Poetry.

From the Boston Post.

FAREWELL TO SUMMER.

"Oh tell me o'er this chequered earth,
How hast thou passed away."—Hemans.

Thou art passing, passing, Summer,
With all thy deep perfume—
Thou art passing where long ages sleep,
Within a voiceless tomb.

From the young heart bearing the freshness,
From the lip its sunny glee;
And weaving with each thing of life,
Thine own sad destiny.

Thou didst fling on earth, sweet Summer,
Thy robe of forest flowers!
How could'st thou steal the frailer ones,
That garlanded life's hours?

Thy step has been amid us—
And in each rosy wreath,
And in each light breeze stealing by,
We caught thy dewy breath.

Where are the hopes, sweet Summer,
That in thy coming lay—
Like music blending in the beam,
That warns of rising day.

Ask of the skies whose beauty
Awoke the wild bird's song—
Ask fountain melodies all hushed—
They too have passed along.

Thou didst bring dreams of meeting
Beneath the old roof tree;
And thoughts of weary hearts grew glad,
And close they clung to thee!

Bright dreams, of loved and parted,
Linked as in days gone by—
Alas vain strivings to recall
What year by year must die!

I love thee not—sweet Summer!
Thy memory to me
But tells of things too beautiful,
Too worshipped e'er to be;

And thou—like that bright vision,
That on its rocky height,
Gleamed, as old stories say, like some
Pure glorious orb of light—

But when more close the gazer,
Its lustre would enfold,
Gave back a form to mock his clasp,
All rayless, loveless, cold—

So round my heart thy roses
In spring-time wove a spell;
So fade beneath the noon tide ray—
Sweet Summer! fare thee well!

NORNA.

"I climb'd the height, and found it soon
A lump of ice in the clear cold moon."—Percival.

Notice.

The Vestry of St. Peter's Parish, being now about to recommence the new Church, takes this method of informing delinquent subscribers, of the necessity of paying up immediately their respective subscriptions. The time according to the terms of the subscription list is long since expired. The Vestry have incurred responsibilities which they are bound to meet, and new ones are about to commence. It is therefore hoped, that further solicitation will be unnecessary, as the subscribers must see the absolute necessity, on their part of payment being made, and on the part of the Vestry of its being decisively required.

PROSPECTUS.

THE EASTON GAZETTE.

A. GRAHAM, Editor and Proprietor.
E. R. HOOPER, Assistant Editor.

The Proprietor of the Gazette having engaged the assistance of E. Richardson Hooper, Esq., of Cambridge, Md., and recently Editor of the 'Chronicle' of that place, in the management of the editorial department of the paper, proposes to increase the circulation of the Gazette in the Counties of Dorchester, Somerset and Worcester, with the view of promoting the interest of the Whig party in the approaching Gubernatorial canvass. That canvass will doubtless be warmly contested, and the advantages to be gained from having a paper reflecting the sentiments of the Whigs freely circulated among the people, are too obvious to need enforcement from me. The opposition party will undoubtedly make every exertion to increase the circulation of papers friendly to their cause, and should be met by a corresponding effort on the part of the Whigs.

The Gazette is printed every Saturday Morning, on fine imperial paper, with plain type, and, in addition to politics, is devoted to agriculture, literature, and general news. The facilities for obtaining the latest and most interesting items of information are unequalled by any Journal on the Shore.

The papers will be sent to Mr. Hooper's office, in Cambridge, every Saturday morning for distribution.
