THE VICTORY IN OHIO IS COMPLETE!

Our best hopes are realized! The Whigs have carried majorities in both Houses of the Legislature!

VERMONT ELECTION.—The official returns have been received, and the Boston Atlas thus sums up the case.—

The Whigs have an increased majority in the Senate The Whigs have an increased majority in the House. And the Whigs have an increased majority for their Governor.

This is the great Van Buren gain in Vermont!!

It has been a somewhat difficult task to convince the Van Burenites that they are actually beaten in Maine, so unexpected and astonishing was their prostration in that region. One of them HOWEVER, seems to have realized the truth, and makes the best of it in the following good-humored way. He will gain but little, however, by his slang about "Federalists," and will find in the next trial of strength that the 'Democracy of Numbers' are on the wrong side for him.—[Md. Rep.

From the Belfast (Van Buren) Journal.

"WE HAVE MET THE ENEMY AND WE ARE THEIRS" horse, foot and draggoons!—used up to a dead certainty. The Democrat party of Maine are LOOKING UP, for the reason that they are at the foot of the ladder, and can LOOK NO WHERE ELSE.—If the federalists do not glorify at the result of this election, they know not how to appreciate victory. They have an undoubted right to rejoice.

We have been beaten, yet we do not despair. We say to the federalists as did the man, who, in a broil with another, when knocked down, jumped up, exclaiming, "blood and thunder, you can't do that again."

Whig Majority on joint ballot 21.

MARYLAND.

Below we give a statement of the aggregate number of votes given for each party at the late election in this State. It will be seen by this that Maryland throughout is still true to the cause which she espoused in the days of the revolution, and which she has ever since so unflinchingly maintained. The fact that in a number of the counties of the State, the Destructives did not raise an opposition, tended to lull the Whigs in the remainder into a state of inactivity, and by this the former have succeeded in gaining a few votes in the House of Delegates. Our majority in the House is still sufficient for all purposes, and in the state the aggregate is enough to ensure a triumph to the Whigs in any contest in which the voters of the State shall be called to engage.—In the first table we have taken the number of voters which the highest candidate received on each ticket in the counties where the Van Burenites made an opposition. As there was no opposition in the counties composing the last table, we have taken the last Presidential vote as the basis.

PENNSYLVANIA.

We hoped at one time that good old Pennsylvania would be found with Maine, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New Jersey, Maryland, Tennessee, Kentucky, Indiana, &c. but we are disappointed. Two hundred votes in the county of Philadelphia would have given the House of Representatives to the anti-Van Buren party—they have the Executive and the Senate. But while we lament the non-fulfilment of our entire wishes, we feel that the administration party has nothing to boast of Their number in the House is reduced from 72 to 55; and if the election had included a governor, the anti-Van Buren party would have elected their candidate by a majority of 20,000 and carried at least 60 it not 70 members of Assembly.—U. S Gaz.

---

It is amusing to see what small matters the Van Buren editors attempt to make a hurra about now-a-days. He of Easton, for instance, has been shouting incessantly ever since the election, because the single Van Buren candidate that was run in Talbot county, came within 39 votes of the hindmost man on the Whig ticket. Now if they could not succeed to get in a single Van Buren man when six Whigs were in the field, their hopes in a fair fight would be rather slim. Mr. Thomas' vote did not equal Mr. Martin's in 1835. -Md. Repub,

LETTER 1.

Dear Sir:

So many curiosities, such a variety of scenery and, multiplicity of concerns, have prevented me from writing you earlier. Since I wrote you last, I have had a very agreeable and interesting tour through several States, but particularly through the State of New York to the falls of Niagara, & the adjacent parts of Canada. If the description of the country through which I passed, the curiosities which I visited, and the sublime prospects exhibited to the gaze of the Northern Tourist, produce but a small part of the pleasure the writer of these letters experienced in his peregrinations, the reader will not be dissatisfied with a perusal of this letter, nor my subsequent communications.

To give a general description of New York would be unnecessary, because it has been ably described by many travellers It is the largest and most populous city in the United States, and possesses an unrivalled location as a commercial emporium. Ship business is mostly transacted on the Eastern side of the City, the harbour on that side being best protected from the prevailing storms.

Broadway is a beautiful avenue about three miles long, and eighty feet wide, and is the most fashionable promenade in the whole city. this street, or avenue is crowded in pleasant weather with every description of persons, and natives of almost every clime.

Here you see, observes a certain writer, fine-looking young men, with gold-headed canes, just returned from their travels; foreign gentlemen of great distinction, and superb mustachios; full-fledged heirs sporting their figures and their cash, brisk minors panting for their majority, and for early distinction; and genius of the first class, who exhibit themselves in their most intellectual, interesting, and abstract cast of expression.

All shapes, and hues, and conditions, and distinctions; all varieties of beauty, and of ugliness, of wealth and poverty; pride that exhibits itself in a new coat and pride that peeps through the torn drapery of an old one, from the man worth hundreds of thousands down to the poor despised sweep,—all may be seen in Broadway. The population of the city may be estimated at nearly three hundred thousand. The first fortified settlement was made two hundred and twenty two years ago by the Dutch, one year after the settlement of Albany.

The City Hall is an elegant building 216 feet in length, by 105 feet in breadth; the front and ends are built of white marble, and the rear of free stone, and is considered one of the most beautiful edifices in the United States The architecture is principally of the Ionic and Corinthian order. This edifice was about nine years in building, and cost more than half a million of dollars.

Numerous monuments in churches, and church-yards may be viewed with solemn and interesting feelings by the curious traveller. In St. Paul's church-yard may be seen an Obelisk thirty feet high erected to the memory of Thomas Addis Emmet, where are also the monuments to Major General Montgomery, and to George F. Cook, the celebrated tragedian. Query, is this the same Mr. Cook who burned his soul and body asunder with RUM, and when the physicians dissected him, the liver was so indurated that it resisted the knife as if it had become ossified? If it be the same man, who could be desirous of having an elegant, and expensive monument erected sacred to the memory of a bacchanalian tragedian!

In Trinity Church-yard is the monument to Captain James Lawrence, who fell in the contest between the United States Frigate Chesapeake, and the British Frigate Shannon, during the last war.
