son or persons not authorized by him.

There are now 1,000 men at Corpus-Christi, and 300 men at Victoria, all under arms and anxious to give battle to the enemy. Volunteer companies are still wending their way to the west. By many it is thought that the war movements of General Houston are too tardy; yet from all appearances, he is firmly bent on carrying into execution his designs of invading Mexico.

EASTON, MD.

Saturday Morning, May 21.

Spring Term of Talbot County Court, commenced on Monday last, and is still in session.

SPEECHES OF THE HON HENRY CLAY OF THE CONGRESS OF THE UNITED STATES

A very neat and cheap edition of the above work has just issued from the press of Shepard & Stearns, at Cincinnati, the copy right of which has been secured by Mr. Richard Chambers, recently of this Shore It is prefaced with a biographical sketch of the distinguished Patriot and Statesman and embellished by a correct steel engraving.

This selection commences with the year eighteen hundred and ten, and extending through the space of more than thirty years is in itself a manual of the political and civil history of the country

Subscribers and others wishing to procure copies of the work will call on Mr. Elisha Meconnekin or at the Store of Wm. H Shepard, in this town.

The Hon. H. A. Wise gave bond before Judge Dunlop, in Washington on Saturday last, under the penalty of three thousand dollars, for the space of one year, to keep the peace towards all the citizens of the United States within the District of Columbia, and not at any time within that period to leave the District with the intention or purpose of fighting a duel with Edward Stanly. And the Hon. R. M. T. Hunter, G. B. Cary, W. O. Goode, Walter Goles, Edmund W. Hubbard, R. W. Thompson, and Thos. W Gilmer have entered themselves as securies for Mr. Wise.

UNUSUAL.—The Steamboat Maryland had not arrived last night when this paper went to press.

John M. Niles was on Wednesday the 18th inst. elected a Senator of the United States from Connecticut for six years from the 4th of March next, vice Perry Smith

It is stated that the 36th regiment, which embarked for England a few days since at St. Johns, New Brunswick, has been absent from home twelve years, and out of 700 who constituted the regiment when it left England, only forty lived to return.

MR. CLAY AND HIS GUESTS.

Mr. Clay, now a private citizen, is at Ashland his home. On Saturday week Lord Morpeth was his guest, and Mr. Van Buren was daily expected there from Nashville, having been invited by Mr Clay to spend a few days at his residence.

[Cincinnati Gazette.

FIRST AUDITOR.—The Richmond Enquirer says:—A letter from Washington states, that Mr. Jesse Miller 1st Auditor of the Treasury, resigned his office on Saturday. "He is a very worthy and honorable man, and very well qualified for the trust Miller was censured years ago, for not taking a timely bond from Swartwout—and some of the Whigs have continually urged the President to remove him. So that the resignation was not wholly voluntary—yet he and the President have parted in good dispositions for each other!"

☞The celebration of the Anniversary of Sunday School's in Baltimore, took place at St. Paul's Church on Sabbath afternoon last. The Bishop of the Diocese officiated. It was an imposing spectacle. Vastly interesting was this occasion, from the fact that "THE ONLY SURVIVING SUNDAY SCHOOL TEACHER" in the first Sunday School founded by the late Robert Raikes, of Gloucester, in England, was present, occupying an humble seat in the gallery. It was gratifying to the numerous scholars, as well as encouraging to their teachers, to know that this gentleman, in boyhood a teacher of poor charity children, is now Chancellor of an University and Bishop of one of our Colleges We learn that "the Hon. George Coobe, LL. D." has consented to give a brief history of the fundamental principles on which Mr. Raikes first formed a Sunday School. It will be a brilliant affair, and a festival which will perhaps never again occur.—Amer.

WASHINGTON CITY, May 16th.

That beautiful edifice, St. Matthew's Church, in this city was yesterday consecrated by the most Reverend Archbishop Eccleston, assisted by the Rev. Dr. Ryder and Rev Messrs. Barbourn and Fenwick, of Georgetown College, and aided by fourteen Scholastics from the Institution and from the Baltimore Seminary. The imposing ceremony commenced at 8 o'clock A. M., and continued until 12 o'clock with closed doors. At 12 the church was thrown open to an immense crowd, who were standing without, notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather, when a pontifical high mass was sung by the most Rev. B. Fenwick Bishop of Boston, aided by the most Rev Archbishop and Bishop Dubois, of New York--Dr Rider, deacon, and the Rev. Mr. Lilly, of Georgetown College, sub-deacon. During the ceremony there were upon the altar, at the same time, three Bishops, six Priests, fourteen Scholastics, and twenty Acolytes, all in their appropriate dresses and altogether formed a most magnificent assembly.

The consecration was performed according to the order of the Roman Catholic Church and was truly sublime and impressive; the sermon was preached by the very Rev. Dr. Power, Vicar General of the State of New York, and that those who heard him were not disappointed in their high expectations was clearly perceptible on the countenance of the whole audience. The consecration and Mass occupied seven hours and during the whole time the greatest order was observed, for which too much credit cannot be bestowed upon the Rev Mr. Borned, of Emmittsburg, Md, who acted master of ceremonies for the day. The citizens of Washington feel greatly indebted to the Rev. Mr. Donelan, the Pastor of this church, for his successful exertions, in so short a space of time, in erecting this splendid christian temple, and entirely clearing it from the debt, which was necessary to be removed before it could be consecrated. The cost is upwards of $20.000—the whole completed in about three years; who will hereafter attempt to controvert the position I have so often assumed that the citizens of Washington are a church going people.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

ADJOURNMENT OF CONGRESS.

Mr. Johnson, of Maryland, on Tuesday, after the reading of the journal, submitted a resolution that the two houses of Congress adjourn on the fifteenth of June

Objections were made in several quarters, to the reception of the resolution, and a motion was made to suspend the rules, upon which the yeas and nays were ordered The vote was 94 in the negative to 66 in the affirmative.

Mr. Cravens, of Indiana, presented a resolution that the House would adjourn when the Tariff question was disposed of The resolution was not pressed and its reading excited considerable merriment among the members.

THE ENCAMPMENT.—Yesterday morning at an early hour, Baltimore street and the other streets through which it was known the military would move on their way to the ground selected for the encampment, were filled with spectators. During the early part of the morning a portion of the City companies were engaged in receiving the military visiters from other places, and escorting them into line. At half past nine o'clock, the various corps moved off in the following order.

Independent Light Dragoons, Capt Owings.

Baltimore County Troop, Capt. Gatch.

Baltimore Junior Artillerists, commanded by Capt. Klunck.

Eagle Artillery, Capt. Kane.

First Baltimore Light Infantry, Lieut Com. Hinks.

First Baltimore German Guards, Capt. Ismael.

Highland Blues, Capt. Long, from Winchester, Va.

Eutaw Infantry, Capt. Keyser.

Mechanical Volunteers, Capt. Watkins.

Washington Light Guard, Capt. Roney.

Independent Blues, Capt Lilly.

Maryland Infantry, Capt. Small, from Frederick.

Westminster Guards, Capt McCollum, from Westminster, Maryland.

Washington Light Infantry, from Washington city.

National Blues, Capt. Middleton, from Washington city

Mechanical Riflemen, Capt. Williams, from Washington.

Baltimore City Guards, Capt. Milliken.

Maryland Cadets, Capt. Ropes.

National Guards Capt. Presstman.

Independent German Yeagers, Capt. Frederick.

First Baltimore Invincibles, Capt Anderson.

Lafayette Volunteers, Capt. Roberts.

Independent Greys, Capt. Law.

At various points along the line were stationed fine bands of music, & the rear was brought up with numerous baggage wagons containing the camp equipages &c. After passing through the streets already mentioned, the line entered upon the Encampment grounds, and having been marched to the desired position, was halted—arms were stacked—and the order given to raise tents.

In the course of the day the Encampment was reinforced by the arrival of troops from the following distant places, viz:

National Guards, Captain Shriver, from Frederick.

Charlestown Artillery, Captain Reman, from Charlestown, Va.

Patapsco Patriots, Captain Swain, from Ellicott's Mills.

Captain Orem's Infantry, from Howard District.

York Riflemen, Captain Hay, from York, Pa.

Lancaster State Fencibles, Captain Findlay, from Lancaster, Pa.

The troops were occupied yesterday afternoon in arranging their several quarters in the Encampment. Some thousands of spectators from the city visited the camp grounds in the course of the day The Railroad track from the three Tunns Tavern, in Pratt street, out to Mount Clare, presented an unbroken throng of pedestrians of all ages, sexes and colours: while hundreds were on the ground, in vehicles and on horseback.

His Excellency, Governor Porter, of Pennsylvania, accompanied by a full military staff, arrived in this city last evening by the Rail Road train from York.—He was escorted to this city by the Lancaster State Fencibles and the York Rifle men; and was received at the depot by Captain Owings' troop of Light Dragoons and Captain Gatch's Baltimore County troop, and escorted to Barnum's hotel

This day, at the Encampment, will be farther devoted to completing the details of the camp arrangements and making the troops comfortable in their quarters

To morrow morning there will be a grand parade at the Encampment, and a review of the troops by Governor Porter.

[Balt. American 17th.

THE ENCAMPMENT.

Immense numbers of citizens yesterday availed themselves of the remarkable fine weather to visit "Camp Baltimore." In the afternoon particularly, the whole grounds were crowded with spectators. The Encampment itself was also filled with visiters who were allowed to pass the guard without hindrance for a large portion of the day.

The military were principally engaged during the morning in matters connected with camp duty In the afternoon, about 4 o'clock, a regular regimental drill took place, during which various military evolutions and other exercises were regularly gone through with.

The encampment presents quite an imposing appearance, and when viewed from an adjoining eminence, the view, including the various detachments marching to and fro in the different evolutions of a military parade, assumes a most interesting aspect, and excites feelings of pleasure and admiration. The tents are arranged in beautiful order with a view both to regularity and convenience. A walk through the ample avenues will give to the spectator an insight into the interior economy of a soldier's life, to which our martial volanteers are accommodating themselves with great readiness and aptitude.

To day, the troops will be reviewed at nine o'clock by Gov. Porter, of Pennsylvania We omitted to state yesterday that his Excellency is accompanied by the Secretary of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, Mr. Parsons, and also by Col. Bunting, Col. J. H. Porter, Col. Anderson, Gen. Diller, Col Cameron, Col. Andrews, Col. King, and Col. W. J Lieper. The Governor and his suite will be escorted to the camp ground this morning by Capt. Owings' troop of Independent Light Dragoons, accompanied by his Honor the Mayor. They will leave the City Hotel at half past eight o'clock.

Major Gen. Steuart has received a communication from the President of the United States, through the Hon. J. Mason, stating that he will review the troops at Camp Baltimore, on Friday at noon.

From the Washington Independent.

THE WISE AND STANLEY ENCOUNTER.

Though the affair between these gentlemen drew forth, immediately, abundant commentaries from the Press—versions generally of no very impartial sort—we have not chosen to speak before of the matter till sure that we could speak advisedly and aid the cause of right.

Two principal versions of the affray have appeared—the one in the U. S. Gazette of Philadelphia, the other in the Baltimore Sun. They agree as to the basis. But the former is more favorable to Mr. Stanly, the latter to Mr. Wise Indeed, we have had decisive proof that the latter was drawn up at his request, by his friend, Col. Starke, the chief witness of the assault, and that it must have been published by Mr. W. himself. It is as follows:

About 4 o'clock Mr. Wise and Mr. Stanley were riding on nearly opposite sides of the road, looking at each other, their horses in a walk; a gentleman, acquainted with both the members, was a little in the rear. This position was maintained by the parties for some seconds, when a carriage came up and passed between Messrs. W and S. After the carriage passed on, they resumed their former positions, when the gentlemen alluded to above rode up and commenced a conversation with Mr. Wise, on the subject of the race Mr. Stanley then, not keeping pace, fell a little in the rear and Mr. Wise and his friend got considerably in advance before passing the outer gate After proceeding about one hundred yards, from the gate, Mr. Stanly rode rapidly up just as they were passing through a mud hole; his horse brushed against Mr. Wise and his horse, on the left, with such force as to push Mr. Wise's horse against the horse of his friend, and jarred Mr. Wise in his seat, at the same time bespattering Mr. Wise with mud and water.

As soon as Mr Wise recovered from the jostle, and before Mr. Stanly had proceeded twenty yards, Mr. Wise rode up to him (Mr. Stanley) on his left, in a gallop, and on coming up with him, Mr. Wise struck him a heavy blow across the back of the head, with a black whalebone, walking cane, which broke below the head and the piece with the head flew off some distance. Mr. Wise struck him but one blow, and remarked, 'Now, damn you, ride against me again." Mr Stanly remarked, "I did not see you," & Mr. Wise replied, "then I excuse it.' Mr Stanly, after a pause of a few seconds, said, "you come up behind a man to strike him. Mr. Wise replied "there are gentlemen behind here who see how this matter is done,' or words to that effect. Mr. Stanly then observed. 'You come up behind a man & strike him like a DAMN'D coward." Mr. Wise replied, "Take that blow and the coward, and make the most of them, damn you."

The gentleman who had been engaged in conversation with Mr. Wise, now rode up and said, "Gentlemen, the public road is no place to settle such matters.' Mr. Stanly observed "very well," and rode on briskly towards the city.

Thus it appears that a man with a stick in his hand, and possibly armed, on being jostled by another, who was entirely defenceless, rode after him and struck him, without warning, a heavy blow—which really cut his hat, and stunned him completely. Tho' having the superiority of size, strength and weapon, he seeks not to know whether offence was meant or not, he waits not for an apology; but aims, at the head of an unconscious man, a blow almost fit to brain him.—His adversary recovers, and explains that his riding against him had been accidental What is then his conduct? Does he regret, does he atone for the shameful blow he has given? He answers, "Then I excuse you!"

Is this the quarrel upon which any man, in a Christian land, dare set his life—or, what is infinitely more awful—the blood of an unoffending gentleman? These are the facts—unvarnished by us—which Mr. Wise has published! We venture little when we say, that if Edward Stanly, on whom he has thus committed a causeless outrage—an outrage for which the excuses Mr. Stanly"—should fall by his hand there was never, in the country a man, on whose head a more overwhelming public execration was visited than will fall on Henry A Wise's.

The expected duel between Wise and Stanly—It is said that the friends of Mr. Wise are Messrs. Mallory, of Va., and Gwinn, of Miss.,—of Mr. Stanly Mr. McCarty and Mr. Washington, of N C.

The families of Mr. Wise and Mr Stanly are both in the city. A correspondent of the Philadelphia Journal says, "Mr. Wise's favorite weapon and distance is the pistol and ten paces. Stanly is a good shot. The party are on equal terms." It is stated that Mr Stanly went out of the District to prepare and send his challenge and receive the answer: and that he is also engaged in practising.—N. Y. Express.

The Right Rev. Bishop Onderdonk, of Pennsylvania, in a recent visitation in the city and county of Philadelphia, confirmed in the Protestant Episcopal Church 609 persons.

THE SEASON.—The last Richmond Enquirer says—

New Irish potatoes have been for several days upon our tables. The May cherries have been ripe for a week or more. Cucumbers, squashes, sweet potatoes, artichokes, tomatoes, (large and fine,) &c., have been received by a citizen of Richmond from Charleston.—The Augusta Constitutionalist acknowedges the receit of half a dozzen fine apricots from O'Connor of South Carolina.—We put these reminiscenses, as a species of phenomena of the season, for the benefit of our "illustrious successors." The harvest fields are clothed with the most beautiful verdure of the most luxuriant wheat. We gathered a stalk of rye, two evenings ago, in full head, five and a half feet high.—The last week the weather was disagreeably cool. But the temperature of the atmosphere is again approaching Summer's heat.

A Lesson for a Scolding Wife—"And I dare say you have scolded your wife very often, Newman," said I, once.—Old Newman looked down, and the wife took up the reply. "Never to signify—and if he has, I deserved it." "And I dare say, if the truth were told, you have scolded him quite as often." "Nay," said the old woman, with a beauty of kindness which all the poetry in the world cannot excel, "how can a wife scold her good man, who has been working for her and her little ones all the day? It may be for a man to be peevish, for it is he who bears the crosses of the world; but who should make him forget them but his own wife? And she had best, for her own sake—for nobody can scold much when the scolding is all on one side"

A Farm on the Salt Water

FOR SALE.

The subscriber, as agent for the proprietor, will sell at private sale, a snug farm on Miles River, immediately adjoining the residence of Mr Andrew Skinner and nearly opposite the town of St Michaels. The neighbourhood is remarkably pleasant and healthy and the adjacent waters afford the finest oysters and other delicacies The farm contains about two hundred acres of land, in a very compact form; about 120 acres of which are in cultivation and 80 acres in good timber The cleared land is laid off in four fields of 60.000 corn hills each, under good enclosures, and is separated from the adjoining farms by the water, with the exception of a short division fence of about one hundred pannels in length.

There are abundant resources of sea ooze, salt marsh, and swamp-mud from the woods, & a small quantity of Indian shell-bank. Marl has been discovered in a single place from which it is inferred that there is more on the farm. The convenience of getting oyster shells, however is so great, as to make them nearly, if not quite as cheap as marl. The improvements consist of a one story dwelling, almost new, located near the water and in the centre of the farm; and an excellent barn containing a stable and corn crib which was built last year, at a cost of five hundred dollars.—There is a spring of good water not far from the dwelling

Terms—One fourth in cash—the remainder of the purchase money to be paid in three equal annual instalments.

The property will be shown to any one desirous to purchase by Mr. Gannon, who has rented it for the present year.
