...ercise of which depend the liberty of the citizens and the supremacy of the laws, on the one hand, and, on the other, the establishment of a system of rewards and punishment and official tyranny and oppression of most ruinous tendency. Already are all the elements of political strife in motion, and the fiercest passions of the partizan and of the demagogue in rigid training for the coming contest. Already are the agents of Mr. Van Buren on the scent and on the wing, rife for any breeze or any bustle, that may be so controled or so directed, as to further his schemes upon the liberties of his countrymen, or aid his onward march over the prostrate institutions of his country. Even the finger of the Magician, if we mistake not, is visible in this very movement. Is it reasonable we ask then, to suppose that, at a time like this, when all the circumstances and influences by which we are surrounded, partake of a high degree of excitement, the people of our state are prepared to enter calmly & dispassionately upon the transaction of the momentous business for which it is proposed to assemble them in Convention, for the formation of a Constitution by which they and their posterity are to be governed?—We believe not. We are sure they are not. Let the coming contest be decided. Let the battle which is to decide our fate for weal or woe, be fought. Let us determine whether we are to be cursed with the sway of Martin Van Buren and his army of one hundred thousand office holders, whose broad banner bears the motto, "To the victors belong the spoils;" or whether we are to live under the benign influence of laws administtated for the good of the whole people as contra distinguished from a party. Let us determine all this—and all this we must determine in less than one year hence, and then we can turn our attention to the amendments of our Constitution, in a spirit of calmness and moderation, from which we may with confidence anticipate the happiest results. Until then, it will be little short of madness to embark in the work of reform; and until then even the preliminary steps towards the work to be accomplished cannot be taken with any propects of a favorable issue.'

EASTON GAZETTE.

EASTON, (MD.)

Saturday Morning Dec.* 19

In looking over our exchange papers, we find great difference of opinion respecting the tone of the President's Message; some say it is pacific, others that it is warlike; some that it blows hot and cold, others that it is all that it should be—As our readers have now, the whole of the Message before them, they will be able to judge for themselves.

CONGRESS.—We have melancholy news from Washington. Three members of Congress have died since the commencement of the present session, viz:—SMITH, of Connecticutt and KANE of Illinois, members of the Senate, and WILDMAN of the House of Representatives—SPEIGHT of N. Carolina, is ill.—The Senate have done little else than attend the funeral obsequies of deceased members, two of whom it appears left home in very bad health—the house are at business and the Senate commenced on the 16th to appoint its committees. This is a matter of arrangement and the result of the election of the several chairmen show the strength of the Whigs in the Senate as now existing. These Chairmen of Committees were elected by the Anti-Van Buren members and it must appear to all from the number and standing of the Jackson Van Buren men among them, that the greatest liberality prevailed.—Seven being of the Jackson Van Buren side and eleven or twelve of the Whigs and opposition; and the residue not very prominent as party men—We presume no questiou of importance will arise before we receive news from France.

CONGRESS.

SENATE—Wednesday, Dec. 16.

The Senate proceeded according to order to ballot for the several standing committees. In the first instance the Senate ballotted for the chairman of each committee, and, after the whole of the Chairman had been elected, to fill the committees. The committees are as follows I place after the name of each Chairman the number of votes by which he was elected.

Foreign Relations. Messrs Clay, (28) King of Georgia, Tallmadge, Mangum and Porter.

Finance. Messrs. Webster, (25,) Wright, Cuthbert, Mangum and Tyler.

Commerce. Messrs. Davis, (22) Goldsborough, Tomlinson, McKean and Linn.

Manufactures. Messrs. Knight, (22.) Ruggles, Morris, Prentiss & Hendricks.

These were all the committees filled. The other chairmen appointed are as follows.

Agriculture. Mr, Brown, (25.)
Military Affairs. Mr. Benton (29.)
Militia. Mr Robinson (36)
Naval Affairs. Mr. Southard (25.)
Public Lands. Mr. Ewing (24)
Private Land Claims. Mr. Black (25)
Indian Affairs Mr. White (36)
Claims. Mr. Naudain (21)
Judiciary. Mr. Clayton [21]
Post Office and Post Roads. Mr Grundy [25]
Roads and Canals. Mr. Hendricks [39]
Pensions. Mr. Tomlinson [24]
District of Columbia. Mr. Tyler [28]
Revolutionary Claims. Mr. Moore [21]
Contingent Expenses. Mr. McKean [22.]
Engrossed Bills. Mr. Shepley [21]

The Senate adjourned after filling four of the committees

There were 43 members present at the beginning of the ballotings. Some went away afterwards which accounts for the diminished vote in some cases You see the anti-administration votes out-number the others.

FLOUR.

An unusual degree of activity prevails in the grain market, existing to considerable extent, previous to the severe cold of the present week, and greatly increased by its prevalence. The Commercial List of this city gives a general review of the grain and partially of the flour market which as it possesses great and general interest we make the following extract from; notwithstanding we think the writer has underated the extent of the crop, especially in this state. It has certainly been most unfortunate that the canal navigation has closed upon so large an amount of produce on its way to market, although it must ultimately reach its destination through some other and of course more expensive channel "It was generally believed that the wheat crop of 1834 was short of an average, and if any doubt existed on that point at harvest, none could have remained when at the close of that crop this spring, without any unusual foreign demand, prices advanced 15 to 20 per cent., and it was well ascertained that stocks of wheat left with farmers, millers and factors, had at no period within thirty years been lower. Under these circumstances, a large crop in 1835 was anxiously looked for, but if fears existed on the result soon after a winter of unusual severity, our experience since harvest, has fully confirmed them. It is now well understood that the crop of this year in the State of New York and Ohio does not exceed 3 4 of an average, in Pennsylvania 7-8, and in Delaware, Maryland, and Virginia 5 8. Some districts the deficiency is even greater, but in others the crops are better than these proportions, and such is the case in a large part of the eastern section of Pennsylvania, and that part of Ohio bordering on lake Erie. Considering that little old wheat remained with farmers, it is not surprising that the deliveries since harvest should have been short of expectation in Pennsylvania and New York, nor that we should already hear complains from southerly wheat sections whence it is usually brought to market before winter, that the crop is nearly exhausted already. Taking from a crop deficient 1-4 what is required for seed and for consumption in the farming districts, the disposable surplus will be found only 1-2 that afforded by a full average crop. We are not disposed to reduce the disposable surplus of all the wheat districts so low as that, this year; but we fear it will be found, when from that surplus is taken the usual quantity for export to foreign places, increased perhaps 50 or 100,000 bbls. of Flour to make up to Spanish West India, for deficiency in Spanish Flour, which may arise from the unhappy state of that country, there will remain a short supply for the growing consumption of our great cities on the seaboard, and we doubt not the late advance in flour, with a certainty that those great sources of supply from the interior, the New York and Pennsylvania Canals, must soon be closed for several months, may be attributed to an apprehension of this kind. It is not to be supposed that there will not be Flour left for consumption such a state of things scarcely ever occurs in any country, and cannot well in this, until its population is much greater than at present; but prices must and will attain that point at which consumption is so far checked as that the supply will be adequate to the demand."

BALTIMORE.—DECEMBER 17

ARRIVED.

Steamboat Maryland, Taylor, from Easton. Saw in the mouth of Easton Bay, a schr dismasted, masts and sails lying over her side, and apparently half full of water—off Poplar Island, a schr capsized, both were bay vessels, could discover no person on board of either—a schr at anchor in Annopolis Roads—off Magothy, 2 schrs at anchor, all Eastern vessels—off the Bodkin a brigantine at anchor, supposed a Boston packet Wind fresh from N. W. and very cold—ice making fast.

The Georgia Telegraph published at Macon contains the following paragraph:

'The Texas fever has treated us worse than the cholera. Our office is completely swept!—Journeymen and apprentices men and boys, devils and angels, are all gone to Texas! If our readers get an empty sheet, or no sheet at all, don't blame us."

JUDGE WHITE.—A Washington correspondent of the U. S. Gazette, says—'Judge White looks very well; and I am happy to find among his friends a disposition similar to that which has been expressed by Mr. Webster and Mr. Clay, the course of uniting on that Anti-Van Buren candidate who shall be deemed the most likely to concentrate the strength of the party. Very probably it may be determined on, to hold a convention of the friends of all the Anti Van Buren candidates, at which it will be decided who shall be received in the electoral colleges. This appears to be the general sentiment, and I see no better way of effecting what is so desirable to all—the defeat of Mr Van Buren.'

A bill has passed the house of Representatives of Massachusetts striking out the whole list of 'exempts' from military duty. Judges, Doctors, Ministers and all, must now shoulder 'hoot,' and walk up to the chalk.'
