perthwait, Esq. Cashier, and accepted. Whereupon, on motion the Board proceeded to the election of a President, and upon counting the ballots it appeared that Thomas Dunlap, Esq. was unanimously elected President of the Bank of the United States, and the same committee were requested by the chairman to inform Mr. Dunlap of his election, and request his acceptance of the appointment.

Mr. BIDDLE AND THE BANK.—The New York Courier observes:—

'In regard to the rumors set on foot by the jobbers and enemies of the Bank, that Mr. Biddle is escaping from a sinking ship—we would only ask of our readers—is such a course characteristic of the man, or of the extraordinary family of brothers of which he is one?—Again, have we not Mr. Biddle's written declaration of the palmy state of the Bank; and do even his enemies believe him such a weak and foolish man, as thus to put at stake his well earned fame, by a declaration which, if untrue, must so shortly place him before the public in a most unenviable position? And we may add of our own knowledge, that he has long been looking forward to the prosperous state of the Bank, which has now occured, to enable him to retire with honor, and that he is actuated by no other motives than those which he assigned by his letter of resignation. The rumors of his taking office under Mr. Van Buren are too rediculous to merit a contradiction.'

SOMERSET COUNTY, MD.—We understand that the Election in Somerset County, for County Commissioners, which was held on Wednesday last, resulted in the choice of the Van Buren candidates in every district.

COMMODORE ELLIOTT!—The Philadelphia U. S. Gazette says—"A Court of Inquiry upon Commodore Elliott, is ordered by the Navy Department. It is to convene at the Navy Yard in Philadelphia, on the 22d of next month!"

The New York Correspondent of the National Intelligencer writes:—'It is positively stated that Ely Moore, ex-M. C. is appointed Surveyor of this port, vice Mr Craig. I do not know this to be the fact, but this is the secret story. Mr. Craig is a Van Buren man. The Van Buren party now seem to be acting the part of cannibals. Having no whigs to eat up they are eating up each other.'

The London Age of the 20th February says.

'It is with deep regret we state that his Grace the Duke of Wellington was seized with an attack of palsey, on Friday and continues seriously indisposed. Four physicians sat up with his grace on Friday night."

'THE DEED IS DONE'—The Albany Evening Journal, of Tuesday, says:—Mr Flagg has received his commission of Postmaster, Gen. Van Renssalaer, a soldier and Patriot, who shed his blood in two wars, has been thrust out to make room for a politician.

MASSACHUSETTS.—A Van Buren State Convention was held at Boston last week; when the Hon. Marcus Morton and Theodore Sedgwick, Esq., were nominated candidates for the office of Governor and Lieut. Governor.

A BANK SUSPENSION.—We learn from the Natchez, Free Trader of the 19th instant, that the Bank of Mississippi at Princeton (formerly Lake Washington and Deer Creek R. R. and Banking Co.) suspended specie payments on the 15th ult.

MR. CLAY IN LOUISIANA.—The Whig members of the Legislature of Louisiana, held a meeting on the 19th inst. & adopted the following among other resolutions:

Resolved, That ten delegates be appointed to represent the Whigs of Louisiana, in any general Whig Convention which may be holden to select and nominate a candidate for President and Vice President of the United States, at the ensuing election.

Resolved further, That the Whigs of Louisiana entertaining an exalted opinion of the integrity, ability, and patriotism of HENRY CLAY: of Kentucky, do respectfully recommend his nomination as the Whig candidate for the Presidency of the United States.

Resolved, That notwithstanding the predilection above expressed, they do hereby instruct their delegates to unite in the support of any other individual who receives a majority of the votes in said Convention.

Resolved, That the said delegates are hereby authorised to fill up any vacancy that may occur in their number, whether from resignation or otherwise. Whereupon the meeting unanimously appointed:

Hon. E. D. White, F. Gaiannie;
" Rice Garland, P. A. Ducros,
" Alex. Porter, G. M. Graham,
" Thos. W. Chinn, A. Ledoux.
Messrs. Alex. Barrow, Wm. H. Sparks,
" Jaques Toutant, C. Dupre,

As delegates for the State of Louisiana.

THE FIFTIETH YEAR.—We are gratified, exceedingly gratified, says the N. York Commercial, at being enabled to state, that Ex-President ADAMS has accepted the invitation of the New York Historical Society, to pronounce before it an address on the approaching fiftieth anniversary of the inauguration of Washington as the first President of the United States. A noble theme for a noble mind!

The Branch of the Bank of Darien, located in Savannah, has suspended specie payments. A letter from Savannah says the Bank and most likely all its branches will follow suit. The State of Georgia owns half the stock.

A bill has passed the Legislature of Maine, appropriating the sum of $153,981 75, for the payment of bounties on Wheat and Corn raised in that State during the past year.

Multicaulis cuttings, at three cents a bud, are cheap, because each good one will make a tree in six months, worth at least ten cents, and probably fifty cents.

RAPID WEALTH.—The American Farmer states that a crop of Morus Multicaulis trees, which was raised in North Carolina and was brought here last week, was sold for the enormous sum of THIRTY THOUSAND DOLLARS.

A DEED OF DARKNESS.—It is stated in the Newark Advertiser, that during one of the dark nights of the present week, the tombstone erected by J. W. Perkins, Esq. upon the grave of the late Dr. Jameson, of that place, 'was torn up & mutilated, and the grave itself stripped of its covering.' In what other country of the civilized world would the press be called upon to record such an outrage?

[Correspondence of the Balt. Chronicle.]

ANNAPOLIS, April 2, 1839.

The Real Estate Bank came on today—and it was scarcely up before Dr. Geyer, of Frederick, moved its postponement to the next General Assembly.—This brought out its leader, Mr. Spence, of Worcester, in support of the plan. He reviewed it with vigour and animation—demonstrating the interest which the farmers and planters had in the institution. The bill was opposed by Mr. Spencer, of Queen Anne, Mr. Fitzhugh, of Baltimore county, and Mr. Thomas of Talbot. These debaters objected to a further pledge of the State's credit—the dangers of monopoly, and such institutions generally: and the effect of loans to farmers as disastrous, from experience, to agriculture and the increase of our population. The influence on the latter is manifested by encouraging emigration to the Southern an Western States. Col. Wootten, of Prince George, ran a tilt AT ALL but the country interest, and compared the quiet submission of the country people under many exactions, to the bleating of a lamb in which the flock never joined, though it saw the extermination of its members—and all other interests to a herd of swine who gave a general squeal if any one of the body was struck at. The farmers, said he, yield to none in devotion to the State and general patriotism; but they were the only class who had not participated in the schemes of the day. That as they were bound to pay for internal improvements and had to run the hazard of direct taxation, it was due to them to provide them some resources in the coming & expected emergencies. Col Maulsby, of Harford, showed how the application of money would improve the tilling and cultivation of our State—prevent emigration, and increase the value of lands. Mr. Handy, of Somerset, maintained the necessity and good policy of such an institution, and argued to show its general benefits. Mr. Spencer and Mr Thomas made replies. These gentlemen are members for the first time, and Talbot is remarkably well represented by the latter. He unites a strong, clear voice with a ready elocution. His style is nervous, concise, and pointed. His sentiments manly, liberal, and perfectly free from slang. He is a Van Buren man in action—but in his reasons for that action you might well discover a high toned Whig impressed with the rational principles of a representative republican. He excels in the statement of the controversy in which he is about to enter, and debating with zeal a firm tone, and a countenance expressive of great sincerity, he never fails to command undivided attention. He seemed to be considered the most effective opponent of the measure. There was a good deal of skirmishing, and we were glad to see that old veteran and friend of Baltimore on his legs again, after a protracted sickness. He argued the passage of the Bill with his ancient zeal. After a count it was postponed, 31—35. As this is the second defeat it will scarce come up again, unless, indeed, other measures are found dependent upon it. The author of the bill is not likely to be depressed by defeat, particularly when sustained by nearly one half the house. Some of the great projects will be up to-morrow.

POETRY.

Mr Graham:

This species of writing certainly possesses a charm which no other does, calming the mind when agitated by its harmonious cadences, while it conveys sentiments of piety. It will be presumed by the intelligent reader, I do not mean such love-sick jingle, and senceless stuff as the corners of our best papers not unfrequently exhibit, nor even that which may have acquired some celebrity through corrupted means; but that worthy the name and found only in a few standard British authors. I fear such poetry has been greatly neglected of late years, not read, to which we may attribute much of that barrenness in American poetry we lament and would see remedied by applying to genius' exhaustless fount.

Are Milton's sublime pages conned over, that prince of English epic whose daring genius soared almost beyond creation into the eternal world and whose fame is everlasting? Dr. Young's Night Thoughts read for their great piety, or Pollock's course of Time, two of the most important in the language? These should adorn every library, but it is lamentable they do not. The sickly and transient productions of our day are preferred though they discover neither genius nor virtue, lauded for their divine pathos, glowing imagry, vivid conceptions, while they are as far removed from such qualities, as the weekly emanations of an editor are from the lofty strain of a Johnson or an Addison.

The many prose works that yearly, ay, almost monthly teem from our literary emporiums are generally wanting in interest and originality, or contain a sort of sentiment dangerous to moral principle. Vetiating the taste they inspire abhorrence, for that which is useful; incapacitating the mind they bring on an intellectual stupor, completely closing the avenues to learning. My observation, though comparatively limited, affords abundant ground for these remarks. We may attribute all that effeminacy, all that want of intellectual vigor so common among the literati to this cause: they search not for useful works, interest not their minds about truth all lovely as as she is, or look with respect upon her silent votaries; but content to sail down time unremarked, for any good quality. We can boast many periodical vehicles for the dissemination of knowledge as good as any we could wish when properly conducted, but what merit have a vast many? none. Our writers then, for what end do they write, trim the midnight lamp, exert their powers, rack their invention? Not surely to raise intellect, promote virtuous principles through society, no, this can not be; for when we examine into their several productions we find no such pretentions carried out: nought but pernicious sentiment false views of life pervade them from beginning to end. Falsely denominated moral tales, they powerfully promote vice not virtue.

[COMMUNICATED.]

An important surgical operation performed at Mary's Delight Hall Infirmary.

On the 22d day of March last, was extirpated, by Dr. Absalom Thompson, a cancerous mamma from the person of Mrs. Higgins. Mrs. Higgins is about sixty years of age, and of a strong constitution for a lady of her years. In the fall of eighteen hundred and thirty-eight, this dangerous disease made its first appearance in her system. Having paid little attention to this morbid action in its nascent state, and having left its eradication entirely to the powers of nature, she found that, in the course of a few months, it was making rapid progress in the surrounding parts, and unfortunately for her she postponed the only effectual remedy to its very last stage. The mamma was almost entirely diseased, the greater part of it being in an ulcerous condition, which rendered the destruction of the superficial parts to a greater extent, than would have been necessary, had she applied for remediate management at an earlier period, not only was the mamma affected, but the cancerous diathesis had extended itself to the axillary glands, which also added to the extensiveness of the operation.

Dr. Thompson commenced the operation at 12 o'clock, M., and would have finished it in ten minutes, but on account of several fainting paroxysms, he was compelled to desist operating, in order that her system might recover itself.—Having arrived at the great pectoral muscle, the disease was discovered to have almost penetrated to the walls of the thorax, being separated from them only by a small expansion of cellular tissue, which caused the ribs to be very plainly exposed. On the completion of the operation the wound was measured and found to be nine and a half inches from the axilla to the sternum, and six and a half inches from the superior to the inferior part.

During the operation the lady displayed great fortitude, which eminently characterizes the female mind. After the necessary applications were made, she was put to bed with quite a joyful disposition, and ruminating on the probable and certain events that would have befallen her, had she not submitted to the foregoing operation. From the magnitude of the wound it was very common to anticipate symptomatic fever, but by a proper course of treatment, there appeared very little excitement in the vascular system, which disappeared entirely in a few days. About four inches of the wound has been united by adhesive inflammation, and the remainder is healing up by the granulating process. She is now in fine spirits, and should nothing take place contrary to expectation, there is not a doubt but that she will perfectly recover.

Verbal eulogy is out of the question, as this and numerous other operations, successfully performed, but bespeak the merits of Dr. Thompson.

LADIES' FANCY

SHOE STORE.

(WHOLESALE AND RETAIL.)

27 W. Lexington st. between Park and Howard sts.

WILLIAM CHASE, respectfully informs the ladies of Baltimore and his numerous friends, that he still continues to manufacture and keep on hand as usual a very handsome assortment of Ladies' and Childrens' Fancy dress and Walking SHOES, all of which he will sell at his former prices, which are as low as any in the city. With having the advantage of the best materials from the first morocco factories of Philadelphia and Baltimore, he is enabled to furnish a superior article. He returns his most sincere thanks to to the Ladies in particular for the very liberal encouragement he has received for the last three years, and hopes by his usual attention and endeavour to please to still continue that patronage from the public which he most respectfully solicits.

N B.—Country Merchants and others that want a superior article for retail will find it to their advantage to purchase of him, as they can select such size and kind as they may want, or have any kind or size made to order at a short notice, with the privilege of ordering from one dozen to more as may suit themselves. His work is well known in the city and requires no further recommendation.

All those indebted to me for their last year's account will please to settle the same without further delay. W. C.
