LINES

Written impromptu on the Blank Leaf of a Lady's Testament.

This, is the dear, the holy sacred Book!
Which man may ope, in penitence may look
And find a plan, by pure devotion giv'n,
Which frees the soul, and fits it for its Heav'n!
Though veil'd in darkness! a mysterious cloud!
Which doth from sin, eternal wisdom shroud!
Yet here is shewn, a Saviour's kindest love,
Examples giv'n, which point us far above;
Here may'st thou read; reading, believe thou must!
For ne'er were laws so wise, and yet unjust!
Here may'st thou light religion's holy lamp,
And thy young heart with virtue's impress stamp,
Then with thy God, in sweet communion live,
'Till earth shall cease to move, & ocean heave!

THE WALTZ.

Waltze n (G. Walzen, to roll) a modern dance and tune, the measuse of whose music is triple; three quavers in a bar. Busby. WEBSTER.
To Waltz, v. to get drunk. Flumgudget.

Mr. Editor,—The above definitions were the only ones that I could find for the word at the head of my article, after having thumbed several dictionaries. It is well known that a lady paid Johnson a compliment for his not having any naughty words in his dictionary; and, be it said to his praise, he has left out the word "waltz," though it is one of standard importation and rolls, withal, beautifully from the tongue.

The learned Flumgudget appears to have hit upon the right meaning of the verb; for a person who is not used to Waltzing, attempting to wind through its various mazes, will, most assuredly look for the floor upwards. Give me a pint of fifth proof brandy, and there is some hope of my walking straight; but, if you would have me dead drunk, order me to perform a Waltz of an hour's length with a fair one whose eyes swim in "liquid seas of fire," as she moves to three quavers in a bar, her feathers undulating to the measure, and her airy form feeling, in every joint, the empire of the triple melody.

Oh! for the glorious days of reels and contradances! when the sole-inspiring fiddle acted like a galvanic battery upon the nerves, when every limb shook in time to the merry set-to, and grace and activity were rewarded by applause. A Waltz! fudge! it will do well enough for the French, whose licentiousness is proverbial; but our American ladies were never intended to arrive at such a degree of refinement. Heaven forbid that they should! and I am proud to say there is something in our nature, that revolts at the idea.

I might say much on this subject, Mr. Editor, but my principal object was to state that a few evenings ago, (blush not for the fallen honors of France,) I made bold to peep into the window of a negro ball-room; when, lo, and behold! damsels from the ebony black to the golden mulatto, were gliding with their sooty partners through the graceful windings of the Waltz!—Pompey's arm gently clapsed the sylphlike waist of the lovely Cloe, and away they went, the former with a look of exultation, exclaiming "Go way you—white folk no hold a candle to nigger for dance Kloppinhigger Waltz.

BENEDICT.

We copy the following ANECDOTE from the Boston Evening Bulletin:—

"The Attorney General, now nearly eighty years of age, and said to be more competent to the discharge of the arduous duties of his highly Honorable station than almost any practitioner at the Bar, on account of his great learning and experience, as well as a remarkable retention of mental power, was managing a case in behalf of the Commonwealth, in Middlesex county, where a man was indicted for gouging out the eyes of a Girl, because she had made oath that he was the father of her illegitimate child. Her brother, an intelligent Lad of nine years of age, was on the stand as a Government witness; and his relation of the facts which he saw, produced an electrical effect on the whole audience. The Girl was also present, in total blindness; and every circumstance attending the investigation of this horrible barbarity, was highly exciting. The boy stated the preliminary circumstances, and then said:—"I was cutting bean poles round the barn, and my sister was milking; I heard her scream, and then I ran with a pole in my hand, and as I came up, I saw that he had pulled her over backwards; then he looked over his shoulders to see who was coming, and I struck him with the pole, and broke his jaw."—"Why did you not repeat the blow?" exclaimed the Attorney General, carried away with the tremendous interest—"why did you not repeat the blow, and knock his d——d brains out?" "Mr. Attorney," said the judge, "you well know that profanity in Court is a high offence, punishable with imprisonment; but, in consequence of the unusual excitement of the case, it will, in this instance, be overlooked."

PETER FRANCISCO, who has lately applied to Congress for a pension for Revolutionary services, was supposed, when in the prime of manhood, to be the strongest man in the U. States. We do not know whether, like Maximus, he could break a horse's jaw bone with a stroke or his thigh with a kick but we have heard the following story told in illustration of his strength:

The fame of Francisco's great strength spread far and wide through Virginia. Every man who could whip his weight in wild cats' burned with the desire of reaping renown by an encounter with Francisco. Among others, a bully from near the mountains, next to the land of half Horse and half Alligator men, determined on comparing his prowess with that of the reputed strongest man in the State. He deliberately commenced this journey with the intent of whipping Francisco, or being whipped himself. He arrives in the neighbourhood of his intended antagonist, and meeting a man in a lane with a stake and rider fence on each side he enquired of him if he knew Peter Francisco, and where he lived. The man answered that he was himself Peter Francisco. The business was made known and Francisco who was a peaceable man, remonstrated against such a foolish contest between two men who had never injured each other But in vain, the man would not be put off, and dismounting and tying his horse to the fence, told Francisco, that he must either fight or run. Francisco very coolly dismounting replied that he had never been in the habit of running—if he must fight he could not help it. They met—Francisco seized his antagonist like he had been a child, and threw him entirely over the fence—when he got up he very good naturedly asked him to be so good as to toss him over his horse also—he wished to be travelling.—Georgia Courier.

A schoolmaster who was as fond of the use of his grog as the use of the globes, was asked the difference between gravity & gravitation —"When I've drank five glasses of grog," replied the demagogue, "my gravity vanishes, and my gravitation begins to operate."

STOP MY PAPER!

Every man must have some object whereon to vent his spleen—"energetic bile" must have its way, or one gets jaundice. We once knew a man who as often as he was kicked and cuffed by the world, was sure to flog his wife and children, by way of balancing the account. Another had his nose pulled in a ball-room, and instantly he posted off to his lodgings and caned his negro. Lord Byron used to swear, when any thing went wrong with him—that old bear, Doctor Johnson swallowed oceans of tea and the impetuous Alfieri mounted a wild horse. Every one to his taste, in this country the taste is for a man to d—n his newspaper incontinently, when he becomes bilious. Let us take a few examples.

A man wakes up with the tooth ache, eats no breakfast, and goes off grumbling to his place of business. He takes up his newspaper—finds something in it not exactly in accordance with his own opinions, and instantly sends a note to the editors with instructions to stop his paper. He has his tooth pulled in the course of the day feels the want of his paper the next morning, and puts his name anew to the subscription list. 'Stop my paper,' bawls A. B. 'you are opposed to the tariff, and like a liberal man as I am, I will not listen to your arguments against it.' 'Stop my paper,' C. D. 'you are a confounded Turk, and I'll have nothing to do with you.' 'Stop my paper,' cries E. F. 'you refused to insert a puff for my newly invented flea trap. 'Stop my paper roars G. H, 'You have dared to express an opinion of your own, when you knew that I thought differently.' 'Stop my paper,' exclaims I. J. I cannot make a fool of you' and you will not do for me and so on until you come to Y. Z. Magnanimous mortals, what fine editors you would make. N. Y. Courier.

The Jersey Prison-Ship.—A person in Providence, R. I. proposes to publish, by subscription, the interesting Journal kept by the late Capt. T. Dring, while confined as a prisoner on board that ship. Very little of an authentic character is supposed to have been published heretofore, concerning the sufferings of the American prisoners on board—though much has been said on the subject.—From the character of Capt. Dring, the work, it is thought, will be a faithful narrative.
