POETRY.

From the Boston Mercantile Journal.

THE MAN RUNNING AFTER HIS HAT.

A race—a race—a fruent hat,
And bare-head man on whom it sat,
The latter trying to get at
His topmast cover;
The other leaping like a cat,
The fences over.

With rapid pace he onward flies,
And now 'tis just before his eyes:
He leaps too far, and postrate lies,
While o'er his head
The nimble truant onward hies,
With noiseless tread.

He's up again—resumes the chase,
And flies along with speedier pace;
He leaps, determined to replace
The agile rover;
The hat is foremost in the race,
And he's keel'd over.

Again he's up and on the wing,
To speedy close, the race to bring,
He leaps, and gives a desperate spring,
And all to jelly,
The hat is crush'd—a worthless thing,
Beneath his belly.

So youth for happiness oft strays,
In eager hast her flowery way,
But in so rapid motion they
Leap o'er the goal,
And mock'd and disappointed lay,
And lose the whole.

A snail-like march full many keep
For happiness along they sweep,
In cool pursuit continual creep,
And following on,
Too far behind they take the leap
And find it gone.

And others still like lightning dart,
Where pleasure's roses flushest start,
And eager to secure a part,
Headlong they rush;
But find to late, with aching heart,
The flowers they crush.

THE FAMILY ALTAR.

Ps. 95, 6.—O come let us worship and bow down—let us kneel before the Lord our Maker.

Come to the place of prayer!
Parents and children, come and kneel before
Your God, and with united hearts adore
Him whose alone your life and being are.

Come to the place of prayer!
Ye bend of loving hearts; oh come and raise
With one consent the grateful song of praise,
To Him who blest you with a lot so fair.

Come in the morning hour!
Who, who hath raised you from the dreams of night?
Whose hand hath poured around the cheering light?
Come and adore that kind and heavenly power!

Come at the close of day!
Ere wearied nature sinks in gentle rest,
Come, and let all your sins be here confessed;
Come, and for his protecting mercy pray.

Has sorrow's withering blight
Your dearest hopes in desolation laid,
And the once cheerful house in gloom arrayed?
Yet pray—for he can turn that gloom to light.

Has sickness entered in
Your peaceful mansion? Then let prayers ascend
On wings of faith, to that all-gracious Friend,
Who came to heal the bitter pains of sin.

Come to the place of prayer!
At morn, at night—in gladness; or in grief,
Surround the throne of grace—there seek relief,
Or pay your free and graceful homage there.

So in the world above,
Parents and children, may you meet at last,
When this, your earthly pilgrimage is past,
To mingle there your joyful notes of love.

E. P. ROBERTS & SANDS & NEILSON

Having purchased the Establishment of the

FARMER & GARDENER.

Successor to the

AMERICAN FARMER,

And being desirous to place it within the reach of every agriculturist in the United States, have concluded to reduce its subscription price from five dollars, to two dollars and a half, per year, from and after the beginning of the next volume, which will commence in May next.

It is now nearly eighteen years since the American Farmer was first established. Prior to its institution, there were no paper exclusively devoted to agriculture in the country, and it will not be arrogating any thing but what it deserves, to say, that, as it was the pioneer in the good work, the labors of its former conductors must have been productive of much solid advantage to those for whose benefit it was established. In continuing its publication, the present proprietors flatter themselves that its pages will be found to contain matter at once calculated to instruct & interest the agricultural reader. So far as they are concerned, they are determined to conduct it with industry, unflinching perseverance, & with undivided attention to the great and important purposes which called it into existence. They feel certain that none of its patrons will have cause to complain, at the end of their subscription year, that they have left any effort unessayed to render it worthy of their confidence and support.

In reducing its subscription price, they have ventured upon an experiment full of risk and responsibility, and as they have done so under the influence of motives which they must be permitted to say should commend it to a greatly increased subscription—as they can alone look to that as the source of their remuneration—and as in so doing, their labor will be much increased—they appeal to its present patrons to aid them in giving it an extended circulation. They are confident that those who now honor them with their support, can, without personal inconvenience, in their own immediate neighborhoods, and among their personal friends, by using their deserved influence, procure such an addition to their present list of subscribers, as will not only realize their fondest expectations: but place them under renewed obligations of interest and gratitude, to render the Farmer and Gardener a welcome visitor to the fireside of every farmer and planter.

The farmer and Gardener will at once be a faithful repository of original communications from practical agriculturists and horticulturists, and of judicious selections from every other available source. Foreign, and domestic agricultural, and scientific works, will be constantly resorted to, for the purpose of furnishing materials calculated to advance the prosperity and happiness of the country, and of adding to the intelligence of the American husbandman.

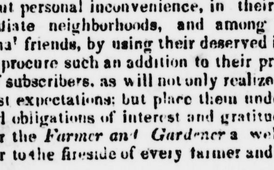

In fine, whatever concerns the business, of the farm, domestic animals of all kinds, newly invented implements of husbandry, those of approved utility now in use, together with the principles and practice of agriculture, horticulture, and gardening generally, will be regularly and conscientiously noticed. The prices of produce in this market, and the value of bank notes will be weekly laid before its readers.

With a view of keeping their patrons advised of all superior breeds of animals already introduced or which may be hereafter imported, they will sieze the earliest opportunity of translating all such information to the columns of their journal.

TRMS, &c.

Price two dollars and fifty cents per annum or all subscriptions paid in advance, or within one month from the date of subscription—all subscriptions which remain unpaid beyond that period, will be charged at the rate of three dollars per year.
