EASTON GAZETTE

EASTON, MD.

Saturday Morning, June 25.

To the complaints of blighted prospects and disappointed hopes that come in from every quarter, we are obliged to respond by an equally dismal lamentation.

The farms of this county never before presented so fair a prospect of an abundant harvest, as from the commencement of the season until the early part of last week. At that time a succession of warm rains commenced that continued for eight or ten days, succeeded by a clear sun with frequent showers, rendering the atmosphere the more sultry and uncomfortable; and up to this date no decidedly favorable change has taken place. During this period, as we learn from a Metereological Register, kept at the Easton Academy, 4.45 inches of rain have fallen and we have a fair prospect for more. The consequences have been most disastrous. Hardly a wheat field has escaped the attack of rust, while some that a fortnight since were waving in beauty will not now repay the labour of cutting. In some limited sections it was too far advanced to be injured, but the crops in general cannot afford more than one half their yield, had they ripened under favorable circumstances.

From the coldness of the season the wheat had matured slowly and was less filled with juices than usual, on which account it is thought to be less injured than it would otherwise have been.

THE CABINET.—Rumors are again rife respecting changes in President Tyler's Cabinet. Whether well founded or not, time will show.

GEORGIA—Mr. CLAY.—The State Convention which met a Milledgevile on the 11th instant, adopted a Report and Resolutions nominating Henry Clay for the Presidency, and leaving the Vice-Presidency to subsequent action, together with an address to the people of Georgia.

THE SEASON IN GEORGIA.—The Macon Telegraph of the 7th says:—"e have had fine growing weather for a week or two past, accompanied with frequent refreshing showers. Crops of Cotton and Corn are generally promising. The wheat crop is mostly harvested, and has proved a very fair one. Oats do not look so well, owing to the wet spring. Roasting ears begin to come in freely—vegetables of every sort plenty."

☞All the banks, says the Philadelphia Inquirer of the 16th, in the city which closed immediately after the resumption of specie payments, continue in the same unpleasant position. One or two, we trust, however, will soon be able to resume business. The Institutions closed are the Mechanics' Bank, the Bank of Penn Township, the Bank of Pennsylvania, the Manufacturers and Mechanics', the Girard, and the Bank of the United States. The notes of all are at a sad discount, if we except the Mechanics', which are rapidly approaching par.

Extract of another letter to the editor of the Baltimore Patriot dated.

WASHINGTON, 20th June, 1842.

There were rumors in the city to-day of a change in the Cabinet, whether partial or entire, report does not say. Mr. Crittenden alluded to the subject in the Senate, and put some very direct and positive questions to Mr. Buchanan—intimating that he knew something about it, and charging Mr. B. with the manifestation of 'a sudden and new born zeal" in behalf of the Administration. Buchanan seemed to wince under under it a good deal—appeared anxious to get rid of the subject, and cried out for mercy—he denied the correctness of the rumors, so far as they were connected with him, but not with a very positive air, and replied rather indirectly to Mr. C's charges.—He seemed very impatient under the debate, and caught at a point of order raised by the Chair, to endeavor to shuffle it off, but Crittenden pressed it unmercifully upon him, bringing out his insinuations in broader colors. The whole scene was quite rich and dramatic.—Woodbury also came in for a share of C.'s keen satire.

THE CABINET.

The Philadelphia North American has the following article respecting the reported changes in the Cabinet:

MATTERS AT WASHINGTON.—We have been shown a letter from Washington which has arrested our attention, both by the surprising nature of its contents, and the credible character of its source. The writer states that the distribution proviso of the temporary Tariff bill will be vetoed; that the President, despairing of being able to carry on the Government without an organization for its support, has decided to call to his aid the "republicans," and form from their forces and those who assimilate to them in sentiment, a party to sustain the administration—to be known as the "Republican" (Tyler) party.

To effect this object, a reorganization of the Cabinet is deemed expedient.—Mr. Webster and Mr. Spencer retire; Judge Upshur goes out as Minister to France; Mr. Andrew Stevenson, of Va is to be Secretary of State, Mr. Cushing is to be Secretary of the Navy, and Gov. Marcy, of New York, is to be Secretary of War. The writer thinks this arrangement will be satisfactory to those who may rally under the "republican" (Tyler) standard.

The reasons for the retirement of Mr. Webster and Mr. Spencer, the writer finds in the perplexing character of their political associations, and not in the alleged absence of any personal qualifications for the stations which they occupy. Toward them, individually, he says, the President entertains every possible sentiment of respect, and consents to part with them only in compliance with that necessity which the crises imposes. Mr. Webster, he states, will remain till his negotiations with Lord Ashburton have been concluded, though his resignation will have been tendered before that time. He thinks the separation will not be the source of any personal alienation between the parties, and renders Mr. Webster the homage due to a great statesman.

The North American of yesterday has another Washington letter, which says—

"There are wars, and rumors of wars!" It is whispered about privately that there is to be an explosion in the Cabinet within a few weeks. The reports go so far as to make it an extensive one—one that will reach at least three or four members of it. Mr. Forward, Secretary of the Treasury, it is said, desires to return to Pittsburg, to resume the profession of the law (he never sought office;) and Mr. Spencer, Secretary of War, will return to the Empire State, to follow a similar pursuit.

If Mr. Webster succeeds in bringing to a favorable issue the negotiations with Lord Ashburton, he also can retire from the Cabinet with flying colors—and report says that he will. Mr. Wickliffe will remain at the head of the Post Office Department, but whether Mr. Upshur will continue at the head of the Navy Department, or be translated to some other position in the Cabinet, or take the mission to France, is as yet problematical. I have no doubt myself, that Mr. Cushing of Massachusetts will be one of the members of the new Cabinet.

ARRIVAL OF THE BRITANNIA.

THIRTEEN DAYS LATER FROM LONDON.

The steamship Britannia arrived at Boston about 11 o'clock on Saturday morning. The Britannia left Liverpool on the afternoon of the 4th inst, and we have both London and Liverpool papers to the morning of that day.

The British war-steamer Rhodamanthus arrived at Halifax on the 15th inst with despatches for Lord Ashburton, and orders for the Warspite to proceed to the Mediterranean. The special messenger to Lord Ashburton came from Halifax in the Britannia, and it is rumored that his despatches are of importance.

Many more arrests have been made at Paris of persons supposed to be implicated in the late attempts upon the life of the King.

The British appear to be making immense preparations for the prosecution of the war in China and India. No less than 50 000 stand of arms had been forwarded to Bombay by way of Alexandria and Suez.

ATTEMPTS UPON THE LIFE OF THE QUEEN OF ENGLAND.

Another madman, or a monster without the excuse of madness, has attempted the assassination of the Sovereign of the British Empire. At six o'clock on Monday evening as Her Majesty, accompanied by Prince Albert, was returning to the Palace, in an open barouche, with outriders, an assassin presented a pistol and discharged it at the Queen, from very nearly the same spot on Constitution Hill from which Oxford fired. The wretch was instantly seized by a soldier of the Scotch Fusileer Guard.—He was at first supposed to be a foreigner, but it appears, unhappily, that he is an Englishman, named John Francis, son of a scene-shifter at one of the theatres. He is about 20 years of age.

The royal cortege, when the pistol was discharged, was fortunately proceeding at a rate rather more rapid than usual, and to that circumstance, it is supposed Her Majesty, in a great measure, owes the preservation of her life, as Francis was seen by a police constable to take deliberate aim. The act had been noticed by Prince Albert, who sat on the right hand of his royal consort, and who immediately rose from his seat. He pointed out the miscreant to one of the outriders, when the royal servant got off his horse to assist in his apprehension, but, finding him secure in custody, again followed his royal carriage.

A respectable woman states that, just before the attempt, she heard the prisoner say to another man in a flannel jacket, "The Queen! why should she be such an expense to the nation? It is to support her in such grand style that us poor fellows have to work hard."

The barrel of the pistol was quite warm when taken from the prisoner. Of course, at present there cannot be any evidence as to whether it was loaded with balls or slugs, but the impression is, that it was loaded with a ball.

It appears that an attempt also had been made upon Her Majesty's life on Sunday. A Mr. Pearson states that, on Sunday, about two o'clock, while walking in St. James's Park, he saw the carriage, containing Her Majesty, Prince Albert, and suite approaching from the Chappel Royal, and when near the little gate leading out of the drive into the Greek park, he saw a young man, who was standing near him with his back to the rails, pull a pistol out of his breast, and as the Queens carriage passed, present at it, but whether he pulled the trigger he could not tell.

LATEST FROM INDIA.

The Indian overland mail, arrived at Marseilles, brings an account of the fall of Ghizni. The place capitulated and surrendered on condition that the garrison be safely conducted to Cabul.

On the other hand, Colonel Pollock had forced the Khiber pass, and taken possession of the forts commanding it, and would, no doubt, march to the relief of Jellalabad. General Sale, in a sortie from that place, overthrew the insurgents.

A rumor prevailed that Akbar Khan had been badly wounded.

Gen. Knott had gained some advantage on the side of Candahar, but Gen. England had not joined him It is reported that Shah Shoojah had been poisoned.

There is no news from China.
