AGRICULTURE AND DOMESTIC ECONOMY.

KITCHEN GARDENING.

As every farmer is interested in the best method of cultivating a common kitchen garden, I have collected as much information on that subject as my means could furnish. I found that many farmers are in the habit of purchasing seeds from the people denominated Shakers; and I imagined that an account of the Shakers' method of cultivating the most useful plants of the kitchen garden would be very acceptable In the annexed directions I have embraced a course of operations which I received from Richard Treat, the oldest gardener at the Shaker village in New Lebanon, Columbia county, New York. The hospitality and friendly attentions of this people, and their readiness to communicate whatever they believed might be useful to the industrious cultivator of the earth, could but excite gratitude and admiration.—Leaving out of view what we are disposed to call errors in their religious creed, we may confidently say, that every thing visible among them exhibits the fruits of genuine Christian benevolence, amiable manners, and highly cultivated understandings.

LETTUCE.

It should be sowed as early as it can be raked into the ground, for it cannot be injured by early frosts. Dr. Hammond sows a bed for early lettuce late in the preceding fall. It ought to be sowed in rows sixteen inches apart, between vacant rows intended for some other plant; for as the lettuce will soon be pulled out, other rows of later vegetables may occupy the whole bed.

RADI-HES,

Should be sowed in drills, eight inches apart, the last week in March. The beds should be made of horse manure fresh from the stables, well mulched with good garden mould. Often loosen the soil about them while growing, and keep the weeds out.

ONIONS.

They should be sowed about the 28th of April, in drills sixteen inches apart, made very shallow, not exceeding half an inch in depth, and raked in lightly lengthwise of the drills. The beds having been well worked with thoroughly rotted manure, at least five inches deep, they will be up very uniformly in about fourteen days.

Hoe them as soon as they are just up sufficiently to be hoed carefully without injury. Let them be hoed six or seven times during the season. The tops will fall about the 10th of August, but they will continue to grow until about the first week in September. They must not be pulled until the tops become dry; being biennial, onions never produce seed until the second year.

Onions should always be sowed on the same beds; for experience has demonstrated that the crops become better after being raised on the same beds for many years in succession.

PARSNIPS.

They should be sowed about the 28th April; but Dr. U. Gregory prefers the last week in March, and selects a dry sandy or loamy bed, which will admit of the earliest culture. He says parsnips become poisonous in damp ground. They should be sowed in drills, 20 inches apart, and three-fourths of an inch deep, and raked in lengthwise of the drills The beds should be previously well worked and manured, and afterwards frequently hoed, which is all the care required.

BEETS AND CARROTS.

They should be sowed about the 28th of April, in drills three-fourths of an inch deep, and twenty inches apart; if carrots are in drills, but sixteen inches apart and half an inch deep, it is about as well. The ground prepared and the seed raked in as for onions.

GARDEN PEAS.

They should be planted about the 28th of April, in drills, by pairs, six inches apart, so that one row of bushes may serve for the pair of drills. There should then be four feet space, from centre to centre, between the pairs of drills. The drills should be half an inch deep, and the seed raked in lengthwise of the drills.

They should be hoed once, then bushed, and hoed once after being bushed. From this time, merely pull out the weeds.

GARDEN BEANS,

Should be planted about the middle of May, half an inch deep in rows. The rows for bush beans should be three feet apart, with the hills in a row two and a half feet from each other. The rows for pole beans should be four feet apart, and the hills in a row three feet from each other.

They should be hoed three times before the flowering time; but must never be hoed when wet with dew or rain.

MELONS, CUCUMBERS, AND SQUASHES.

They should be planted about the middle of May; cucumbers for pickling may be planted the middle of June. The hills may be three or four feet apart. The ground should be as well prepared as for onions. And they must be hoed three times before the time for the vines to run. Afterwards pull out the weeds.

In this part of the country a situation should be selected for cucumbers, which will be shaded from eleven o'clock in the forenoon until three o'clock in the afternoon, and where they are exposed to the sun the rest of the day.

CABBAGES.

They should be transplanted into the beds where they are to grow about the 20th of May, they having been sowed in a small bed for plants about a month previous. The ground ought to be well mellowed and manured, before they are transplanted.

They should be hoed in the morning, when the dew is on, once each week, until they begin to head.

They must not be pulled up until there is danger of their freezing too fast in the ground to be got up. If there happens an early snow, it will not injure them. When they are removed from the garden, they should be set out again, in a trench dug in the bottom of a cellar. If the cellar is pretty cool, it will be the better.

New Branch of Trade.—Within a few days, a man has arrived in this city from the West, with two barrels of muscle shells, which he wishes to have converted into ornamental buttons. The shells were picked up in the Ohio river, and are about four times as thick as the muscle shells found in this quarter of the country. We hope the supply will prove abundant. Parts of the shells are equal in beauty to the finest mother of pearl.—Phil. Gaz.

NEW MODE OF COURTING.

At the Lehigh county (Penn.) sessions, on the 1st ult. Daniel Klein was indicted for an assault and battery upon Miss Maria Rau. The prisoner appeared to be a Swiss or Frenchman, aged about 40, and was six feet in height. When asked by the Court, what he had to say in extenuation of his conduct, he, in broken English, told a long and rather curious tale. He stated that he had not come into this wooden country for land or money, but to get himself a wife. He had resolved, when 12 years of age, that no minister should ever marry him, but that the ceremony should be performed in open court before all the people. He had been all over Europe, and the United States, and never, before he saw Miss Rau, met with a lady that, in every point of view, he liked so well as he did her, and he was resolved to marry her. He was at work in a distillery for Mr. Keyser, and had just been showing a Dutchman how to make yeast, when on going home, he entered the house just at the moment when Miss Maria was stooping down with her back towards him, when he stept up and struck her with his fist, and so enraged her as to bring him to court, that he might then carry his long conceived plan into execution, to make the matter up with her by marrying her. He had already been in prison four months.

Miss Maria did not seem to relish the prospect of matrimonial life with such a partner, and such exhibitions of the tokens of his affection. The court, after giving him a suitable reprimand, ordered him to be imprisoned for sixty days, pay the cost, &c and stand committed. When the sentence was pronounced upon him, he made a low bow to the court, and said: "Gentlemen Judges, I honour your judgment."

MATRIMONIAL JOURNAL.

A gentleman lately took the following metereological journal of his wife's temper.—Monday, rather cloudy; in the afternoon rainy—Tuesday, vapourish; brightened up a little at night.—Wednesday, changeable, gloomy, inclined to rain.—Thursday, high wind and some peals of thunder.—Friday, fair in the morning, variable 'till the afternoon, cloudy all night.—Saturday, a gentle breeze, hazy, a thick fog, and a few flashes of lightning.

Profits of the Retail Trade in Glasgow.

The merry little Glasgow bookseller, whom we (Telescope) have more than once had occasion to mention in our pages, and who, in his young days, was wont, as he said, to worship the goddess of health on the top of Cathkin braes, by leaping an hour at a time over a skipping-rope, gives a rather odd account to our friend Dr. Jarvie of the profits of a retail trade in his line:—'Indeed, Doctor, it's but a poor trade, the selling o' stationary; I'll just gie ye a sample o' what sort o' trade it is—what wi' loss o' time, and what with yae thing and what wi' anither. A muckle stupit sumph comes into the shop, an'says, 'gie's a bawbees's worth o' paper.' Is it post paper ye want? 'Aye.' Is't lang paper or short paper, gudman, ye want? O yes. God bless me, man, do ye want it short or lang? 'A' no. See, man, is't this kine o' paper or that ye want? 'I'll tak' this, for it's the biggest. Weel, Doctor, ye would think ane was doon wi' the fallow, after a' that fash, and mair nor five minutes lost; but na—he's at ye yet. 'Men, that pen,' he says, haudin'out an auld stump to ye that the devil himsel' could scarcely men'; and when ye've doon that, he follows it wi' 'put a wee drap ink i' that bottle.' Ye put ink i' the blockhead's bottle, a' for naething, an' sine he pokes out his great big horny han', an' says 'I'll thank ye for a wafer.' Now, Doctor, only think o' that, a' that fasherie, an' sic a loss o' time, forbye the wafer and the ink for naething, an' a' about selling a bawbee's worth o' paper.'
