POETRY.

FROM THE NATIONAL GAZETTE.

Messrs. Editors: Having been very much pleased with some remarks in a late number of the Globe, upon the present of a service of plate to Nicholas Biddle, Esquire, for the purpose of enforcing the wit and satire contained in them, I have taken the liberty to put it into verse. JUVENAL.

What does this mean! What dreadful times, alas!
What dire events, at length have come to pass!
"Seven thousand ounces" on the Monster's board!
Seven thousand dollars in his cupboard stor'd!
'Twill make at least seven thousand Loco's stare—
'Tis more than pure democracy can bear!
Just at this moment, too, when all around,
Destruction sweeps in triumph o'er the ground;
When trade is postrate, all the banks are broke,
And credit's vanished into fog and smoke,
And gold, propell'd by some unwonted force,
Drives against wind and tide its upward course—
That Biddle's dashing side-board should display
These guady trenches to the eye of day.

And what has Biddle done, what service hard
Has he perform'd to earn this rich reward?
He who, unaw'd before the first of men,
Bearded the royal lion in his den,
Beheld unmov'd the angry tyrant's crown,
And peer'd the terrors of his haughty frown—
Shall he, with bold rebellion's flag unfurl'd,
In the full vision of a wondering world—
Who dares all lawful rule and power withstand,
Be paid for treason with the cash in hand?
Compar'd to this what's the Sub Treasury plan,
The wisest project ever hatch'd by man,
Contriv'd, matur'd, consid'ed over, and design'd,
In Silas Wright's capacious, mighty mind,
With fraud and cunning artfully equipp'd,
And to the lips in foul corruption steep'd?

What will become of these United States,
If this huge Monster eats off silver plates?
Should this example once extend its force,
And our rich Indlings follow Biddle's course,
Should great Van Buren, modest and alone,
Mount three years hence the democratic throne—
(Ah! three years hence!—What dangers lie between,
What rocks, and shoals, and quicksands intervene,
Where hope may perish, fame and honor drown,
And mad ambition lose his fancied crown)—
Grow ostentatious, arrogant, and proud,
And look with scorn upon the Loco crowd,—
Resolve no more the vulgar throne to hood,
On pewter plates, or wooden trenchers feed,
But call on Congress, with a sovereign's smile,
To deck his palace in the regal style,
Grasp the proud sceptre with imperial hold,
And let his Royal Highness feed on gold—
What would become of us, its royal masters,
Reduc'd to old bank notes, or worse shin-plasters?

Wherever misery's iron fetters clank,
Depend upon't it comes from Biddle's bank:
That's the sole source from which those floods of woe,
Which sweep the land, in ceaseless torrents flow.
No worse machine was e'er devised by man,
'Tis viler far than Wright's Sub Treasury plan.
Seven thousand dollars! Here what mischief lurks—
Laid out in plates and platters, knives and forks!
All in the face of justice and of law,
To help Nick Biddle stuff his greedy maw!
What mighty good, as Judas said of old,
Might have been purchas'd by this mass of gold,
If once laid out to feed the hungry poor,
Or make th' election of some patriot sure?
Besides, what right can Mr. Biddle shew,
To eat on better plates than others do?
Why should not he, as well as 'Rives and Blair,'
Eat all his meals from common earthen-ware,
Fro a pewter platters gobble up his food,
Or from still humbler trenchers made of wood?
The truth is, all this plan of plates and knives,
Of cooks in kitchens in the place of wives,
Of boiling puddings, roasting, broiling meat,
Is pampering lordly appetites to eat.
Not so the savage, nature's darling child,
He roams the desert naked, lawless, wild,
Seizes on dogs, and snakes, and toads, for prey,
And eats whatever comes across his way,
All sorts of food with equal relish hails,
And tears his victuals with his finger nails.
This is the true, the Loco Foco plan
The best exhibit of the rights of man.
And yet, those favor'd few who office hold—
They feed on silve, and are paid in gold—
Patriots by trade, who seize their country's spoils
And reap a rich reward for all their toils.

A set of "credit plates" and "credit dishes,"
Would suit those wights who take the loaves and fishes,—
Poor hungry dogs, who hunt about for prey,
Grasp what they find, but never mean to pay
See great Van Buren in his palace walls,—
How plain and simple are those lordly halls?
No regal splendor meets the wondering eye,
No "East Room" grandeur makes great Benton sigh;
But every visitor, with deep surprise,
Beholds the nation's guest in humblest guise,
His face adorn'd with democratic smiles,
Beaming with genuine Loco Foco wiles.

Shall such a man be suffere'd to submit,
And lay his honors at the Monster's feet?
Shall great Van Buren bow his patriot head,
When Biddle passes by with lordly tread,
Calm and collected, cool, serene, and great,
Bidding defiance to the powers of state?

We'll teach him better.—See the storm draws nigh!
Already moves the tempest thro' the sky!
Hark! how the thunders roar, the lightnings rave,
Bursting from Grundy's wild Æolian cave;
Dark clouds proclaim the dread explosion near,
And penal vengeance bursts upon the ear.
Biddle, prepare! the awful hour draws nigh,
When low in dust your haughty head shall lie;
Swift thro' the States in doleful sounds shall ring
The dreadful sentence of the "MONEY King."
See the state-prison wide its portals ope,
Despair's sad refuge, and the grave of hope,
Where long secluded from the light of day,
The morn's sweet lustre, and the moon's Jim ray,
With nought to cheer him mid the felon's doom,
Save the deep horrors of a living tomb,
While Jackson's ghost, beneath a lurid sky,
With ghastly visage, and infuriate eye,
At large, on furlough, from his dread abode,
Led on by vengeance, and a thirst for blood,
Shall seek the spot where chain'd the Monster lies,
To cheer his heart, and feast his vengeful eyes.

Poor, weak old man! thy race of blood is o'er,
Thy voice alarms a dastard host no more.
In vain with angry fires thy bosom burns;
Biddle secure, thy threats of vengeance scorns.
Borne onward in his upright manly course,
He rises far above the tyrant's force,
Looks down from truth's sublime exalted height,
His foes all vanquish'd, scatter'd, put to flight—
Van Buren, Grundy, Kendall, Wright, and Blair,
Dissolv'd and left in midnight's murky air—
And smiles serene as summer's peaceful morn,"
And all their vulger vengeance laughs to scorn.

MARL FOR SALE.

The subscriber having made arrangements for disposing of the valuable shell marl, which exists on his estate in Talbot County, informs the Agricultural community, that he is now ready to deliver, of the above article, any quantity that may be required, by giving him timely notice.

The Marl may be taken from the banks at the price of one cent per bushel cash.

The fertalizing properties of calcareous marl are now so well known, that it is unnecessary to advert to the subject—in reference to this deposite it may be stated that it consists of Sea shells, with very little admixture of earth, and contains from 2 to 4 times the quantity of lime that is contained in the best English Marl.—Those wishing to purchase will please address William B. Smyth, Easton, Md. Vessels going for it will pass up the Great Choptank until the Dover Bridge appears in sight—they will then come to Barker's landing where they will find the lands of the undersigned on the west bank of the river.

WILLIAM B. SMYTH.

April 7, 1838

The following is an extract from the report of the Geologist appointed by the state of Maryland to make a minute geological survey of the State.

'But perhaps the most valuable beds of shell marl in this part of Talbot county, inasmuch as they may be made extensively available to the public demands for the article, are those which were fully described in the preceding report. They occur three miles below Dover bridge, forming the high bank from fifteen to twenty feet above tide, being one compact mass of fossil shells, and extending nearly a mile along the river, on the farms of the late Col. Smyth and Mr. Atkinson. These beds are in contiguous strata, apparently successive and consist of vast accumulations principally, in the ascending order, of oyster shells succeeded by clam shell's intermixed with other marine shells, scollop, clam and scollop, and uppermost principally of scollop. Endeavor was made to bring these beds into notice, with a view of enlisting them into public service, by giving to their proprietors what was deemed proper directions for extracting the materials, and salutary advice as to a just estimate of its value in order to secure a constant and permanent disposal of it. The subject is now in progress of experiment. South of these banks on the Choptank, no other depsite of marl is known to occur.'

The Cambridge Chronicle, Centreville Times, Kent Bugle, and Delaware Journal will copy the above, 3 times and send their accounts to this office for collection.

THE THOROUGH BRED STALLION

Sassafras,

The subscriber has procured the service of this noble animal, for the citizens of Talbot and the adjoining counties for the present season.

For compactness of form, strength and fine action, he challenges comparison with the first horses of the country. In his colour, a beautiful mahogany bay, he cannot be surpassed. To be admired, it is only necessary that he should be seen.

His Pedigree, (as will be seen by the annexed statement from General Forman) is equal to that of any horse in our country. A cross from him and our best country mares, for saddle, gig, and carriage horses, could not be surpassed, if equalled, by breeding from any other horse in Maryland.

TERMS.

5 dollars the Spring's chance, 8 dollars to insure a mare to be in foal, 3 dollars the single leap, and 25 cents in each case to the groom, payable as follows; the spring's chance on or before the 1st Sept. next, the insurance on or before the 1st Feb 1839, the single leap at the time of putting the mare to the horse.

A mare insured, and parted with before known to be in foal, the insurance to be paid.

JAMES HARWOOD.

Easton, April 21, 1838.

PEDIGREE.

SASSAFRAS was bred by me; he was got by Ware's Godolphin; his dam, Rosalia, got by the imported horse Express; his grand dam, Betsey Bell, by McCarty's Cub; his great grand dam, Temptation, by Heath's Childers; his g. g. grand dam, Maggy Lauder, by Doctor Hamilton's imported horse Figure; his g. g. g. grand dam by the imported horse Othello; his g. g. g. g. grand dam by Spark who was imported by the first Governor, Ogle. Godolphin was got by Col. Baylor's Godolphin, out of a Shark Express was got by Post-Master, out of a Syphon mare, and was imported. Cub was got by Yorick, his dam by Silver Legs, out of the imported mare Moll Brazen, Heath's Childers was got by Baylor's Fearnaught, his dam an imported mare. Figure was imported by Doctor Hamilton. Othello, imported by Governor Sharp was got by Crab, out of Miss Slamerkin Spark was imported by the first Governor Ogle.

SASSAFRAS is much approved as a foal-getter. His produce have been remarkable for their good form, good disposition, and truth in harness. Godolphin, the sire of Sassafras, had

1 cross of old Diomede, (sire of Sir Archy,)
2 crosses of old Shark, imported,
2 crosses of Old Fearnaught, imported,
1 cross of Kitty Fisher,
1 cross of Jinny Discal.

T. M. FOREMAN.

Sassafras's stands, for the season, other than Easton, will be stated in posting-bills.
