On full consideration, before my retirement, I concluded that the course suggested, would be best adapted to my own peace and tranquility, and contribute most, as a permanent rule, to the welfare of my country. Under this conviction I then formed the decision stated, have frequently declared it since, and cannot depart from it,

With great respect, I am your ob't ser't.

THE PAPERS

Called for by Mr. Sloane in Congress relative to the shooting of the six militia men by Gen. Jackson's order, afford the most convincing proof that the General, who now wants to be made President of the U. States, is guilty of the blood of these unfortunate men. To put militia men to death under the most coercive circumstances of dire necessity, in moments of extremest peril, is bad enough. But to shoot six militia men, whose period of service is still questionable, and on which the military committee of Congress have exhausted all their ingenuity at construction to turn matters to General Jackson's account, at a time too when danger had actually disappeared and the war was over, is a bloody transaction that marks a ferocious military Chieftain rather than a wise and thinking Statesman.

That Gen. Jackson has behaved well in war, is true--but that he has behaved most shockingly and cruelly and dangerously ill, is also true. Can we trust a man as Chief Magistrate of this country who has grossly abused power whenever it has been confided to him? Can the man who tramples upon the Laws and Constitution of the country in a self willed manner, and who robs a citizen of his rights and liberties by throwing him into gaol, because that citizen attempted to perform his civil duties as a civil magistrate when legally called on, can such a man find favour in the eyes of the Freemen of America?

We shall give Gen. Jackson and his deluded friends a full and fair chance to defend the General in this sanguinary matter of shooting the six militia men. If they can acquit him, let it be done—The American people, particularly that part of our fellow citizens who constitute the militia soldiers of our country, must see this cruel deed fairly justified before they can agree to vote for Gen. Jackson—& when all is said in Congress that can be said in the General's behalf, we will then give a fair and full commentary upon the whole—In the mean time, we would remark, that it is worthy of the reflection of our citizen soldiers who compose the militia, that the six militia men that Gen. Jackson ordered to be shot, and who were shot to death, were induced by their officers to believe that their period of service for which they were drafted was only three months, and even if these unfortunate men were wrong, they were led astray by their officers—yet the officers suffered a formal indignity merely, whilst the poor militia soldiers were shot to death like sheep stealing dogs.—why this distinction between officers and soldiers?

Let the people think of these things deeply, they concern them and their families intimately, and in due time we will give them such further views as shall place them in possession of the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth.

The execution of JIM TRUXTON which was to have taken place yesterday, the 14th, has been deferred, by order of the Governor, until Friday 28th inst.

The following account of a voyage from Presq'Isle on Lake Erie to Philadelphia in the year 1795 is an evidence of the increased improvement in our internal communications between distant points in this extended Empire--This voyage which then took seven weeks, through imminent perils, can now be safely performed in ten days. Then as now, there were many incredulous good souls who could not bring themselves to understand how such a distance and such dangers and difficulties were to be conquered by canals, or any other internal improvement. But fortunately for those incredulous people there was always a majority who thought differently, and by whose approbation and assistance these wonderful improvements have been wrought and the country eminently benefitted.

PHILADEPHIA, Nov. 12, 1795.

On Tuesday last, arrived here, after a passage of 7 weeks, the schooner White Fish, built last summer at Presq'Isle, on Lake Erie. The tediousness of the voyage, was owing to the inclemency of the weather. She is only seventeen and an half feet keel, and five feet seven inches beam. This small vessel was built and navigated by two young men, citizens of the United States, born in the vicinity of this city; they had neither chart nor compass. Her departure was from Presq'Isle, along Lake Erie, to the Falls of Niagara, 110 miles; thence by land to the landing below the Falls 10 miles thence to the garrison of Niagara, 7 miles; thence along the South coast of Lake Ontario, to the river Oswego 140 miles; thence up the river Oswego to the Falls, 20 miles; thence by land round the Falls, 1 mile; thence up the same river to three river point, 42 miles; thence up the Straits leading to the Oneida Lake, 19 miles; thence through the Oneida Lake, 28 miles; thence up Wood Creek, 30 miles; to the landing between Wood Creek and the Mohawk river; thence by land passing Fork Schuyler, formerly Fork Stanwix, 1 mile, into the Mohawk river; thence down the Mohawk river, 60 miles, to the Little Falls; thence round the Falls by land, 1 mile to the landing; thence down the same river 60 miles, to Schenectady; thence by land 16 miles, to Albany; thence down the river Hudson, 170 miles, to the city of New York, thence by sea 150 miles, to the Capes of the Delaware river; thence up the Delaware to this city 120 miles--making in all 947 miles.

The design of this voyage, (the only one ever attempted in the same way) was a disinterested experiment, to prove some of the great advantages which may in future be derived to the United States from a speedy settlement in and about the new Town of Erie, in this State. The White-Fish (so named from a luxurious fish, in Ichthyology, peculiar to the Lakes) cast anchor opposite Market street wharf, and gave the city a Federal salute of fifteen rounds from a Blunderbus which was returned by three hearty cheers from a multitude of citizens, who crowded the wharves and vessels, in this port to receive them, for accomplishing this hitherto unexperienced navigation—the two Gentlemen certainly deserve well of their country.

The Legislature of Virginia recently decided, by a small majority of votes, that a convention should be called to revise the constitution of the state.—The population represented by the votes in the affirmative, was 402, 567; that by the negative, was 161, 143.

TURKISH PROPHECY OF NAPOLEON.

A work has been published at Paris, by Santini, Bonaparte's valet. It is entitled "Chagrins Domostiques de Napoleon Bonaparte a l'Isle Saint Helene, &c." and it is also said that it was written partly by Napoleon himself and partly under his dictation. How far Santini is to be believed we know not, but the following language, attributed to Napoleon, has all the air of authenticity.

"The slavery of Europe will commence with Turkey. I now understand the words which the Emperor Alexander addressed to me at one of our secret interviews:—'As soon as the affairs of Europe will permit, I wish to put it out of the power of the Turks to alarm my dominions.' The Czar will seize the first occasion to humble the order of the Crescent. I have proofs in my possession that the Cabinet of St. Petersburg is upon the watch for every thing likely to create embarrassment to the Grand Seignior. The struggle between the two powers will not be long doubtful; for such are the defects of the Turkish Government, that should one battle be lost, Constantinople will become a chapel of ease for the empire of the Czars."

Napoleon proceeds to remark that England is the only power that can save Europe from the consequences of such an event, and that the rivalry between these two great powers will prove to be the safeguard of the other nations. He adds—

"The Russians are at this day on the Continent what the English are on the ocean; so that the best thing which the other nations can do is to encourage these two great powers to cut each other's throats. When two superb lions, the terror of the forests, happen to seize each other by the mane, very ill advised will the other animals be in wishing to separate them; upon the destruction of the two combatants depends the safety of all."

These two "superb lions," instead of seizing each other by the mane, are most assuredly hunting in company at present. How long the good-fellowship will last, is a question—the division of spoil may cause a difference of opinion.

We were much gratified yesterday afternoon, while passing up Chatham-street, with a display of that feeling which has ever characterized American seamen. One of those poor unfortunate men, who have been known by the name of "Pompey Ducklegs" since our days of childhood, was asking alms of the passers by, when a hardy looking son of Neptune walking past, stopped to look at him. His situation seemed to excite the tar's compassion for the tobacco rolled furiously from side to side of his mouth, with a peculiar twirl. At last his hand grasped a pouch, which appeared to be made of a bladder, and was contained in his trowsers pocket—he pulled it out, and muttering, exclaimed "All gone but this; d——n my cat's eyes where is it; ballast all gone and the ship is top heavy—no matter, old Short Legs, if you are black, you've got a quizzical face. I say, old boy, I have just got back from Norfolk; had plenty of change this morning; none now but this—take it." The poor negro seemed overwhelmed with astonishment. The sailor replied, "What, an't it enough, well Snowball I can't give you any more now; be here at 10 o'clock to-morrow—in the mean time take the ten dollar bill, and be d——d to it," and on he passed with as light a heart as ever blessed the most zealous votary of charity.—New York Enquirer.
