Every body that reads Benton's speeches in the Senate, remembers that last winter, when he was uttering one of his quizes about Bank rags and gold coin, he said he had not and would not have a Bank note, except one counterfeit that he held, but that he used gold coin altogether—paid his hackman in gold—paid his washerwoman in gold—paid for every thing in gold.—Here we have a representation of one of these golden scenes of the Humbugger in true style.

A SLIGHT MISTAKE.

A Legend of the Golden Era.

[Scene—Senator Humbug's Study. Enter Washer-woman with a bill for the Senator.]

'Here's a small bill, Sir—just a dozen pieces,
Sorry to trouble you—but I want the money;
For in my purse, Sir, I do not see a single Eagle you promised me!'

'Sit down, good lady; I would hold some converse:
I want your opinion on momentous subjects—
And it will give me great delight to know your Views on the currency!'

'Currency? quotha? What the deuce is that, Sir'
'Your general ideas with regard to Banking.'
'Banking! heaven bless you! Really, I don't know, Sir,
What you can mean, Sir.'

'I mean the MONSTER. Tell me what your notions
Are of that Anaconda—horrible she dragon—
Briarean hydra—every thing in short, ma'am,
Horrid and damnable.'

Bless me! I thought that the Hero of New Orleans
Strangled the monster! Surely, Sir, you said so
The very last time you were so very kind as
To settle my bill, Sir!'

'Do you like RAGS, ma'am? Answer me that question.'
'Not very partial to them, may it please your Honor!'
'Do you like Gold, ma'am?' 'Really, Mr. Humbug,
What can you mean, Sir?'

'Don't be alarmed, ma'am: I have no intentions'—
'I am quite surprised Sir.' "Madam, on my honor'—
'Don't talk to me, Sir! That you should imagine!
Fie! Mr. Humbug!'

'Aint you ashamed, Sir? Is'nt it a pity
Old men like you, Sir, shouldn't know no better?
I take your gold, Sir! You're a pretty fellow—
MONSTER OF MONSTERS!'

[Exit in a rage. Senator Humbug left in a state of consternation.]

Atlas.

A vast number of packages of the Extra Globe, have been forwarded from Washington to the State of Mississippi, endorsed on the envelope, 'Free—Andrew Jackson, P. U. S.' The old democratic doctrine used to be, that Federal officers should not exercise their official privileges for purposes of electioneering—and we have even had a grave lecture from this same Andrew Jackson, when he was himself a candidate, upon this very topic.

Md. Repub.

It is seriously discussed among some of the Whig papers at the North, whether it is not bad policy to shew that Col. JOHNSON would disgrace the office of Vice President, some of them contending that the more unworthy he is proved to be, the more deaf will he become to the 'Great Republican party'—Others think that the Colonel has been selected by VAN BUREN to draw off a share of public scrutiny from himself. After what has happened, and the experience we have had of what things in JACKSON and his friends have not only been tolerated, but increased their popularity, the question is certainly one very hard to decide.—Charleston Times.

LATER FROM FRANCE.

We learn from the Philadelphia Exchange books, that the New York 10 o'clock boat brings the arrival at New York of the packet ship Rhone, Rockett, master, from Havre—sailed June 2d. No news of importance.—The Chamber of Peers had not acted upon our indemnity bill.—U. S. Gazette 10th.

CATHOLIC CHURCHES.—In the year 1800 there were only 40 Catholic Chapels in England; there are now more than 500, many of them large edifices quite in the Cathedral style.

Mr. LIVINGSTON has resigned his situation as Minister Plenipotentiary to the French Court In a note to Mr. Forsyth, dated 20th ult. he says, 'The principal business with which I was charged having thus been brought to a close, I presume that my services can no longer be useful to my country, and I therefore pray that the President will be pleased to accept my resignation of the trust which I have been honored.' Mr. Forsyth, in reply, under date of 30th ult says, 'I am directed to reply, that the President cannot allow you, who have been so long and usefully employed in the public service, to leave the trust last confided to you, without an expression of his regard and respect. * * * And that you will carry into a retirement which he hopes may be temporary, the consciousness not only of having performed your duty, but of having realized the anticipations of your fellow citizens and secured for yourself and your country the just appreciation of the world.'

The Crops.—The Salem (N. J.) Banner says: "Our farmers have commenced plying the sickle in their grain; and another week or two will find their barns as full and as heavy with these crops, as ever they were at any previous season. The wheat, rye and oats of our county will turn out as good, and some say better, crop, than for many years past; the time of "gathering in" will be rather late, but the wheat in particular will be heavier."

The Norfolk Herald of Wednesday says—"The rumor given out in our last, of the appointment, of Mr. Taney to be Chief Justice, is probably premature, though it is generally believed that it will be confirmed in due time."

AMERICAN POPULATION.—The wife of a young man of Massachusetts, now resident in Maine, has presented him with five children in the space of eleven months; two at one birth, and three at another. The American party is looking up.

For the Easton Gazette.

Mr. Editor:—

Having waited very patiently, but in vain, for a 'defence' of the Primary School law; and for a refutation of my objections against it, I deem it expedient to make a brief reply to 'Observer.' I am not one of those, Sir, who believe in the infallibility and perfectibility of the labours of man, either in Church or State. If this were the case, we should not so often see laws enacted, repealed, and re-enacted, and supplements heaped and filled upon supplements, until confusion is rendered worse confounded, and the subject matter involved in the most glorious uncertainty. If my pen has drawn only a wretched caricature of the Gentleman's Bantling, it behoves him to hasten to the rescue, and to delineate a true and genuine likeness, but I strongly suspect that 'the father of the law' has not been able to recognize his own offspring, in the portrait that has been exhibited to the public's gaze.

Whether laws are passed by 'overwhelming majorities' of the votes of the Sovereign People, who, according to 'Observer's' maxims, can do no wrong, or by their Representatives who may some times err, still I hold it as sound Republican doctrine, that such enactments do no shut out controversy on the merits of them, or foreclose all discussion as to their probable operation.

It is a matter of little moment, whether I am 'known to Observer' or not, or whether I am 'one of the obnoxious Feds,' or a member of the good, old Democratic Party, which, by the bye, has been dead and buried, a long time ago; but it grates rather harsh upon the nerves, to be charged with plotting 'to deceive the people, and to cheat them out of their dearest rights.' The writer for the Whig well knows, that there has not been one word written against the system, but against the plan that has been proposed for carrying it into effect. If the truth could be known I apprehend it would be found, that the People generally, both learned and ignorant voted for the system of Primary Instruction, under the impression, that it would not be very oppressive to any class in the community, to carry it into operation, under the law that had been referred to them. Now if it should be made manifest, by plain and intelligible statements and calculations that it will operate differently from what was effected, and will require the imposition of such taxes upon the County as will prove ruinous and disastrous in the extreme; can any good reason be alleged, why it should not be repealed and a more eligible one substituted in its place. If 'Observer is such a friend to the People's rights,' let him prove the fallacy of the arguments and objections against the existing law, and the real cost and expense that he thinks, would be attendant on it. I should be also glad to know; whether He, or 'the Father of the law,' is of opinion that the Taxable Inhabitants of those Districts where schools shall not have carried into operation under the law, should be taxed to pay for the education of children in other districts where schools shall or may be established, or whether the law ever contemplated, that schools should go into operation in any, or even in one district, unless they were, at the same time in successful operation in all the districts. It is probable that no more than one fifth of the School districts will avail themselves of their privileges, and organize their schools. It therefore becomes an important question, whether a tax shall be levied upon the whole county, to educate the children within such favoured Districts, to the total exclusion of all other children. This omission is certainly their own fault, but it evinces great disregard of, and indifference to their own dearest interests, on the part of the People, of an acknowledgement of the defect of the Law. A majority carried the law, and a majority should reap the fruits of it, or none.

A TAXABLE PARENT.

July 1st; 1835.

The Maryland State loan of one million of dollars, to bear an interest of six per cent and to be irredeemable for thirty five years, was taken on Wednesday by Messrs. J. I. Cohen, Jr. & Brother, Messrs. A. Brown & Sons, and Messrs Biddle, at a premium of $17.60 per hundred dollars. The proceeds of this loan are to be applied to the construction of the Susquehanna Rail Road, which work will be completed to the borough of York with all despatch. It will be recollected that the stock of the Company for the construction of the line between York and Columbia, was subscribed a few weeks ago. This latter work, we are gratified to add, is in the hands of those who will see that it proceeds to completion pari passu with the road from this city to York.—Amer.

The testimony in the case of the Will of the late John Randolph has been closed before the General Court, sitting at Richmond. Of one of the witnesses,—Judge Leigh, in whose presence the Will of January, 1832, was made,—it is said—'He has nobly relinquished the fine legacy which was bequeathed to him by that will—in order to testify, as he believed, in behalf of truth and justice.' The Courier remarks that the main object of the trial has been to prove that Mr. Randolph was or was not of sane mind during the winter of 1831-2. If it be decided that he was sane at the time of making the will of June 1, 1832; in which the son of Mr. Bryan is made the principal inheritor, the will of that date will necessarily be established, if on the other hand the Court should be of opinion that he was not in a state of mind to make a disposition of his property at that period, and that the will then made is void, new questions will arise, and other wills of previous dates be offered for probate. Much of the testimony has been of the most curious and interesting character, such as might be expected in a minute history of the last days of a man of so much genius and eccentricity. It was supposed that the cause would be submitted to the Court without argument.—Balt Amer.

HAIL STORM.—The unusual warm weather which had prevailed for some days previous, was relieved yesterday evening, by a brisk and copious dash of rain, accompanied at the commencement by a heavy blow and near its conclusion, by a considerable fall of hail after the violence of the storm was over, the rain continued to fall moderately for an hour or two, and must have had a most auspicious influence upon the "parched earth," and upon vegetation which had been suffering under drought The hail was not large; but made up in number what they wanted in size A gentleman residing in the west end of the city, informs, that the accidental derangement of a small awning served to collect and treasure up what fell in a space of about 12 feet square, which were found to measure, near half a peck.

FOR SALE.

IN consequence of a settled disease, I have had for more than two years, deprives me of paying that attention to my farms, that is necessary to my interest, and I have come to the conclusion of disposing at private sale my farm, lying within four miles of the Trappe, and about one mile from Great Choptank river, containing 484 1 2 acres of land—this farm is now laid off in three lots, and three fields, the former is well improved, and the latter can be made so, as the soil is chiefly white oak land; there is a new brick well of first rate water in the yard, and also a fine Mineral Spring within in 300 yards of the dwelling, this tract of land was formerly in two farms, and can be made so again, if persons should be disposed to purchase together—the
