—Notice—All persons who are indebted to us, either by note or store account we would like to come forward and settle the same as we need money to purchase new Goods. Please do not forget us.

Respectfully, B. F. FIELD & Co.

—The store house of Mrs. E. Welch, at Crumpton, was entered last week and the iron safe and contents taken therefrom.—The safe was found next day secreted along the side of Chester river on Queen Ann's side. It had not been opened.

—The M. P. Church and the Methodist Church South, which separated near twenty years ago, upon the slavery question, were united in one general denomination last week. The two congregations number about one hundred thousand members.

—Many of our readers perhaps when examining the market reports and see the word "spot" used in quoting the price of grain, do not understand the meaning of this term. It means wheat or corn already at the spot, ready for immediate delivery.

—If you wish to cure the gapes in chickens, strip a small feather almost to a point, hold the chick's tongue down with a string, dip the tip of the feather in coal oil and insert down the throat as far as possible. It has been tried with unfailing success.

—At the next election in this State, Senators are to be elected from the following named counties:—Allegany, Caroline, Cecil, Charles, Dorchester, Garrett, Harford, Montgomery, Prince George's, Talbot, Calvert, St. Mary's, Worcester and the second legislative district of Baltimore city.

—A shooting affray occurred last week between R. R. Garman and J. Douglass Coverdale, at Clayton, Del. The difficulty was an old feud and of strictly a personal matter. They are brothers-in-law, and like all family difficulties are the most bitter and vindictive.

—The wheat fields in this county are looking unusually promising. Early wheat is now heading out and from three to four weeks hence the crop will be ripe and ready for the reapers. Wheat speculators had better make a note of this fact and govern themselves accordingly.

—Mrs. M. S. Norris is again before the public with a heavy stock of millinery goods, notions, &c. Her place of business can be very easily found, for wherever you see a crowd of anxious customers in and around a millinery establishment, that is her store. Go and see her, opposite the Court House, Easton, Md.

—The ninth Annual Convention of the Diocese of Easton will be held in Christ Church, Cambridge, on Wednesday, the 6th of June. At this Convention clerical and lay-delegates will be elected to represent the Diocease in General Convention, which will hold its next meeting in October in Boston, Mass.

—We received on Tuesday last another sample of Fultz wheat grown upon the farm of Mr. John Collins, near Federalsburg, which measured 41 inches in height. The stalks were full headed, vigorous and healthy, and though not coming fully up to the sample sent us last week, gives evidence of a large yield.

—A straw shelter for cattle on the farm of Mr. R. B. Culbreth, in the second district, was destroyed by fire one day last week. It is supposed that the fire originated by the children of the tenant playing with matches. It was with considerable difficulty that the barn and other buildings on the farm were saved.

—Little Delaware claims that the General Government is justly indebted to her one million of dollars. This claim we presume is based upon an act of her Legislature, passed during the war, giving bounties to her citizens to exempt them from active service in the field. We fail to see the justice of the claim.

—The transition from cold to heat last week was so great that any one unacquainted with the freaks of the clerk of the weather would conclude that he had determined to punish us for our fault finding.—The cold weather from Iceland's frozen clime has been pushed back to give place to the heat of the tropics, and for days past humanity has been sweltering with the heats of burning summer. Sunday last was a scorcher, the thermometer ranging at about 92 in the shade.

—Professor T. C. West's school will hold a basket pic nic in Mr. T. F. Garey's woods, about one mile from town, on Friday next, (to-morrow.) The children will turn out in force and enjoy the day in healthful and delightful exercises. Innocent games and amusements will be indulged in. A general invitation is extended to the older citizens of Denton and vicinity to be present also, and live over again and call up to remembrance their childhood days. The Denton Cornet Band will be on hand to furnish the music.

—as the heat of summer approaches the political thermometer begins to rise and men and things are thrown to the surface. Next fall, the people of our county will elect a State Senator, Delegates to the Legislature and county officers. But little has as yet been said or done as to who shall compose the county ticket or whose names shall be presented to represent the county in the lower branch of the legislature. The Republicans have made no move that we are aware of. The Democrats have been canvassing the claims of several gentlemen of their party for State Senator. We have heard the names of Hon. Daniel Fields, the present Senator, Mr. P. W. Downes, Mr. Jno. F. Dawson and Dr. Alex. Hardcastle, spoken of as the next probable candidates. We do not know that either of these gentlemen are aspiring for the nomination, and we therefore speak of it only as private talk among the respective friends of each. A few weeks more and the political horoscope will present things in a plainer aspect.

—When reading a red hot political newspaper our sense of modesty is shocked by such indecent language as "cut-throats," "liars," "thieves," "rascals" and "renegades," and pity the morals of a community where such a sheet circulates and the taste of such readers as require such pabulum for mental nourishment. Every such editor should be retired and have placed in their hands an ax, a hoe or some other instrument, by the vigorous use of which, they may work out their destiny, and not be permitted longer to insult decency and common sense. We hope some of our exchanges will take the hint—improve upon it—and in the future become descent men.

—The Baltimore Sun completed its fortieth year on the 16th inst. We well remember its first issue in 1837, but the Sun of to-day would not be recognized as that of years ago, so great has been the improvements in its general make up and its steady march in the improvements of the age. Whatever may have been the fluctuations in trade or the revolutions which have made and unmade rulers, the Sun has steadily prospered through the persevering effort and indomnitable will of its proprietor. Through all these long and weary years, Mr. A. S. Abell, has directed its course and it has moved in its orbit as regularly and steadily as the sun in the heavens. Long may it continue to send out its beams of light and knowledge.

—A great deal has been said and written upon the subject of evangelizing the world, but has it ever occurred to those who minister in holy things, how great is the influence of the scaffold in aiding in the great work in reforming the lives of men. There have been numerous executions of late and we do not remember of reading the end of a single criminal recently hurried into eternity who has not professed a perfect willingness to meet death and a thorough preparation for heaven. If their professions are sincere and they are prepared for the habitations of the just, then we are led to think that the surest and most direct road to the gates of the celestial city is from the scaffold. We are not of those who believe in the eternal degrees, nor are we an advocate of extreme measures to secure an end, but if there is no other means by which to save men, why, then hang them.

Children's Day.

The second Sunday in June, (being the 10th day of the month,) will be observed at the M. E. Church in this place as Children's Day. This day is set apart by the Methodist Episcopal Book of Discipline and will be observed throughout the land by this denomination. It is usual to take up a collection on this occasion for the benefit of the Board of Education to be applied to the Sunday School Fund, the object of which is to assist meretorious Sunday School scholars in obtaining a more liberal education. This fund at present amounts to $75,000, the principal of which remains untouched and the interest only expended annually. This fund is applied by each of the annual conferences to those most deserving its assistance. A sermon appropriate to the occasion will be delivered by the junior minister.

Meeting of Peach Growers.

The peach growers of the Peninsula held a meeting at Middletown, Del., on Saturday last at which Mr. S. C. Biggs presided and Mr. J. Thomas Budd acted as secretary.

There was considerable diversity of opinion as to the extent of the forthcoming crop, most of the growers being of the opinion that the estimates already made were entirely too large. A long debate ensued upon the subject of relations with the railroads, and while it was contended on one side that old charters should be renewed by which the baskets should be returned to their owners, it was declared on the other that the prime necessity at this time was to open new avenues of trade and to induce a lively interest on the part of the railroads, committees on markets transportation, and other kindred topics being suggested. The middle, or commission merchants, it was thought, charged entirely too much for their services, and it is a pertinent matter now to make such arrangements as will result in [illegible] of mutually satisfactory terms.

A committe of fourteen gentlemen were appointed to confer with the railroad companies and attend to other interests of the peach growers.

The Berry Crop.

The cultivation of small fruit such as strawberries, blackberries and raspberries, on this peninsula, is rapidly growing, and the increase in their production for the last few years has been enormous. The berry productions in the southern section of the peninsula excel those in the northern part. While peach-growing is gradually extending north of the Nanticoke river, the production of berries is going south. Laurel, is the heaviest shipping point for berries.—The largest crop was in 1874, and as high as 50,000 quarts of strawberries were loaded at Laurel in one day. Westover, is the next shipping point for berries. In this neighborhood, is a cluster of estates. Westover contains 750 acres and the neighboring estates are Arlington, 636 acres, and Worington, 313 acres. Arlington has 57 acres devoted to strawberries, 33 acres to blackberries, 2,000 cherry trees, 10,000 peach trees, and 2,000 pear and apple trees. The other estates are similarly divided.—The shipments of berries from the Peninsula from 1870 to 1874, inclusive, were 2,562 car loads. The heaviest shipments were in 1874, amounting to 714 cars carrying 6,712,000 quarts. The crops in 1875 and 1876 were not large, but this year's crop bids fair to compare favorably with that of 1874. The shipments have been made as far north as Buffalo, and east to Boston; to the latter place as many as 20 car loads per day being sent. The berry season opens about the 18th of May, reaches its height about the 28th and ends June 12th.

Our Preston Letter.

PRESTON, MD., May 16th, 1877.

Mr. Editor:—It has been well said that "Americans love to be humbugged," for we find men of little merit on every hand who are becoming rich simply by taking advantage of this fact. To begin with our religious and secular journals, which are constantly filled with flaming notices of quack nostrums or patent medicines to attract the attention of the innocent and unsuspecting. With real or imaginary ills they often pay their last dollar only to find in the end that they have been duped, and not alone by the "Quack," for the Editor of their family paper, who should guard them from imposition, is often particeps criminis in the matter, as he accepts and publishes their self-written notices without questioning the veracity of its author or the quality of his wares. We look abroad and find reform in the land, money as the price of virtue cannot stand before an intelligent and religious people. Sooner than have our papers filled with such trash, let the blank stand as monuments to the cause of virtue and charge, if needs be, double the price for the paper in payment of the bill. They can purify the fountain or polute it. May they then fill their columns with that which will purify and the stream that flows onward will increase in brightness and reflect their images throughout eternity.

FARMERS BEWARE.

Farmers are not contented with the old way of living in the good old days of yore, but with the growth of experience and intelligence they begin to think and act more vigorously for themselves. An outgrowth of it is seen in the lessening demand for costly fertilizers. Princely fortunes have been made in their manufacture and sale and we are just beginning to learn that the same article can be made at home at half the expense.

Some sharpers, anticipating the state of things, are traveling through the country with patent receipts for sale, and say you need not pay unless you find the fertilizer all it is recommended to be, but take your note for ten dollars payable in three or six months. When the sales are satisfactory he goes to the nearest moneyed man and sells your note at 20 or 30 per cent. discount and goes on his way rejoicing.—Good receipts can be had simply for the asking of any intelligent farmer, and all who pay out their ten dollars in this manner can consider it thrown away, but perhaps they will be wiser if not richer men.

LADIES BEWARE.

The diamond spectacle-man is on his daily round, and many old ladies have we seen who were sorely troubled in body and mind, because they have probably exchanged a superior pair of glasses for an inferior pair which failed to restore the sight as promised by the cunning man of optics.

OBSERVER.

Eastern Shore Steamboats.

The first steamboat that ever appeared on the tributaries of the Chesapeake was the Maryland, in 1818, fifty-nine years ago, and which is still in existence. This steamer made weekly trips from Baltimore to Easton.

Next came the Paul Jones, commanded by Capt. G. W. Russell, making regular trips from Baltimore to Cambridge. She was withdrawn from this route and used as a tow boat between Baltimore and Havre de Grace. She afterward exploded her boiler in the Patapsco and was taken to Baltimore and used as a saw mill.

Then came the Osirus, purchased in New York, commanded by Capt. John D. Turner, which made her first trip to this place in 1842. Some years afterward this steamer was sold to parties at Charleston, S. C. She was destroyed during the war.

The steamer Cambridge, a fine steamer, swift and commodious was built by a Baltimore company to ply between Baltimore and Cambridge. She was commanded by Capt. J. D. Turner, afterward by Capt. James Tilghman. She was destroyed by fire on the Rappahannock river in 1851.

The Hugh Jenkins was also built in Baltimore and placed on the route to Cambridge and other points, and was quite successful for several years. She was afterwards sold and her name changed to the Kent Island. She was destroyed by fire a few years ago at Philadelphia.

In 1850 Capt. J. H. Stranberg purchased the steamer Gazelle of parties in New York city and started an opposition line from Baltimore to Cambridge, Easton and Denton. The Gazelle being slow and not able to compete with swifter boats, she was disposed of and Capt. Stranberg built a new steamer which he called the Champion. This steamer was said to have been at that time the swiftest of all the Eastern Shore steamers. This steamer is now owned by the Maryland Steamboat Company, and is still doing good service.

In 1850 the Choptank Steamboat Company purchased the propeller Dupont of a New York company and placed her on the route between this place and Baltimore.—She was commanded by Capt. T. D. Case and made regular trips from all points on the Choptank to Baltimore, carrying passengers, grain and freights of every description. She was afterward sold to parties in New York, and on her passage to that place was lost on the Atlantic coast below Lewistown.

After this the Choptank Steamboat Company purchase the small side wheel steamer Cecil and placed her on this route. She was also commanded by Capt. T. D. Case, and continued on this route for some time. She was afterwards sold and used as a tow boat.

In 1852 the William Seldon, built in Washington, was put on the Chester River route. She was commanded by Capt. J. D. Turner, and "walked the waters like a thing of life." She was destroyed during the war by the Confederates at Norfolk.

In 1854 Capt. E. Sturgeon had constructed at Baltimore the steamer Kent for the Chester river route. After plying this route for some time she was placed on Choptank waters where for years past she has done good service and became quite popular with the travelling public. Her commanders have been numerous, among them Captains Fields, Griffin, Kirwin and others. This steamer is now owned by the Maryland Steamboat Company.

The Balloon, a steamer built on the Delaware, and which at one time was one of the line steamers running between Philadelphia and Short's Landing, Delware, was put upon the Chester River route in 1859, but was afterward withdrawn and placed on the Choptank route. She was afterwards purchased by a company at Philadelphia and was burned on the Delaware a few years ago.

The Pioneer, also transferred from Delaware waters was for a time employed on the waters of the Chesapeake and its tributaries, but being unsuccessful in a financial point of view, was withdrawn and put into Government service.

About the year 1866, Mr. Wallack, from Washington City, purchased the ferry boat, called the Stepping Stone, from parties in Washington and placed her on the Choptank route. She was commanded by Capt. Frazier, of Dorchester county.—She was a double ender, having a rudder at each end, and was always ready for a forward motion without reversing her position. This steamer was afterward improved and her name changed to the Eastern Shore. Financially she was a failure, and what has since become of her we are not informed.

But there was about the year 1853 another steamer, although diminutive in size, worthy of notice. This was a little side wheel steamer called the Wilson Small, purchased of parties in Baltimore by Mr. Wm. H. Wilson, machinist of this place. She was about thirty feet in length, and the motive power used was a four horse engine. She was intended more as a pleasure boat than for useful purposes. She was sold some years afterward to a party in Kent county, and here comes the painful part of the story. The purchase of this little steamer brought on a storm of anger and strife between the purchaser and his wife, which ended in divorce and final separation.

Instead of but one steamer, as in 1818, we now have upon the Eastern Shore rivers, running daily to various points, nine steamers—some of them first-class—and all seem to be doing a paying business.

A TIME-HONORED SPECIFIC.—The long and successful career of Dr. WISHART'S PINE TREE TAR CORDIAL, as contrasted with the speedy collapse of nostrums devoid of efficacy which have from time to time been puffed into a brief notoriety during the twenty odd years that this celebrated medicine has been sold, affords a proof that the American public continues to repose its confidence in deserving articles only. The PINE TREE TAR CORDIAL has long been recognized as the leading specific for Consumption, Bronchitis, Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Diptheria, and all other diseases of the breathing organs. It is, moreover, a certain, speedy, and safe batonic remedy for Dyspepsia, Liver Disorders, Scrofulous Affections, Urinary Troubles, Gravel, Dropsy, Debility, Constipation, and Female Complaints. Constantly accumulating evidence of an unimpeachable character establishes the fact that it not only entirely eradicates the diseases to which it is adapted, but also that its action is remarkably prompt and thorough. The crucial test of experience has demonstrated its reliability in every particular. Sold by all druggists. Principal Depot, No. 916 Filbert Street, Philadelphia. [nov23-4w.
