the use of Alcohol. The question is almost daily asked, "What is the cause of the unparalleled success of VINEGAR BITTERS?" Our answer is, that they remove the cause of disease, and the patient recovers his health. They are the great blood purifier and a life-giving principle, a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the system. Never before in the history of the world has a medicine been compounded possessing the remarkable qualities of VINEGAR BITTERS in healing the sick of every disease man is heir to. They are a gentle Purgative as well as a Tonic relieving Congestion or Inflammation the Liver and Visceral Organs, in Bilio Diseases.

The properties of DR. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS are Aperient, Diaphoretic, Carminative, Nutritious, Laxative, Diuretic, Sedative, Counter-Irritant, Sudorific, Alterative, and Anti-Bilious.

Grateful Thousands proclaim VINEGAR BITTERS the most wonderful Invigorant that ever sustained the sinking system.

No Person can take these Bitters according to directions, and remain long unwell, provided their bones are not destroyed by mineral poison or other means, and vital organs wasted beyond repair.

Bilious, Remittent, and Intermittent Fevers, which are so prevalent in the valleys of our great rivers throughout the United States, especially those of the Mississippi, Ohio, Missouri, Illinois, Tennessee, Cumberland, Arkansas, Red, Colorado, Brazos, Rio Grande, Pearl, Alabama, Mobile, Savannah, Roanoke, James, and many others, with their vast tributaries, throughout our entire country during the Summer and Autumn, and remarkably so during seasons of unusual heat and dryness, are invariably accompanied by extensive derangements of the stomach and liver, and other abdominal viscera. In their treatment, a purgative, exerting a powerful influence upon these various organs, is essentially necessary. There is no cathartic for the purpose equal to DR. J. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS, as they will speedily remove the dark-colored viscid matter with which the bowels are loaded, at the same time stimulating the secretions of the liver, and generally restoring the healthy functions of the digestive organs.

Fortify the body against disease by purifying all its fluids with VINEGAR BITTERS [illegible] take hold of a system so [illegible]

Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations of the Stomach, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Inflammation of the Lungs, Pain in the region of the Kidneys, and a hundred other painful symptoms, are the offspring of Dyspepsia. One bottle will prove a better guarantee of its merits than a lengthy advertisement.

Scrofula, or King's Evil, White Swellings, Ulcers, Erysipelas, Swelled Neck, Goitre, Scrofulous Inflammations, Indolent Inflammations, Mercurial affections, Old Sores, Eruptions of the Skin, Sore Eyes, etc. In these, as in all other constitutional Diseases, WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS have shown their great curative powers in the most obstinate and intractable cases.

For Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumatism, Gout, Bilious, Remittent, and Intermittent Fevers, Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys and Bladder, these Bitters have no equal. Such Diseases are caused by Vitiated Blood.

Mechanical Diseases.—Persons engaged in Paints and Minerals, such as Plumbers, Type-setters, Gold-beaters and Miners, as they advance in life, are subject to paralysis of the Bowels. To guard against this, take a dose of WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS occasionally.

For Skin Diseases, Eruptions, Tetter, Salt-Rheum, Blotches, Spots, Pimples, Pustules, Boils, Carbuncles, Ringworms, Scald-head, Sore Eyes, Erysipelas, Itch, Scurfs, Discolorations of the Skin, Humors and Diseases of the Skin of whatever name or nature, are literally dug up and carried out of the system in a short time by the use of these Bitters.

Pin, Tape, and other Worms, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed. No system of medicine, no vermifuges, no anthelmintics will free the system from worms like these Bitters.

For Female Complaints, in young or old, married or single, at the dawn of womanhood, or the turn of life, these Tonic Bitters display so decided an influence that improvement is soon perceptible.

Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions, or Sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins; cleanse it when it is foul; your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood pure, and the health of the system will follow.
