EASTON GAZETTE.

EASTON, MD.

Saturday Evening, March 28.

In another part of our paper will be found the correspondence between the late President John Q. Adams, and James A. Hamilton, respecting the letter of Mr. Plumer of New Hampshire addressed to the former, dated December 20, 1828.

FORGERIES OF NOTES, says the Baltimore Patriot of the 19th instant, to a large amount in the name of several respectable houses in this city, were yesterday discovered to have been made and negotiated by Charles F. Myers tanner, in Saratoga st. extended. We are unable to state particulars, but understand that this fraud has been regularly imposed upon several monied institutions for some time past. The culprit has absconded with, as it is supposed, a considerable sum of money borrowed from different persons from whom he had been accustomed to receive such facilities in the transaction of his business.

We understand Myers was apprehended in Baltimore on Monday night last and committed to prison.

The Washington papers of Saturday, announce the following appointments.

APPOINTMENTS BY THE PRESIDENT since the adjournment of the Senate.

Mr. Isaac Hill of New Hampshire, to be Second Comptroller, vice Richard Cutts, removed.

Mr. Amos Kendall, of Kentucky, to be Fourth Auditor, vice Tobias Watkins, removed.

Mr. William B. Lewis, of Tennessee, to be Second Auditor, vice William Lee, removed.

A Convention met at Harrisburg, on the 4th inst. for the purpose of nominating a Candidate for the office of Governor of Pennsylvania. A great number of gentlemen were named as candidates, and 15 ballotings took place before any one had a majority of the whole number of votes. On the 15th ballot, which took place on Friday the 6th inst. GEORGE WOLF had 70 votes, and Isaac D. Bernard had 62 votes.—GEORGE WOLF, of Northampton County, was, therefore, declared to be duly selected as the Democratic Candidate, for the office of Governor of Pennsylvania.

We yesterday saw a young man who had just undergone the operation of having an eye inserted by Dr. Scudder. The eye moved, winked, turned and the light contracted and dilated with the natural eye. He could close one, or both the eyes, at will. No person could discover, with close examination, which was the artificial eye.—[N. Y. Enquirer.

GOLD.—The Fayetteville (N. C.) observer says:—The Gold region in this State is enlarged by new discoveries almost every day. We learn that the precious article has lately been found in several places near Carthage, in Moore county, about 40 miles from this town.

The Supreme Court adjourned, on Friday 20th inst. after a laborious session, during which they have disposed of fifty three causes, leaving a docket of one hundred and one causes. But for the week which was wholly lost by the omission or refusal of the Senate to act upon the nomination of a Judge of the Supreme Court, vice Judge TRIMBLE, the Court would have made a much larger breach in the docket: as it was, however, much was done.—[Nat. PIRATE ON THE FLORIDA COAST.

Statement made by Captain J. HOUSEMAN, commanding the wrecking sloop "Sarah Isabella," respecting the appearance of a Pirate on the Florida Reef.

At day-light, on the morning of the 8th inst. discovered a schooner inside the Reef, off Key Tavanier; immediately got under way and proceeded towards her; boarded her, and was immediately commanded to put the schr. in the Gulf, with the threat that if she touched the bottom the captain would shoot me. Carried her across the Reef, when the captain told me as my boat was better than his, and he wanted a few more men, he should take me and my boat's crew with the schooner. The wrecking schr. "Thistle" pursuing at the time, informed him that she was an armed schooner, upon which he concluded to liberate me paying me 50 dollars for pilotage. She was a Baltimore built schr. carrying a fore-topsail, no name on her stern,—a long gun amidships, and manned with upwards of fifty persons, officers and men—all Spaniards. Capt. H. thinks she was chased across from Key Sal bank, by the U. S Cutter Marion, Captain Jackson, who left Key West a few days previous in pursuit of her, which cutter appeared off Key Tavanier a few hours after I left, tacking to the northward and southward. Could not learn the Captain's name, he reported having left Havana the day before, and was bound to one of the ports at the E. end of Cuba. Her decks were filled with fish, which proved she was a cruizer, and had been fishing on the banks: one of the officers was dressed in the Mexican Uniform.

STATE OF MAINE.—Enoch Lincoln, Governor of Maine, has declined a re-election, and a portion of the Legislature have resolved to support Jonathan G. Huntoon, of Readfield, who has consented to be run as a candidate for the office. To a committee who waited on Governor Lincoln to request him to be a candidate for re-election, he replied—

GENTLEMEN;—I acknowledge with the most respectful sentiments, your invitation to be a candidate for the office of Governor. Nominated in accordance with your wishes and those of the estimable persons you represent, it is painful to me to decline. Having served, however, for several years in that office, it seems to me that I may now be permitted to receive a discharge, which I will presume to believe must be an honorable one.

In retiring, I cherish the hope that, amidst the pursuits of agriculture, from education dear to me, I may be useful to my fellow citizens.—In their character I take pride, for their confidence I am grateful, and to their welfare my heartfelt anxiety will always be directed.—Through you I submit to their judgment, whether the Administration of the Government, as far as I have had any influence, has not been virtuous and democratic.

LEXINGTON, Ky. March 11.

An unfortunate occurrence took place in this town on Monday evening. Mr. Charles Wickliffe called at the office of the Kentucky Gazette in the forenoon, and demanded of the editor, the author of a communication published in that paper on Saturday. The editor requested him to call in the evening for the name of the writer. At the time agreed upon Mr. W. again called; when, in consequence of the author's name not being given, an altercation took place between them, which resulted in Mr. Wickliffe's shooting the editor (Mr. Benning) with a pistol. The ball struck about the hip. The wound is a severe one, but it is believed it will not prove mortal.

STEPHENSON IN CUSTODY.

Last evenings mails bring us accounts of Stephenson having been unlawfully seized by some agents of the British Consul, at New-York who had despatched a pilot boat to Savannah, for that purpose. He alledges that he was secretly taken out of his bed, by five armed men, conveyed on board the pilot boat, and arrived at New York on Monday last.

The excitement occasioned at Savannah on discovering the abduction, was very great indeed; a steam boat was dispatched immediately in pursuit of the pilot boat.

New York seems to be in a perfect ferment. The outrage on our laws demands redress.—The Journal of Commerce says:

"Our news men brought us intelligence that the pilot boat Savannah, had anchored off the Battery. The vessel was well known, having been employed before as an express boat. The circumstances was sufficient to excite some suspicion, and we gave information to the merchants who are agents for the London creditors. They immediately despatched a messenger to the Savannah, but the English Consul had already been notified from the vessel, and was on board with the high constable Hays, who had arrested Stephenson upon sundry writs for large sums of money. The prisoner was immediately conveyed to the residence of a merchant, where he was treated with all the commisseration which his unhappy condition called for.—There he met with Mr. Parkins, the Ex-Sheriff of London, to whom he is indebted to the amount of £15,000 sterling. He appeared worn out with anxiety and fatigue, and extremely dejected and miserable. His feelings had risen to such a pitch of desperation, that yesterday morning he attempted to destroy himself. He was afterwards so bound as to prevent a repetition of the attempt. Such has been his distressing anxiety, that for nine weeks his linen had not been changed. During the conversations which were had with him last evening, he wept very freely, and spoke with much apparent emotion of his children, but made no disclosures with regard to the immense amount of money, which, through his means is so mysteriously deficient. He yielded himself peaceably to the High Constable, and seemed ready to comply with whatever might be proposed to him.

"As to the process by which he has been delivered up to the persons who have set so high a price upon him [about $6000,] whether it has been one of law or that not less celebrated process of abduction, we are not yet told."

Numerous warm paragraphs appeared in the various papers of the day. The following from the Advertiser, is the latest.

"We have just returned from a scene of as much excitement as we ever recollect to have witnessed

Early this morning it was known that a writ of Habeas Corpus was issued last evening, by the Recorder in behalf of Rowland Stephenson, supposed to be detained in custody, without due process of law. Accordingly there was an unusual buz and stir about the City Hall, at an early hour.

The Recorder was informed soon after 10 o'clock, that a return would be made to the writ at 1 o'clock. But long before that hour, the Recorder's office was crowded almost to suffocation, by citizens, as well as gentlemen of the profession.

Punctually at the hour appointed, Hays came in with Platt, one of the Sheriff's Deputies, who we had already been informed by the Sheriff, had Stephenson in custody on a civil process. He looked pale and dejected, but has the air of a gentleman, and every appearance of great mildness, and benevolence of Character.

Messrs. Patterson, May, Wylie, J. Blunt and another gentleman appeared as Counsel for Mr. Stephenson.

Messrs. Wards and Hoyt, as counsel for Mr. Ex-Sheriff Parkins, and Mr. Peter A. Jay, in behalf of the British Consul, and Mr. Goodhue.

The writ having been handed to the Recorder Mr. Sheriff Shaw produced a capias, against the prisoner at the suit of Ex-Sheriff Parkins. No objection being made to his discharge from the custody of Hays, the Recorder pronounced him at liberty—so far as the habeas corpus could benefit him; but, said the Recorder, as he held the capias in his hand, "I cannot discharge him from this."

Mr. Shaw then took charge of the person of Stephenson; and

Mr. Robert Emmett now rose upon a chair, and addressed the multitude, with a view of allaying the excitement. He said he was authorised by Mr. Stephenson to say, that so far as the British Consul was concerned, and Mr. Hays also, he had no complaint to make, either of ill treatment, or otherwise.

Mr. Wylie then turned to the multitude, and said that the statement of Mr. E. was considered by the counsel for Mr. Stephenson, as altogether gratuitous.

Some collision of words took place between the gentlemen, when Mr. Emmett repeated what he had said.

Mr. Wylie and Mr. May now consulted a few moments with Mr. Stephenson.

Mr. Patterson made a few remarks hinting at a dark feature in the transaction—the blame of it rested upon some gentlemen.

Mr. Jay replied pretty sharply, and a sharp contest of words ensued, during which the Recorder several times interposed to allay the excitement. Mr. Patterson was cheered several times.

Here the British Consul addressed the assembly, stating that upon his word as a gentleman, he had no connection with the removal of Stephenson. He received a letter from two marshals of Savannah, apprising him of the seizure of S. in consequence of which he went on board the Savannah when she arrived.

He accompanied him to Mr. Goodhue's and saw him there last evening. Advised him to go to Mr. Hay's house, as he would be kindly treated there. He was hospitably used at Mr. Goodhue's, and they drank wine together. The consul said, he admitted that he had sent a letter and affidavit to Savannah to have S. arrested but that he had given him a pledge to save his life. He felt as much commisseration for his situation as any man could do.

Mr Emmitt now interposed in behalf of Mr Goodhue, who stood beside him, and who solemnly disclaimed any participation in the arrest of S. or the means adopted for that purpose.

Mr. Wylie then stated, that he was authorised by Mr. Stephenson to declare, that he had been treated in a most ruffian like manner.

Yes, said Mr. Patterson that is what we are coming to.

Mr Wylie: Mr. Stephenson says that he was arrested, and dragged from his bed, in the night, by five men, armed with pistols—

Mr. Stephenson—and swords, also

Mr. Wylie By four men, armed with pistols and swords, and in this manner kidnapped and dragged on board of a vessel—on board of which also, he has been bound and treated with ruffian violence. [A shudder ran through the crowd.]

Mr. May now rose to address the people, but the Recorder entreated silence; and the sheriff ordered the room cleared.

Mr. Shaw now took Mr. Stephenson by the arm, and he was led away to the Debtor's Prison, on the civil process before mentioned.

The excitement was very great.—There was but one feeling, that an unlawful and violent trespass had been committed, expressed by all the citizens present. It was understood that Stephenson's counsel would take proper measures to do justice to him and the violated laws of the country. When he went off with the Sheriff, the crowd considering its density retired with great good order.

CASE OF FUGITIVE STEPHENSON.

In the London Times of 8th January, we find some remarks upon the probable condition, in this country, of Stephenson, which, as putting the case plainly, of the difficulty of surrendering fugitives, we copy:

[N. Y. Amer.

Notwithstanding the passengers in the streets of London were stunned with the cries of hawkers, announcing the particulars of the capture of Stephenson, it seems to be believed though it is not certain, that he has escaped to America; and the next inquiry is, whether the Government of the United States will give him up. Clearly not. There is no treaty which binds them and us to a reciprocal surrender of moral or legal delinquents; and such treaty being non-existent, he has violated no law in America. There, therefore, he has a right to shelter, & to the usual security of persons living in peace in the country which they inhabit. At least such is our view of the subject, we believe rational men will concur with us.

There is not a subject of greater delicacy in the public law of nations, than that which regulates the state of fugitives from one country to another. The line which separates criminal from political offences is, in many cases, indistinguishable; and if men, upon a principle of morals, are to be seized and given up for the former, it will not be long before all the latter shall be, by explanations and glosses, drawn within their character and circumscription, and then, as Gibbon justly observes, the whole world would be but one great prison—there would be no escape from tyrannic power, whether exercised by single despots, by aristocratic combinations, or by triumphant rebels.

To the Editor of the Easton Gazette.

Mr. Graham:—As a good deal has been said on the subject of the non passage of the Assessment Bill by our late Legislature, and as blame has been attached to both branches of that body for its failure, you will confer a favor on a Subscriber by inserting in your next paper the Preamble and Resolutions submitted on that subject by our representative Mr W. Hughlett.

ONE OF THE PEOPLE.

Mr. Hughlett presents the following Preamble and Resolutions.

By the House of Delegates,
March 13th 1829.

Whereas this General Assembly have been for a considerable time in Session, and have not been able to agree upon a System of Taxation and Revenue,

And whereas it is necessary and the duty of the Representatives of the people, to provide funds to meet the demands upon their Treasury—and entertaining no doubt, that, the people of this State are willing and desirous that a Revenue Bill based upon equal Taxation upon the whole wealth of the State, upon a just and equal Assessment, should be passed into a law—and whereas no such System is yet passed into a law, and it becomes this General Assembly at this time, not to remain longer in Session than is necessary to Sign and Seal the Laws already passed,

Therefore, be it Resolved by the General Assembly of Maryland, That the Treasurer of the W. Shore be, and he is hereby empowered and directed, with the advice and consent of the Governor and Council, to sell for the best price he can obtain so much of the Baltimore and Ohio Rail Road Stock or Chesapeake and Ohio Canal Stock, the property of this state, as will be necessary to meet the current demands upon the Treasury—and upon the Sale of said Stock, to transfer the same to such purchaser, or purchasers,

And be it further Resolved, That if the said Treasurer, with the advice and consent of the Governor and Council, shall deem it more for the Interest of the State to borrow Money upon the Credit and faith of the State, than to sell any portion of this Stock—That in such case the said Treasurer, with the advice and consent of the Governor and Council, be and he is hereby empowered and directed to borrow from such person or persons, or such bank or banks as may be willing to lend such sum or sums of money; as may be necessary to meet the current demands upon the Treasury; and issue Certificates therefor in the usual and common form, payable with interest quarter yearly at the rate of five per cent. per annum; and the principal sum to be paid at the pleasure of the State, on or before the year one thousand eight hundred and forty; and the said Treasurer is directed to Report to the next General Assembly, in the first week of their Session his proceedings under these Resolutions,

Which was read and referred to the joint committee of Ways and Means; and the Committee on Internal Improvements, who reported unfavourable to a sale of the Rail Road or Canal Stock, but reported in favor of a Loan of $30,000; which was rejected by the House of Delegates.

It is believed Mr. Hughlett's preamble and resolution, if they had not been referred would have passed the House of Delegates; and it is believed that the Treasurer and Executive would have used that discretion, which would have been universally approved.

I do not pretend to question the wisdom and correct views of the House of Delegates.
