THE River and Harbor Bill was laid on the table, and thus defeated.

THE preparation of designs for the new two-cent postage stamp, which will, after October 1 next, take the place of the three-cent stamp, has been commenced.

THE Philadelphia Times thinks that the Forty-seventh Congress, which came in like a lamb, went out, last Saturday night, like a snuffed candle, in smoke.

THE roads in Cecil county are let in sections to the lowest bidders, who do as little work as possible for the money. The system is pronounced a failure, and the bad condition of the roads is a subject of complaint.

SHERIFF HUNTER of Baltimore city had a writ against a lady who, knowing it, avoided every white man that came to the house; but her curiosity overcame her prudence when a colored deputy sheriff called with the subterfuge of a porter with a box, and the legal process reached her.

THERE is a movement on foot to to have in this month or in April a conference in Baltimore of representative Democrats throughout the State, without regard to the factions. The idea is not for the purpose of establishing or inaugurating an independent movement, but to prevent it by taking such steps as will consolidate the party.

THE late Congress appropriated the enormous amount of $186,570,000 for pensions alone. This vast sum was called for by legislation which the preceeding Congress had consummated, but the Forty-Seventh rejected all attempts to undo this legislation or mitigate its consequences, and accordingly it shares the responsibility of laying these burdens on the country.

HON. ABRAM S. HEWITT expresses the opinion that the new tariff will destroy the business of manufacturing iron rods. The former duty was one and a-quarter cents per pound, while the new duty is only six-tenths of a cents, which is the same as that imposed on steel wire rods. He also thinks this provision of the tariff will destroy the industry of making iron chains.

THE spring elections in Ohio are near at hand and both parties have begun preparations for them. They will probably excite less attention this time than for some years past, everything pointing to a quiet campaign. There will doubtless be a straight fight between the Democrats and Republicans in most cases, the Independent, receiving little encouragement.

BY the report of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company it appears that the Delaware and Chesapeake branch has been run for the past year at a loss of $16,111.18. The running of the Queen Anne road incurred a loss to the company of $13,377.62. The great improvements on both branches are taken into account, and the ensuing year, when there will not be so much repairing to be done, the balance will stand on the other side.

THE sensational article in a Wilmington paper, which has been copied in one of the papers of this county, describing the doings of an intending marrying couple hailing from Denton in Dover, Del., last week, would be interesting reading if there were any truth in it. The writer located his people in the wrong place, or set out for the championship for Peninsula lying for 1883. The article first appeared in the Wilmington Republican.

A NEW weather prophet comes to the front, and his predictions for the spring and summer months are given in the letter of an Iowa correspondent to the Chicago Inter-Ocean. This gentleman believes that the movements and conditions of the atmosphere are subject to certain fixed laws, and he predicts that the spring will open remarkably early; that March will be warm and dry, April a genuine summer month, and May and June cool and rainy. There will be drought in March and April in Kansas, Nebraska, and Dakota, and almost incessant rains in May and June.

THE DOINGS of the session of Congress just closed finds very little commendation from the newspapers of the country. "The only honest praise," observes the Baltimore Day, "that can be given to the Republican majority in the House of Representatives for their actions during the session just ended is that a small number amongst them were scared by last fall's elections into deserting the more reckless of their fellow partisans who were disposed to persist in the course taken during the first session. But in many cases even this praise cannot be given, and the manner in which the whole party stood together, at the dictation of the iron and steel lobby, in supporting Speaker Keifer's outrageous assaults on parliamentary law and common sense, with a view to depriving the minority of their rights, was disgraceful and full of danger to the future, unless the Democrats in the next House have the magnanimity to abolish the iniquitous rules adopted to gag and bind them in the House which is now, according to its shameless presiding officer, 'known only in history.'"

WHILE the provisions of the act "to reduce revenue" go into effect generally on and after July 1st, exception is made in respect to the tariff duties upon sugar, which takes effect June 1st, and the internal revenue provisions relating to the reduction of the taxes on tobacco, snuff, and cigars, and the reduction of the special license taxes, which go into effect May 1st, with a provision that all claims for drawback on unbroken packages of tobacco, snuff, cigars, and cigarettes held by manufacturers or dealers at that date must be presented before July 1st.

THE JOURNAL tips its hat this morning, wearing a new spring suit. As our new dress is intended for the gaze of our readers, we hope our taste has offended none, but will strike all eyes with pleasure. We make this improvement in fulfillment of promises that our readers should have as good a paper as we could produce from their patronage. Improvement and progress is the spirit of the age and are the animating purposes that direct us. All progress is not improvement, but all improvement is indeed progress, and the happy combination of the two is the golden mean that should stimulate every honorable ambition.

THE Annapolis correspondent of the Baltimore American, under date of March 1, says: Judge Yellott delivered the opinion of the Court of Appeals to-day in the Carroll county case, where a farmer was induced to sign his name to an alleged agency for a washing-machine, and by this means was deceived into putting his name to a blank piece of paper which was filled up as a promissory note for $150. The note was sold to a third party, who sued on it. These facts were proved on the trial below, and the court below instructed the jury that the defendant had no evidence to prove he was not legally responsible. The court says that this ruling was in error, and reverses judgment below. It was the case of Reindollar vs. Flickinger.

THE LAST WEEK of the XLVIIth Congress was an active one. It was begun in the Senate by the passage of a number of bills; among them, one to punish the false personation of officers and employes of the United States; another, to prevent the importation of adulterated or spurious teas; and several others granting pensions. The joint resolution to provide for terminating the Hawaiian reciprocity treaty was reported favorably and referred to the Committee of Foreign Relations; but it was decided to postpone consideration of the Mexican commercial Treaty till December. On Tuesday, the 27th ult., notice was received from the House of nonconcurrence in the action of the Senate on the Internal Revenue Bill, and a conference was asked. This the Senate agreed to, and appointed a committee of conference. On Wednesday consideration of the bill to give increased pensions to disabled soldiers was resumed, and the bill with some amendments was passed. The Sundry Civil Bill was then taken up, its consideration continued thro' Thursday. On Friday the conference report on the Tariff Bill was received in the Senate and adopted. On Saturday Senator Davis resigned the presidency of the Senate, and Senator Edmunds was chosen to succeed him. A large number of bills were passed the same day, among them, one directing the Postmaster-General to readjust the salaries of certain postmasters, and another refunding to the State of Georgia money paid out for the common defence in 1877.

HON. ALEX. H. STEPHENS, who had been the Governor of Georgia for little over five months, but whose public life extends over a period of forty-six years, died Sunday morning at Atlanta. The career of Mr. Stevens was remarkable. Before the war he was for sixteen years a leading Whig Representative in the Congress of the United States. For eight years —1873 to 1882—he was a Democratic member of Congress. Before the war he opposed secession, and during the war he became the Vice-President of the Confederate States. He first entered public life as a member of the Georgia Legislature in 1836. That he had been for so many years in high official position is the best evidence of the high esteem in which he was held by the people of his State. His popularity was such that factious opposition only served to strengthen it. It was his great merit that he deserved the confidence he inspired. At his bachelor home in Crawfordville he kept open house, where at all times, when not engaged in his public duties, he dispensed a liberal hospitality. Diminutive in person, of frail health almost from childhood, and in later years so crippled by rheumatism as to require the constant services of an attendant and the use of a wheeled chair, any one who saw him, without close acquaintance with him, would have wondered how a man so insignificant in figure and so physically helpless could have so won the hearts of the people of his State that there was no office in their gift they were not ready to bestow on him, or any eulogy of his qualities as an orator and a statesman that they deemed too high for him.

MR. R. STOCKETT MATTHEWS, a prominent Blaine republican of Maryland (probably the most prominent) evidently has no very high appreciation of President Arthur. Hear him:

Speaking of the worthies of the revolution, he said the men of our times are but pigmies in comparison with the giants of those days. After running through the list of Presidents he said: "In speaking to you of Washington first and Arthur last, and without meaning to derogate from any of the good qualities of Mr. Arthur—and he possesses many, manliness, sincerity, ability to keep his own counsel, the will if not the ability to give the country better methods and to appoint better subordinates—I only bid you, as Hamlet said to his mother, 'Look on this picture and on that.

Mr. Bannon on State Politics.

Mr. Michael Bandon was at Barnum's Hotel last night, and while sitting in his room before a cheerful open-grate fire, with several acquaintances, he gave his views on the politicrl situation in Maryland. He said that there is a good deal of quiet inquiry going on among the democrats as to the best means to be adopted for securing success in the next campaign. The party troubles arose from the ambitious asperations of individuals, dating back to 1879. A number of competent county men, among them Governor Hamilton, have been mentioned as those from which to select a candidate for the governorship. Governor Hamilton does not want the renomination, but if it will serve to unite and strengthen the party, he can be induced to accept. Mr. Gorman and Mr. White are looking to the United States Senate, the easiest, most comfortable, and most eminently respectable place to which the politician can aspire. Governors have a fashion of making the executive chair a stepping-stone to the Senate, but Governor Hamilton has promised that he will always fill out the term in any office to which he is chosen by the people. Mr. Henry Seim in 1881, a Hamilton Democratic candidate for sheriff of Baltimore, received 6,000 votes. The independent judiciary ticket last fall had 32,000 votes, and the "regulars" or Whyte Democrats had 23,000. If 6,000 votes could be added to 23,000 regulars this year it would make the total 29,000, and 6,000 taken from the independent 32,000 would leave 26,000, giving the regulars 3,000 majority. Mr. Whyte must see that it would be self-interest for him to have Governor Hamilton in the Governor's seat another term instead of putting some one else there to become a third aspirant for the United States Senate. With Mr. Hamilton as Governor the senatorial fight would be between Mr. Gorman and Mr. Whyte, with the latter strongly entrenched behind the city patronage. Mr. Hamilton would strongly support any candidate for Governor who stood upon his platform, but Mr. Bannon said "he must be the next Governor, and we must keep him there, for he was the first to come out for reform in Maryland."—Sun.

After the Adjournment.

WASHINGTON, March 4.—After it was all over at the Capitol to-day, there was a gathering of choice spirits among the Republicans. It was a doleful meeting. They saw nothing in the past, present, or future to relieve the prospect. It was agreed that the work of the Congress which had just expired would not satisfy the country. The least satisfactory of all was the Tariff bill, which, if it should come to-morrow before the same body would fail by a stronger vote than that by which it passed yesterday. What to say to the country was a question which no one could answer. No excuse was pretended for the utter neglect of the interests of commerce, while at the same time the jobs of Chandler, Robeson, and Roach had received full attention.

If for the sins of commission and omission of the former session the country rose in condemnation, what in view of the sins of the present one will be the public judgment? No amount of artificial stimulants could dispel the influence of the retrospect, and the party was under a full sense of the condemnation which awaits them all, and the perfectly desperate state of the Republican organization.

The element among the Republicans in Congress from the first devoted to the purpose of preventing any tariff legislation whatever weakened, and at the last failed to accomplish its object. The pressure was too great for it to stand. When John Sherman deserted, it had no chance, but the record proves its existence and its purpose. The votes of Don Cameron in the Senate and Russell Errett in the House are the remnants of a band which started strong but rapidly dwindled to that little minority under the influence of a most powerful lobby during the closing hours. The Republicans separated generally dissatisfied with their work.

Sad End of an Elopement.

Several days ago Harry J. H. Johnston, employed in the gasworks at Uniontown, became acquainted with the daughter of the Rev. John Boyd, formerly pastor of the Baptist Church, and afterwards practicing as a physician. They married and removed to Philadelphia, and lived until a younger sister, Miss Sadie Boyd, paid them a visit. The wife soon found herself neglected, while Johnston was extremely attentive to his pretty sister-in-law. A quarrel and separation followed, the unhappy wife returning to her father, but it was not for several weeks that the sister followed her. On the 1st of June Miss Sadie escaped from her father's house, was met by the wayward son-in-law and the guilty pair started immediately for Pittsburgh. They stayed at a boarding-house in Allegheny, where Johnston secured work in a machine shop, and the two passed as husband and wife. During the early part of October last the alleged wife suddenly fell sick and died. The affair was commented upon severely by the neighbors, especially the husband's actions, as no one was admitted to the sick room during the woman's sickness and no definite cause given for her illness. The remains were immediately taken to Philadelphia by Johnston, where it is supposed he is now living, but how and where he finally disposed of them is still a mystery to people here, if not even to Dr. Boyd himself. A notice of her death appeared in the Uniontown papers, but it made no mention of when she died or what caused her death.

TALMAGE ON STEPHENS.—In his frail body sweetness of dispositiou was united to firmness of will. His rare mental powers had been improved by study and matured by the experience gathered in a public life running through nearly fifty years. His published speeches show the extent of his acquirements and that he took broad views of things. The bent of his mind was toward conservatism. It was this tendency which led him to oppose the secession of Georgia although he could not but be conscious that even his stirring oratory and great personal populariny would avail nothing as against the passion and excitement that were then overriding all prudential considerations. When the die was cast he went with his State, and from that time forward continued to the best of his ability. We know how to the last day of his life that State honored him in return, and now that he has died in harness, there is no living son of Georgia to take the peculiar place so long held by Mr. Stephens in the affections of the people. Such life-long devotion is rare at any time and among any people, and as Chatham once said, "Confidence is a plant of slow growth." Almost the last act of the House of Representatives yesterday was the unanimous passage of a resolution of regret at the annouucement of the death of Mr. Stephens, who had been for so many years an honored and distinguished member of that body.

Harry Gilmor Dead.

Col. Harry Gilmor, whose critical condition has been noticed in the JOURNAL, died Sunday of cancer in the face. Col. Gilmor won his military title, besides great renown, as a cavalry officer in the cause of the Southern Confederacy. He went South in August, 1861, and at Charlestown joined Capt. Frank Mason's company under Col. Ashby. When his command was in Maryland in 1862 he visited his father's home and was captured and imprisoned. He was exchanged in February, 1863. In July of the same year, with a few picked men, he burned the first bridge over the Gunpowder. On February 4th, 1865, he was taken prisoner in Virginia and sent to Boston, where he remained until after the close of the war, being released on parole July 24th.

For the last few years he has been engaged in the insurance business. Colonel Gilmor married Miss Mentoria N. Strong, daughter of Colonel Jasper Strong, United States army, a graduate of West Point in 1819. His wife died some time ago. He has three children living. In addition to the positions held in various organizations, he was also commander of all the Maryland cavalry.

The Oracle Speaks.

From the Washington Republican.

And wonderful to relate, Senator Gorman took it upon himself to make a speech. Bassett, Peabody and the other old patriarchs about the Senate chamber, who are fond of dwelling in recollection on the days when they used to pull little Arthur Gorman's ears when he was a Senate page, were astounded. The rotund Senator from Maryland has heretofore kept so quiet that none of the older statesmen dreamed he could talk. They looked upon him as a "very soft mark," as the boys say, and a half dozen of them went at him. To their amazement, the newly-fledged orator took them all into camp in fine style. When he had demolished the old warriors he cried for more. His appetite was not glutted with senatorial meat.

SPARING THE ROD.—The superintendent of public instruction in New Jersey has issued an order absolutely forbidding corporal punishment to children in th public schools under any circumstances. The superintendent evidently does not believe that by sparing the rod the child will be spoiled.

The General('s) Experience.

Perusing a recent copy of the Chicago Times, we observed the following statement from Genl. Leib of the Chicago Democrat: "St. Jacobs Oil is the remedy for rheumatism and neuralgia, without any manner of doubt; and people who suffer from these diseases ought to be made acquainted with that fact. Whenever I had occasion to use the Oil I found it all its proprietors claim for it.

Delaware has a Dr. Mustard in its Senate. He is an attraction.

Mr. A. B. Askew, late Assistant Postmaster at Baltimore, said some time ago: "Having had occasion to try Dr. Bulls Cough Syrup, I unhesitatingly pronounce it the best remedy I have ever used. A small bottle relieved me of a severe cold."

HERE AT LAST.

After Long and Weary Waiting Relief is Brought to Those Who Need it.

"Well, Pat," said an Orange county Physician to a complaining Irish patient some years ago, "for that pain in your breast you had better go home and put on a mustard plaster. I can't think this minute of any thing better. And by the way," added the doctor turning to a friend, "I wish somebody would invent a real good plaster—something actually helpful for such cases as Pat's. Maybe they will sometime, when it's too late for me to use it."

When BENSON'S CAPCINE POROUS PLASTER was placed on the market about ten years ago the doctor's hope became a fact. Because of the rare medicinal virtues inherent in it, it's rapid action and sure results, the Capcine is fast displacing the slow-acting plasters of former days, for all affections for which a plaster is ever applicable. Price 25 cents. In the middle of the genuine is cut the word CAPCINE.

TUTT'S EXPECTORANT

Is composed of Herbal and Mucilaginous products, which permeate the substance of the Lungs, expectorates the acrid matter that collects in the Bronchial Tubes, and forms a soothing coating, which relieves the irritation that causes the cough. It cleanses the lungs of all impurities, strengthens them when enfeebled by disease, invigorates the circulation of the blood, and braces the nervous system. Slight colds often end in consumption. It is dangerous to neglect them. Apply the remedy promptly. A test of twenty years warrants the assertion that no remedy has ever been found that is as prompt in its effects as TUTT'S EXPECTORANT. A single dose raises the phlegm, subdues inflammation, and its use speedily cures the most obstinate cough. A pleasant cordial, children take it readily. For Croup it is invaluable and should be in every family. In 25c. and $1 Bottles.
