

POETRY.

From the Salem Gazette.

THE HALL OF DEATH.

By the dark waters of the Sea I dreamed,
When soon, methought, a mighty shadow rose,
A misty shape, through which the pale moon gleamed;
A voice I heard, its tones my spirit froze,—
"Follow!"—it sank, and I pursuing close,
Clove many a fathom through the Deep, while fled
The sea-nymphs, or expired with baneful throes
As the shade passed,—till gained the ocean's bed,
Above the waters rolled, I looked—the shape had fled!

But instant changed the overhanging Main
To ebon rock—an adamantine dome—
Around me lay a black and dreary plain,
With pitchy vapors rolling in the gloom,
Where sights unearthly did appalling loom,
Seen by the flickering, phosphorescent fire
That gleamed from ghostly eyes, while the loud boom
Of dark oblivion's tide came sounding dire,
O'er which Despair sat throned with Death, his horrid sire.

An iron circlet crowned his sulphurous brow,
Shook a dread dart in his infernal pride,
While fell Disease, his minister of woe,
With famished maw, yelled hideous at his side,
And never ceasing nor yet undenied,
To sate Death's appetite, she sanguined brings
Her hell-hounds, who with gory jaws ope'd wide,
Howl as they snatch Earth's tribes and sceptred kings,
O'er whose blue rattling heaps brood Horror's brazen wings.

First Fever rolled his fiery eye-balls blaze,
And Pestilence shook scorpions from her hair
And moon-struck Madness glared in wild amaze,
As Hydrophobia started from his lair;
Demoniac War and hungry Famine there
Together prowled, while Gout and Asthma groaned,
By Apoplex full-gorged and withered Care;
Lean Agony with Stone, keen writhing moaned,
And pale Consumption smiled while fast her victim bound.

There Suicide—the accursed child of Hell,
Whetted his knife on Murder's secret pall,
But dreadful stretched the Earthquake from his cell,
With scaly limbs, huge, black, interminable;—
His throat belched fire and lava steams, while all
Affrighted fled as the vast dome he tore,
And rocked the world from his encavérned hall;
Earth trembling heard the repercussive roar,
And Albion echoed back to far Columbia's shore!

I woke and mused upon the Tyrant's power,
Which robed in terror, strikes the guilty breast,
But smiles the good man in the mortal hour
With conscious virtue sinking to his rest,
He breathes his benisons, his memory blest,
Embalmed in praise, in grateful incense lies,— Virtue's mausoleum! So in the dappled west
Sinks the tired sun and gilds the evening skies
With golden streams, and in its own bright glories—dies!

ANOTHER EVIDENCE OF THE WONDERFUL CURES PERFORMED BY DR. SWAYNE'S COMPOUND SYRUP OF WILD CHERRY.

Dr. Swayne:—Dear Sir:—When I was at Pittsburg last August, I purchased of your Agent Six Bottles of your Compound Syrup of Wild Cherry. I had for many years been troubled with a Cough, often very violent, with other indications of Consumption, or disease of the Lungs, of a very serious nature. I had very little faith in medicine, as it was thought my disease was hopeless and beyond its reach.—I had applied to several Physicians for relief, and also used some highly puffed medicines which I had seen in the newspapers, but hearing that you had much experience in the practice of medicine, and had treated many cases of Consumption, I concluded to try yours; and from that time I am happy to say, I found relief.—I write this in hopes you will publish it, so that if any human being has suffered as I have done, they may know where to find a medicine the virtues of which may be relied on.

Yours respectfully,
JAMES OSBURN.
