DENTON, MARYLAND:
SATURDAY.....JULY 15, 1882.

New Overseer at the Alms House.

The trustees of the poor for this county, Messrs. John R. Griffin, D. J. Zacharias, Simeon West, Francis S. Todd and John Collins, at their meeting on Thursday last appointed Mr. Samuel T. Norris overseer for the alms-house, in place of Mr. Reese Wyatt. The new overseer will take charge the first of January, 1883.

Good Work of a 7-Horse Thresher

The steam threshing machine run by Mr. Henry M. Cade commenced work on the farm of his father, Mr. John Cade, in Tuckahoe Neck, Friday of last week at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, and by Saturday night he had got out 1,500 bushels of wheat. The engine used was a seven-horse power, and the work done is extraordinary for the power.

Death from a Congestive Chill.

Capt. Thomas McMahan, a native of this county, whose mother resides near Friendship, in the fifth district, was seized with a congestive chill while on board his vessel, the Bay Queen, of Oxford, Md., and died within two hours after the attack. Deceased was about thirty-five years of age and married, his wife residing in Trappe, Talbot county.

Vennor's July.

Hot and oppressive weather, with heavy rain and wind storms, between 15th and 20th. A great deal of rain and storm so far this month. Between 20th and 23d cooler and windy weather, with continued rains and cool evenings and nights. Between 24th and 26th there is likely to occur a very hot term. After the 26th or 27th, sultry, warm and oppressive weather, with thunder storms, up to close of month. There may be indications of a cooler change about the last of the month—probably, altogether, a muggy and muggy and reeking wet month, very different from that of 1881.

Experience of our Farmers, also.

The Smyrna Times tells of a farmer who rode into Smyrna, and finding a lot of colored loafers on a corner, said unto them, Why sit ye here all the day idle? And they said, Because no man hath hired us. And he said unto them, Go ye and work in my wheat field. And they went forth to the farmer's house, and sat down and ate a hearty breakfast. And when the breakfast was finished, they went forth into the wheat field, and took their seats upon the fence. And he said unto them, Why go ye not and bind the sheaves? And they said unto him, When thou hast given us two dollars a day, we will go forth and bind thy sheaves. And the farmer said unto them, Verily, keep ye your seats upon the fence until I call you. And the farmer journeyed forth, and purchased him a new self-binder, and bound therewith his sheaves. And when the noontime had come, he said to those upon the fence, Verily, sit ye there and enjoy the sunshine, and refresh your stomachs on the empty air.

Kicked or Stamped to Death.

John Greenlee, aged about nineteen, son of Wm. S. Greenlee, residing near Boyce's Mill, two miles from Greensborough, met an untimely death on Sunday morning last. He was engaged in leading a pair of mules to water, when he said to a companion, "I bet I can jump over the rump of one of these mules on to his back," and the young man attempted the feat by springing on the animal's hips. He was quickly dislodged, and as he came to the ground the mule sent a volley of heels which sent the young man sprawling. Just then a horse ran to the stable and perhaps trampled upon the youth as he passed; at any rate, when his companions came up they found Greenlee with an ugly wound in the temple and senseless. He soon returned to consciousness and was able to walk to the house where medical aid soon reached him, but he began to sink, and two hours after the accident he was a corpse.

Notable Wheat Yields.

Sharron Brothers, enterprising farmers who reside near Medford's Wharf, in the fourth district, recently threshed one half acre of wheat which yielded twenty-one bushels; three acres gave a yield of ninety-six bushels, and their whole crop, mainly on corn land, averaged about twenty-thaee bushels to the acre.

There seems to be no exceptions to the general good yield of wheat, and the farmers are jubilant. They are now in the midst of theshing, having been set back several days on account of recent rains. Below will be found a few yields from which an average can be taken of the crop in the county:

Mr. Robert Anthouy, two miles east of town, got eighteen bushels for one seeded on corn land. It seems that wheat grown on land which was in corn the year before produced much better than usual, and even in many cases beat fallow land wheat on the same farm.

Mr. F. C. Ramsdell, at Towsend's Cross Roads, got 430 bushels from 37.

Mr. Thomas H. Slaughter got 1000 bushels from 77.

A Day on the Plains.

A visit to the Plains, the farm celebrated as the summer residence of the late Mrs. Bourne, on which to beautify and improve she lavished her wealth, will cause the visitor less to envy those who seek retreats and recreation at mountain and seashore, especially if his time or means forbids him taking a trip to any of the latter places. A stroll through the ample grounds, which are always free to visitors, is at this season especially delightful. Trees, shrubbery, flowers and grass go to make up as near the ideal lounging place for a hot summer day as is conceived of. It is worth the while of any one, who has the time to spare and wishes to spend it pleasantly, to visit the charming place. To testify to this statement is a party of gentlemen and ladies from town, who took the day and their dinners last Wednesday, and with the courteous overseer, Mr. Frand Redden, to play the part of cicerone, they thoroughly searched and inspected the premises. The farm, stock, the buildings, and the flowers, are interesting; and when you tire of exercising your æsthetic souls, there is an abundance for more practical taste,—fruit of every variety known to our climate in season.

It will be learned with not a little regret that the Plains farm is not likely to continue in its entirety, but is soon to be divided or sold, the heirs of Mrs. Bourne having already petitioned the court for its division or sale, that the heirs may come into the possession of their legacies according to the will of the testator.

Personal Mention.

—Mr. Chas. H. Gibson was in town Tuesday.

—Mr. Howard Bryant and Miss Clara Van Gesel are at Ocean City.

—Rev. George F. Beaven, rector of St. Paul's Church at Hillsborough and the Church of Holy Trinity at Greensborough, has been granted a vacation during the heated term, on account of poor health.

—Among the graduates at Pennington (N. J.) Seminary at the last commencement of that institution was Miss Jennie Pritchett of Preston, this county. We are pleased to learn that she stood high in the final examination as well as bore off the palm for general deportment.

—Superintendent Mills is entitled to the thanks of the traveling public for the decided improvements and long-needed conveniences he has added to the Delaware and Chesapeake railway, —and in no particular has he shown better judgment than in taking Mr. Joe Baynard as his assistant for this branch.

—Trying to cool off: A party made up of Col. and Mrs. J. W. Bryant, Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Gadd, Miss Sallie Jump, Miss Clara Downes, Miss Laura Melvin, Mrs. P. W. Downes, Mrs. Z. P. Steele and Mrs. G. M. Russum, all of Denton, left on the Enoch Pratt Thursday by way of Baltimore for Penmar. They will return to-day.

The New Registration.

The registration offices in the county, which were opened on Tuesday of this week, will be kept open until this evening, which completes the first sitting. We are not able to give the result of the present sitting in this morning's paper, but complete figures of the work will be published next week. By comparing the numbers of names registered as qualified voters for the election of 1881 with the number of votes polled, it will be seen that there was a good deal of dead wood in some of the districts, which will be pruned out by the registration now going on. It is not believed, however, that the final result will show the names of as many as voted last year; it will be two or three hundred short. This can be accounted for in a measure by the fraudulent voting that has been done to a small extent by non-residents and others personating those who either habitually absented themselves from the polls, or who had died or moved away and the officers of registration having known nothing about it had left their names on the books as qualified voters. The new registration will stop all voting by proxy for some years to come, and consequently the lists will fall off some. But the greatest cause of the probable shortage in the registration will be the man who hasn't time to get registered, or forgot it.

For the election last fall the qualified voters, according to the district lists, footed up—422, 723, 934, 676, 486, and 487, for the districts, taking them in order; total, 3,749. The number of votes polled last fall is for the districts in order—290, 569, 531, 554, 405, and 417; total, 2,766.

The number registered under the new law at the conclusion of yesterday's sitting for the third district was 135, 32 of the names being those of colored voters.

Eloping on a Yacht.

The news of an elopement, capture, arrest and separation comes all in a lump from the green fields of Harford county, with an aroma of freshness about it which makes it all the more delightful. Mosses Gantt was a sailor, and his big heart had been an empty thing for the longest kind of a time until he chanced to meet Miss Whitton. The way they met was this: Gantt had charge of a summer sailing vessel—a yacht, or something of the kind, which he anchored in front of the house at Cedar Grove, where dwelt May Whitton with her father. The tender-hearted Moses applied at the parental mansion at Cedar Grove for board, and his request was granted. Then he began his love-making. Sitting opposite Miss at the table, little wonder is it that they soon began to exchange glances full of meaning. Moses told the young girl of a cottage for two and all the pleasure they would have together when she became his wife. She believed his story, just as all of them do, and promised to go with him, take her where he would.

So one day last week she went with him, and pulling up the sails, the lovers went rapidly down the river, thinking only of love and where their breakfast was coming from. Moses Lochinvar anchored his craft about eight miles from the house of Mr Whitton, but did not remain long when he heard that Mr. Whitton, and his son were in hot pursuit, vowing vengeance upon him for carrying off the girl. To act quickly was his only hope. So across the river he sailed to Kent county, hunted up a Magistrate, and in less than fifteen minutes Miss May Whitton was pronounced Mrs. Moses Gantt, with all the rights and titles thereto attaching. In Kent they stayed but a short time, and returned to Harford, trying their best to elude capture. But, alas for their love, they were caught Sunday morning at a house on the Philadelphia pike, near Hunway's store, about four miles from Magnolia Station. The county Sheriff had heard that they were there and started out bright and early in the morning with two wagon-loads of deputy sheriffs. They surrounded the house. Gantt made a break for the woods, but the officers fired several rounds at him and he came to a halt. He is now in jail at Belair and his love story stops here. The girl is a minor.—Baltimore American.

Journal Jottings.

—The jail is as usual without a prisoner.

—Business of all kinds is reported brisk at Federalsburg.

—Corn is looking exceedingly well in this county, and promises an abundant yield.

—See new advertisements: Wm. F. Shorey, photographer; canning house for sale, etc.

—Postmaster Stevens has the finest field of corn on the road between Denton and Hillsborough.

—Eggs still bring 20 cents per dozen in the local market and have held up better than for years at this season.

—On Thursday Mr. Clinton Cook was appointed Justice of the Peace for this Election District in place of Thos. A. Smith, Esq., resigned.

—A small boy wants to know if on the 15th of the month they are going to celebrate the half of July—he says the Fourth was a failure.

—The Greensborough Free Press, before copying from another paper slander and falsehood, should take some pains to obtain the truth from the proper source.

—Thos. A. Smith, Esq., agent at Ridgely, is now able to to furnish through tickets to passengers to all points west and north and most of the summer resorts.

—Samuel, 16-year-old son of Henry Jopp, residing two miles east of Denton, was engaged in wheat raking on Monday, when he received severe bruises by the running away of the colt attached. The rake was very much demolished.

—The excursion to Philadelphia last week by the M. E. church of Hillsborough was a decided success. Four hundred and thirty-nine persons embraced the opportunity to visit the zoological gardens and other places of interest in Philadelphia. A substantial sum of money was realized.

Not too Far off to be of Interest.

—There will no campmeeting held at Rehoboth this year.

—Middletown girls consume 100 gallons of ice-cream per day.

—Delaware basket makers are asking eight cents each for peach baskets.

—700,000 bushels is the estimated yield of Queen Anne county wheat.

—The first peaches are Amsden's June, Early Beatrice, Louise and York.

—There are 300 applicants for the position of collector of the port Crisfield. The salary is $2,400.

—The wheat, corn, oat and fruit crops throughout the Peninsula promise to be the largest grown for years.

—A Sudlersville grain dealer has bought 10,000 bushels of wheat at $1.20 to be delivered before the middle of this month.

—Mr. James H. Goodland, a prominent citizen of Kent Island died last week, and his wife and son are now both ill.

—The annual meeting of the Peninsular Press Association will be held some in August, either at Oxford or Rehoboth.

—The barn of Mrs. Susan H. Dawson, of Talbot county was struck by lightning a few days ago and considerably damaged.

—A camp-meeting will be held by the Southern Methodist of Dorchester circuit, at Nazareth, near Lakeville, commencing Friday, July the 28th.

—Pollard S. Collins, ex-sheriff of Dorchester county, died on Sunday evening last at his residence near Cabin Creek, after an illness of one week, superinduced by heat and overwork in stacking his wheat crop. Deceased was in the prime of life, and will be lamented by a host of friends.

—In May, 1881, Miller Lodge I. O. O. F. of Easton obtained a judgment in the circuit court for Harford county against the mutual Fire Insurance Company of Cecil county for over $2,000. An appeal was taken by the Insurance company, and the court of appeals has reversed the judgment of the Harford court.

—A horrible accident occurred in St. Michaels Thursday morning last. Mr. Lambden, an old vessel builder, was hewing a piece of timber, and his little grand-son passed under it just in time to receive a severe cut from the broad axe in his forehead, inflicting a wound from which it is hardly possible for the little fellow to recover.

—The freight handlers' strike at New York casts its shadow over the coming peach crop of the Peninsula. Within a few weeks some millions of baskets of the most perishable fruit grown must be marketed, and unless the transportation and delivery is done quickly, kernels will cover the districts which must ship their fruit by rail as bones a battle-field or shells a seashore.

The Mosquito.

The editor of the Middletown (Del.) Transcript gets off the following on the mosquito, which we think pretty good; and therefore copy it in full: "It has been our custom to notice the annual advent of the mosquito; the winged songster who comes gently to commune with man, about this season of the year. Where it comes from we do not know; but, it is sufficient to be made aware of the fact that it comes. Naturalist affim that the male mosquito never bites. A liberal reward will be paid at this office for a specimen male mosquito. Borne on the bosom of the balmy breezes of gentle springtime, the mosquito comes. It comes and brings its family. It may have passed through a rigid winter, clothed in but scant raiment, whilst man could not keep warm with two overcoats without and a hot tody within, and yet it comes out as fresh as a morning glory and as limber as a fishing worm. It comes gently with a sooting strain of melody, like a gentle zephyr sighing through a worm fence, lights timidly upon the 32d parallel of a pious man's ball head, taps a throbbing vein, closes its eyes, crosses its legs and dreams that it is drifting to the sweet and silent beyond. And what is the pious baldheaded man doing now? Does he not realize that something is claiming his undivided attention. Verily he does. His eye brightens; a smile—a sort of sickly, sad, subtle, second-hand smile as it were—spreads o'er his countenance; he makes a futile effort to see the top of his head with both eyes at once; he raises a hand gently, stealthily, until it hangs poised in mid air above the seat of war, and then, with a swift and mighty stroke, it falls. Yes, it falls on that poor, pious, bald head, but it don't hit mosquito. The mosquito has previously departed. It is sitting now behind a picture frame scratching its nose with its hind foot and wondering how pious baldheaded men can acquire such a vast flow of expresssve language. We have a great deal against the mosquito that we have never yet put into print. Every now and then through the summer we make some off-hand, extemporaneous remarks about them that we don't care to put into print. We could not sum up the aggravating peculiarities of the mosquito in a quarto volume, with a supplement. We will refer to a few of these briefly and then drop the subject. The mosquito has a Latin name but it seems to flourish and multiply just as though it had never been thus afflicted. It can go about barelegged without getting the rheumatism, whilst man has to wear his red flannel underclothes and winter pants. It can look fourteen ways at once without turning its head. It tempts man from the path of piety. It will bore an artesian well into a man without the slightest apology. It will take the best blood in one's veins without a thought whether one has a drop to spare. And, as though it did exasperate man enough in other respects, there are twelve allowable ways of spelling its name."

Death of Charles K. Messick.

It is again that we have to chronicle the death of another of our promising young men. On Thursday morning, just as the sun was rising, our young friend passed away—"free from suffering, free from pain." The deceased was as highly esteemed young man as we had with us, and his death is felt and lamented by his relatives and a host of friends. After the death of his father, last autumn, he engaged himself as clerk to Mr. Thomas F. Johnson, at Potter's Landing, and in that position gained the confidence and affection of his employer and acquaintances. From the first of his sickness he harbored the idea that he would not get well; yet his greatest desire was to get better and return to his work. But day by day he grew worse until his physician declared he must die. My first conversation with him in regard to another world found him heart-broken; he wept bitterly and said he had always tried to be a good boy. When asked if he had prayed any since he had been sick, replied: "I have been praying all the time, and never forget to say my prayers." The next and last time that I saw him alive he addressed thus, "I have got to go to-night, and I am not quite ready," but after praying, and explaining the way the best we could he rejoiced and about midnight called them to his bedside and bid them good-bye, one by one, telling them to meet him in Heaven. Standing off at a great distance from the King of Terrors he does not look so frightful, the grave when so remote does not look so gloomy; but be to brought in direct contact with death and the grave, we may ask, "Who is sufficient for these things?" Poor Charlie has certainly been delivered out of all his troubles, and God was glorified and Christianity honored in the complete triumph it gave him in death's dark hour. J. E. H.

With Grand and Thrilling Accessory and Combination Effects.

BELLOWS.—Finest Treble Rubber, Upright pattern, three bellows combined, with four Steel Springs with Automatic Valve Stop, an ingenious arrangement for preventing an over-supply of air.

REEDS.—10 Full Sets Reeds. Are of the Celebrated Golden Tongue (patented) tin tongues of which are secured to the block by dovetailing instead of ordinary pivot, which soon breaks or rattles. The Golden Tongue never breaks or wears out, holds its tune perfectly. No tuning is ever required after leaving the factory.

TONE.—Superb, Thrillingly Sweet and Pure. Challenge comparison with any instrument ever manufactured at four times the price. An Organ like the above, containing the same variety of music, would cost through high priced organ manufacturers at least $450. This combination of Reed-Board and Stop Work bear in mind, in the BEETHOVEN is patented. No other organ maker dare build it.

PRICE.—The price of this Organ, which includes a Music Book, Organ Bench, Choice Music, &c., securely packed and delivered on board the cars at Washington, New Jersey, is Only $90.00.

TERMS.—The terms are Net Cash. Remittances may be made by Bank Draft, Post Office Money Order, Registered Letter or Express, prepaid.

WARRANTED.—The BEETHOVEN is warranted for six years. Shipped on one year's trial.

FACTORY.—Corner Railroad Ave. and Beatty St., Washington, New Jersey. Largest in the world. Running day and night to fill all orders promptly.

To Whom it May Concern:

If the Beethoven Organ, after one year's constant use, does not give you perfect satisfaction in every particular, and in in any way not as represented in this advertisement, I hereby bind myself to take it back and refund you your money paid in current funds, with legal interest of New Jersey, (six per cent.) I further agree to pay freight charges on the instrument both ways, the money to be refunded immediately upon receipt of the instrument at Washington, New Jersey. I further agree, if requested, to exchange it for any other organ or piano as shown in my catalogue.
Very truly yours,

Daniel F. Beatty

HOW TO ORDER.—Enclosed find money for Beethoven Organ. I have read your statement in regard to it in this advertisement, and I order one on condition that it must prove exactly as represented in every particular, or I shall return it at the end of one year's use and demand the return of my money, with interest from the very moment I forward it, at six per cent., according to your offer. Be very particular to give your Name, Post Office, County, State, Freight Station, and on what Railroad.

Be sure to remit by Bank Draft, Post Office Money Order, Registered Letter or Express prepaid.

SPECIAL TEN DAY OFFER TO THE READERS OF THE JOURNAL

I desire the Beethoven Organ introduced among the readers of this newspaper within THIRTY DAYS, so that it can see and appreciate its wonderful merits and stop combination effects. Now, if you will REMIT ME seventy-five ($75.00) dollars, I will ship you this organ immediately, and send you a receipted bill in full for ninety dollars ($90), which is the regular and only price at which this organ is sold. The price will soon be advanced to $125.00, on account of the increase in price of labor and materials used in its construction.

I desire this instrument introduced without delay, and make this special offer so you may order one now. I look to future sales for my profit, as the Beethoven makes ten thousands of friends. I regard this manner of introducing it better than spending hundreds of dollars in newspaper advertising. The Organ speaks for itself. Often twenty sales have been traced from the first sold in a new neighborhood.

This offer is positively good for only ten days from date. PLEASE BEAR THIS IN MIND. This newspaper must be returned to secure this special price. If mailed from your post office within ten days from this date it will be received on that day. I shall POSITIVELY refuse all orders under $90, unless accompanied with this newspaper, and payment must be mailed within ten days as specified.

DATED, WASHINGTON, NEW JERSEY, July 15, '82.

N. B.—As this special offer is limited and will not be repeated, if you have not all the money in hand, it will pay you to borrow a part from your friends, and thus secure the best organ that can be offered, at a less price than any ordinary organ by other makers is usually sold at.
