A Massachusents farmer says, in Chiffill Million Aussachusents farmer says, in regard to the management of cattle: "My ca'tle like my company. When I Explain to supply all demands for Trees, Plants, in the pasture they will follow me until I leave the lot, and as a gener out one, two and three year old al rule they come up to the harn. yard every night about sunset, and in their way call for a lock of hey. and autumn varieties, Southern Winter Apples, thirty varieties, obtained from Georgia, North Though I give them all they want, Carolina and Virginia and by test, will keep in this they take but a few mouthfuls, which disfies them; and I am confident it tives them a great deal of good. drive well and are happy. They do redone. much better than they did when I changed pasture once a week, for they now have a change of food ev. ery day instead of once a week .--Cattle need kindness and they pay well for it. I can handle my steers and others as I please. They will, come up to me while I am milking, and invite me to play with them .-- , The time, I think, is not far distant when soiling cattle will be the most profitable where most of the farm can be cultivated. Provide a small lot for them to run in, feed green fodder, save all the manure, and our farms will grow richer.

The Trade in Rose-leaves.

In gardens where the queen of flowers is largely grown the petals EVERGREENS & ORNAMENTAL are carefully collected and consigned to the distiller, and their value constitutes an important item in the financial incomings. At Messrs. Blackberries, Raspberris, Gooseberries, Lane & Son's nursery, at Great Berkhamstead, the supply of rosc. leaves amounts to from two to five hundred weight per week in the Concord, Clinton, Taylor's, Bullet, &c., height of the senson. The quarters from which the flowers are gathered are not in the least injured in appearance by the operation, as the Public patronage solicited, and all flowers are allowed to expand, and orders by letter guaranteed to receive not a petal is touched until the flow. er is about to fall to pieces. The petals are then drawn from the stem and packed in salt, and the distiller THE SHIP CANAL. is enabled to keep them a considera. ble time to mitigate the pressure of business in the flowery season.
