Easton Gazette.

EASTON, MD.

SATURDAY EVENING, NOV. 11.

OUR QUERULOUS FRIEND.

Mr. Harker of the Delaware Gazette must pardon us for seeming to neglect him last week—It was really out of our power to pay him that respect which is due to a friend, who, in his devotion to our welfare, cannot bear that we should entertain opinions and views in relation to public matters different from his own.

In a late speculation of ours concerning the future prospects in New York, Mr. Harker has so amiably attempted to make us take up with the ridiculous that he has become quite so himself—Obeying no doubt the Bacchanalian and the Classic Law, that we must first seem to feel that ourselves of which we wish to cause others to partake. Dear Harker was so cruelly lascerated into submission by the notorious caucus manifesto that he has become a sort of "Crazy Jane" ever since, and his paper, which before that affliction, was quite a standard journal, has since then been little else than a source of wild and incoherent ravings.

As an old times federalist, proud of the principles established and contended for by that body of men, and prouder still to see them universally adopted by their former opponents, after experience had proved them essential to the good progress of things in this Republic, the Editor of this paper could not crouch at the feet of King Caucus, as some others have done, with consciences and nerves "soft as the sinews of the new born babe" and whine submission as he was lashed, or fondle upon those who afterwards chirped him into the belief that the flegellation was intended for his own good—No dear Harker, we have a sterner incredulity than this, which makes us doubt King Caucus minions though they bring gifts. However my dear fellow, you have many, though not a multitude of companions in this and such like happy accommodation, and company, they say, is good even to the gallows.

Our tender friend of the Delaware Gazette must permit us to go on in defence and exercise of the good old principles (as for names among the political gentry we care as little for them as any body) and to decline being considered the protege of the caucus, or as in any wise impelled, seduced, entrapped, or bargained for by any of its members to pursue any other course.

Concerning the matter of Mr. Adams and General Jackson;—forgive us dear Harker, but we must smile when we see you so stoutly out for the General, after he lamented he had not had the command in the military district when the Hartford Convention was held, that he might have hanged by military law the most distinguished body of federal gentlemen that New England could produce. A man, nay a generalissimo, who thus exhibits himself so unprejudiced and so conversant with the real intent and course of conduct pursued by the Hartford Convention, may be fit, in your opinion, for the chief magistracy of the state, but not in ours. This sentiment and opinion of the General's may to you prove him to be profoundly wise in constitutional powers and in the construction of law, but the lessons we have imbibed in the federal school do not lead us to think so—or, the declaration and the wish expressed, that he had commanded in that district for the purpose avowed, may to you appear humane, generous, wise, and statesmanlike—whilst to us, dear Harker, it appears the very reverse—so unfortunately and so widely do we differ. If, after all this, you will swear that General Jackson loves the federalists more than Mr. Adams does, and has ever felt and does feel a stronger disposition to treat them better, why then indeed we must say you are joking or that some "Crazy Jane" is talking. However, dear Harker, we must tell you, that between General Jackson and Mr. Adams, we have decided alone upon the competency of the two men for the station of President, and we never calculated how they would treat federalists or others—we merely judged which was most competent to manage the affairs of this nation in the best manner, and as we shall be contented with any President who will do that, we must be satisfied that the Editor of the Easton Gazette and all his brother federalists, who are not in the employment of King Caucus, his agents, converts or abettors, shall take their chance in the pursuit of their own vocations protected by the Constitution and the Law, without the aid of General Jackson in the civil administration with his favourite second section of the articles of War.

The steam boat New Philadelphia made a trip between New York and Albany last week in the space of eleven hours and forty minutes, being the most expeditious voyage ever performed between the two cities.

The indictments for a conspiracy to defraud, which were lately tried in New York without being brought to a legal termination, are to be submitted to another jury at the Court of Oyer and Terminer, to be held on the third Monday of the present month. Upwards of 300 Jurors have been summoned to attend.

We are sorry to state that the SECRETARY OF WAR has been confined by severe indisposition, for ten or twelve days past. His disorder is subsiding, however, and it is hoped that he will be able to resume his public duties in the course of a few days.

A STEAM BOAT ON FIRE.

A gentleman, who left Elizabethtown on Sunday morning, informs our correspondents of the New York Gazette, that an express had just reached that place from New Brunswick with information that the steam boat Emerald, Capt. Vanderbilt, was discovered to be on fire on Sunday morning before day, and burnt to the water's edge. Two or three of the crew were missing. The Emerald was a beautiful new boat, owned by William Gibbons, of Elizabethtown.—The Bellona was despatched from Elizabethtown Point the same morning for her passengers, amongst them the Philadelphia stage passengers, and would reach the city about 4 o'clock, with the particulars.—Pat.

BANKRUPT BILL.—We understand that a thousand copies of this Bill, as it was reported to the Senate of the United States, have been printed by subscription in Boston; and that a few have been sent to several merchants of this city, with a request that a committee should be appointed to examine it, and to report what amendments they may conceive it to require. As this is a subject of general interest, and more especially in a mercantile community, we hope that this judicious recommendation may be pursued. Several members of Congress have expressed their wishes to the same effect, being desirous to avail themselves of the suggestions of that part of the community which this measure chiefly interests.—American.

A letter from Laguira, of the 3d ultimo, has reached New-York by way of St. Thomas, from which the following is an extract.

"An arrival from Caracas this day, brings us the intelligence of the arrival of Gen. PAEZ in that city—that he had called a meeting of the Cabildo, and stated his desire to have associated with him in the concerns of state, one hundred of the most respectable citizens, for the purpose of devising immediate measures for placing things on a proper footing, and to improve the situation of merchants particularly."

MR. JEFFERSON'S ESTATE.

We observe in the Richmond Enquirer an advertisement of the sale of the personal property of the late Thomas Jefferson, on the 15th January next at Monticello. The following are some of the articles mentioned: 130 valuable negroes, stock, crop, &c. household and kitchen furniture. The attention of the public is earnestly invited to this property. The negroes are believed to be the most valuable for their number ever offered at one time in the State of Virginia. The household furniture, many valuable historical and portrait paintings, busts of marble and plaister of distinguished individuals; one of marble of Thomas Jefferson, by Caracci, with the pedestal and truncated column on which it stands; a polograph or copying instrument used by Thomas Jefferson, for the last twenty five years; with various other articles curious and useful to men of business and private families.

U. S. MAIL ROAD.—The Elkton Press states that General Bernard and the other gentlemen who are to examine the route from Baltimore to Philadelphia, arrived in Elkton on Thursday evening, and the next day proceeded on their way to Delaware State. Messrs. Joshua Gilpin, Wm. Cooch, and John Torbert, were requested by the Post Master General, to join in the examinations through that state. No survey will be made until all the routes are examined by observation.

The Engineers expected to finish the examination of the lower route on Friday, and return as far as Newark, on the middle route. They will examine the middle route by Port Deposit, and the upper route by Conowingo and New London ⋈ Roads. Much interest is excited by this examination, and the corps are attended by many respectable gentlemen, who feel an interest in the location of the road.

It is said that the Albany jail is quite empty; and well it may be, for our friends of New York are in the habit of turning their convicts out of prison, on condition that they will go and depredate upon the neighboring states.—Phila. Aurora.

The Legislature of Rhode Island, have re-elected by unanimous vote, ASHER ROBBINS, a Senator of the United States for 6 years from the fourth March next. Elisha R. Potter, an opponent of the administration, has thus been completely frustrated in his attempts to gain the place.—Pat.

MARYLAND CONVENTION.

At a meeting of the Baltimore Union Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church, held on the 3d day of October, 1826, It was resolved,

First, That from the information received by letters, &c. it is the opinion of the Society, that the reformers in the state of Maryland, and the district of Colombia, expect the time and place for the meeting of our state convention, for Maryland, to be designated and published by this Society.

Resolved, secondly, That in accordance with this view, we have taken the liberty to appoint the FIFTEENTH of November next as the time, and Baltimore as the place for the meeting of the said convention.

Resolved, thirdly, that it is the understanding of this society, to be the privilege of each and every friend to reform, who is a male member of the methodist episcopal church, & over the age of 21, residing in the State of Maryland, or in the district of Colombia, to attend the Convention.

The design of the State Convention, is to elect two or more delegates to attend the general Convention, to be held at such time and place as may be agreed on by the delegates from the different State conventions antecedent to the General Conference of 1828 to prepare a Memorial to that General Conference, praying for a representation from the local ministry and lay members of the church.

Signed by order of the Society,

JOHN CHAPPELL, Sen. Prest.
JOSEPH R. FOREMAN, Sec'y.
