☞REMEMBER THE PRINTER.☜

We ask the attention of all our delinquent subscribers to the following exhortary epistle, which we cut from the Boston Liberator.—We hope it will stir them up to the performance of their duty.

Come A, B, C, D, E, F, G,
And pay your bills honestly,
Both for the old year and the new—
Then, sirs, a happy year to you.

H, I, J, K, L, M, N, O,
We want our money—don't be slow,
Pray, do not let us ask again
Or spend our time or ink in vain.

P, Q, R, S, T, U, and V.
Our cash we would be glad to see,
If you our just demands will pay,
We'll wish you well on New Year's day

W, X, Z, &, all the rest,
Come forward now and do your best,
Come pay the printer all you owe—
He'll happy be, and wish you so.

Take notice—If you do not pay,
May you be troubled every day;
May conscience never give you peace,
Till you to be our debtors cease.

But if in answer to our call
You promptly pay us, one and all—
May your prosperity be great,
In eighteen hundred and thirty eight.

A CHILD'S HAIR TURNED WHITE FROM FEAR.

Some years since while an American vessel of war was stationed at Norfolk, Virginia, Dr. D——, an amiable and intelligent man, who acted as a physician and surgeon, used frequently to lodge on shore at the house of a respectable lady, to whose only son, a child of four or five years old, the doctor had become strongly attached, from having discovered in him an extraordinary degree of precocity, and an interesting disposition. After some months, the vessel was again ordered to sea, and Dr. D—— parted with his little favorite with regret. More than a year had elapsed, when the same vessel returned to N——, when the Doctor repaired to the house of his landlady to see his little protege. The child flew to his embraces, delighted to see him. After the first caress was over: 'Why, my dear boy,' said Dr. D —— patting his head as he spoke, 'who has been powdering your hair?' 'Nobody,' replied the child, whose joy was turned to the most extravagant grief, and bursting into a passion of tears, he quitted the apartment. Dr. D. sat in silent amazement, for the boy's hair was as white as the mountain snow. In a moment after the mother entered, and when the first gratulations were over he inquired the meaning of the last scene Saying to her, 'what have you been doing to your son's hair?' 'Nothing,' sobbed she, & following the child's example, she weeping left the room. The next time he called, she was better able to account for the mystery; & informed him that a short time ago she had been aroused at midnight by the loud and piercing shrieks of her child; & on hastening to his bed, found him sitting up in it; his countenance wild with horror, and the whole surface of his body dripping with cold perspiration.—On being made sensible of her presence, in a confused and incoherent manner, he told her that he had been visited by a frightful dream. The next day it was discovered that his hair was bleached, as white as though he had lived a century. This mystery, for such it certainly may be considered, was not perfectly understood, till about three years since, when by the dying confession of a relation, who was to inherit the property of the child at his decease it was confessed that on the night when the boy imagined he had been visited by a dream, he had himself made an attempt to strangle him, but was deterred from the commission by the terrific screams of the child.

Flour.—This article in the west seems now to go a begging for purchasers. At Cincinnati and Pittsburg, it is sinking rapidly towards $5 a bbl; so we hope with the cheapness of the staff of life and the mildness of the weather, and rather moderate price of Anthracite, the suffering poor throughout the country will pass a comfortable winter. It is truely a providential dispensation under the ills of a bad government that the unsurpassingly fruitful autumn had been succeeded by so propitious a combination of favorable circumstances. We shall probably this year hear no more of foreign grain importations from the Baltic or Black Sea.—New York Star.

SELLING AT HALF PRICE.

A witty Hibernian, just arrived in London, and wandering about, perceived a blanket at a shop door with this inscription on, 'This superior blanket for half price.' Pat walked in, and demanded the price; 'just five shillings, sir,' replied the shopkeeper. 'By my sowle, and that's cheep!' And so, folding the blanket up, and putting it under his arm, he laid down 2s 6d. and was walking off. The shopkeeper intercepted him and demanded the other 2s. 6d. 'Did'nt you say, you spa'peen, that the price of the blanket was 5s! And sure hav'nt I given you the half of it! And by the same token, I won't give up my bargain.' A scuffle ensued, and Pat was taken to Bow street: but when there he pleaded his case so ably, that the magistrate dismissed the complaint, and advised the shopkeeper never again to ticket his goods at half price.'

A Fair Offer.—Make, says Dr. Franklin, a full estimate of all you owe, and of all that is owing to you. Reduce the same to a note. As fast as you collect pay over to those you owe. If you cannot collect, renew your note every year, and get the best security you can. Go to business diligently, and be industrious; waste no idle moments; be very economical in all things; discard all pride, be faithful in your duty to God, by regular and hearty prayer morning and night, attend church and meeting regularly every Sunday, and do unto all men as you would they should do unto you. If you are too needy in your circumstances to give to the poor do whatever else is in your power for them, cheerfully; but if you can, always help the worthy poor and unfortunate. Pursue this course diligently and sincerely for seven years; and if you are not happy, comfortable and independent in your circumstances, come to me and I will pay your debts.

Finn's Last.—In Billy Black, last night, Finn perpetrated the following 'good 'un'—'Why are the crews of the exploring expedition like temperance men? D'ye give it up? Because they're not likely to get half seas over!'—[Boston Atlas.

About 800,000 bushels of foreign wheat and 140,000 bushels of rye were imported into Baltimore during the year 1837. It is expected a much less quantity will be imported into this country this year.

The quantity of Coal sent to market from the Pennsylvania mines, during the year 1837, exceeds that sent the previous year by about one hundred and eighty thousand tons.

The Philadelphia Ledger calculates that 250,000 bushels of grain are used annually by the distillers in that county, from which is produced half a million of gallons of whiskey.

Horses.—Since the 1st of January a year ago there have been shipped to the West Indies, from New Haven, 2046 horses.

Another Indication of a Mild Winter. A correspondent of the Republican, writing from Missouri, says, that as an indication of a mild winter the muskrat and the beaver have made no provision against inclement weather. The same fact and consequences were noted thirty years ago.

Almost beyond belief.—The sale of Morrison's Hygeian Pills in this country, for a single year as proved in a court of justice in New York, on Sears' trial for counterfeiting them, amounted to the enormous sum of between three and four hundred thousand dollars!

Pocock's receipe for curing beef and pork.—For pickling one hundred weight of pork, hams, beef, &c. take 6 gallons water, 9 pounds salt, half coarse, half fine, 3 pounds brown sugar, 1 quart molasses, 3 ounces salt petre, 1 oz. potash. Put the above ingredients into a clean pot or kettle, and let it boil, being careful to take off all scum as it comes to the surface. When the scum ceases to rise, take the liquor off and let it stand until it is cold. Then having previously rubbed your meat with fine salt, pack it away in the vessel which you intend to keep it in, pour the liquor over it and let it stand.

The Thorough-bred Stallion,

EASTERN SHORE.

Will stand next Spring in Queen Anne's and Talbot Counties. He was gotten by imported Luzborough, out of Equa, by imported Chance; her first colt was the Hunter Sky-lark, whose get have been so highly approved as road horses. Her second Lubly Rosa, by Sir Archy, who was never headed in any trial or race until she became distempered. The dam of Eastern Shore, is also the grand dam of Lady Archiana, who is also a winner and ran the second heat of a two mile race in 3.47, at 6 years old, which is believed to be quicker time than has ever been made in this country by a mare of her age. His dam is also the grand dam of Molinea, who won last year in Maryland, Pennsylvania and Virginia five races, out of six: Eastern Shore is a compact speedy horse, and like his sire—"an animated mass of cat-gut and whale bone," disencumbered of all beef lumber. So far his owner has not been able to get him in "right fix" to ascertain his bottom, but his family tree almost gives "assurance doubly sure" of this. The half brother of Picton out of old Equa, cannot be bad "any how you can fix it."

Eastern Shore will stand at $10 the Season, payable in "Constitutional Currency" or good "Shin Plasters" at the stable door before the service is rendered, or $15 payable during the season, which "promise to pay" may be discharged by $12 in the currency aforesaid if paid the first time the owner or his agen calls for it.

HEALTH COMFORT AND ECONOMY.

It is well known by many that Feathers absorb the dampness from the surrounding atmosphere, also matters exuding from bodies occupying the beds, therefore rendering them unpleasant and liable to engender disease—The above mentioned process is found by experience to purify feathers under all circumstances and add much to the preservation and wear of feathers.

The subscriber has taken a room in the house immediately adjoining the Store of Mr. C. Robinson, on Washington Street, where the public are respectfully invited to call and see his machine in operation. A bed sent to the machine in the morning can be returned in the evening in perfect order for use. Those wishing work done must apply immediately.

Easton, Jan. 13, 1838.

We the undersigned, having had beds dressed, from experience do cheerfully recommend it to all housekeepers, who would consult their health and interest fully believing it an operation not only purifying new Feathers and preparing them for use—while it restores old and much worn beds to an elasticity nearly to new, cleansing them from dust and bad odours and all exposures.
