THE LOCAL DEPARTMENT.

Schedule Changes. — Attention is called to the changes made in the schedule of Maryland, and Chester river Steamboat Companies, and Wheeler's Transportation Line, as they appear in this week's issue.

Quick Work.—The corn crop raised on Mr. Wm. S. Goslin's farm, near Federalsburg, was gathered in, husked, shelled and marketed last week, and Mr. Goslin holds a check for the amount. Number of bushels, 900. Mr. Goslin is a most progressive merchant and farmer.

Jerry Johnson, a former barkeeper on the steamer, was also fined $200 for one violation. Messrs. Russum & Lewis, counsel for the accused, have been granted an appeal and the cases will be taken to the Court of Appeals.

"Modern Delusions."—Hon. George Colton's lecture on "Modern Delusions," in the Town Hall, on Monday evening, attracted a large and appreciative audience. He led his hearers from one "delusion" to another, taking up successively air castles, roller skating, dancing and dudes. Fun, narrative, pleasing anecdotes and matrimonial advice helped to make up the literary treat. Mr. Colton's sketches of Eastern travels were given in a racy, easy manner, and with a beauty of diction that lent to facts the charm of fiction. The lecture was one and a half hours long.

Fracas at Ridgely.—On Wednesday evening, during a exhibition at Ridgely, by Dan Ducello's traveling company, Ducello ordered off a crowd of young men, who were sittihg on a fence at the back of the tent, interfering with the ropes. They left, but soon several of them returned in company with Mr. John Lynch, who was an innocent party, and knew nothing of the pranks his associates had been playing. Ducello again rushed from the tent, and the young men, with the exception of Lynch, ran away. Ducello struck Lynch upon the head with a club, making a long, deep cut, and knocking him senseless. Dr. Herr dressed the wound. The patient is lying in a critical condition, and is suffering great pain. Justice Mancha held Ducello to $100 bail to appear before Justice Hutson yesterday.

Barn Burned.—A barn on Col. J. M. McCarter's farm, near Preston, was burned Wednesday morning last. Smoke was discovered issuing from the building, and an examination showed that the fire had orignated in a lot of blade fodder. The building with its contents of hay and fodder was entirely consumed. The cause of the fire is not known. The property destroyed was valued at $400. The Colonel's loss is only $200, as he holds an insurance policy for the same amount.

Valliant, who recently moved to Cambridge from this county, and who was engaged in building a residence in that place, upon which he probably overworked himself, was taken ill on Saturday night. On Monday he became unconscious and Dr. Steele was summoned, and found him with every symptom of typhoid-malarial fever of a malignant type. He was sent to the House of Correction for two years.

A Choptank Mystery. — A coroner's jury has been engaged at Oxford since Sunday last in investigating the circumstances attending the death, by drowning, of a man whose dead body was brought to the surface of the water by the dredge of the sloop Fleetwing, while the crew of that vessel were engaged in scraping for oysters on the "sands" of Tilghman's Island, on Saturday last. The body, it has been ascertained, was that of a young Irish sailor named "Aleck," who a few days previously had arrived at Cambridge from Baltimore, and shippped as a hand on the sloop Daniel A. Nearing, under the command of Capt. John R. Taylor. The sloop Nearing arrived in Cambridge from her cruise down the Choptank on Friday, and Captain Taylor on his arrival at once reported that the young sailor "Aleck"—the only name he was known by—had jumped overboard from the vessel and was drowned. The captain said every effort had been made to rescue the unfortuna te man, but without avail. The captain added that he knew nothing of the reason the man had for committing suicide.

Other facts, however, have since come to light, which show that the captain's first account of the affair was not true. At the inquest on Saturday witnesses came forward who testified they saw a scuffle on the Nearing between two men, one of whom went from the aft part of the vessel forward and beat and choked the other one, and that the latter finally fell or was thrown overboard. When this evidence was brought to the attention of Capt. Taylor on Monday and he was asked what he had to say about it, he acknowled that he had a difficulty with the young sailor because, he said, the latter refused to work. He also admitted that he struck the sailor, but denied that he threw him overboard, and says that it was after the fight, and after he (the captain) had again gone aft, that the young man jumped overboard. Capt. Taylor says his crew can substantiate these statements, and he has secured the services of Col. Sullivane to defend him in the matter, and has gone to Oxford to place his version of the affair before the coroner's jury.

Wanamaker's.

PHILADELPHIA, October 5, 1885.

A quick survey of blankets. Let's be careful of words.

Family blankets begin at canton-flannel, $1 a pair for a single bed. It is labeled "Scotch" with the motto "Dinna ye hear the slogan?"—a manufacturers' lie—no matter. [These lies are a trifle inconvenient to us who have no use for them. They're a serious inconvenience to you when a store adopts them. Here, of course, you pay no attention to labels.]

Thed cotton-and-wool from $2 to $12 a pair—some extravagant beautiful blankets have cotton warp. We ought perhaps to say that experienced housekeepers by no means despise a cotton warp; they consider a cotton-warp blanket better than all-wool if the wool is such as low-price blankets are made of. If the wool is thoroughly prepared, all-wool is the proper material; but this relates to rather costly blankets. [Cotton-warp blankets, remember, are wool, nine-tenths of the weight.]

All-wool from $3.50 to $28. If you want our opinion as to where a blanket begins to be better all-wool, we say at $10 a pair or thereabout. Not everybody agrees with even so loose a statement as that. Interpret it very loosely. We sometimes strongly commend a $5, $6, $7 or $8 all-wool blanket.

Family blankets are: White with borders of stripes or figures or both; pink or blue with borders picked out with white or a darker shade or both in stripes or figures or both; scarlet and blue with borders of black in stripes or figures or both; and figured or dotted all over.

Figures in blankets are new. The figures are woven, same as in dress-stuffs; but the teazling, to comb the wool into smoothness and softness to give it a rich and luxurious surface, blends adjacent colors and softens the color-lines.

Blankets for wrappers are plaid, or figured, or dotted, or striped all over, or mixtures with or without contrasting borders of stripes or figures or both. $3.75 to $20.

Blankets for sleeping-cars, more like rugs than blankets, $5.25 to $10 each—not in pairs.

Blankets for cradles and cribs, all-wool, $1.20 to $6.25 a pair. If the choice depends upon the baby—a sensible baby—a sensible baby would rather have the $1.20 blanket, or a larger one, or two of them if his sleeping-room is going to be cold; for it's light and open—the wind will whistle thro' it and reach its inmost fibres and freshen them when you hang it out to air. But if the baby is somebody else's baby somebody else may think a gift should be pretty and rich—then of course it's none of the baby's business.

Among all these are extravagant blankets, mostly American, fifteen styles or so from abroad. [We don't go abroad for good blankets—we go for variety. Certain styles you wouldn't like to miss can only be got abroad.]

Car-drivers use a lap-blanket—75 cents a pair—they throw it over their horses sometimes and save them a shiver. Good, proper stable blankets—some folks buy them for horses who haven't any horses; good enough for servants, they think. [We have a whole stock of hoase-blankets not touched on here.]

Good gray blankets, good for whatever use permits no thought of waste, for $1.50 to $2.25. We have sold three tons of them within a week. Poor people buy them—perfectly proper blankets. Rich poople buy them—and give them away. Asylums, hospitals, prisons—the government buys them for all sorts of uses.

We have kept for the last a bit of bed-blanket wisdom worth more than color or figure, or fineness of wool, or finish, or any non-essential—Size is all-important. A stingy blanket is any blanket too small to cover the bed and tuck in at the sides—no matter how rich or beautiful. The part that keeps you safe and warm while you sleep is the middle; but generous sides have got to be there—wide enough to tuck in and leave you room to turn and roll about in your sleep. You know the size of your beds. Sheets are generally wide enough. Blankets are almost always stingy. There wouldn't be "business" for half the doctors, if blankets were wide enough. Undertaking itself would have to wait for people to catch up with its overstock, if blankets were wide enough. You know the truth of what we are saying as well as we do. But perhaps we're exceeding our province. What business is it of ours, if you choose to put your money in beauty of color and fineness of wool on the top of the bed to find it on the floor in the morning—and then call the doctor?

One thing more; Blankets are bought by the pound by merchants. First comes quality of wool; next the making. These two fix the price by the pound. The size and thickness fix the number of pounds, and the price of the blanket. When you compare two blankets, weigh them, look at them; feel of the wool, but weigh them. Not one merchant in ten knows enough of blankets to know what make he is selling. Wholesale dealers disguise them under misleading names.

Our blankets are lower in price than last year all through the stock. Every blanket is lower, lower by five to twenty per cent. We have nearly two hundred different sorts of blankets. Many of them are exactly the same from year to year. We know them as well as you know your children's faces. The blanket we sold last year for $9 ($1 a pound) we are selling this year for $7.20 (eighty cents a poond). Another was last year $6 (eighty-five cents a pound), now is $5 (less than seventy-two cents a pound). And so all through.

It is yours to look out for size and style. It is ours to see than the price is right. We have done our part. There may be a rise in the market. It isn't unlikely. But there's no occasion to think about that at present.

TO THE PUBLIC.

The newspapers of the three counties have already announced to the public that we have sold our interest in the firm of Jarrell, Nichols & Cox, and bought of Walter H. Thompson & Co. their entire stock and fixtures. This puts us in possession of the largest and finest storeroom on the shore, it being 35 feet wide by 125 feet in length. At the rear of the storeroom is a ladies' waiting room, nicely carpeted and furnished, and fitted up with all conveniences.

Our aim in making this change is that we may be better able to supply our friends and the public generally, and we wish to make our storeroom so attractive that no one can pass it by. We are now making ready for our and as soon as it arrives we shall notify you through these columns. We intend to show you the finest line of ladies dress goods, cloaks, hosiery, gloves, underwear, corsets, oil cloths, and ready made clothing ever before exhibited in this town.

To the friends and patrons of our old firm and also to those of Walter H. Thompson & Co. we wish to state that you still favor us with your patronage; we shall use our best endeavors to make everything pleasant and satisfactory to you, and we can promise you a much better selection for the future from which to make your purchases.

To all those who have in the past and are in the present favoring us with their patronage, we here return thanks. Our motto shall at all times be the same as that of our predecessors—

"We Can Not Be Undersold."

Very Respectfully,

JARRELL AND NICHOLS.
