J. H. EMERSON, Editor.

DENTON, MARYLAND:

Thursday Morning April 19, 1877.

Ross WINANS, one of the wealthiest and most prominent citizens of Baltimore, died at his residence in that city last week, aged 81 years.

THE Norwich (Conn.) Bulletin (Rep.) learns of a wealthy brother in that city who had willed his property to the Methodist benevolent societies, but burned the document in disgust on reading the resolutions proposed in the New England Conference derogatory to Hayes' peace policy.

THE Democratic Journals of the North chuckle gleefully over the bare possibility of the President being opposed by any members of his own party. The Southern Democratic journals, on the other hand come forward with promise of support in case the President should need it in carrying out his policy.

WHEAT and Corn have risen suddenly in price in the last week or ten days. This is attributed to the probabilities of a war between Russia and Turkey. This sudden rise in breadstuffs will be of little benefit to our farmers who have already, before the rise, disposed of their last year's crops; but while it is death to the farmers the speculators are making haste to enrich themselves.

THE St. Louis Republican, a Democratic paper, in alluding to the Southern policy of the President, says:

"There is no alternative for Democrats but to accept and applaud it. He has solved the Southern question in a manner and by a method absolutely above criticism, and it will not be worth while for any public man, Democrat or Republican, to challenge the justice or sufficiency of the solution."

THE Methodist has been asked why it "paid no attention to Lent and Passion Week," and it answers: "As to Lent, we regard fasting (for religious purposes) as a piece of heathenism. Nothing about the life of our Lord is more conspicuous than His practical rebuke, by the whole tenor of His life and words, of fasting, or pretending to fast, He alone did not fast, and He nowhere commends fasting. His forty days' temptation was not a fast, but an uplifting into a region where food is not needed. After the forty days were ended, "then began He to be an hungered."

THE extraordinary assumption of power by the Clerk of the last House has led the Nation to examine the authorities to learn what ground he has for his action. It gives the result of its search as follows:—"We turned to a copy of the Constitution, and discovered to our amazement that there was no mention of Mr. Adams in that document, and no reference to the office of Clerk, while the only provision bearing on the subject was that each House should be the judge of the returns and qualifications of its own members. Turning next to Cushing's work, we were still more astonished to find that nothing was said there about the Clerk's duty of organizing the House, but it is laid down that his modest busines is to 'keep a record of the proceedings,' to authenticate and keep in his custody papers, and to sign bills. As a matter of fact, these are his duties, and he has no more to do with the organization of the House than we have ourselves. When the House come together it will proceeed to organize itself, and the following principles are well settled and universally recognized in all civilized parliamentary bodies: First, every person duly returned is a member, whether elected or not, until his election is set aside; second, contesting claimants who are both returned as elected in due form have no rights of any kind until the question between them has been decided; and third, the members in possession of single legal returns, and these only, constitute a judicial tribunal for the determination of all questions as to seats."

The President Firm.

We are glad to observe amid the growing opposition to his Southern policy the President is still firm in his purposes and intends to maintain his position. Already the coming Congress casts its dark shadow before it, and many are the predictions of high party excitement in Washington during the midsummer days. The letter of Senator Blaine is regarded as another notice from him of stormy times to come in Washington. His excited declaration during the speciel session of the Senate that he should never desert the Southern Republicans is now recalled, and it is believed that he will make an open and of course a vigorous fight against the whole Southern business.

Benjamin Wade has also written a letter in which he is represented to have arraigned President Hayes and his policy with his quaint and vigorous bitterness of speech.—Martin I. Townsend, of Troy, N. Y., is said to have prepared a letter in opposition to the President's policy.

The President is undisturbed. He has been warned of the threatened opposition, but maintains at all times his remarkable equipoise. He only says that he is confident that his policy is for the best interests of the country, and that he will abide by it. He will have no controversies with any one, but will accord to all members of the Republican party the right to approve or disapprove of what he does, and to express their opinions upon it freely. Nothing will be permit to swerve him from his purpose.

PROHIBITION IN MASSACHUSETTS.—The Massachusetts House of Representatives on Tuesday ordered to a third reading, by a majority of twenty, the prohibitory law passed in 1869 and repealed in 1875. But few changes are made in the law, and these are for the heavier punishment of offenders of all classes. The prohibitionists claim a majority of eight in the Senate, so that the success of the bill is assured.

IT has almost become to be a custom in these degenerate times for every bummer in society, immagining he has something to lose in the way of character, to rush boldly in to the courts of justice, enter suit against newspaper publishers to recover (not a reputation) for such men are not the owners of such a commodity—but hoping to compromise before going to trial and thereby fill their empty purses and support a lingering and precarious existence. We have just had a case in point, in which one McBee a short time since instituted suit against the Baltimore American for libel. But this man, in search of a lost character, and in his fruitless efforts to replete a consumptive pocket-book, has learned something of the uncertaintics of the law and that a court of justice is not the place to parade a character all stained and blackened with crime. Whatever knowledge he may have lacked as to law or the purity of his own character, of the former he ought to be content, and as to the latter, public opinion should satisfy him that he comes very short of being a saint. There are a class of men who cannot or will not see their faults or crimes, until exposed to public gaze and not until their own self-conceit is knocked out of them, are they willing to acknowledge their errors. This man McBee is of this species and we imagine be retires from the arena of the courts a wiss if not a better man.

Judging from the evidence the jury empanelled in this case rendered a righteous verdict. They did more. They vindicated the virtue and chastity of female character in a great and growing city and encouraged the public press in its efforts to protect and defend society and thousands of homes from the wiles of the seducer, the vicious and the profligate.

Going West.

A large number of persons from Washington and Frederick counties in this State and from contiguous counties in Pennsylvania have "gone West," prospecting for new homes. Several of them have returned without discovering any location better than their old homes—or even half so good. One of the disgusted returned, has given the Hagerstown Mail a description of his pilgrimage to Northern Illinois. He says:

"Of course the land is very rich and as flat as a table. The principal crop is corn. The climate is almost too cold for wheat, although considerable wheat is raised.—Almost the only way farmers can get along is by converting their grain into hogs and cattle, which is pretty generally done.—Land is as valuable as it is here. Those persons who are well off, as a rule owe it to the increase in the value of their farms. The top has been reached now, and people are selling their property and moving to the cheaper land farther West. Nearly all the farm houses are exceedingly mean and unhomelike. No fine barns and generally no trees; only small weather boarded affairs, looking something like a pelican in the wilderness. I observed the general prevalence of the disgusting practice of piling up stable manure around the houses to keep the wind from blowing up under the floors. No one can fail to observe the persons in the West are convinced that the sun rises and sets in their immediate locality.

"I observed that the Western people are different in many respects from those of the older States. They do not attach the same value to money, but are willing to risk a great deal for the prospect of making proportionate gains, while our capitalists will not unclasp their fists unless their money is going into a first mortgage or something as safe. In Chicago vast sums are sunk every day in wild cat speculations, silver mines, suburban improvements &c., yet others are not deterred from doing likewise. Every now and then a hit is made and the speculator grows wealthy.—Men are made rich or poor in an amazingly short period of time. Public improvements are carried to a ridiculous extent.—Handsome school-houses, costing $10,000 to $50,000 in rural districts, when a building worth a thousand dollars would answer every requirement. Along the Baltimore and Ohio railroad there are many large and handsom towns, such as Wheeling, Bellaire, Zanesville, Newark, Mansfield, Mount Vernon, Tiffin, and some beautiful country, but I saw nothing to make me dissatisfied with our own county, and I don't remember seeing any place with more natural beauty or with handsomer improvements. Neither can I understand what there is to induce people to leave this or Franklin county to settle in Northern Illinois. The climate is intensely severe, land is as high, and I could not see that more money can be made on farms. I can understand why people will get on better on the cheap lands farther West, where Illinois people are going to, but the conundrum I first propounded I am compelled to give up."

Cross Husbands and Scolding Wives.

"Domestic infelicity," which newspaper reporters nowdays credit with playing such an important part in life's drama, is often the result of lingering or chronic disease. What husband or wife can be cheerful, smiling, and pleasant, when constantly suffering from the tortures of some dreadful disease? Perhaps the husband's liver becomes torpid, and he experiences bitter, disagreeable taste or nausea, has chilly sensations, alternating with great heat and dryness of the surface of his body, pain in his sides, shoulders, or back, eyes and skin are tinged with yellow, feels dull indisposed, and dizzy. Through his suffering he becomes gloomy, despondent, and exceedingly irritable in temper. Instead of resorting to so reliable a remedy and following up their action with the use of Golden Medical Discovery, to work the biliary poison out of the system and purify the blood, if he play the part of a "penny wise and pound foolish" man he will attempt to economize by saving the small cost of these medicines. Continuing to suffer, his nervous system becomes impaired, and he is fretful and peevish—a fit subject to become embroiled in "domestic infelicity." Or the good wife may, from her laborious duties or family cares have become subject to such chronic affections as are peculiarly incident to her sex, and being reduced in blood and strength, suffering from backache, nervousness, headache, internal fever, and enduring pains too numerous to mention, she may become peevish and fretful—any thing but a genial helpmate. In this deplorable condition of ill health, should she act wisely and employ Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, it will in due time, by its cordial, tonic and nervine properties, restore her health and transform her from the peevish, scolding, irritable-tempered invalid to a happy, cheerful wife. Laying aside levity and speaking seriously, husbands and wives, you will find the Family Medicines above mentioned reliable and potent remedies. For full particulars of their properties and uses, see Pierce's Memorandum Book, which is given away by all druggists.

A Nice Question in Bankruptcy.

Wm. M. Price had a hearing before Commissioner Rogers yesterday on the charge of fraudulently removing goods as a bankrupt. The witness examined for the prosecution were George F. Wardell, of the firm of Wardell & Co., of Philadelphia, and Geo. M. Russum, Register in Bankruptcy and State's Attorney of Caroline county, and J. W. Smith. Archibald Stirling, Jr., appeared for the prosecution, and James A. L. McClure for Price. The evidence for the prosecution showed that Z. L. West & Co., doing business at Henderson, Caroline county, had become indebted to the amount of $1,200 to a number of Philadelphia firms, among them being Geo. F. Wardell, D. J. Hoar, J. T. Way and W. H. Longcope & Co. Subsequently West & Co. sold out their interest to Wm. M. Price, but at least one of the Philadelphia firms continued to send goods to the firms conducting business, as is claimed under the name of Wm. M. Price & Co., W. T. West being considered one of the members of the firm. Mr. Wardell visited Price in the early part of last winter and notified him of his indebtedness to the Philadelphia firm. Price protested against being made to pay West's debts, but that probably he would have to do it. Mr. Russum stated that he had seen a letter signed by Price & Co., but as he understood written by Mr. West, to the effect that Price & Co., had assumed the indebtedness of West & Co., the license of West & Co., having been transferred to Price & Co., November 22d, 1876. The creditors seeing the plight in which Price found himself agreed to take fifty cents on the dollar of the debts due them by the firm, but Mr. Price refused to agree to this arrangement, and stated that he was willing that the invoice in his posession should be sold by the creditors, and that they should retain fifty per cent. of the proceeds of the sale. This they refused to do.

J. W. Smith testified that on or about the 1st of February he saw the goods in Price's store to be invoiced, and presumed that they were being sold. About $800 worth of goods was in the store, and he believed the goods were taken out in wagons across the Maryland line, although the depot was within a short distance from the store. There was then about $800 worth of goods in the establishment.

Joseph Booth, J. Frazier and other witnesses for the defence testified that the firm had never conducted business under the name of Price & Co., but simply under the name of W. M. Price. One of the witnesses observed Price to be in great distress when he received the information that he was to pay the debts of West & Co., and heard him say to one of the creditors to take all there was in the store.—The goods were sold to a Mr. Cooper, of Delaware, and removed by wagons.

The further hearing in the case will be continued April 28th.—Balt. American of Saturday.

GEN. FRANCIS A. SPINNER, formerly United States treasurer, describes the beautiful retreat in Florida where he finds the best fishing in the world. Quantities of bass weighing over thirty pounds each, and sheepshead weighing from five to eight pounds each, can be caught, he says, by the boat-load in a few hours. It seemed good sport till he found that these delicious fish, after supplying the hotel table, were fed to the lean Florida hogs. At New Smyrna is the long canal cut in the rock by Dr. Turnbull and his Minorcan colony 140 years ago. The ruins of the sugar houses and indigo vats are still to be seen. "One stumbles," he writes, "upon a coquina well, or rather a well cut in a perfectly circular form into the rock.—Three coquina steps near one of these wells, with the angles of the stones as well defined and sharp as they were when they came from the cutter's hands, against which now stand enormous live oaks and magnolia, and surrounded by orange trees, indicate where more than a hundred years ago, was perhaps a happy home."

THE TEMPERANCE REVIVAL, is making remarkable progress in Central and Southern Ohio. Leaders in the movement are generally followers of Mr. Murphy, the cold water apostle of Pittsburg. They go from one town to another, originating public meetings and organizing those interested into bands of active workers. By this means an intense interest has been created in a large number of cities and towns.—The feeling at some points is as strong as it was on the memorable women's crusade of three years ago. Signers of the pledge wear a blue ribbon, and compose a sort of brotherhood numbering many thousand already. Numerous cases are reported of saloon-keepers quitting business in consequence of loss of custom through this movement.

FALL OPENING

Mrs. M. S. Norris

WOULD Respectfully invite the attention of her numerous friends and customers of Denton and vicinity as well as the adjoining counties, to her Grand Opening of

Milinery Notions

and Fancy Goods,

in which she boasts of having the largest and most complete stock ever on exhibition in this market, and in point of Price the cheapest ever offered to the trade. Her stock of

were bought before the advance of those articles, and therefore it will be to the interest of purchasers to examine and buy, as such articles cannot be bought elsewhere for the same money.

It is unnecessary to itemize the stock, suffice it to say that any and every article needed in her line of business can here be found in quality and price to suit the most fastidious.

Hoping soon to have the pleasure of your company, to examine if not to buy.

I remain with great respect,

M. S. NORRIS,
