RESUMPTION ACT.—The following is a copy of the Resumption Act as it passed the Legislature and is now a law of Maryland.

AN ACT to provide for specie payments by the Banks.

Section 1 Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, That the several Banks of this State shall on or before the first Monday of May next, pay and continue to pay on demand all their several and respective liabilities in specie, and that the said Banks are hereby authorised to issue notes or certificates of deposite of any denomination not less than one dollar, which said notes or certificates of deposite shall be redeemed in specie on demand.

Sec. 2. And be enacted, That no Bank shall issue or pay out notes or certificates of deposite of a less denomination than five dollars, to an amount greater than five per centum of the capital of such Bank, actually paid in, nor shall any Bank issue such notes after the first day of November next.

Sec. 3 And be it enacted, That if any Bank shall refuse or neglect to comply with the provisions of this act by refusing to pay any of its liabilities in specie on demand, such refusal shall be a forfeiture of the charter of such Bank, and the County Court of the County where any such Bank is situated, shall upon the application of any one interested, or upon the application of the Attorney General, whose duty it shall be to make such application, issue a scire facias against such Bank to show cause why its charter shall not be forfeited.

Sec. 4. And be it enacted, That if any Bank in this State, shall execute or put in circulation, after the passage of this act, any post note or other obligation, which purports on its face to be payable otherwise than on demand, in gold or silver, the charter of any Bank thus offending shall be deemed to be forfeited and utterly null and void.

Sec. 5. And be it enacted, That the several county courts, or any judge there of in the recess, are authorised and directed in all cases where a scire facias is issued against a Bank to issue an injunction to restrain such Bank from improperly disposing of its funds or property, and to appoint a receiver if the court shall deem the same necessary to promote the interests of the creditors of such Bank.

Sec. 6 And be it enacted, That if it shall appear to the court on the return of any scire facias under this act that the Bank named in such writ has refused to pay in specie on demand any debt or liability whatsoever, the charter of such Bank shall be adjudged to be forfeited, and the court shall appoint three trustees, upon the recommendation in writing of one fifth at least, of the creditors in amount, to settle up the affairs of such Bank, and distribute its property and effects among the creditors and others entitled to the same, according to their respective rights

Sec. 7. And be it enacted, That the Trustees appointed in virtue of this Act shall give bond to the State in such penalty and with such security as the court shall prescribe, with condition for the faithful performance of the trust reposed in them or him, if separate bonds are taken, and upon the giving bond as aforesaid by all of said trustees, all the property, estate, rights, credits and effects of such Bank shall vest fully in said trustees, who may bring suits in their own names, or in the name of the Bank, for their use at their election, and to prevent any difficulty concerning the property such Bank may have out of the State, it is hereby enacted that the court may compel any such Bank to execute a deed of assignment to the trustees.

Sec. 8. And be it enacted, That it shall be the duty of the Governor, when informed that any Bank of this State has violated the provisions of this act, to direct the Attorney General to issue a scire facias forthwith against such Bank; provided that the refusal to pay any foreign Bank, or any foreign or domestic Broker shall not be considered a violation of any of the provisions of this act.

State of Maryland, to wit:—Be it remembered and we hereby certify that the foregoing is a true copy of the act entitled "An Act to provide for specie payments by the Banks," which passed the General Assembly of Maryland at December session, one thousand eight hundred and forty one.

Given under our hands at the city of Annapolis this 9th day of March, 1842.

JOS. H. NICHOLSON,
Clerk of Senate of Md.
JOHN NICK WATKINS,
Clerk of H. of Del. of Md.

From the Washington Independent.

CONGRESS.

Washington, March 5.

The House next resumed the consideration of Mr. Summer's Report on the Contingent Expenses of the House.

The original Resolution and Mr. Underwood's amendment (already referred to) were considered.

A debate followed, in which Messrs. Underwood, Moore, of Louisiana, Ward, Smith, of Virginia, (in explanation,) Boardman, Clifford, (in explanation,) Briggs, Mallory (in explanation,) McKay, and Brown, Morgan, J. C. Clark, (in explanation,) Summers, and Snyder, participated.

[The following remarks were handed in to the Reporter:

Mr. Moore said that he had examined the report, and made some calculations, which produced some curious results And as the subject was again brought before the House, he would make the statement, which would show conclusively, as he thought, that the resolution of the committee should be adopted as a wise and salutary measure, and calculated to reduce the contingent expenses, and prevent waste and extravagance.

According to the report, the stationery for the 23d Congress was—

For the House and Members,	$40 850
Clerk's office	592
	$41 442

Since then no separate account has been kept.

It will be perceived that stationery for the Clerk's office is about one seventieth of the whole expenditure. The stationery for committee rooms would probably increase the amount to about one twentieth. Then it would stand thus:

Stationery for the 25th Congress $73 486 00
Do 26th Congress 58,503 00

According to the report it will be thus (on the basis of the 26th Congress:

Cl'k's offi. one twentieth	$2 925
2,564 reams envel paper	12 488
215 mem. at $45 each	11.025
	$26 438
Saving	$32.065 00

Allowing the same sum for the Clerk's office and committees, the saving of the 26th Congress would have been $46 963 00

But I am informed that $2,000 for the Clerk's office, where there is no waste, and the committee rooms would be amply sufficient, say $2 000 00
Envelope paper 12,488 00
215 members at $15 each 11,025 00
$25 513 00
Saving 26 Congress $32 990 00
$58 503 00
Saving 25th Congress 47,973 00

Not such a trifling object, I should think, to be saved.

The account for the 25th Congress exhibits:

3 079 reams envelope paper		$12.603 25
3.610 do quarto post	do	21 059 25
2 318 do foolscap	do	9 951 25
172 do note	do	1,559 50

Six thousand one hundred reams, exclusive of envelope paper.

483 gross steel pens	$4.359 39
83 700 quills	3 953 12
106 doz. penknives	2 602 00
Making pens	448 00

Then, without taking into the calculation the envelope paper, which is necessary and proper to diffuse knowledge among the People, by dividing these articles among the 245 members, it will stand thus to each member's average:

24 reams of paper, leaving a surplus of 220 reams for the Clerk's room and committee rooms
24 dozen (nearly) steel pens
28 do quills
5 doz. penknives

Now, sir, I challenge any member of that Congress to say that he received or used that number of those articles, or carried them away. Nor I do not believe that any member used more than five reams of paper, exclusive of the envelope paper and paper used in the folding-room. Then, sir, there must have been waste and extravagance or immoral practices. In either case, it is our duty to put a stop to it. Imputations have been made abroad, and even in this House, of improper practices by members in relation to this extravagant expenditure, and abroad it attaches to all the members of Congress. And I for one, sir, do not choose to lay under such imputations, and therefore vote to correct the abuse. I believe that the committee have made a fair examination, and report a reasonable remedy without running into ultraism.]

[Mr. Boardman furnished the following statistics: I desire to call the attention of my friend from New York (Mr. Ward) to certain facts appearing upon this record, which will perhaps reconcile him to the course pursued by the House in this matter. It appears here sir, that the contingent expenses of the House of Representatives for the year 1823 amounted to $37 848; that they continued to increase, until in the year 1838 they amounted to the enormous sum of $313,261, and in the year 1840, the last year for which we have complete returns, they amounted to $199 219. Estimating the number of members at 242 these sums give an average as follows:

For 1823, $156 for each member
For 1838 1438 do
For 1840, 823 do

I now appeal to the gentleman from New York whether these facts do not call upon this House to investigate this enormous extravagance? Is there not enough in these facts alone to justify the course pursued by the Committee of Retrenchment and by this House? Is it not their bounden duty? I do not say that the members of this House have for their own benefit plundered the public treasure; but I do say that these expenditures are extravagant and enormous—immense ly beyond the necessities of this House.

Look, again, at the item of penknives. The Report shows that the contingent expenses of the 26th Congress includes a charge for 94 dozen penknives, amounting to $2,264, and for the 25th Congress, 106 dozen penknives, a mounting to $2,602—an amount greatly beyond the necessities of the House, or any reasonable application of its contingent fund. The House is much indebted to the committee for these disclosures, and I have voted for their resolutions thus far and intend to vote for the rest—I cannot believe that any member of this House, in view of the facts disclosed, will say that these matters are beneath the notice of the House. We are pledged to reform abuses; it is our duty to do so Let us make the experiment; let us begin, and stopping this leak will disclose the others.]

Annapolis 9th March 1842.

Mr. Graham:—You will no doubt be glad to learn that the bill which was introduced in the House of Delegates by r. Nicols, providing for "biennial Sessions of the Legislature," has passed both branches of the General Assembly—and now remains for the people at the next October election to decide whether the succeeding Legislature shall confirm it, and thus incorporate it in the Constitution of the State.

The effect of the bill, will be to retrench the expenses of the State about thirty thousand dollars annually, and greatly to lessen the excitement among the people which has been an evil (for the last several years) of alarming magnitude. Much credit is due to Mr. Nicols for his industry and zeal in bringing about so laudable a reform in our government at the present moment of financial embarrassment, when the eyes of the whole State have been turned with sleepless vigilance, and intense solicitude, to the action of the Legislature for a measure of relief:—this measure though prospective, is not the less important and of such a representative Caroline may well be proud:—he deserves and merits the confidence of his constituents.

Easton Academy.

This old and respectable Institution is located in Easton, Talbot county, Md. From its central position and its convenience of access both by land and water, Easton appears particularly eligible as a site for a Seminary of high character and especially as the seat of Education, for the Eastern Shores of Maryland and Virginia. The practice which has long prevailed among Southern gentlemen of sending their sons or wards abroad for education is now being gradually abandoned and a disposition is generally manifested on the part of parents to avail themselves of the means of Education offered at home—the Seminaries of the Southern States, being in consequence better patronised and offering more liberal inducements to teachers, are daily assuming a more elevated character.

Among these it is confidently believed that few, if any, of equal pretensions, possess higher claims to public favour than the Easton Academy. This Institution is under the direction of Dr. Edwin Arnold, a gentleman who has been engaged in the profession of teaching for the last fifteen years (eighteen months of this time in Easton) and with uniform success, as the testimonials in his possession abundantly prove. He is assisted by Mr J. D. Trask a graduate of one of the most respectable Colleges in New England who is also eminently qualified for the duties of his profession. From the united efforts of these gentlemen, the reputation of the Academy has been greatly elevated, and the number of its pupils, especially in the higher department largely augmented. The Recitation rooms have recently been newly furnished, a lecture-room prepared, and a liberal appropriation has been made for the purchase of Philosophical apparatus. Courses of lectures are now being delivered on Geology, Natural Philosophy and Physiology which are attended not only by the pupils but by a large portion of the most respectable members of our community. For the accommodation of pupils from a distance, Mr. Trask has made arrangements with the lady at whose house he resides, to receive after the first of April next, a limited number of young gentlemen as boarders They will there be constantly under the superintendance and direction of Mr. Trask, while their personal wants and comforts will be carefully attended to by a lady peculiarly qualified for this office. Confidently believing that our Academy under its present auspices, offers advantages for education possessed by few Institutions of similar pretensions, we earnestly recommend it to the patronage of parents and especially to those of the Eastern Shores of Maryland and Virginia.

The academical year consists of two sessions, commencing respectively on the first Monday in April (preceeded by a vacation of two weeks) and the second Monday in October (preceeded by a vacation of six weeks.)—At the close of the winter session, a public examination of the pupils takes place.

Terms.

For board (including fuel, lights and washing) and tuition for the Academical year, including the spring vacation of two weeks, $150; one half payable in advance—unless reference be given to some gentleman residing in Easton or its vicinity.

N. B—At the end of every month a report of progress and conduct of each pupil, with a specimen of his penmanship and composition, is sent to each parent or guardian.
