

Pretty Men. Time was when girls strove to look pretty and men were content to look at them.

Perhaps there is nothing very wicked in all this. But there does seem to be connected with it a vast waste of hair-oil and a profuse expenditure of energy and muscular ability in the mustache-raising business.

We have before us in all our cities and towns a development of a "pretty man" in the shape of a sort of "supplement to the mustache."

There was a time, not long ago, when we made an intimate connection between the New Englander and the ripe pumpkin; but we think that there has latterly come to be quite as intimate and intimate connection between a Maryland youth and Anne Arundel squash.

Humorous. It is more blessed to give than receive the itch.

The angry cook "blew up" the fire because it would not burn.

It is not always the flower of the family that furnishes the bread.

All who advertise do not get rich, but previous few get rich without it.

It was an apple that made Adam tell; and the same fruit made William Tell.

"Board wanted" — as the young lady said when she came to a mud puddle in the sidewalk.

There is many a man whose highest ambition is to successfully conduct a seat on a nail keg in a corner grocery.

What is the difference between the Prince of Wales and a lot of water? One is heir to the throne, and the other is thrown to the air.

The new telephone will transmit a whisper seven hundred and fifty miles. This enables a man to flirt with another man's wife out of pistol range.

Somebody substituted a pile of organs for doughnuts on a Vermont railway restaurant counter, and they were two-thirds eaten before anybody discovered what had occurred.

They are building tenement houses so high in New York that the man who occupies the top floor is obliged to start for home at 9 o'clock in the evening in order to reach his bed by midnight.

It is said that "two hundred years ago the Indians indulged in Turkish baths." Yes, it must have been all of two hundred years ago. To judge from the ones we see later tonight it might have been a thousand years ago.
