POETRY.

GREEK FUNERAL CHANT.

BY MRS. HEMANS.

A wail was heard around the bed, the death-bed of the young!
Amidst her tears the Funeral Chant a mourn-ful Mother sung.
—'Ianthis! dost thou sleep?—thou sleep'st!—but this is not the rest,
The breathing and the rosy calm I have pil-low'd on my breast!
I lull'd thee not in this repose, Ianthis! my sweet son!
As in thy laughing childhood's days by twi-light I have done.
How is it that I bear to stand and look upon thee now?
And that I die not, seeing death on thy pale glorious brow?

'I look upon thee, thou that wert of all most fair and brave!
I see thee wearing still too much of beauty for the grave!
Though mournfully thy smile is fix'd, and heavily thine eye
Hath shut above the falcon-glance that in it lov'd to lie,
And fast is bound the springing step, that seem'd on breezes borne,
When to thy couch I came and said—'Wake, hunter, wake! 'tis morn!'
—Yet lovely art thou still, my flower, un-touch'd by slow decay;
And I, the wither'd stem, remain!—I would that grief might slay!

'Oh! ever when I meet thy look, I knew that this would be!
I knew too well that length of days was not a gift for thee!
I saw it in thy kindling cheek, and in thy bearing high—
—A voice came whispering to my soul, and told me thou must die!
That thou must die, my fearless one! when swords were flashing red—
—Why doth a mother live to say—My first-born and my dead!
They tell me of thy youthful fame—they talk of victory won,
—Speak thou! and I will hear thy voice—Ian-this! my sweet son!'

A wail was heard around the bed, the death-bed of the young!
A fair-hair'd Bride the Funeral Chant amidst her weeping sung
—'Ianthis! look'st thou not on me!—Can love, indeed, be fled?
—When was it wo before to gaze upon thy stately head!
I would that I had follow'd thee, Ianthis! my beloved!
And stood as a woman oft has stood, where faithful hearts are proved!
That I had girt a breast-plate on, and battled at thy side!
—It would have been a blessed thing, togeth-er had we died!

'But where was I when thou did'st fall beneath the fatal sword?
Was I beside the sparkling fount or at the peaceful board?
Or singing some sweet song of old, in the shadow of the vine?
Or praying to the Saints for thee, before the holy shrine!
—And thou wert lying low the while, the life-drops from thy heart
Fast gushing like a mountain spring and could'st thou thus depart?
Could'st thou depart, nor on my lips pour out thy fleeting breath!
—Oh! I was with thee but in joy, that should have been in death!

'Yes! I was with thee when the dance through mazy rings was led;
And when the lyre and voice were tuned, and when the feast was spread,
But not where noble blood flow'd forth, where singing javelins flew
Why did I hear love's first sweet words, and not its last adieu?
What now can breathe of gladness more—what scene, what hour, what tone?
The blue skies fade with all their lights—they fade, since thou art gone!
Ev'n that must leave me—that still face, by all my tears unmoved!
—Take me from this dark world with thee, Ianthis! my beloved!'

A wail was heard around the bed, the death-bed of the young!
Amidst her tears the Funeral Chant a mourn-ful Sister sung
'Ianthis! brother of my soul—oh! where are now the days
That shone, amidst the deep green hills, upon our infant plays!
When we two sported by the streams, or track'd them to their source,
And like a stag's, the rocks among, was thy fleet fearless course!
—I see the pines there waving yet—I see the rills descend—
I see thy bounding steps no more—my brother and my friend!

'I come with flowers—for Spring is come—Ianthis! art thou here?
I bring the garlands she hath brought—I cast them on thy bier!
Thou should'st be crown'd with victory's crown—but oh! more meet they seem.
The first faint violets of the wood, and lillies of the stream!
More meet for one so fondly lov'd, and laid so early low—
—Alas! how sadly sleeps thy face amidst the sunshine's glow!
The golden glow that through thy heart was wont such joy to send—
—Wo that it smiles, and not for thee, my bro-ther and my friend? F. H.

BARREN CREEK SPRINGS.

The subscriber begs leave to inform his friends and the public that the above establishment is now open for the reception of Company. Having undergone considerable repair-during the last and present season it is rendered much more commodious and pleasant than heretofore. This in conjunction with the well known virtue of the water & a pledge on the part of the incumbent to pay the strictest attention to furnishing his table and bar as well as a due regard to the internal regulations of his house, encourages a hope that he will meet with a liberal share of patronage.

An ample supply of provender has been purchased which the subscriber feels confident will be equal to the immergency of the season—consequently no fears need be entertained by those desirous of visiting the Springs of a scarcity of fodder.

Self-Sharpening

PLOUGH.

The Subscribers have made arrangements for procuring from Philadelphia, 100 sets of castings for the Self-Sharpening Plough, of the smaller size, suitable for the ordinary cultivation of corn and seeding wheat. These castings will be from a new Foundery, erected for the express purpose, and the metal of the best Albany composition—The sockets will be made larger, longer and thicker, and the point supported by the coulter in such manner as to render them able to stand the shock of stumps, roots or rocks, as effectually as any other plough of their weight in use. The ploughs Nos. 2 and 3, sold from the first sets of castings, heretofore advertised, have been found to work well, break the ground effectually and to require less horse power than any other plough of their weight, but the No. 2 owing to a defect in the metal, will not stand the shock of stumps or roots—of No. 3 (several of which have been in operation for some months) we have had no complaint of breaking—We have just received 48 wings and points which will be furnished gratis to those who have or shall purchase the Self-Sharpening Plough to make good any breakage.

As the season for ploughing fallow is approaching and the subscribers are anxious to dispose of the remainder of their ploughs have determined to reduce the price to $10 for No. 3 and $8 for No. 2—At these prices they will be the cheapest ploughs of their weight ever offered in this market.
