POETRY.

ORIGINAL POETRY.

Lines suggested by reading Allan Cunningham's account of his visit to the dwelling of Burns, the day previous to the burial of that highly gifted, but unfortunate genius.

We found him resting in the sleep
By earthly things unbroken;
And kindly ones, too sad to weep;
Their bitter thoughts unspoken,
Drew round his silent form and took
Their last, and long remembered look.

Yes, sad and long we gazed on him,
Beloved in life so much,
The glory of his form was dim
Beneath the spoiler's touch;
The manly hand that pressed our own,
Lay cold and motionless as stone.

His swarthy brow was broad and high—
A settled calm it wore;
And the dark beauty of his eye
Beam'd forth the soul no more.
The smile of joy, the frown of wrath
Had vanished in the sleep of death.

His arms were folded o'er his breast—
Young flowers were scattered there,
And on his rigid temple press'd
The sable locks of hair,
Which time and toil and sorrow's sway
Had early sprinkled o'er with gray.

Oh! we had seen that brow lit up
In pleasure's gayest throng,
At lifting of the banquet cup,
And pouring forth of song;
When high ones met his glance of pride,
And beauty listened at his side.

A thousand tender memories
Came up before us then—
The long enduring sympathies
Which link the hearts of men;
The light of blessed visions flown,
Around us at that moment shone.

And mournfully we turn'd away,
With solemn step and slow
Worn hearts were sadder, and the gay
Had fellowship with woe.
Silent we pass'd—words had no power
To paint our anguish at that hour.

BRANDYWINE
CHALYBEATE SPRINGS.

THE Subscriber having recently removed to this elegant establishment, situated about five miles from the Borough of Wilmington, and about the same distance from the Town of Newcastle, and occupying an elevated site in a district of country alike remarkable for the varied beauty of its landscape, the high cultivation of its soil, and the salubrity of its atmosphere—has opened it as a resort for those in pursuit either of health or amusement.

The sanative properties of the waters have been long celebrated, and for many years the invalid has sought the renovation of his strength in their use, notwithstanding the absence of those accommodations which were essential to his comfort and which are now abundantly provided.

The approach to it, is by various routs along the Elkton and Lancaster turnpikes, and the cross roads of the country, which are at all times in excellent condition. Its vicinity to Wilmington and Newcastle places it within the reach of the citizens of Philade phia and Baltimore, who enjoy the facilities and despatch of Steam-boat conveyance to the former places. To the inhabitants of the Peninsula it offers an agreeable refuge from the heats of summer, and a valuable tonic in its Chalybeate Springs.

The buildings, erected about a year since by an incorporated company, are spacious, and having been newly furnished by the subscriber, offer every accommodation that can be desired. The supplies of his table are drawn from the market of Wilmington and the immediate neighborhood, and will be found to embrace all the varieties of the season. His bar is provided with the choicest liquors, and the no less essential contribution of a well filled ice house.

The subscriber flatters himself that as from his experience in his business, he will not be found deficient in a knowledge of its duties, neither will he be found wanting in the anxious desire to promote the comfort and enjoyment of those who may honor him with their patronage.
