How to Make Money by Farming.

Every cultivator wants to know primarily how to make money. He follows his calling as a merchant pursues his business. It is not merely that he farms to live and be comfortable. He wants to do that, but he would like to make a pile as people in other walks of life try to do.

Every now and then the newspapers try to tell him how to get rich; and it is generally by planting this or that, by trying upland "rice" or some such article now sure to be in demand. Or perhaps he will be told to go here, where the land is cheap and no manure is needed, or where in some way there is to be some special advantage which no other man but himself, or at best few other men are to possess.

We have been struck with a passage in one of the obituary notices of Vanderbilt, with which the newspapers of late have been so profuse. He died worth, it is said, over fifty millions. When asked how he brought this about he replied: by having a business you like, trying to understand it, and then stick to it and to no other.—People thought he was a speculator, but he was no such thing. Whatever he bought or sold had an immediate relation to the exact business he had in hand. He despised speculation; and it is well to let our farmer boys who think it is so easy to get a living by the chances of city speculations know this. He loved his business and labored at it, but it was not until halt his life had passed away that he was worth twenty thousand dollars. It was not till comparatively old age that he became rich. Had Vanderbilt died at fifty, as so many do, his obituaries would have been short and commonplace. Time was quite as favorable to his great fortune, as any other element that entered into it.—Still, as he tells us, the foundation was in sticking to his business and this is just the lesson we are always trying to teach.—There is not a farmer in all this wide land but if he has a genuine love for his business, a determination to stick to it through thick and thin and with good saving habits and ordinary business prudence, may in time become rich. It needs no outset speculations, no ventures on new patents or new plans.—He need not go from this part of the world to another. He should of course use some little discrimination at first, choosing healthy locations, fair markets, good neighbors, intelligent society, and so on. But once having made up one's mind where to locate, stick to it. There is no more certain way to make money in the wide world than at farming or gardening.—Germantown Telegraph.

Let your Neighbor Alone.

No people are such thorough nuisances as those who are perpetually meddling with the business of their neighbors—who are always on the alert for anything suspicious—always ready to believe the worst of everybody. Reader! if you belong to that unfortunate class, we pity you. As it is impossible that you can find out anything that is going on in your vicinity, you must be in a state of continual torture. A prying mind needs food, and, without it, suffers. Then try to conquer the unhappy peculiarity. What is it to you if your neighbor does bring home a brown paper package, and a covered basket. You will live just as long if you never know what they contain. It is none of your business. And if your flighty neighbor, Mrs. Lightfoot, indulges herself in a new bonnet while her devoted husband wears patched boots you need not fret about it; he is the only sufferer, not you. No need of making a hue-and-cry over her supposed extravagance. The money did not come out of your pocket, and consequently it is none of your business. What if the minister does call on Ann Smith twice a week?—Why exercise your brain about it? Let him court away. Suppose she has an awful temper—and powders her face, as you say she does—her temper will not trouble you. Mind your own concerns. What difference does it make to you if bold Maria "cuts out" modest Mary? You need not torture Mary by long stories of what you have heard concerning the matter. "I thought I would tell you, my dear. I speak for your good. Somebody should put you on your guard against that treacherous girl." As a natural consequence, modest Mary, her womanly pride aroused, shrinks into the back ground, leaving the field open to her victorious rival. So you crush a good girl's heart because you will not mind your own business. What if they do have three pairs of stockings over to Squire Hill's? Haven't they got a right to? As long as you don't do the washing, it need not trouble you at all.—What right have you to watch their clothes line? Employ your time better. It may be true that dashing Mrs. Gay signals to young Dr. Wilde from her back windows. But who gave you the privilege of watching a lady in her own home, Where, if any place, her privacy should be sacred? Her disgrace is nothing to you; it is none of your business. If we had our way, meddlers should be punished like any other offenders against the rights of others.

ABOUT PIGS.—Weigh a pig; give him three pails of swill, and then weigh him again; he will weigh no more than he did at first. This has been a very popular theory in the agricultural districts, but it was most successfully refuted at Clinton, Mass., on Thanksgiving Day. At a family reunion there were four solid sons, one solid daughter, three average daughters-in-laws, a medium-sized son-in-law, and enough grand-children to swell the party to 15 souls and as many stomachs. The united weight of this family before dinner was 1,862 pounds; the united weight after dinner was 1,896½ pounds; the net gain representing the weight of the dinner actually eaten was 35½ pounds; the average gain per stomach was 2 7 20 pounds the maximum gain, or the largest dinner eaten, was 4½ pounds; the minimum gain was ½ pound. The pig theory is hereby discontinued until further notice.

To the Sick.

A great many are now suffering with cold, coughs, and other ailments, which, if not promptly attended to, may result in an incurable disease. For all diseases of the throat, breast and lungs, bronchial or asthmatic affections, DR. SWAYNE'S COMPOUND SYRUP OF WILD CHERRY is a pleasant and certain cure. The oldest and best remedy. It promotes expectoration, and removes all diseased matter which obstructs the lungs, the ulceration is healed, and the sufferer restored to perfect health. It is nourishing and strengthening, and for disturbed rest at night, its use will give sweet repose. If the bowels are costive, or liver disordered, take at first a few doses of Swayne's Tar and Sarsaparilla Pills, which will evacuate the bowels, and is of vital importance, relieve the congested liver, and remove all billiousness. Then follow with Swayne's Wild Cherry Syrup, and health, strength and happiness is sure to be the result

SAVED HIS LIFE.

A Remarkable Cure

Was that of Edward H. Hanson, Engineer at George Sweeny's Pottery, 1334 Ridge Avenue, Philadelphia. He had a violent cough, night sweats, sore throat, great weakness, spit at different times a pint of blood, gave up all hope of recovery. Through the use of "Dr. Swayne's Wild Cherry Syrup" became a sound and hearty man, and remains so to this day, although over twenty years have elapsed since he was cured.

☞ We are permitted to refer to the following gentlemen who have experienced great benefit, and used "Dr. Swayne's Compound Syrup of Wild Cherry" in their family for many years.
