DENTON, MARYLAND:

Thursday Morning May 24, 1877.

THE Cleveland (Ohio) Herald says that there is some dissatisfaction in that State with the President's Southern policy, but that it is rapidly disappearing.

A DESPERATE attempt is being made in North Carolina to keep Democrats within the traces by threats of loss of character and influence to all bolters and denunciation of them as the worst kind of traitors.

SENATOR CHRISTIANCY'S son is one of the candidates who has failed in an examination for a position in the Pension Office.—This is a pretty good sign that favoritism has no place in the new administration of civil service reform.

A SPRINGFIELD, MASS., despatch says that P. T. Parnum and the father of Charlie Ross have issued a card offering $10,000 for the return of the child, and pledging not to attempt to discover the identity of the persons so returning him.

SENATOR HILL, of Georgia, has written a brief letter to Senator Christiancy, of Michigan, in reply to the latter's recently published conciliatory letter. In it Mr. Hill expresses his thanks and also belief that an era of mutual good feeling between sections and parties is at hand.

JAMES H. ALLEN, colored, was tried before the Circuit Court of Anne Arundel county last week for the murder of Benjamin Leitch, (a deputy Sheriff of that county,) on last election day, was convicted of murder in the second degree. No sentence was passed upon him as the case is to be taken up to the Court of Appeals.

A STORM of almost unprecedented severity did extensive damage in the neighborhood of Marion, Indiana, on Sunday last. Houses were unroofed, fences destroyed and trees uprooted in every direction.—A church, filled with people, was wrecked, and one man killed and a number seriously injured.

A WASHINGTON telegram says that Congressman Hale, of Maine, announces publicly his approval of the President's policy and his purpose to support it. The President's policy is simply non-interference with the States in the South more than with those of the North. Mr. Hale announced that policy himself in the House in the spring of 1874.

A DISGRACEFUL scene occurred in Frederick city last week, between John C. Motter and Chas. H. Maulsby, both practicing attorneys. Maulsby pronounced Motter a liar in open Court, but before the sound died away Motter struck Maulsby in the face which caused the blood to flow profusely. Maulsby was fined $50 and a commitment ordered until the fine was paid. Motter was also fined $10. Served them right.

THE grain markets throughout the country are quiet just now. Western corn for June delivery is quoted at 48 and 49 cents at Chicago. At Baltimore white corn is selling for ordinary to good at 63 and 64 cents—prime at 65 cents; yellow at 63 and 65 cents. The wheat market is very quiet and only a moderate inquiry. Good Southern red is worth $1.85—prime $1.90—amber $1.95 and $1.96. The flour market is exceedingly dull, prices having fallen one dollar from former rates.

THE Cincinnati newspapers contain reports of Ohio, and even from adjacent States, showing that a total abstinence movement not much less extensive than the "crusade" of last year is under way.—"Red ribbon societies" are being organized in great numbers, usually in connection with churches, who are by no means religious. The members wear knots of red ribbon in their buttonholes as badges of allegiance, and intense earnestness is manifested. Several Congressmen, most of the clergymen, and, indeed, a large proportion of the prominent men of Ohio, make speeches and aid in forming societies. The pledge in use covers beer and cider, as well as stronger beverages, and is for life. The starting of this fresh agitation is said to be due to Murphy, the Pennsylvania reformed drunkard, who has met with astonishing success in his own and other States as a total abstinence revivalist. He is now holding meetings in Philadelphia.

A CORRESPONDENT of the Springfield Republican says: "In eight years of Grant, of course, the departments have been filled up with people who like him, and a 'Grant Republican' very rarely approves of President Hayes' conciliatory policy in the South. In the controversy between the President and Blaine, if I may call it a controversy, it is safe to say that three out of four of the officeholders in Washington side with Blaine. Not a single man in the Cabinet is heartily liked by Washington Republicans. McCrary is most popular. Sherman is more of a partisan than the others, but he is regarded as rather cold-blooded and selfish. Evarts, Schurz, Thompson and Devens are looked upon as declared 'Liberals,' and by many Republicans here, I believe, they are hated more thoroughly than if they were Democrats. Key is generally liked better than Schurz, because he was always friendly to Grant, while Schurz is regarded as an old enemy of Grant and the party as it existed under his administration. So far it is not a popular administration in Washington, because this is to a great extent a city of politicians. The Democrats are not placated, and and the old-line Republicans are offended. In view of the great dissatisfaction among the Republican politicians, the postponement of the extra session was a most wise proceeding. The malcontents must wait, and much of the ill feeling will wear itself out by October."

THE President talks freely about his policy and gives the best of reasons for adopting it. According to a correspondent of the Philadelphia Times he said to a visitor recently that he was not surprised at the Republican opposition to his course, as he had expected even more than had been shown. Had he been a private citizen he would probably have been inclined to oppose it himself, but when he became President he reflected upon the subject, and having made up his mind that it was his duty to endeavor to restore peace and harmony throughout the land and protect the rights and liberties of the whole people, he adopted that course which he believes will best secure these objects, and he intends to stand firm in the execution of his purpose. In addition to his policy of non-intervention, he would recommend that the test oath administered to members of Congress be abolished as a useless and irritating reminder of an unfortunate period in the nation's history.

An Assassin Meets a Just Retribution.

Mr Lemuel Beall, of Beallsville, Montgomery county, Md., had his meat house robbed and a mule stolen from his farm.—In conversation with some of his neighbors he said that he believed that Henson Ames, a noted character in the neighborhood, had stolen the meat and mule. This coming to Ames ears he made threats of killing Mr. Beall, and for that purpose he cut a stout club and went to his (Beall's) house. Mr. Beall having heard of the threats, had armed himself with a pistol and went out and met Ames, who rushed forward and dealt Beall a murderous blow on the head with the club. Beall raised the pistol, pulled the trigger, but the weapon missed fire, and Ames again dealt his victim another blow upon the cheek bone. This blow was followed up by another and an another, and Beall attempted the second time to shoot Ames, but again did the pistol miss fire, at which Mr. Beall threw the pistol to the ground, and it was immediately discharged. Ames continued to pour in a shower of heavy blows. Beall then, as a last resource, closed in upon his adversary, and with an adroit movement that no doubt saved his life, struck Ames a powerful blow just under the chin, causing him to fall backward heavily, and breaking his neck. He expired instantly, the fight having lasted thirty minutes. A jury of inquest was held, Mr. Beall having in the meantime surrendered himself to the authorities. After examination of several witnesses the jury rendered a verdict of justifiable homicide, and Mr. Beall was released from custody.

The strange part of the affair, which shows how utterly worthless Ames was considered, is that the father-in-law and brother of the dead man who were working in a field near by, when informed of the deed, positively refused to go near the dead man or to have anything to do with the body, declaring that it served him right, and that the world was rid of a great villian. After the dead man had remained neglected nearly all day, some farmers living in the neighborhood visited Mr. Beall's, placed the body in a wagon, and carried it to the house of his father-in-law, who subsequently placed it in a rough pine box and buried it without any ceremony in a deserted spot at the back of his house.

A Clerical Recluse.

The Rev. Mr. Beecher, a brother of the Rev. Henry Ward Beecher, who lives with his wife in a wild place back in the town of Hardenburg, where he has settled on a mile square of land, is doing a great deal of good among the rugged class of people who inhabit that country. He travels around from place to place with his horse and saddle bags, and preaches regularly on Sundays. He is a plain, unvarnished talker. Mr. Beecher's wife teaches school. She taught two years, and then had to give it up for a while. During that time she received seventy-five dollars of the State school fund, and expended in books and clothing for the children eighty dollars, thus giving her labor and five dollars besides. The tract of land owned by Mr. Beecher contains one of the most beautiful lakes in the town of Hardenburg. It nestles in an amphitheatre of hills, with no known inlet and trout abound in its waters in such numbers that Mr. Beecher only fishes from sundown until dark, in that time catching often sixty fish. The house in which this couple live was built by the reverend gentleman himself. It is a very good house considering that a minister unacquainted with carpenters' tools built it. Here he has his books, but beside these has little current literature to read, and who is educated and used to the refinement as well as luxuries of life has taken this course, none but himself and wife know. If for health, they have indeed the right place, for work, pure air and fresh water can be had in abundance, and sickness or ailments have been unknown to them.—Rondout (N. Y.) Freeman.

A LONG-LIVED FAMILY.—Mr. Frederick Welty, who was born on Piney creek, near Taneytown, Md., March 12, 1799, and afterwards removed to Dillsburg, York county, Pa., died on the 28th of April last aged 98 years, 1 month and 16 days. His father, John Welty, was born in Eppingen, Germany, Sept. 14, 1722, and died near Emmittsburg, Md., January 16, 1817, aged 94 years, 4 months and 2 days, leaving four sons and three daughters, whose respective ages at the time of their decease show a most remarkable instance of family longevity. Elizibeth Kintz lived to the age of 103 years. Susanna Hornaker died March 1855, aged 84 years 4 months and 5 days. Casper Welty died Feb. 27, 1856, aged 88 years 9 months and 21 days. Bernard Welty died April 1, 1856, aged 82 years 8 months and 11 days. Mary Hovis died Sept. 17, 1866, aged 91 years. Abraham Welty died May 2, 1874, aged 97 years 11 months and 22 days. Frederick Welty the last survivor, died April 28, 1877, aged 98 years 1 month and 16 days. Their aggregate ages amount to 657 years, averaging nearly 94 years to each, a most remarkable instance of individual longevity in a single family.

FEARFUL RETRIBUTION.—The Kent News says that on Saturday of last week a terrible retribution befel a tramp near Sassafras, in Kent county. On reaching the house of Mr. John Gibson, situated near the roadside, he found Mrs Gibson reclining at a window fronting on the road. It was about noon; she had prepared dinner for her husband, who was at work in the field, and was awaiting his arrival. The stranger accosted her, and said he was coming into the house. She remonstrated, and told him there was a bad dog in the hall that would certainly bite him if he effected an entrance. He persisted, however, and on entering, attempted to commit an outrage upon the person of the lady. The dog rushed into the room about this time and made a savage attack upon the tramp, inflicting a terrible and excruciating wound in an unfortunate locality, maiming him for life. The stranger then made his exit from the house, and when last seen by an informant he was lying beside the road near Sassafras suffering excruciating pain.

Shining Twenty Miles.

If the new collossal statue of Liberty to be erected in New York harbor could depend on one of the Pennsylvania gas wells to keep the great torch burning which it will hold in its right hand, the sublime effect would owe as much to nature as to art.

The Bradford New Era says: The immense vein of gas was struck on the night of October 4th, at a depth of 810 feet, and was so strong as to render further drilling impossible. The well is about two miles from Bradford, on the Bruce Rodgers farm. Running from the well are two two-inch pipes, attached to which are three gas jets of the same size, the gas belching forth from these pipes with such a terrific rush and noise as to render conversation, pitched in the ordinary tone, inaudable for fully one-fourth of a mile away, and the roar can be heard six miles away.

The blaze from each of the three pipes is sent by the force of the gas to a height of from twenty-five to forty feet, the heat being so intense as to melt the snow entirely away for a distance of at least one hundred feet, and also keeping the ground so warm during all the cold weather of the winter, that grass, strawberry vines, and other plants may grow. In many places, where the crowd of sight-seers have worn the ground it is very dusty.

The light is so strong that a newspaper may be read half a mile away. On very dark nights the illumination is grand.—The light has frequently been seen in Ocean, Salamanca, and other towns twenty miles away.

"The Conflict of Ages."

Men differ on nearly every issue. There have always been opposite parties in politics and religion, though the measures fought over one day may be universally adopted at another, and those sacrificed regarded as heroes and martyrs. Medicine has also been subject to revolutionary disturbances. When Dr. Harvey and Jenner announced their discoveries, they were held in contempt and ridicule by an incredulous and ignorant public, yet to-day they are received and honored by all as benefactors. When Dr. Pierce announced his Discovery, many seemed to doubt, and were skeptical concerning all medicines and doctors, but proof of merit has dispelled all doubt, and to-day the Golden Medical Discovery is the standard remedy in curing the most obstinate diseases of the liver and blood having almost superseded the old-time sarsaparillas by reason of its superior merits.

NORWICH, N. Y., Nov. 3d 1876.

R. V. PIERCE, M. D.:

I was afflicted with a scorfulous affection on one of my legs. It was very troublesome for over two years, so much so that I had to keep my leg bandaged. It resulted in a raw sore. It got so bad that it became a general talk that I would have to undergo amputation of the limb. One physician told me he never saw such a sore cured. I commenced taking your Medical Discovery together with your Pellets as directed on the bottles, and when I had consumed six bottles of Discovery, my leg was entirely well, and has remained so ever since,—a period of over two years,—and I would not swap it for fifty wooden legs.

Yours truly, JOHN SHATTUCK.

INTEMPERANCE IN NORTH CAROLINA.—Now, if the population of the State be 1,070,120 souls, our people pay $8,500,960 for liquor, about $1,000,000 for education, and for their religion $269,820; that is, they think eight times as much of whiskey as they do of education, and thirty-two times as much of whiskey as they do of Christian faith. This is a most humiliating confession for us to make, and yet we are compelled to admit its truth, for what people give their money for they certainly appreciate. Let us now compare the cost of spirituous liquors with some of the great farming interests of the State. There are 200,000 bales of cotton grown in North Carolina annually. These bales will average 400 pounds; at 19 cents per pound this cotton will bring $8,000,000—all the cotton grown in the State won't pay her liquor bill by $500,960. The wheat crop of the State amounts to 2,254,641 bushels. At $2 a-bushel all the wheat of the State won't pay for but about half of our liquor bill. The corn crop, which is 18,454,641 bushels, at 60 cents a bushel, will bring but one third more than is expended each year for that which impoverishes the State, increases her taxes and degrades her people.—Raleigh (N. C.) Observer.

SUN SPOTS AND RAINFALLS.—There is a tendency among scientists to acknowledge a connection between sun spots and earthly weather. During the last sixty-four years records of the rainfall in Southern India have been kept. From a study of these observations, it has been found that the periods of greatly deficient rainfall occur regularly about the year when the sun has the fewest spots upon its disk, that is every eleven years.

The theory is that when there are the fewest spots on the sun, there is the greatest solar heat, which prevents the vapor of the atmosphere from condensing into rain-clouds and falling as rain. Therefore, the alleged connection between the eleven year sun spot period and a deficient rainfall is of the utmost importance to the Indian government. If it exists, then, during the eleven years of heavy rainfall and abundant crops, provision must be made for the one year of drought and famine.

A DOG'S FAITHFULNESS TO HIS DEAD MASTER.—A striking instance of canine fidelity can be witnessed daily at the Quaker burying ground, on the Harford road, a short distance beyond Darley Park. Three weeks ago a gentleman of this city was buried there, his dog, a small black and tan, following the funeral procession from his residence to the graveyard. Next morning the sexton noticed the dog lying in the grass alongside the newly-made grave, and endeavored to drive him away. But the animal, faithful to his dead master, only whined and looked up in the sexton's face with an expression of almost human sorrow. The sexton did not use any violence towards the animal, which still remains in the graveyard and rarely leaves the near vicinity of his owner's resting place. The dog eats very little and from his present debilitated condition it seems as if he will not survive his master many days.—Balto. Bee.

TURKISH BARBARITIES.—The re-commencement of barbarities of the Turks in Bulgaria is enough to send a shudder of horror through all civilized countries. The scenes of rapine and desolation perpetrated in the frontier towns along the Danube are said to rival the darkest days of the middle ages. Families have been slaughtered at their own hearth-stones, and the younger women seized and outraged. The shrieks of the victims at one of the towns thus abused could be heard across the river. It would seem that England ought to have sufficient influence with her Turkish dependent to prevent such outrages upon humanity, especially as she has been at pains to set herself up as a champion of philanthropy against imagined wrongs and injustice in this hemisphere.

Bald-headed men are so numerous in Chicago that an audience in that city is said to look when viewed from above, like a cobblestone pavement.

A REMARKABLE CASE.—At about 11 o'clock Friday night last a little daughter of Mr. R. R. Sanner, of Frostburg, aged ten years was taken with a spasm, and the contraction of the muscles of the right thigh was so great that the bone of the leg was broken in two about half way between the hip and knee. Several physicians were summoned at once, and through their efforts the child speedily recovered from the spasm, but on consultation it was deemed advisable to postpone the setting of the fractured bone until to-day. The child is subject to spasms.—Cumb. Civilian.

Very obstinate and troublesome are old sores and ulcers. Yet how easily may they be healed. All that is necessary is to use freely Glenn's Sulphur Soap dissolved in water as a lotion. Depot Crittenton's, No. 7 Sixth Avenue, New York. Hill's Hair & Whisker Dye, black or brown, 50 cents.

Ayer's

Hair Vigor,

For restoring Gray Hair to its natural Vitality and Color.

A dressing which is at once agreeable, healthy, and effectual for preserving the hair. Faded or gray hair is soon restored to its original color, with the gloss and freshness of youth. Thin hair is thickened, falling hair checked, and baldness often, though not always, cured by its use. Nothing can restore the hair where the follicles are destroyed, or the glands atrophied and decayed. But such as remain can be saved for usefulness by this application. Instead of fouling the hair with a pasty sediment, it will keep clean and vigorous. Its occasional use will prevent the hair from turning gray or falling off, and consequently prevent baldness. Free from those deleterious substances which make some preparations dangerous, and injurious to the hair, the Vigor can only benefit but not harm it. If wanted merely for a nothing else can be found so desirable. Containing neither oil nor dye, it does not soil white cambric, and yet lasts long on the hair, giving it a rich, glossy lustre and a grateful perfume.
