DENTON JOURNAL.

Saturday Morning, October 24, 1885.

☞Items of news from all parts of the county solicited under this head.

THE LOCAL DEPARTMENT.

Personal Mention.—Miss Lizzie Willis, daughter of Rev. J. S. Willis, of Milford, and her cousin, Mr. Townsend, of the same place, spent Tuesday at the Brick Hotel.

—Messrs. L. M. Keedy and Howard Bryant, of Hagerstown, were the guests of the latter's father during the early part of the week.

—Mr. Jas. I. Lednum has removed to Bethlehem.

Burrsville Items. — Mr. Frank Cahall, near Burrsville, the young man who had an arm broken by a fall from a chestnut tree on Saturday afternoon last, and who at the time it was feared was otherwise severely hurt, is improving rapidly, and will soon be out again.

—The Wide Awake base ball club, of Ridgely, will play the Burrsville nine on the ground of the latter club this afternoon. Game called at 1 o'clock.

Preston Items.—The firm of B. W. Wright & Bro., engaged in threshing, shelling, and lumber sawing, is making arrangements for a dissolution of partnership. Mr. B. W. Wright will continue the saw mill, and the junior partner, Mr. Finley Wright, takes command of the traction engines and threshes grain, shells corn, hulls clover, etc. They are energetic young men and deserve success.

—The politicians have had it lively since Saturday. Sanks, Esq., (colored) came to conquer and was conquered! The arguments used are unknown to this writer, but Sanks, Esq., was afterwards wasn't. Requiescat. If one Sanks from Baltimore makes so much ado in town what is to become of us when the anti-bribery folks and the Democrats come? is what we are asking each other.

Lawlessness at Preston. — A most outrageous occurence is reported to have taken place at Preston on Saturday evening, the 17th inst., which has deeply grieved the good and law-abiding citizens of the town. A public meeting had been advertised, to be addressed by one Sanks, a Baltimore colored orator, in the interest of an Independent Republican ticket. A reliable correspondent writes: "A body of politicians took possession of Sanks on his way to the meeting, and Sanks says threatened his life if he attempted to speak. It is known that one of the principal actors in this disgraceful affair went into one of the stores and purchased a rope, and another one reminded Sanks that if he attempted to speak according to the programme, he would be 'egged,' and he had better desist." Such lawless acts of intimimidation, in this county, we are glad to report seldom occur, and the offenders in this instance should be justly punished.

Obituary.—Mr. Jeremiah L. Nichols died near Bethlehem, in the 4th district, on the morning of Wednesday, October 14th, of cancer of the stomach and intestines, aged about 47 years. In July Mr. Nichols, accompanied by one of his physicians, visited Baltimore and submitted to a surgical operation for the removal of a large external tumor, hoping thereby to find relief. The operation, though successful in the removal of the tumor and the healing of the wound, could not arrest the internal development of the malignant growth and death soon ended his sufferings. The deceased was a good and useful citizen. In all the relations of son, husband, father, friend and citizen he was faithful and true.

The vicinity of Bethlehem has been called upon in the course of a few short months to follow three very useful citizens to the grave. Their places are difficult to fill.

—Mrs. Maggie Walters, wife of Mr. G. Walters, formerly of Tuckahoe Neck, a sister of Mr. George W. Smith, died at her home in Queen Anne's county on Tuesday last. Interment took place on Thursday afternoon at Hillsborough cemetery.

Church Items.—Rev. T. O. Ayres preached at Thawley's M. E. church, near Hickmantown, on Tuesday evening last. There is an interesting revival meeting in progress there conducted by the pastor, Rev. G. W. Bowman.

—The "Glad Tidings Day" or "Harvest Home" was appropriately observed in the Potter's Landing M. E. church on Sunday last. The house was nicely trimmed with flowers, intermingled with the products of the land, conspicuous among which was a mammoth cabbage, the largest ever seen here. The regular "Glad Tidings" service was well carried out. Following this were suitable addresses delivered by the pastor and Superintendent Williamson. The collection was also a success, amounting to $24.62.

—Rev. S. B. Southerland, D. D., will lecture at Thawley's, Tuckahoe Neck, on Monday evening next at 7 o'clock, and at Burrsville the evening following at the same hour. Subject—"Rambles in Europe." Admission 25 cents. Proceeds for the benefit of the M. P. parsonage.

—Rev. T. O. Ayres has accepted an invitation to make a temperance address from a Scriptural standpoint in the M. E. church, Hillsborough, on Thursday evening, the 29th inst. All are invited; admission free.

—The P. E. church is undergoing repairs, and until further notice, service will be held in the Court House at the usual hour.

—Rev. R. S. Cunningham, of Hillsborough, will preach in the Southern Methodist church, Easton, to-morrow morning and night.

—Dr. S. B. Southerland will preach at Burrsville on Sunday next at 10.30 a. m., and at Thawley's at 7 p. m.

—The Rev. B. W. Waters, of Easton, will preach in the M. E. church South, Hillsboro', next Sunday morning and evening.

—The third quarterly conference of the Burrsville M. E. circuit will be held at Central church, to-morrow.

Campaign Jottings. — The bouquet presented to Dr. Goldsborough Saturday evening last, by the ladies of Burrsville, was the handsomest of the season.

—In the Republican camp this week the only noteworthy movement is the frequent consultations of party leaders. What troubles them?

—All the Democratic candidates were present at the Greensborough meeting except Messrs. Gadd, Steele and Mancha.

—Caroline has now five candidates for Register of Wills. Next.

Dashes Here and There.—Orphans' court will meet on Tuesday next.

—Don't fail to attend the grand opening of Jarrell & Nichols. It will be continued Monday, October 26, Tuesday, October 27 and Wednesday, October 28. The grandest display of dry goods ever shown in Easton will be made, consisting of $5,000 in ready made dresses, ranging in price from $8 to $150. Five hundred ladies' coats, from $2 to $150. The opening will be a great event in Easton's mercantile history.

—Jesse L. Woodcock, who several years ago was convicted in our court and sent to the penitentiary for arson, was arrested in Philadelphia last week charged with using the United States mails for fraudulent purposes. Woodcock, under the name of Carpenter, got up some kind of a matrimonial scheme and flooded the mails with advertising circulars. He was taken before the United States Commissioner and held in $1,000 bail for a future hearing.

—Charles Higgins, who was recently fined $200 for violation of the local option law at the Denton wharf, is barkeeper on the steamer Joppa, and not the Ida as the papers reported.

—Messrs. J. B. and E. H. Brown, trustees, sold Saturday at Templeville, the farm of the late James H. Temple, containing 45 acres, to Chas. W. Smith, at $20 per acre, aggregating $900.

—Attend the mass meeting at Federalsburg this afternoon. Hon. Chas. H. Gibson and other speakers will address the meeting.

Democratic Meetings. — At Potter's Landing on Friday evening of last week a goodly number listened to the earnest addresses of Mr. M. B. Stephens and Col. P. W. Downes.

The meeting at Greensborough Saturday afternoon was well attended. At 2.30 p. m. the meeting was called to order, and Hon. Geo. H. Moore was unanimously chosen President and J. P. Manlove vice-president. The venerable president made a short opening address, which was listened to with marked attention. The speakers of the day were Messrs. Henry R. Lewis, Urie Townsend and Col. P. W. Downes.

The most enthusiastic meeting of the week was held at Burrsville, Saturday evening. The speakers stand was erected in front of Wm. P. Stafford's store, and around it hung Chinese lanterns and gay banners. The first address was made by Dr Goldsborough, the Democratic candidate for Senator. His eloquent appeal of nearly an hour seemed scarcely half that time. He was followed by H. R. Lewis and Urie Townsend, and lastly by Col. Downes. Though it was 10.30 when Colonel Downes sat down, the interest in the meeting had continued unabated, and the speakers were frequently interrupted by rounds of applause. A handsome bouquet was presented to each speaker; also to N. A. Hutson and Elon S. Hobbs, who addressed the Burrsville Club meeting the week before.

The first meeting of this week and one of the most successful of the campaign was held at Smithville on Monday evening. Mr. William Lewis presided. Messrs. N. A. Hutson, H. R. Lewis and Col. P. W. Downes were the speakers of the evening. The following resolutions were unanimously adopted at the close of the meeting:

Resolved (1), That this convention heartily endorse Hon. A. P. Gorman for United States Senator, and Hon. Henry Lloyd for Governor of the State of Maryland.

Resolved (2), That we pledge ourselves to the hearty support of the entire Democratic ticket of Caroline county.

Meetings were held at Hillsboro' and Bethlehem on Wednesday evening. Notwithstanding the disagreeable weather, large and enthusiastic audiences greeted the speakers at both places. Mr. Jas. McNash was chosen president of the Hillsboro' meeting, and addresses were made by Geo. S. Lightner, of Talbot, Elon S. Hobbs, Dr. Goldsborough, John Rumbold, P. W. Downes and Dr. Reynolds. At Bethlehem James Parrott presided and N. A. Hutson and Henry R. Lewis were the speakers.

TUESDAY IN DENTON.

The Anti-Bribery Mass Meeting — A Fourth Ticket.

The anti-bribery mass meeting which has been so extensively advertised for several weeks, was held in the Masonic Hall, Denton, on Tuesday afternoon last. The enlivening strains of the Smyrna Cornet Band gave the meeting a martial air, and imported speakers helped to draw a large, inquisitive audience. The hall was beautifully decorated, showing the works of hands fairer than those of the third ticket men. A large flag was twined around the pillar in front of the stage, and others hung in graceful folds from the walls on either side, in which nestled artistically wrought bouquets. From the centre of the wall to the rear, hung a large picture of Washington, to which each speaker took occasion to appeal in the course of his remarks.

Col. R. C. Carter, a veteran Democrat, was made chairman, and while he presided with dignity.

Mr. Howard Bryant made an irrelevant, though well delivered, address of an anti-Gorman-Higgins-Thomas character, incidentally touching upon the evils of bribery, and the wicked Greensborough editor.

Hon. John F. Dawson was next introduced, and in a neat speech defined his position, referring to "the Democratic party with its proud record," and his previous elations to that party. Mr. Elias V. Williamson followed in a strong speech denouncing the Republican moneyed ticket and stated that had the Republican nominees taken the same course as did the Democratic candidates, there would in his opinion have been no occasion for a third ticket. He paid his respects in no gentle manner to the Union editor. As Mr. Williamson sat down the band struck up "Hail Columbia," after which Mr. L. M. Keedy of Hagerstown spoke. He expounded the constitution after the most orthodox fashion, and being a Republican, treated nationaland State matters from a Republican standpoint. But, as outsiders are apt to do when reviewing local issues of which they have no definite knowledge, Mr. Keedy made a pardonable blunder in respect to the number of voters in the county. He urged the people to vote the anti-bribery ticket, for several reasons, chief among which was that an anonymous correspondent had said in a communication to the JOURNAL it would "draw the best thinking men from both parties." This he attacked as an editorial.

The afternoon meeting closed with a short speech by Rev. Alfred Smith. A number of ladies were present, and rewarded the speakers with handsome bouquets, which were acknowledged in appropriate words.

In the evening Messrs. Warren, J. W. Bryant and Jarrell addressed the audience.

While the Town Hall was thus overflowing with anti-bribery sentiments, a novel convention was being held in the court house. Prompted by the unfair treatment of the colored voters by the last Republican convention, Mr. William T. Kelly, a staunch Republican and a conscientious Quaker of the Fourth district, issued some time ago a call to the colored voters to meet in convention at the court house on Tuesday. By a system of intimidation which the regulars had inaugurated only a part of the colored people in sympathy with the movement dared to put in appearance. A large number had, however, assembled. Mr. Kelly announced that the following persons would accept positions on an independent ticket: For Senator, Dr. E. E. Atkinson; House of Delegates, J. H. Hubbard and J. R. Webb; clerk, L. D. Kelly; county commissioners, J. M. Jones, James Webb, Perry Canada; register of wills, P. J. Webb; county treasurer, Israel Collins; sheriff, P. N. Collins. This was regarded as a very bad move, and the regulars present were sorely angered. Mr. Tilghman Nuttle was called to the chair. Mr. Sanks, a copper-colored negro orator, whose image had driven sleep from many Republican eyes since his advent in Caroline, was ushered in and introduced. He spoke a few minutes, stating substantially that unforeseen events would prevent him from making a political speech. He would again visit Caroline before election day and work for the regular ticket.

Mr. Kelly attempted to make a speech, but was repeatedly interrupted. The crowd got boisterous, and the speaker, unable to be heard in the din of the excited crowd, retired from the room. Col. A. J. Willis attacked the fourth ticket movement in bitter terms. He continued his speech and became much excited. Some of the colored people also lost their heads and fain would hug the doughty Colonel in his quixotic onslaught. The chairman's announcement that the meeting stood adjourned was a signal for a general huzza, after which the meeting broke up.

Mr. Kelley circulated a poster in which Sank's action was exposed. These bills were collected and torn up by the dispersing crowd.

MARRIED.

COHEE—COHEE.—On October 21, at the parsonage, by Rev. A. J. Walters, Martin L. Cohee to Miss Lizzie H. Cohee, both of this county.

Fitness of the Democratic Candidates.

To the Editor of THE JOURNAL.

HILLSBORO', MD., Oct. 22, '85.

I have resided here for a number of years, and I can safely assert that I have never before witnessed so much harmony as that which now pervades the Demoratic ranks. Every passing day confirms us in the belief that the Democratic convention acted wisely in selecting for us our present standard-bearers.

Mr. Eli S. Smith, our candidate for sheriff, a near relative of a distinguished Senator of a sister State, and whose honored name he bears, is a gentleman of high social standing here; and will receive the entire support of his party. And well-worthy is he of that support! Honest and uncompromising in his Democratic principles, he has, in the past, labored earnestly for the success of his party. True, he may be, comparatively speaking, a poor man, with quite a family to support, yet we can not agree with the Denton Libeller, miscalled the American Union, that he for that reason is unqualified for the office of sheriff. Perhaps Mr. Todd will learn, ere long, that it is not the property of the best of us to be perfect, and that he himself is not wholly impregnable. Mr. Smith will make a good and faithful officer.

I have heard many glowing tributes paid to the exalted merits and efficiency of Mr. Gadd; but it was reserved for me to hear, the other day, an expression which completely epitomizes and exhausts the language of truth and eulogy. Mr. Sparklin remarked, in his quiet, peculiar, and unostentatious way: "If we turn Mr. Gadd out we can benefit but one man; and in benefiting that one man we would do a very great injury to the whole people." True, indeed. The clerk's office is emphatically the people's office. There are deposited all the records, our muniments of title. It is not at all probable that the people will put Mr. Stevens there. It is not a supposable case. Were they to do so they could not keep him there. A rich man himself, and the son-in-law of a far richer man, the salary of that office doubled and quadrupled many times could not induce him to forego his customary out-of-door exercises for the confinement which the office requires. He certainly does not confine himself to his store, but in the main entrusts it to his clerks. So would he do were he elected clerk. His clerks and not the people's clerk would have to perform the duties of that office. And the people know that clerks are most often irresponsible and insolent when "dressed in a little brief authority."

Mr. Gadd is of very great service to the people in that office. He often saves the people the expense of feeing lawyers. He is, in truth, the people's lawyer. And he is, in fact, on account of his intimate knowledge of the intricate duties of that office of very great service to the lawyers themselves. Mr. Gadd is not running for Congress nor for the office of President. He is running for the office of clerk to the circuit court in and for Caroline county. No national issue is involved. The office is merely local. These things the people know, and, knowing, say:

"Let each man, to his post assigned by nature, take his part to act;
Then few causes shall we find to call each man we meet a quack."

CONSERVATIVE.

One View of the Anti-Bribery Meeting.

To the Editor of THE JOURNAL.

GREENSBORO', MD., Oct. 21, '85.

It was said by some Grecian sage of old that no one day produces anything like that of another. Without affirming that proposition as correct, or denying it as erroneous, we are content to regard it as being, like most other maxims, about half true and the other half false. Certain it is, however, that the day which gave form and shape to the anti-bribery movement in this county has no precedent in the knowledge of our oldest inhabitant. Nor is it less certain that our entire political history can "parallel no fellow" to it.

Actuated, like very many others, to see and hear something new, I rode down to Denton yesterday, and for a few moments gave earnest attention to one of their candidate speakers. A heterogeneous throng of 'black spirits' and white, white spirits and gray, with mouths open and ears erect, seemed to be completely electrified by his "words of learned length and thundering sound." Like all new converts he was enthusiastic in his new faith, and loud in his execration of his old habits and ways. He told us he heretofore been identified with the Republican party, but now the huge scales having fallen from his eyes he could see that his duty to himself, to his country, and to his God required that he should be found at all times hereafter opposing its corrupt practices and plans. Let us trust that his conversion is honest, and that, sooner than return to his unhallowed ways, he may be found seeking recruits for "him who waged impious war and battle proud 'gainst heaven."

Whence is the strength of this anti-bribery ticket, so-called, to be drawn? The answer is easy—almost entirely from the Democratic party. We all know that the Republican party is composed almost entirely of negroes; that there are scarcely enough white skinned Republicans in that brotherhood to fill the offices when that party is successful. Surely Barnum would pay a Jumbo price for any darkey who would support the movement.

And now, Mr. "Reflex," Mr. J. W. Bryant, the prime mover, the bellwether in this great work of purification and reform, who are you that Democrats should yelp after and blindly follow? It will be not only long after the clouds roll by, but after the heavens themselves shall have melted with fervent heat when we shall be found following you in your foolish course. Aye, sir, in times past we followed you right, but wrong we follow you never! We indeed elevated you to offices of honor and profit, and now with censuring pen and tongue you characterize our principles and ways (and yours, too, then) as all in toto wrong. We do not propose to follow you through the offices of Governor and State Senator to the Presidential chair; or, what is more plausible to your "heat-oppressed brain" help you to that exalted position by one sure and easy step.

I very well understand that what ever is morally wrong can in no sense be right. But, Mr. Bryant, assuming it to be true that some poor white man does receive money or some other present when he votes the Democratic ticket—his honest sentiments—would that, per se, constitute a moral wrong? Because a very few brutes, miscalled men, in this county whip and otherwise abuse their wives does that prove the marriage institution wrong? Let me tell you, sir, the ingenuity of man has never yet devised a perfect system. And yet the gentleman has classified that poor man—a man of the most indigent circumstances with perhaps a suffering family—as one of immortal "nine hundred." He likewise regards such isolated cases as sufficient cause for the disruption of the Democratic party! He may know "what's what" better than the most of us, but we have yet to learn that the giving and receiving of gifts is morally wrong. We (I) do not think it wrong to make a present to a voter voting his sentiments and my sentiments and thereby prevent his voting wrongly. But if wrong, it does not follow that it is the crime of crimes. A greater man than you, Mr. B., has told us that to do a great right we may do a little wrong and "curb the cruel devil of his will." But few, indeed, in this county vote contrary to their sentiments for money. Fully ninety-nine in every hundred of the white people are by instinct and education Democrats. We can not therefore join with you in your wholesale slanders and libels upon our fellow citizens. We are told that while Napoleon held temporary possession of Moscow many loitering Russians were caught and a brand of infamy imprinted on their hands. Stung to the quick they instantly seized hatchets and severed the offending limbs from their bodies as hateful things. Paralyzed then be our right hand ere we cast a ballot for any man on that anti-bribery ticket! Were we to do so greater far would be our badge of crime than was that of the poor Russians, because self imposed. No, Mr. Bryant, we can take no stock in your pet enterprise. That ice is too slippery for us to slide on. A Democratic vote for your ephemeral party would be one vote lost, worse than lost to our grand old party. We are told that corruption, like the sun, stalks abroad all over the world. Your question is one purely of morals. And yet you propose to run the whole governmental machinery against a few who receive presents to vote their own cherished sentiments.

What will you do with those fellows who hop, skip and jump with cricket-like dexterity from one party the other; parties whose principles are as far removed from each other "as from the centre thrice to the utmost pole?" What will you do with those office-seekers, who take illegal fees, and with those who sell themselves while in office? If you propose to reform the world why not take Hamlet's advice and "reform it altogether." Sir, you commence at the wrong end. Release your bulldog grip and take hold at the other end. Educate, if you can, those unfortunate creatures. You have the authority of the great Burke that "education is the cheap defence of nations." "It is base to deceive, but baser to be deceived."

My brother Democrats, Mr. A. B. C., or whoever you be, deceive not yourselves! Vote not the anti-bribery ticket! A vote for that party is a vote lost to your party, and fully a half vote given to the Republican party. Were you to do so, "all great Neptune's ocean" could never wash your guilty stain away. Let not Mr. Bryant choose your companions for you. His Republican Fridays are of the most pronounced type. They are dyed in the wool. They can no more change their political complexion than the cameleopard can change his spots. If, unfortunately, we shall ever be doomed to fall into the lowest regions, we desire to make but one fall of it. It is not our wish to lodge temporarily on any purgatorial anti-bribery platform.

Bye, bye, Mr. Bryant. You will soon have been there. We congratulate you that while the grade from your present point to the Republican camp is abrupt, it is nevertheless easy, smooth and short. DEMOCRAT.

Wanamaker's.

PHILADELPHIA, October 19, 1885.

Beginning in 1876, we have had for several years the largest shoe-trade in the world. For a year or two at first we dealt chiefly in the lower grades. As our general trade improved our shoe-trade grew in quality as well as in volume. There was a time when we got to keeping about every kind that anybody imagined he or she wanted. It was then that we reached the distinction of having the largest shoe-trade in the world.

Four years ago we began to drop the lower grades and to narrow our stock to the actual needs of people. We have gradually dropped and dropped since then, until we are able to say that we haven't a shoe in the store that isn't useful and proper to somebody—not a kind of shoes that somebody hadn't better wear.

Every fashionable shape and kind of course, many that fashion permits, and some that continue in spite of fashion—these we keep. What we have dropped are mainly shams, false leather, work disguised with the skill of a counterfeiter—shoes that are made to cheat with and not to wear. There are many kinds of such—very good-looking shoes, some of them—made for short-sighted merchants, not for the wearers.

But thousands on thousands of people buy these shams of shoes. The industry of making them is an enormous one. Ninety-nine in a hundred shoedealers sell them. You can't judge leather. More than half of you, distrustful of shoes in general, grudge the necessary price of proper shoes. It takes some pluck in a merchant to tell you the truth.

We count it one of our most signal achievements that we have turned every imitation shoe out of the store—keep nothing but honest leather and work—and yet have lost no trade. We didn't do it suddenly. It took us three or four years to bring our standard up to where we intend to keep it. It is success enough that during this time of contention with the less intelligent half of our own customers trade has not diminished.

It was necessary to relate this history to convey an adequate notion of what our shoe-trade is.

Every sort of reasonable want in shoes we provide for—ready-made and to measure. There isn't a shoe-store anywhere that provides so fully for all sorts of real wants. There isn't one anywhere that so sharply refuses the demands of mistaken people for shams. Nothing below the level of honest leather and work in our stock.

If you find yourself wanting a lower-priced shoe than we have in the store you are trying to throw your money away. We are not going to help you.

Pay more money and get a cheaper shoe.
