During the present month, the Cadets are encamped in the great area; and their tents and accoutrements contribute to render the coup d'œil still more striking and admirable. Every spectator of the reviews bears testimony to the signal skill and judgement and indefatigable zeal with which the Cadets are drilled.—They constitute a corps which would be surveyed with pleasure and pride in any part of the world.

Easton Gazette.

EASTON, MD.

SATURDAY EVENING, SEPTEMBER 1.

Great anxiety has been expressed as to the result of the Western Elections particularly, not being wholy inattentive to that of North Carolina—supposing, that it would be some indication of the popular opinion as to the next President. At so great a distance from the election, such results are not satisfactory tests—because the people generally cannot be worked up into a passion so long before hand—but if it is insisted on that these results are to be taken as evidence, we have from the statements received (which are presumed to be correct) gained two Administration men in N. Carolina, and lost three in Kentucky—the evidences of Gen. Jackson's losing ground in his own state are palpable and strong—for in Tennessee, the only opponent that came out against the General was within 19 votes of being elected; and Col. John Williams has been elected, in whose election for the State Senate the question of whether Jacksonism should triumph or not was fairly tested; for Col. Williams and General Jackson have been at personal war ever since the battle of the Horse Shoe, and the whole Jackson power of Tennessee was moved and brought to bear against Col. Williams' election—yet Col. Williams was elected by the good people of Tennessee by a triumphant majority—Besides in Kentucky, an immense majority of Administration men are elected to the State Legislature, when it was equally made a test throughout the state, 'who was for the Administration and who for Jackson'

The truth is, the People of the United States have pretty well given up the election of Gen. Jackson as irretrievably lost—a great many who were for him have, after late events, silently and quietly given him up, and with the great majority of the country are truly sorry that he ever suffered himself to be brought forward—whilst there are others who have been hitherto friends of Gen. Jackson, who openly and loudly proclaim, that they are convinced they were in error and do not hesitate honorably to declare that conviction and their change of sentiment—for say they, why should we hesitate to avow our honest convictions? We have more pride for our country's welfare than we have for our own, or for any man's fallible opinion, and as our country is the object, we will pursue that object through open and fair means.

They alone who hold out are your "improved presses" Editors set up by subscription for the special purpose, who distribute most of their papers gratis thro' the country. Now could any Press afford to give away its papers, as the Jackson Presses do, if they were not supported by a special fund?—Those Presses all arose soon after it was known that fifty thousand dollars had been raised to establish Newspaper Presses by the opposition—and all this was done just about the time that Mr. Van Buren in the U. States Senate talked of the "improved state of the Press" that he found to be necessary—Now put all these matters and things together and we shall have pretty strong circumstantial testimony, that these violent and persevering Presses are paid by the job—that they go on right or wrong, through thick or thin, to answer the purpose intended, and that there are a set of Brawlers who feed upon these papers and propagate to all who will listen, their unworthy and licentious contents.

CONGRESSIONAL ELECTIONS.

The accounts received leave scarcely a doubt that the following is the result of the Congressional elections throughout the State of Kentucky.

1st District—Henry Daniel.
2d District—Thomas Medcalfe.
3d District—James Clark.
4th District—Robert P. Letcher.
5th District—Robert M'Hatton.
6th District—Joseph Lecompte.
7th District—Thomas P. Moore.
8th District—Richard A. Buckner.
9th District—Charles A. Wickliffe.
10th District—Joel Yancey.
11th District—W. S. Young.
12th District—Chittenden Lyon.

Frankfort Argus.

From the National Journal.

The papers by the last western mail brought the probable results of the late congressional elections in Kentucky. It was believed, though not certainly ascertained, that Maj. Trimble and Col. Johnson had both lost their elections by inconsiderable majorities, the latter by one no greater than two votes, as was reported. Dr. Henry was also thought to have lost his election in consequence of there being another candidate on the same side with himself, opposed to but one on the other side. These are the only changes that have been made.

Governor KENT passed through Baltimore on the 27 ult. on his way to his domicile in Prince George's county. His return from the eastward has been hastened on account of the indisposition of a member of his family.

The London Times of the 14th July, contains the list of Professors appointed in the new University of London. Among these we observe that two of the Professors are taken from American Institutions, viz:—Dr. Pattison, lately of the Maryland University, and Mr. Long of the Virginia University.

From the Norfolk Herald August 22.

A man calling himself NEWBOLD, and stating that he belonged to Richmond co. in this state, purchased on Saturday last, from Mr. John T. Keeling, of Princess Anne County, a number of Negroes, for which he paid $1400, in $3 notes of $100 each, and 5 of $20. purporting to be of the Bank of the United States, and payable at the offices at New York, Middletown, (Con.) and Cincinnati. After Newbold left him, Mr. K. took a memorandum of the notes, in doing which he found two of them numbered alike, which, though not irregular, excited his suspicions that one of them was a counterfeit; and he called yesterday at the Office of the United States Bank in this town, to satisfy his doubts; where upon examination, it was discovered that the whole batch were counterfeits, but so admirably executed that none but the best judges could detect them. The $100 notes are lettered E. and H. the $20s S.

It being ascertained that Newbold had left here yesterday morning at 6 o'clock in the steam boat for Richmond, taking the negroes along with him Mr. Keeling engaged the steam boat Norfolk to pursue him, and will, no doubt have overtaken him at Richmond this morning.

The editor of the Beacon says—We learn from Capt. Chapman, of the steam boat Richmond, arrived last night, that a Twenty Dollar U. S. Note, Middletown Branch; a Ten Dollar Note of the Farmers' and Mechanics Bank at Philadelphia, and a Five Dollar Note of the Bank of Baltimore, all counterfeits, had been received by him from Newbold and another passenger, probably one of his associates. The notes are all remarkably well executed.

RICHMOND, August 23.

Counterfeiters.—We understand that T. F. Arledge, (said to be of Norfolk) was yesterday taken before the Mayor's Court, on suspicion of being an accomplice with John Newbold, in passing counterfeit United States' Bank notes on Mr. John T. Keeling of Princess Ann County, Va. Having purchased a number of Negroes of Mr. K. he paid him 1400 dollars, principally in 100 and 20 dollar notes—Mr. K. immediately upon discovering the fraud, chartered the steamboat Norfolk, then at Norfolk, and proceeded in pursuit of the steamboat Richmond, which had but a few hours before left Norfolk with Newbold, Arledge and negroes—He succeeded in reaching here in time to have Arledge arrested, and get possession of his property. Newbold's suspicions being excited by the unexpected arrival of the Norfolk, immediately left his boat, on board of which he slept the night before, and proceeded as is supposed towards Fredericksburg.

FREDERICKBURG, August 24.

Counterfeit Notes.—JOHN NEWBOLD, arrested the evening before last, (August 22d) by warrant, issued by J. Tate, Esq. Mayor of Richmond, and executed by Prentice, Special Constable, was brought before the Mayor of this Corporation, about 10 o'clock at night, charged with having forged and counterfeited certain Bank Notes, purporting to be of the Bank of the United States, Branch forgotten) and the Farmer's Bank of Virginia, at this place. He was identified before the Mayor, by whose order his trunk was opened and a strict scrutiny made as to its contents, when about 3400 dollars of United States notes, and sundry others of the Farmer's Bank (All Counterfeits,) were discovered, together with some good ones. We understand that the forged notes were all of $100. They were forwarded, under seal, to the Mayor of Richmond. The signature of—— Biddle, in the U. S. notes was badly executed, but the names of the other officers of the Bank, were in most instances, admirably imitated.

BOSTON PUBLIC SCHOOLS.--The annual visitation and exhibition of these schools took place on the 22d inst. There are in Boston eight public English Grammar Schools, in which are also taught orthography, reading, writing, arithmetic and geography. There is also one for children of colour. Of these, seven schools are in Boston proper, which average from 550 to 600 pupils, composed of nearly an equal number of boys and girls, with four instructors in each. The eighth which is in South Boston, has one hundred pupils, & the African has usually 50 or 70. At the public Latin School there are from 180 to 220. In this, Latin and Greek are chiefly studied, but some time is devoted to arithmetic and geography. The number of pupils at the English High School, is from 120 to 150, who study English grammar, arithmetic, bookkeeping, geography, algebra, astronomy, ancient & modern history, moral philosophy evidences of christianity, and the various branches of mathematics and physics, including the mechanical powers, geometry, trigonometry, mensuration, &c. There is also a separate female High School, containing about 130 pupils, who after leaving the common English schools, study English grammar, composition, history, geography astronomy, &c. The progress of the young ladies in useful and solid learning is said to be very gratifying. There are besides in the city from 53 to 55 public primary schools for children from four to seven years of age, kept by females, and containing from 2800 to 3000 pupils. The whole number in the public schools of the city, is nearly 7500. The private schools were last year 141, 119 under the care of females & 22 under gentlemen who had mostly received a collegiate education. The whole expense is estimated at something upwards of $150 000 for the public schools and $879,000 for the private. The visitation is by the school committee consisting of one citizen from each ward, with the Mayor and Alderman. Many public and literary characters are also invited including the clergy, and the President and Professors of the University at Cambridge Upon the present occasion Governor KENT was among the number of visiters. The exhibitions in these schools were highly satisfactory, and superior in some instances, to those on any former occasion.

ACCIDENT.—We noticed an accident a few days ago, by which a young man had his leg taken off. He was on board of a sloop, near the windlass, while she was nearing the wharf and his leg was caught between the windless and the bite of the rope and it took it clean off below the knee. The thing was done in an instant, and the young man was so astonished that he neither spoke nor groaned, nor moved a muscle of his face. A physician made an artificial tourniquet with rope and splinters, and he was placed uncomplaining in a carriage.—A person ran after the carriage, bearing the fractured limb, which he handed through the window to the sufferer; leg, boot and pantaloon and he placed it on his lap very coolly. It was altogether a rare exhibition of stoical indifference under such a shocking calamity. We learn he is doing well.

N. Y. Engr.

Extraordinary instance of enthusiastic feeling for the grand effects of Nature.—In the year 1820, Captain Hastings, then on a voyage between the island of Madegascar and the Cape of Good Hope, was overtaken by a violent storm. The furious turn of the ocean—the mightiness of the surging waves—the blackness of the water, and the vivid effects of the lightning coming athwart the dark curtains of the Heavens, he beheld with an intensity of feeling that almost absorbed every feeling of personal safety. Having taken the necessary means for the security of his vessel, and anxious to contemplate the grandeur of the scene, he ordered himself to be lashed to an elevated part of the ship, that, during the raging of the tempest, he might not only study, but actually sketch the terrific appearances around him. Collected amidst the uproar of the elements, and regardless of danger, he produced a faithful and spirited drawing of a storm at sea, full of the fury and sublimity of his subject.—The drawing he sent to the royal Academy where it was exhibited the following year, and attracted peculiar attention.

[This is the same Captain Hastings who was subsequently cashiered for challenging a superior officer, and who is now in the Greek service under Lord Cochrane.]

For the Easton Gazette.

Mr. Graham,

The people would like to know if there is any truth in the report, that there is a certain set of the candidates, now up who are quietly and secretly arranging a ticket of Jackson men, that is to be carried by a scheme at the next election—and moreover whether these candidates composing that ticket mean to support or oppose the present Executive of Maryland—These are points the people ought to know, for they have a right to know them before they vote—it is proper therefore to give all a fair chance to be heard, and then the people will know whether they are electing men by their own voice, or whether they are made to carry through the schemes of others—then the people will know what are the true sentiments of the Candidates before them and they can act accordingly.

Yours, Z.

OBITUARY.

Died in Philadelphia, on the 23d ult. Miss LYDIA MARIA HANSON, of this town, in the 20th year of her age. It is seldom that the hand of friendship is called upon to pen the Obituary of a more beloved and interesting young person. Endowed with abilities of no common order, improved and embellished by cultivation, she was deservedly the pride of her relatives and the admiration of her acquaintance. In her general intercourse with society she was kind, affable and unassuming; in conversation, easy, respectful and intelligent; among her friends, warm-hearted, open and confiding;—but it was from the discharge of her multifarious duties as a sister and daughter, that her character derived its principal lustre. As a pupil, those whose task it was to superintend her education, have spoken in the highest terms of her exemplary conduct, her docility, and her love of every branch of useful study. As an instructress, a vocation for which she was peculiarly and happily fitted, and in which she spent the last fifteen months of her life, she discharged her duty in a manner highly creditable to herself and satisfactory to her patrons. About two weeks ago, while on a visit to her friends in Philadelphia, she was seized with a severe illness—the alarming intelligence no sooner reached her surviving parent, than she flew to assist, if possible, in the restoration of one who might be said to have been more than dear to her—but on her arrival, how heart-rending! her last sigh and the pathetic exclamation of "O my Mother!" was all that remained to her of her living child!—The spirit was about to wing its flight to another, and, we trust, a happier world.

—— On Saturday last, after a long illness, Mrs. Elizabeth Sherwood, of this town.

—— On the same day, Miss Eliza Bromwell, after a lingering illness.

—— On the 4th ult. Mrs. ANN MARIA SPENCE, wife of Ara Spence, Esq. of Somerset county, after a short illness, which she bore with christian fortitude. She was an amiable and accomplished lady, possessing every quality which could constitute her a useful member of Society.

—— On Tuesday last in this town, WILLIAM, son of Nathan Townsend, in the fourth year of his age.

Messrs. Sinclair & Moore,

The wheat fan you sent me by Capt. Delahay, I consider a very good one. Forty one bushels of white wheat, off a treading yard, were chaffed in thirty one minutes. I can say without hesitation, that among the great variety I have both seen and tried, this fan is the best constructed for the general use of farmers. Respectfully, your friend,
