Instances of refined and delicate pride and affection occurred, at that period, every day in different places; & in fact this disposition and feeling was then so common, that it now operates as one great cause of our not having more facts of this kind recorded. SATURDAY EVENING—AUGUST 30, 1828.

MODERN CHIVALRY.

The literary world were long ago amused with Brackenridge's Modern Chivalry, and ere that had passed away among the fleeting productions of the Times, we are favored by his Honor, Judge H. M Brackenridge of Florida with a distinguished instance of practical and more Modern Chivalry in trying to transfer a portion of just vituperation, now resting on the shoulders of the Hero of New Orleans, who has been so lately signally overthrown by the voice of the people upon the very field of his former fame, to his own.

In this chivalrous attempt of the Judge, he has unfortunately, and no doubt unintentionally done the military hero more harm than good. Judge Brackenridge's letter is dated Pensacola, July 1828—in which he says, he makes the communication without the remotest idea of any bearing it may have on the Presidential contest—but merely in discharge of a duty to which he is bound in conscience, &c.

Whenever we can get men to think & speak conscientiously, we then come at truth and truth is all the people desire to enlighten their minds and direct their judgements. Judge Brackenridge having seen much blame cast on Gen. Jackson for the high handed Ordinances established by him when Governor of Florida, volunteers his confessions to save his favorite General that he (the Judge) and a Mr Abner L. Duncan being civilians, drew up those very Ordinances at the request of Gen. Jackson for him. Now what is one great objection made against Gen. Jackson? It is that he is unskilled in, unacquainted with, matters of Civil Government, and in relation to them must depend upon others entirely. In proof of this, we have the very confessions of the fact made by his worthy friend Judge Brackenridge, who is his intimate and who has given us all the particulars, time, place & occasion Now if Gen Jackson was incapable of making laws and regulations for a little Territory like Florida, how can we suppose him capable of managing the concerns of the whole United States? If Judge Brackenridge and Mr Duncan were necessary to enable the General to manage the Government of Florida for a few months, how many will it take to help him along with the more extended Government of the United States for four years?

So far we go for the proof, that in civil matters, Gen. Jackson must depend upon others—and this proof is the voluntary confession of his warm friend and well wisher. Another question then arises, viz:—Is it not wrong, is it not dangerous to trust any man with power, who being unable to exercise it himself, is under the necessity of employing irresponsible agents to do the duties that are lawfully and properly required of himself? Gen. Jackson, as Governor of Florida, was the responsible Magistrate—he was answerable alone to the President who appointed him, and to the Country in whose service he was, for the correct discharge of all his duties that had been assigned to him. Unable to execute these duties, he employs two persons—they really perform his duties, and Gen. Jackson fathers the acts of those two irresponsible men that he himself has picked up to do his business. The ordinances made by these irresponsible men and enforced by Gen. Jackson, were repealed and cast away by Congress unanimously the moment they knew of them—Gen Jackson as the responsible man, is now justly censured for these outrageous Ordinances, and a chivalrous friend, Judge Brackenridge, comes out and tells the whole story to relieve his friend the General—and confesses, that the General, the Candidate for the Chief Magistracy of this Country, procured himself and Mr. Duncan, being civilians, to do all this for him.

Now let the people seriously think on these matters and then say if better proof can be given of Jackson's incompetency for civil duties—or if they can think of voting for him as President after this exposure of his friend, Judge Brackenridge.

THE MERCURIALS OF THE SOUTH

Have long since shewn that they considered the cause of General Jackson fast wasting away, or they never would have come out with their bold denunciations of the Federal Union and their notes of preparation to resist its laws. These Mercurial politicians are to a man Jacksonian—they partake of the spirit and character of their Leader, viz: whatever suits their views and pleases their tastes they stick to—but if others oppose them, let their numbers be however great, the Law and the Union are nothing, but their Self-Will is every thing.—This is true Jacksonism.—So it was at Orleans—so at Mobile—so at Florida—so every where, where Jackson had command,—His will stands in place of Law, and his leading supporters want to follow his example.

If the Jacksonian Mercurials of the South had not thought the chances of Jackson hopeless, would they have furiously passed their non-intercourse resolutions against Kentucky at the very critical moment that her election was coming on?

If the Jacksonian Mercurials of the south had not believed that their Hero's pretentions to the Presidency were all in the fire, would they have bearded Pennsylvania to her teeth, at the time they did, with their threatened dissolution of the Union, if the Tariff was not repealed in-toto, & a security given against its re-enactment? A great Professor in South Carolina says:—"It is time to count the cost of this Union."—A Virginia Governor says "In the event of a Civil war between the South and Northern States, England would aid the South for the sake of the Cotton and Tobacco Trade, and that would be worth to the South One hundred and fifty thousand men, and the British Navy."

A Brigadier General in North Carolina says, "he would rather vote for General Jackson to be Emperor, than for Mr. Adams to be President."

Now Fellow Citizens, how would you like such people as these to rule over you? And these are the very men who would be selected for the highest offices in the gift of the President and present Senate, if Gen. Jackson could unfortunately be placed in the Chief Magistrates Chair.

The Jacksonians say, Jackson would call around him men of high talents who would be able to conduct the affairs of the nation well—But would Jackson be able to judge whether their measures were likely to be useful? a being ignorant himself, would be obliged to trust to chance? Men of talents abound in our country but it is not every man of talents that is able to govern—it is not every man of talents that is fit to govern—it is not every man of talents that has honesty enough to be trusted.

Let Gen. Jackson be contented with the applause for his military exploits that he has received, and let him thank his stars, that for the unbounded favours shown him through these military exploits, he has escaped being called to a dread account for his monstrous crimes, his more monstrous cruelties—Let the General and his Hangers-on, his Scribes and his Pharisees too become aware, that their schemes and their hopes are all bursting in air—that the eyes of the people are open, their ears are open, and their senses are too well awake to the preservation of their own and their Country's liberties, ever to confide the destinies of these United States to a set of maddened Mercurials, & a self-willed impetuous, and wrathful Military Despot.

THE FOREIGN NEWS.

European dates are to the 17th of July. The most important details are, that the Russians are victorious and vigorously prosecuting the war against the Turks who give them a determined resistance. The capitulation of the Turkish fortress on the Danube, Brailow, had been preceded by great loss to the Russians, both as to numbers and grade of officers. The policy of the Turks appear to be, to avoid a general Battle, and by desperate stands to commit all possible slaughter among the Russians—dividing the Russian forces by the numbers left on their route to garrison the captured Posts & thus diminishing the effective force with which they are to make their attack upon Constantinople. This War wears an angry and determined aspect.

Portugal has yielded to the usurpation of Don Miguel who has thrown off all the power of Don John by whom he was placed near the throne—put down the Constitution and its friends, and had himself proclaimed King in full form. An attempt at counter-revolution failed entirely—indeed the Constitutional Troops yielded at once. All the foreign Ministers from the different European Powers at the Court of Portugal, left there immediately upon Don Miguels usurpation and the general acquiescence, and it is now for the crowned heads of Europe, the upholders of legitimacy, to say, what course they will pursue as to this high-handed revolution. Will the Premier, Duke of Wellington be less energetic than the Premier Mr. Canning?

It appears to us, that this is a critical and eventful moment for the United States, when vigilance, policy, and address would be likely to produce incalculable advantages A preliminary step is already taken by this Government that would much facilitate ulterior views. Measures should be taken silently & ably prosecuted—there can be no doubt but that there is too much publicity and blabbing and calling in relation to our Foreign Concerns Electioneering schemes often knock up diplomatic measures

The Election of Mr. O'Connell the titled liberator of Ireland' to a seat in Parliament in opposition to a Cabinet Minister, Vesey Fitzgerald, is an event of no ordinary character, & is the highest proof of the growing influence of Catholic emancipation. The Ministerialists deny Mr. O'Connell's power to take a seat, being a Catholic.—and it will be a matter of great contest. The right is affirmed by a great constitutionalLawyer Mr. Charles Butler—It is not improbable that this subject may be productive of great events.

The late Tariff Law of Congress appears to have engrossed the attention of the British Parliament. Already they are contemplating retaliatory increased restrictions upon our great Staples, and will probably greatly injure our Navigating interest. We may consider ourselves as innitiated into a new War with Great Britain of a kind most to be deprecated by the great Interests of this Country—We mean war of Commercial restrictions.—England has much to reproach Herself with on this score, nor has the Government of our own country for the last twenty years, been as cautious and foresighted as it ought to have been. The evils under which we labour are deep rooted and of much age—they are not the products of the last half dozen years, for then, the state of things was as bad as now; the only difference is, that we were less exhausted then than now.

THEATRICAL.—A part of the Richmond Theatrical Corps, who are now on a summer excursion through the Eastern Shore, have been performing in our town during the present week & intend continuing during the next; they have fitted up the ball-room of the Easton Hotel in a very neat and handsome manner for the accommodation of the Ladies and gentlemen of the town and county, although but few of the former have as yet honored them with their presence—we see by the bills for this evening they intend performing the Ballet of the LAUGHING and CRYING PHILOSOPHERS with the Comic after piece of the DAY after the FARE—we hope their exertions to please may be crowned with success.

KENTUCKY ELECTION.—The Lexington (Ky.) Reporter of the 20th inst. contains more complete returns of the late election than we have yet seen.

From these it appears that Mr. Metcalfe has received majorities in 44 counties, and Mr Barry in 38 counties,—making Metcalfe's aggregate majority 1331 votes. After publishing the details of the statement showing this result, the Reporter adds:—

The returns from Whitley, Wayne, Henderson, Lewis, Calloway, and two or three other small counties are not perhaps precisely accurate; and no return has been received from the small county of Hickman. It is not however probable that the result will be varied by subsequent information more than one or two hundred votes.

Hickman county will probably give a majority of 100 for Judge Barry. Gen. Metcalfe's majority will probably be diminished 100 more by the last day's voting in Calloway. On the other hand, the last day's voting in Harlan county will be in favor of General Metcalfe, and the majority in Lewis county it is believed has been erroneously reported in favor of Judge Barry.

With respect to the division of parties in the Legislature, we are still of opinion, that a majority in both branches will be found on the side of the Administration. The Senate perhaps will be equally divided; the Lieut. Governor's vote in that case will be decisive. There have been many new members chosen for the House of Representatives, whose political predilections are not known to us, some of them perhaps without reference to the Presidential question. We believe we are not mistaken in asserting, that a large majority are Old Court Men.

With respect to the Lieutenant Governor, the returns are imperfect; it cannot be ascertained which of the candidates has been successful, before the polls are officially compared; but we have some doubt of Mr. Underwood's election.

To-morrow the Sheriffs of the several counties meet at Frankfort to compare the polls and make known the result; and on Tuesday, the 26th inst. the Governor and Lieutenant Governor elect will take the oaths of office.

INDIANA ELECTION.—The Kentucky Reporter of the 20th inst. states that the elections in Indiana have resulted in the choice of Governor, Members of Congress, and Members of the Legislature, friendly to the National Administration. No details are given.

[From the Baltimore American.]

VERY LATE FROM EUROPE.

The fast sailing brig Lady Adams, Captain Staples, came up yesterday evening, in the very short passage of thirty seven days from Bremen, whence she sailed on the 19th July.—The editors of the American are indebted to the politeness of commercial friends for a file of the Bremen Zeitung to the 17th July.

A St. Petersburg date of the 4th July states that on the 29th June, five line of battle ships and four frigates sailed from Cronstadt to reinforce the Russian squadron in the Mediterranean under Count Heyden. Another squadron of two line of battle ships and two frigates was fitting out, and would sail in July for the same destination.

The Algemeine Zeitung, says, that the French Government has made a loan of five millions of francs to Greece, and that Russia has loaned an equal sum—which will enable Count Capo d'Istrias to carry on the war with more vigour.

The editors of the Norfolk Beacon says:—"We have seen a letter dated Charleston, August 14, which states that the Yellow Fever is prevalent there."

In a case of seduction, recently tried at Harrisonburg, Va. a verdict of $4000 damages was rendered against the seducer The character of the unfortunate victim was, previously, unsullied, and her family worthy and respectable. A motion for a new trial was submitted to the court by the defendant's counsel, on the ground of excessive damages, but was promptly rejected.

We understand that there are not less than one hundred citizens, from the Eastern and Middle States, attending in this city as bidders for those portions of the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal which are ready to be put under contract.
Nat Intel.

From the Geneva Gazette of Aug. 13.

The body of a man was discovered on Sunday morning last, in the woods, near Thomas' tavern, in the town of Rose, Wayne county, about 3 miles north of the village of Clyde. From papers found in his pocket, it would appear that his name is Solomon Jones. He was about thirty years of age, and must have been dead about ten days. The verdict of a coroner's jury was that the body was that of a stranger murdered by some person or persons unknown. One of the legs was broken in two places, & the throat cut from ear to ear. Some of his papers were dated at Lake Champlain. He was seen some time previous at Thomas' Tavern, and is described by the family as a respectable looking man. He was well dressed in clothes of fine quality.

The body was discovered in a singular manner. A dog in the neighborhood endeavored at different times and by various arts, to draw the attention of the people to a particular place in the woods, but failing in this, he at length actually brought to the house part of a human leg, and continuing to act strangely, at length several persons were induced to follow him, and were led directly to the corpse of the murdered man.

Deplorable and Melancholy Catastrophe.—An event without a parallel in the annals of marine misfortune, occurred on board the brig "Mary Russell,' Capt. Stewart, of Cork, on her passage home from Barbadoes, which arrived in Coal on Thursday. There were on board, besides the master and mate, 8 men and 4 boys; of these 6 seamen and a naval gentleman, passenger in her, were found dead in the cabin on Monday morning last, by Capt. Callender, of the Mary Stubbs, of Belfast, which was also on her passage home from Barbadoes, and spoke the Mary Russell on the above morning, having been killed on the day before by the captain, according to the statement of the 4 boys The cause assigned by the Master to the Captain of the Callender was, an attempt on the part of the crew to mutiny, and his apprehension that they would take away his life; but to save himself, that he succeeded in inducing them to be tied in the cabin, each singly, before another was called down; and when all were thus rendered powerless that he put those seven to death with a crow-bar! The mate named Smith, and one sailor named Howes, by some means extricated themselves and escaped death; after being wounded in several places. It appears he was in the act of tying the boys also when the Mary Stubbs hove in sight. Capt. Callender held by the Mary Russell and saved Captain Stewart from being drowned, he having leaped twice into the sea for that purpose. Wednesday again, for the third time, he flung himself overboard off Castletown, and was picked up by a hooker. A warrant for the apprehension of Capt. Stewart has been issued, and an inquest held on the bodies of the seven men. We conclude that he must have been under the influence of insanity to have committed so cold blooded and horrible an act.—Limerick paper.

The Misses Rooker's Academy.

THE PATRONS of this Institution, and the public generally, are respectfully informed, that the duties of the Seminary will re-commence on MONDAY, the first day of September. Having long resided in this city, it is not deemed necessary to make any statements to the citizens of Baltimore, with respect to the merits of the School, or the qualifications of those who preside over its concerns. They venture to appeal with some degree of confidence to those best acquainted with them for testimonials of their assiduous efforts to form the minds of their Pupils.

But for the sake of those residing at a distance, they ask leave to say, that the spacious and convenient house in which they reside, is admirably calculated for the comfort and health of the Young Ladies belonging to the Boarding School—that all the branches of a useful and ornamental English education will be taught in their Seminary, and that strangers to them are referred to the following gentlemen for their character and qualifications as teachers.
