

LOCAL INTERESTS.

DENTON, MARYLAND. SATURDAY, JULY 8, 1882.

Dedication. The new Reformed Church at Ridgeley will be dedicated to the service of the Triune God, Sunday, July 16. Services to commence at 10 A. M. Several ministers will be present from a distance. Rev. Geo. H. Johnston, of Philadelphia, will preach the dedicatory sermon. The community is invited by the pastor, Rev. Mr. Hanna-

The Wheat Prospect. The cutting of wheat in this county was finished last week. The wet weather has postponed threshing operations or a large part of the crop would have been ready for shipment by the end of this week. It is the universal opinion that the crop will yield well. Mr. Robert Anthony, residing two miles east of Denton, will get about eighteen for one on corn ground.

Shipping Wheat by Steamboat. It will be seen by notices published this morning that the Maryland Steamboat Company will carry grain from the Choptank river to Baltimore for five cents per bag, which is two cents and a half per bushel. The company has amply wharf room in Baltimore, and arrangements are complete for the transportation and delivery of grain. By sending by steamboat, one can get his grain on the market at the most advantageous time, as the prices are likely to be changing.

The Rainy Fourth. The only observance of the Fourth, besides the closing of the stores, were a number of church festivals and picnics, all of which were broken up by the rain which commenced falling about noon when the festivities had got fairly under way. At Harris's Chapel extensive preparations had been made for a festival, but the attendance was slim. A Sabbath School picnic of the Episcopal Church had got fairly under way at Ridgeley's School House when the rain came up, and ice-cream and starch went to dough. Similar festivities were broken up at Goldsborough and also at Wyatt's School House. The day was a sad disappointment to the children, who were to do most of the celebrating.

Accidents. Mr. Charley Morgan, son of F. B. Morgan, of Hillsboro, while running a self-binding harvester, got his left hand caught in the compressors and was quite severely hurt. The little son of Mr. James B. Elliott, at Dover Bridge, whose foot was nearly cut off by a wheat reaper, is doing well. It is now almost certain that his foot will be saved.

Mr. J. Hall Barton, of Hillsboro, received a painful hurt last week, while using a drawing-knife on a piece of wood, one end of which rested on the ground and the other against the body of Mr. B.; the knife made a slip, striking his knee and inflicting an ugly wound. An artery having been severed, it was a difficult matter to stop the flow of blood. Dr. T. Bacon Sabersbury in prompt response to a call, in due time succeeded in stopping the bleeding, and Mr. Barton has not undergone much inconvenience.

Personal Mention. Miss Lizzie Willis is over from Millford, Del., visiting Miss Clara Van Gesel. Mr. Thos. F. Dawson who during the past year has been employed in E. C. Avery & Co's hardware store in Denton has accepted a position as traveling salesman for the Osborne Reaper Company of Auburn, N. Y. Mr. John Y. Todd has our thanks for invitation to attend the commencement at Washington College next Wednesday. This is the centennial year of the college, and Mr. Todd will enjoy the distinction of graduating with the hours of his class.

Mr. L. Alfred Collins, of the Baltimore Day, paid the JOURNAL office a pleasant visit on Thursday last. Mr. Collins is carrying subscriptions for the Day (which, by the way is getting to be an excellent paper) and succeeded in swelling the list of subscribers to his paper very considerably at this place. George A. Conly, well known here and all over the Peninsula as "Comical Conly," met with an untimely death by drowning in Lake Spoford, near Chestertield, N. H., recently. He was a remarkable initiator, and those who attended his entertainments will never forget him. "Comical Conly" liked Denton and at every one of his numerous visits had a crowded house.

Local Brevities. A party of gentlemen and ladies is making up to go to Penmar on Thursday next. Last Tuesday was not what could properly be called a glorious Fourth, but by several jugs full. Mr. Charles F. Willis has been in the city this week replenishing the stock of Willis & Redden. A dance was held Thursday night last at the cannery, and the participants pronounced it a success. A Preston correspondent of the Wilmington Evening says a rumor has been started there that Enoch Pratt of Baltimore, will shortly equip a propeller to run grain on the Choptank river route. Already we have five steamers which as yet are amply sufficient to accommodate the travel traffic from our wharves.

The case of Thomas Green and wife against Miles W. Green and wife, was decided Monday last in favor of the respondents, Mr. Miles W. Green and wife. The real estate, the title of which was the subject of this suit, is valued at $5,000. George T. Melvin and J. W. Bryant, Esqrs., were counsel for complainants, and M. S. Mutchler and Geo. M. Russum, Esqrs., for respondents. Mrs. Allie D. Richards is now selling off and offers the remainder of her summer stock at cost.

Teachers' Examination.

At nine o'clock on Thursday last the meeting of the teachers whose certificates had expired was called to order at the Denton Academy by Examiner Swann, Mr. Dawson, president of the school board, being present. There was a very good attendance of teachers. Soon after nine those who expected to take examination were busily engaged at their work. The number wishing certificates was thirty-three, nineteen of whom were ladies. General order and silence prevailed. Applicants were not allowed to converse with each other, but the examiner, when called upon, took pleasure in explaining what was required in case teachers needed assistance in order to make them more fully understand the questions. The morning examination consisted of reading, writing, spelling and geography, after which all the examination papers were taken in by the examiner and the applicants dismissed for their dinners. Early after one o'clock he had seen all in their places and on their afternoon exercises, which had not, till then, been given. Among other visitors, Mr. Goslin and Dr. George, of the school board, called. The afternoon examination consisted of grammar, arithmetic, U. S. history, physiology, geometry, philosophy, algebra and book-keeping. Mr. Swann was commended by the visitors and teachers for the mastery and gentlemanly manner in which he conducted the examination. The questions were considered a thorough test of both the practical and theoretical capacity of applicants. At the same time and place applicants for the free scholarship at Western Maryland College underwent a similar examination. There were several applicants for the place. The successful one has not been announced.

Where has the Farm Help Gone? This question has been asked by many farmers whose recent harvest was attended with more or less trouble owing to the increasing scarcity of labor. It has been said that the farmers were providing a little too strong against the constant decrease in farm help by such a general purchase of the harvest-reapers, in order thereby to rid themselves of the worry and uncertainty of procuring manual labor to bind their wheat, as well as to expedite their work. There are now estimated to be seventy-five self-binding harvesters and three hundred reapers in the county. The harvesters dispense with as many as three hundred hands, and fully that many have disappeared within the last few years, for they are now as hard to be had in the harvest field with the reapers which do all the binding as they were when binding and cradling was in vogue. Work with a self-binder with the one or two hands now is in striking contrast to the work in the harvest field of a few years since. The farm help has largely been made up of colored people. They are gregarious, and have been immigrating to the cities and large towns north. There seems to be a constant tendency for them to move up the Peninsula. From this immediate vicinity as many as twenty-five young negroes have gone up, where they are employed on farms, in factories, &c. At the rate the exodus has been going on, a few more years will find the farm help in harvest time thinned out to the point of a farmer seated on his self-binding harvester, cutting and binding his wheat, with not another person in the field; and then, when the crop is taken down, but the thing for the future is a machine which will go over the wheat field and gather up the heads, and leave the straw to enrich the ground.

This Year's Peach Crop. THE ESTIMATE OF THE DELAWARE RAILROAD COMPLETED - AN EXHIBITION'S CROP - SOME INTERESTING FACTS. Superintendent I. N. Mills, of the Delaware railroad has completed his annual estimate of the peach crop for 1882. The result of the careful examination shows that there will be raised in the districts covered by rail 4,001,710 baskets of peaches. Mr. Mills says: "The estimates we have made are to govern us in preparing to transport the crop. They have been carefully made and cover the sections reached by rail. We do not pretend to cover those districts which have only water transportation. The shipments by rail in 1874 were 4,300,000. This year we will have to allow for a large increase in canneries and driers. There are 25 per cent. more of these establishments than in 1880. But it must be borne in mind that the crop of 1875 was not all handled. Much rotted on account of the wet weather and peculiar season and owing to a lack of help. It will be difficult to get at what the total crop will be, because I do not know what the yield will be in districts from which peaches are carried by water alone. These sections will not bear half as many as the districts carried by rail. The heaviest district is between Middletown and Clayton and Wyoming, Kent county, and will have the most peaches in proportion to the trees. It may surprise many people to learn that the crop will be so heavy this year when the statement has been repeatedly made that the trees have been so generally turned up. I think there are as many trees bearing this year as in 1875. While in New Castle county there are 50 per cent. less trees than in that year in the territory from Clayton to Felton there has been an increase of 25 per cent. There are fully as many trees, and I explain the difference by the fact that the trees in the lower end of the Peninsula are smaller than in the upper end and the yield not so great. A good bit depends upon fall weather, and the yield may reach 5,000,000 baskets."

The fish-oil factories of the Eastern Shore are at a standstill on account of the scarcity of fish. The Cecil Whig announces that it will hereafter publish political communications at the rate of five cents per line. This will conduce to brevity.

Some Facts of the Judicial Contest in Cecil.

From the Evening Star. First.—When Mr. Cruikshank's nomination was spoken of, the Journal was the first to advocate his claims from a purely honest and independent standpoint. But, had the matter rested there—had he done even so much as to advocate his own cause by explaining his position—came out fairly and squarely, taken up the clarion notes sounded by us—made charges that Judge Stump was incapable; not that "rotation" was the Jeffersonian principle upon which he based his claim, then would we have had the foundation upon which to build our independence and which above all things else seems now to trouble him most. We had the hardihood, we have it now, to say we support that alone which seems the greatest good to the largest number. Not simply because we learned, and "Junio" contemporary, wants the public pap of Cecil county, on which he has already feasted so long, extended throughout the whole judicial district do we see Jeffersonian principles; though we may through the dim vista see a spark of rotation—rotate Stump out and Cruikshank in—but this is not sufficient to satisfy the public, because they are honest and wish to do what is right.

Second.—In the start we did little else than re-publish the opinions of the leading journals throughout other districts of the circuit. We did this believing the whole territory comprised in it had an interest, inasmuch as interested in the important office of Judgeship; Democrats and Republicans alike; and that the matter was not confined to party bias, being outside of party politics. What then? They called a halt! And said, it matters not what other districts may think. Cecil intends to place her Judge upon the Bench. Very well then, she must come from Cecil; and she must elect him. Having the constituency of the one wing his most needs secure the other to be successful. How was this to be done? Simply by starting a boom. Scouring anonymous scribblers to reside in Elkton, under the guidance of the two bosses; date their letters Rising Sun, Port Deposit, Brick Meeting House, and other sections, to make it appear to the uninitiated that a sentiment for the new regime was unanimous. But alas, the old thing wouldn't work.

Next they conceived the idea that the press was biased. Forthwith the lieutenants reported "something wrong with that fellow at the Sun," he is not solid. A deputy was instantly despatched, loaded with plethoric Cruikshank ammunition, and instructed to say "if you publish these we will give you County Printing and pay cash in advance." Although the "inspectorship" has worked, and the "bridge" is reported able to carry his own: "Yet many a rose is born to fade unobserved." Then it was that charges began to be made. The little Journal was taken from its resting place the C. C. office and doomed to oblivion. The press must needs go to the junk-shop and the editor climb the golden stairs. But, alas! "The best laid schemes of mice and men, gang aft a-gley." "People are not always asleep when their eyes are shut." Its subscription list has wonderfully increased. The people have been aroused. Dollars come tumbling in with the intelligence "I want your paper," simply because it dares to speak the truth. "Paul may plant, Apollus may water, but God alone (eternal truth) must give the increase." What next? A second despatcher was sent forth to interview the "little fellow up there," with the burning words, "I fear not Rome, but Cassius is a hungry man; he thinks too much." These are inside "opinions" not paid for, and therefore not intended for public ears; but our generosity and independence have prompted us to give them publicity, thinking, perhaps, if not relished by some, may be a benefit to others; throw light on the mysteries so assiduously contrived; and aid the public in forming an opinion other than that paid for.

Peninsula Points. Mr. Alexander Chaplain, of Talbot, has been making some observations of the change of the army worm into a winged insect. He put a number of active worms in a bottle where he could watch them. They ate voraciously until they became chrysalides encased in a shell of their own manufacture. The pupa remained encased eleven days, when a brown winged moth very much like a candle fly emerged from the shell. Misplion Conclave, No. 33, Improved Order Heptasophs, of Harrington, held their semi-annual election of officers on last Thursday evening with the following result: Archon, James A. Smith; Provost, Wm. J. Hubbard; Secretary, Joseph L. Cavender; Treasurer, Amos Cole; Treasurer, Ezekiel Fleming; Prelate, Rev. Chas. E. Simmons; Inspector, J. Wesley Blades; Warden, S. Luther Shaw; Sentinel, L. W. Kette; Trustees, Geo. W. Johnson, Dr. B. L. Lewis, Rev. Geo. E. Hardesty. The Conclave is in a flourishing condition, with thirty members.

A MOTHER TO THEM.—A strange freak of nature occurred on the farm of Mr. Stauffer residing near Halls X Roads last week. While harvesting Mr. Stauffer discovered a covey of young partridges, in considerable distress, and on looking around found that the old bird had been killed by something, leaving the little ones parentless. He thereupon gathered up as many as he could catch and took them to the house and cared for them. Next morning after driving a few rounds he saw that an old turkey hen had called the others around her and was acting as mother to them. The young partridges seemed to be perfectly satisfied with their new found mother, and the turkey hen appeared happy in the knowledge of a new found brood.—Centerville Observer.

J. J. JUMP & COMPANY'S

BULLETIN No. 2.

We desire to thoroughly advertise our splendid new stock of Spring Goods, but we find it impossible to itemize and enumerate the very choice things in every department. Each and every department of our entire establishment receives our own special attention, and is made as complete as long experience can make it.

LADIES' COLUMN. Over $2,000 in SILK GOODS just added to the large stock of Silk Dress Goods advertised last week. New novelties in Moire and Satin stripes for Overlases, Waists and Skirts. New Watered Silks at $1 per yard. Baltimore Wholesale Houses ask this price for them.

One piece of very handsome, vine figured, all Silk Brocade, at $1; usually sold at $1.50. It won't stay with us long. One piece Brown and one piece of Green Dress Silk, at $1.25; splendid value for the money. Three pieces Black Silk at $1, $1.25, $1.40, better value for the price than we have ever sold. One piece very wide pure Silk-Satin Surah at $1.40.

J. J. JUMP & CO. We frequently have samples of Silk from New York compared at our store, and we beat every time. Reason why—we buy as cheap as they can; our expenses are light, theirs are enormous.

The demand for Laces is greater this season than has ever been known before. We have just added to our previous magnificent assortment, extra fine Italian Laces in narrow, medium and wide. The very desirable Milanoire in choice designs, only 20 and 25 cents a yard. The new Maline, from 15 to 25 cents; Brilliant Green, Spanish, and Maltese Laces. The exquisite Edelweiss at 50 cts. These, with our previous purchases, give us the choicest showing. New additions in Dress Gingham and White Goods. Ribbons are to be so extensively used as Dress Trimmings, that we have added them to our business, and show a nice line of fine goods only.

HOUSEKEEPER'S DEPARTMENT. New Table Linens at unusually Low Prices, in Bleached and one-half Bleached, Turkey Reds, &c. A few left of our 60 dozen Napkins, bought so we can sell them at wholesale price. Towels so cheap they go rapidly.

MATTINGS. MATTINGS. JUMP & CO. show a tremendous stock in plain and fancy. Also Carpets, Oil Cloths, Curtains.
