his attention and perusal, those books which he, in after life, by his own searching has found more worthy and advantageous to be read. Without some one to recommend, we frequently have to nearly or quite read a book through, to ascertain whether it is worth a reading or not! This is not the case, however, in every instance; as we often find out the character of a work from its title, and from a brief glance at its general contents. But this does not supercede the importance of recommending.

There are hundreds of books that are very well calculated to secure the attention of the young, and which, too, afford a seemingly exquisite kind of pleasure to the imagination: but they leave the mind in the possession of nothing permanent or advantageous. They leave behind a little more than 'the shadow of a shade," or what is still worse, the mere remembrance of a fiction, or a lie! The human mind, according to an excellent idea expressed by Dr. Watts, should not be made a lumber room—a room to hold an unimportant furniture. The mind should be stored with materials of the most lasting and profitable description Intelligence ought to be acquired, that one would not be ashamed of, on any occasion, whatever; and intelligence too, the communication of which, would be instructive, and acceptable to the lovers of wisdom. According to the old proverb, "it is not all gold that glitters;" and so, also, is not every eloquently written book, or well penned tale, founded upon the invulnerable, and immovable ROCK of TRUTH. It is unspeakably better to peruse Watts on the mind, Watt's Logic, Brown's Philosophy of the mind, Locke's Essays, Paley's Moral Philosophy, Rollin's Ancient History, and many others that could be named, than the miserable and baneful heaps of Novels that are found in too many libraries in our country. I hope that the time will come, when the young of our country, will cease to devote their immortal energies, to purposes so servile and degrading!

In the recommendation of Books, I will not pass by the best of all productions—the HOLY BIBLE. In regard to the truth of its narrations the importance of its doctrines, and the sublimity and awful grandeur of its style, it immeasurably surpasseth every other production! As far as the mind of Deity surpasses that of man, so far does its contents overreach the loftiest production of a human being'—Its truths will effectually lead the soul from this land of shadows and death, up to the fertile, ever flowery, and blissful plains of heaven!

FASHIONABLE ABSURDITIES.

The origin of many fashions was in the endeavour to conceal some deformity of the inventor; hence the cushions, ruffs, hoops and other monstrous devices. Patches were invented in England in the reign of Edward VI by a foreign lady, who in this manner ingeniously covered a wen on her neck.—When the spectator wrote, full bottomed wigs were invented by a French barber, named Duviller, for the purpose of concealing an elevation in the shoulder of the Dauphin.—Charles VII. of France, introduced long coats to hide his misshapen legs. Shoes with very long points, full two feet in length, were invented by Henry, Duke of Anjou, to conceal a large excrescence on one of his feet. When Francis I. was obliged to wear his hair short, owing to a wound he received in the head it became a prevailing fashion at court, others on the contrary adapted fashions to set off their peculiar beauties, as Isabella of Bavaria, remarkable for her gallantry and the fairness of her complexion, introduced the absurd fashion of leaving the shoulders and part of the neck uncovered. In the reign of Queen Elizabeth enormous pantaloons were pushed to a most ridiculous excess. The beaux of that day stuffed out their pantaloones with rags, feathers, and other light matters, till they brought them out to a most enormous size.—They resembled woolsacks, and in public exhibitions, they were obliged to raise scaffolds for the seats of these ponderous beaux To accord with this fantastical taste the ladies invented large hoop farthingales.

In a preceding reign the fashion ran on square-toed shoes; in so much that a proclamation was issued that no person should wear shoes above six inches square at the toes. In the reign of Henry IV. they wore long pointed shoes to such an immoderate length, that they could not walk till they were fastened to their knees with chains. Luxury improving on this ridiculous mode, these chains the English beau of the fourteenth century had made of Gold and silver; but the grotesque fashion did not finish here; for the tops of their shoes were carved in the manner of a church window. The ladies of that period were not less fantastical. With our ideas of grace and comfort, we can scarcely refrain from commiserating a lady of fashion in those days, her standing-up wire ruff, rising above her head; her corsetts, or boddice, so long waisted as to reach her knees, and the circumference of her large hoop farthingale, which seems to enclose her in a capacious tub, mark her out as one of the most pitiable martyrs of ancient modes.

PLANTAGENET.

To be concluded in the next.

A Dreadful Earthquake occurred on the evening of the 1st January, a few minutes before sunset, in Syria. The towns of Tiberias, Japhet, and many other villages, were entirely overthrown by its violence, and nine-tenths of the inhabitants are supposed to have perished. All the new buildings at Acre were destroyed. The extent of the earthquake had not been ascertained, nor had they heard from Jerusalem.

EXTENSIVE FAILURES IN NEW ORLEANS.

The New Orleans American of the 8th of March, says 'We are fallen on singular and anomalous times. In the midst of unexampled prosperity, when all the avenues of trade are open, when money is abundant for the ordinary operations of commerce, we are called upon to record several extensive failures involving an amount alarming to the general credit. On Saturday, one of our largest and most influential houses failed for seven millions, carrying with it full five millions more When and where this is to stop we know not. The rage for speculation has been so great, that there is no estimating the amount of responsibilities incurted. It does not appear to have been confined to real estate.

Letter to the Nat. Intelligencer, dated

NEW YORK, March 19, 3 p. m.

I have but little news to send you today, and the little I have is not good Instead of the four failures of which I sent you an account yesterday, I have heard the names of four additional failures, and am told that more will follow. The general rumor to-day is that the Messrs. Joseph will not resume payment. The Express Mail did not come through last evening, and no additional news was brought from New Orleans. I wrote you last evening that the United States Bank offered to loan the Messrs. Joseph one million of dollars The offer was of course made upon the promise of good security.

The failures of the city are the subject of conversation every where, and the excitment is very great. We hope much, but are prepared to hear, if possible, of worse news than we have already heard.

The wind blew furiously last night, in consequence of which the Providence steamboat, due this morning, has not yet arrived. No news in the city.

Courier and Enquirer Office,
NEW YORK, March 17—3 o'clock, P.M.

The House of J. L. & S. Joseph & Co. in consequence of their connexion with the Houses in New Orleans which have stopped payment have been compelled to suspend payments until Monday. Should the Houses in N. Orleans resume payments, of course the Messrs. Josephs will go on without inconvenience.

We learn that they have accepted on account of the New Orleans Houses about $2 000.000 and remitted to them about $400 000—all of which will fall upon them unless the New Orleans Houses are enabled to resume payments by the Bank there.—We also understand that the Bank of the U States offered the House of Joseph's $1.000.000 to enable them to proceed

MONEY MATTERS.

The Philadelphia Herald of the 23d has the following paragraph:

A good deal of anxiety is now manifested in our business community, to hear 'the news' from New York, New Orleans and Europe; every ear is open, and every whisper heard that breathes of money, and no one seems to know what a day or an hour may bring forth. In times like the present, Rumor is ever abroad with her hundred-mouthed trumpet, spreading false news, throwing out mystesious hints, and making free with the names of the best men. Let not her reports be listened to—at least let them create no alarm. Truth travels slow, but it is better to wait her arrival than to hurry off upon the steeds of Rumor. The best advice that can be given is to 'keep cool'

FROM FLORIDA.

The war ended again!—Letters from Jacksonville Florida, of the 11th inst. state that all the chief but Oseola have come in, and consented to removal, and that the war is indeed ended. The Indians say that Oseola is in the Suwance, and that they will bring him to Tampa Bay by the 11th April.

To Correspondents.—"Theodoric" is too severe.

"Spectator"—enough has been said on the subject already—perhaps too much.

"Caroline," in answer to a "Friend of the Ladies' is now out of date—we have had it in hand for the last three weeks, but were forced to exclude it for want of room.

ED. P. ROBERTS & FAVDS & NEILSON

Having purchased the Establishment of the FARMER & GARDENER.

Successor to the

AMERICAN FARMER,

And being desirous to place it within the reach of every agriculturist in the United States, have concluded to reduce its subscription price from five dollars, to two dollars and a half, per year, from and after the beginning of the next volume, which will commence in May next.

It is now nearly eighteen years since the American Farmer was first established. Prior to its institution, there were no paper exclusively devoted to agriculture in the country, and it will not be arrogating any thing but what it deserves, to say, that, as it was the pioneer in the good work, the labors of its former conductors must have been productive of much solid advantage to those for whose benefit it was established. In continuing its publication, the present proprietors flatter themselves that its pages will be found to contain matter at once calculated to instruct & interest the agricultural reader. So far as they are concerned, they are determined to conduct it with industry, unflinching perseverance, & with undivided attention to the great and important purposes which called it into existence. They feel certain that none of its patrons will have cause to complain, at the end of their subscription year, that they have left any effort unessayed to render it worthy of their confidence and support.

In reducing its subscription price, they have ventured upon an experiment full of risk and responsibility, and as they have done so under the influence of motives which they must be permitted to say should commend it to a greatly increased subscription—as they can alone look to that as the source of their remuneration—and as in so doing, their labor will be much increased—they appeal to its present patrons to aid them in giving it an extended circulation. They are confident that those who now honor them with their support, can, without personal inconvenience, in their own immediate neighborhoods, and among their persons' friends, by using their deserved influence, procure such an addition to their present list of subscribers, as will not only realize their fondest expectations; but place them under renewed obligations of interest and gratitude, to render the Farmer and Gardener a welcome visitor to the fireside of every farmer and planter.

The farmer and Gardener will at once be a faithful repository of original communications from practical agriculturists and horticulturists and of judicious selections from every other available source. Foreign, and domestic agricultural, and scientific works, will be constantly resorted to, for the purpose of furnishing materials calculated to advance the prosperity and happiness of the country, and of adding to the intelligence of the American husbandman.

In fine, whatever concerns the business, of the farm, domestic animals of all kinds, newly invented implements of husbandry, those of approved utility now in use, together with the principles and practice of agriculture, horticulture, and gardening generally, will be regularly and conscientiously noticed. The prices of produce in this market, and the value of bank notes will be weekly laid before its readers.

With a view of keeping their patrons advised of all superior breeds of animals already introduced, or which may be hereafter imported, they will sieze the earliest opportunity of translating all such information to the columns of their journal.

TERMS, &c.

Price two dollars and fifty cents per annum for all subscriptions paid in advance, or within one month from the date of subscription—all subscriptions which remain unpaid beyond that period, will be charged at the rate of three dollars per year.

The Farmer and Gardener is published every Tuesday, is printed on fine paper, with a beautiful bold type.

NOTICE.

In consequence of a succession of outrages perpetrated by the boys at the Beverly Seminary, in so concealed a manner, as to prevent the possibility of detecting the guilty individual or individuals, the teachers have thought proper to suspend the school indefinitely, as it is now organized, and in lieu thereof, to organize one on a plan, new in many important respects. This plan proposes to limit the whole number of students to thirty—fifteen of whom are to be under the immediate care of each of the teachers. The religious instruction will be exclusively attended to by the principal, and the domestic department entirely in the hands of the assistant.—The houses are to be so arranged as that not exceeding four shall lodge in the same room, one of whom shall have charge of the key at all times. Every attention shall be paid to the comforts of the boys, and in order that this may be warranted, an increase of $20 to the present charge, for board must be made—making it $100. The course of studies, both in the Classical and in the English department, will be the same as formerly.

LAND FOR SALE.

The farm on which Mr Ezekial H. Cooper, resided, for, the last two years, about five miles from the Trappe, and one or one and a half from Choptank river,

This Farm is laid off in three fields and three lots, the latter is very fine land, capable of producing 150 Barrels of Corn—one of them well set in Clover,—the fields fine land to improve,—there is a new well of first rate water near the Dwelling, and also a fine mineral spring, about 300 yards from the Dwelling A large quantity of WHIT OAK TIMBER, AND WOOD, can be spared, enough I presume, to pay nearly double the amount of the purchase, which is convenient to deliver on the river,—the situation is considered to be as healthy as any in the neighborhood.

This Farm, was formerly in two, and persons wishing to purchase, can divide it with convenience. I have not rented this Farm for the present year owing to the difficulty of getting seed wheat, and possession can be had on the disposal of it.
