ful enough to distinguish the difference between unwillingness' and 'fear.'

Could we have seen his conclusion in any other state than public print, we should have been doubtful whether he intended it for publication, or expected it to be read by those alone, whose 'minds' had a 'structure' similar to his own. Some 'such characters we have among us.'

SATURDAY EVENING—MARCH 22—1828.

ELECTORS OF PRESIDENT AND VICE PRESIDENT.

So far, the selection of Electors, favourable to the election of J. Q. Adams, has gone on most satisfactorily to the wishes of the people of this state, who have in their respective districts shewn an uncommon degree of unanimity, and the choice has fallen upon distinguished and worthy citizens—such as Littleton Dennis, Esq. from Worcester, Somerset and part of Dorchester counties—Col. Thomas Emory from Queen Ann's and Kent counties—Col. James Sewell from Cecil and Harford counties—Col. James Boyle and Col. William Steuart from Anne Arundel counties and Baltimore City—William Price & George Baltzell, Esquires, from Alleghany, Washington and Frederick counties—and James W. McCulloh, Esq. from Baltimore county. The first, second and ninth districts are yet to be heard from, when all the Candidates will be before the people. The observation is a general one that Gen. Jackson is losing ground daily—the hopes of his adherents have been declining for the last six months, and it is believed they are much disappointed in the result of things. When all is calm and quiet, the adherents of the General find that reflection disposes men to prefer the man as President of the U. States, who has most knowledge and experience as a Statesman, and who has been found eminently fit and able in every station in which he has been placed.

In a state of excitement, when an appeal can be made to the passions of the people, by which the adherents of the General expected to prevail when they exhibited before them General Jackson's victory at New Orleans, they find themselves met with the savage ferocities, unnecessary cruelties, and the contempt and violation of constitution, law, and citizens personal rights, which have marked the whole progress of Gen. Jackson's military career—seeing so much to dismay them, in either alternative, it is not wonderful that their hopes which were never very firmly based, should decline. We cannot help calling to the recollection of those who say they prefer Gen. Jackson, the well weighed and deliberate opinion of the Editors of the Richmond Enquirer, viz: "That no greater curse could befal this country than the elevation of such a man as General Andrew Jackson to be President of the United States."

The Legislature of this State adjourned on Sunday morning last, 16th inst.

HONOR TO THE BRAVE.

The following Resolutions, introduced by General Steuart into the House of Delegates, have been adopted by our Legislature:—

Resolved unanimously, That the General Assembly of Maryland entertain a high sense of the gallantry of Henry E. Ballard, a native of this State, First Lieutenant of the United States frigate Constitution in her memorable action with the British ships Cyane and Levant, during the late war, and also appreciate his distinguished activity and seamanship whilst in command of the Levant, after the capture of that ship.

RESOLVED That the Governor of this state be authorised and directed to procure such a sword as he may deem fit, and present the same to H. E. Ballard on behalf of the state, as a testimony of its high consideration and value of his services—and the Governor is hereby authorised to draw upon the treasurer of the Western Shore of Maryland for such a sum as will be necessary for the same.

STATE FINANCES.—It appears that owing to the differences which occurred between the Senate & House of Delegates during the last two or three days of the session, the Legislature of Maryland finally adjourned without making any provision to meet either the ordinary expenses of government, or the appropriations which that body had previously authorised. The differences to which we allude, it seems, grew out of the General Assessment Bill, which bill, we understand, contained the provisions upon which reliance was placed for the replenishment of the Treasury.—The Annapolis Republican informs us that "in a few weeks there will not be money in the State Treasury to meet common appropriations;" and the editor adds:—

"Three expedients only suggest themselves from which it seems to us that the executive have the possibility of selecting in such an emergency.

1st. To suffer the faith of the state to be violated, the officers of government, the judiciary, revolutionary pensioners and others, just claiments to go unpaid, and to refrain from incurring even indispensable obligations: in short to stop payment.

2d. To convene the legislature, and again urge them to perform their duty; an expensive if not a vexatious expedient, and in the present spirit of the parties hardly promising success.

3d. To assume the responsibility, not authorised indeed by law, but which seems to us to be justified by the exigency, of borrowing sufficient sums to meet such demands as cannot be delayed, and trust to the countenance of the people and the wisdom of the next legislature to ratify and approve of their proceeding. We know that it is a high and delicate responsibility for the Governor and Council to incur, but we know, too, that the people of Maryland are a high minded and public spirited community, having sufficient intelligence to distinguish the posture of circumstances thus imposed upon their public agents, and candour enough to appreciate the true motives of the course, they may think it best for the state, that they should adopt in such emergency. The people will rally around their government the more they find it surrounded with difficulties which they who administer it have not had the agency in producing."—Amer.

Speaking of the late Major General Brown, the conqueror of Riall and Drummond, at Erie and Lundy's Lane, a Philadelphia paper says, this distinguished officer, and unassuming and amiable man, achieved for his country the greatest victory won by her arms during the late war. Yet his name was never mentioned by the 'Hickory Men,' at their feastings on the last 8th of January.

General BROWN met and conquered the legions of England in open conflict—bayonet to bayonet—breast to breast! No cotton bags protected him and his army from the fire and steel of the enemy.

As a commander, General Brown was brave amiable and merciful—and, to his credit be it said, he never trampled upon the constitution and laws of his country!—We the People.

It is a very singular fact, that within a short time, the following distinguished men have died almost instantaneously, viz. Wm. Pinkney, and Robert G. Harper, of Baltimore, William P. Van Ness, and Thomas Addis Emmett, of New York, Richard Stockton, of Princeton, New Jersey, and Governor Clinton at Albany. Mr. Pinkney, Mr. Harper, Mr. Stockton, and Mr. Emmett, were practising lawyers, of the most distinguished talents in the profession. Mr. Van Ness, and Governor Clinton had both belonged to the bar, but had left the practice for a good many years. Mr. Pinkney, Mr. Harper, and Mr. Emmett died in term time, and whilst laboriously engaged in professional business, an excessive attention to which probably contributed to their sudden decease.

From the Pennsylvania (German) Telegraph.

It is a striking fact and worthy of notice, that there are at present upwards of fifty papers published in this state which advocate and defend the present virtuous and enlightened Administration of the General Government of the United States. And it is equally striking, that at the last Presidential election in 1824, not a single paper supported the claims of Mr. Adams to the Presidency. Notwithstanding these facts, which are so glaring and well known to the present unholy "combination," yet they have the effrontery to maintain, that no changes have taken place amongst the people of Pennsylvania, relative to the Presidential election. Wonderful? But it requires the most extraordinary and desperate efforts to keep up the sinking spirits of the worshipers of the "Military caudidate," and prevent them from falling into absolute despair.

Citizens of Pennsylvania, continue your efforts in so good a cause as that in which you are now engaged, and your efforts will be crowned with success, and the voice of Pennsylvania will be heard in favor of the present Administration.

LIVERWORT.

I find it absolutely necessary to resort to this method of advising the public not to employ the roots of the Liverwort, but the leaves alone, as the former is nauseating and otherwise ill adapted to the end in view. The leaf alone is always what I intended and meant to recommend; and another thing I wish to enforce, for the credit and character of the remedy, that all other remedies should be relinquished and as much as possible avoided, during the use of this article: for how can it have a fair chance and trial, when it is continually—as I know it has been in numerous instances—opposed by the intervention of so many conflicting counter agents. Such a state of things would defeat the best and most powerful remedy upon earth.

Another thing, a great many cook the preparation entirely too much; a simple infusion is all that is expedient and necessary.

The applications are so numerous, and the attention to them so arduous, I shall require 10 dollars in all cases, in the first instance, and 20 if a correspondence is invited—of course, making the exceptions which I have made, and always intended to make, in regard to the poor and needy.

JUSTIFIABLE HOMICIDE.—In the early part of the night of the 1st inst. a negro man, (whose name we have not learnt) made an attempt to break into the house of Mrs. McLaughlin, a widow lady living near Massy's Cross Roads in this county. Mrs. McL. put a child out at a window and sent it to a neighbours house for assistance—a friend came and remained until a late hour, during which time the attempt was not renewed. Apprehending no farther danger he returned home. Soon after, the negro again renewed his efforts to break into the house, when the child, as before, was despatched for assistance. In the mean time the negro was making rapid ingress at Mrs. McL's chamber window, and she found it necessary to stand on the defensive, and accordingly commenced operations, with an axe-helve, upon his head, and by the time her neighbours arrived she had despatched him—life was extinct, and she saved from robbery, violation, and perhaps death Murder is shocking, in almost any shape, to the finer feelings of our nature, but it must be admitted that the above was an act of justifiable homicide.

Singular Iron Case.—The Boston Evening Gazette mentions, that a merchant of that city, expecting a ship from Russia, laden with iron, entered into a contract some time since, for the sale of it at a certain rate, provided the vessel arrived before the 1st of March; or, if after that time, the contract was to be null. On the 29th of Feb. the ship was telegraphed; and in the course of the day, she came to anchor in the lower harbor, being compelled to do so from head wind and tide. Since the contract was made, Iron has risen in the market, and both parties claim the cargo; one that the ship had, and the other that she had not arrived.

Quere. When may a ship be said to have arrived, and where must she lay? In coming up the harbour, the ship got ashore on the point at Fort Warren—had she arrived then?

There is a son of Mungo Park, waiting at Acra (on the Gold Coast, for the Eden by which he expects to receive some scientific instruments from Europe. This modern Telemachus is a midshipman belonging to the Sybille, and is on the point of setting out in quest of certain intelligence respecting his father's death. He has already gone a journey of about 90 miles into the interior, in order to feel his way; and he appears to like his further plan very much having assurances of three hundred miles safe convoy. He goes babited like a black, with a cloth about his loins: oils his skin every day, and wears neither shoes nor stockings.—Literary Gazette.

DIED

In this town on Friday the 14th inst. after a painful illness, Mr. SAMUEL GROOME, in the 51st year of his age. This highly respectable citizen has been many years engaged in active Mercantile pursuits, and by his enterprize and public spirit contributed very largely to the improvement of this Town. The death of such men never fails to inflict on society a severe and irretrievable loss. The energy which characterizes their laudable exertions, is diffused through every class of the community. And perhaps to no one could this remark be more justly applied than to the deceased. Although industriously and extensively employed as a Merchant, his activity and usefulness were by no means limited to the occupation. He was constantly engaged in various employments which called for the aid of other classes of citizens, and thus essentially contributed to their subsistence and comfort. In his death our town must necessarily feel the loss of a respectable, active and enterprizing citizen.

His remains were attended on Sunday afternoon by a large concourse of his fellow-citizens, and after divine service at the Episcopal Church in this place, were removed to the burying ground belonging to that Church.

TIDE MILLS.

THE SUBSCRIBER having obtained by letters Patent, the full and exclusive right of making, constructing, using, and Vending to others, to be by them used, A Patent-Right for the Erection, Making and Using TIDE MILLS throughout the United States, & Territories thereof, will sell and dispose of, to those who are disposed to contract for, and embark in, this highly Valuable and important invention, an ample, full and clear right and power to Vend or use the same, for a single Mill, or for any County, State or Territory. This discovery is of the utmost importance to the great and increasing Interest of the Agricultural and Manufacturing Concerns of the Community at large. The great droughts that have prevailed during the Spring and Summer months for many years past, combined with the effect produced by clearing up the low lands and the cultivation of the high lands, has caused many streams of water that were formerly of great Volume and constant flow, to become entirely exhausted and of no value; from which circumstances a very serious inconvenience has already been felt from the great difficulty in getting grain ground for one half of the year; and as the population of our country, and the cultivation thereof increases, so in the same ratio will this evil be felt. If the Tide Waters where they flow into small creeks, can be made to subserve the purposes of Manufacturing grain and propelling Machinery for other valuable uses, much expense, time and labour will be saved, and that this can be easily and with little cost effected has already been clearly demonstrated.—In order to prove the great convenience & utility of Tide Mills, I caused one to be erected, and which now belongs to Edward N. Hambleton Esquire, and Col. John Eighman, on a small Creek near St. Michaels, and which although located within one or two miles of an extensive Steam Mill, does profitable and satisfactory business; and the Flour and Meal Manufactured at the Tide Mill is equal to any on the Eastern Shore of Maryland. It is supposed that Creeks convertible to those valuable purposes may be found along all our river shores, where the tide ebbs and flows—A sufficient power can be obtained from Tide Mills to give all the velocity necessary for the purposes of propelling Machinery used for manufacturing, and can be kept in successful operation twenty hours, in every twenty-four, throughout the year.

Application to the Subscriber, post-paid, will be promptly attended to.
