DISASTERS AT SEA.—The New Bedford Mercury of Monday contains the following account of melancholy disasters at sea, copied from the log book of schooner Zenobia, Capt. Owens, from Baltimore, at that port:

'On Thursday the 7th inst. lost overboard from the fly-gib boom, Samuel Maffit of Talbot county, Md. Every effort was made to save him, but in vain as it was blowing heavy. On the afternoon of the same day, the wind blowing a complete hurricane, saw a schr. standing towards us with a signal of distress & bore to 200 yards to windward of us. It falling calm at that time, they lowered their stern boat, and five or six men got into her, and shoved off, but again the wind blew a hurricane from another quarter, bringing us to leeward of the schr. In the meantime the boat containing the schrs. crew, filled and capsized the crew holding on to her bottom. We having no sail on our vessel, could not get to their assistance before they were all washed off the boat, and sunk. The schooner's name commenced with S. and belonged to Bath. She was painted black with a broad yellow streak, square sail furled to her lower yard, and had a standing fore top gallant yard aloft. In about 30 minutes after the boat left the schooner, she went down in seven fathoms of water, about fifteen miles N. W. of Cape May.'

The Washington correspondent of the New York True Sun says: Mr. Wickliffe has left Washington on a visit to Kentucky. He has undertaken the hopeless mission of raising a Tyler demonstration in that section of country; with equal success he could re illume the ashes of a ruined hearth. Private opinion is also loud in its gentle whispers, that a personal interview with the aspirant of Ashland will exert a funny influence on the Cabinet manœuvres. The Postmaster General may make terms for himself, if no for his master, and the next few months will discover has of guns and lofty tumbling that would astonish even the gentlemen of the ring.'

THE PROPER REMEDY—All attacks upon the health can be cured provided we know which remedy to apply.—The origin of all diseases arises from the condition of the stomach & bowels. Not a fever, yellow, bilious, or intermittent arises here, so in fact in all complaints the stomach is the generative organ of disease as well as health. What is the remedy to be asked; The preparatives of nature as exhibited in the vegetable productions of the extensive surface of the earth, here and here only is found a remedy for disease. Not in mineral poisons, but in pure extractions from nature's purest kingdom, the leaf. Stansbury's Vegetable Extract Pills, prepared from vegetable matter only, freed from the grossness which is more or less to be found in Pills formed of similar substances, are the best remedy for general health to be found in the community, as every one pronounces them on trial.

Price 25 cents per box. Office 338 Broadway N. Y. next door below the Tabernacle.

Said Pills are sold in Easton by the agent, E. M. DAWSON & BROTHER, and by agents published in another part of our paper.

MEDICAL DEPARTMENT.

THE annual course of lectures in the Medical Department of the University of Maryland will commence on the last Monday of October next, and be continued till the first day of March following.

The course of instruction will consist, as usual, of lectures on the Theory and Practice of Medicine, on Obstetrics and Medical Jurisprudence, on Chemistry and Pharmacy, on Surgery on Materia Medica and Therapeutics, and on Special and General Anatomy.

The well know advantages of the University of Maryland, its spacious halls, its unrivalled apparatus, the abundant and cheap materials for the pursuit of practical Anatomy afforded by the city of Baltimore, and the ample resources of the valuable Museum belonging to the College, leave nothing to be desired by those who attach themselves to it as students of the various departments of medical science.

The lessons of the Professors of Surgery, of the Practice of Physic, and of Therapeutics will be illustrated by daily clinical instruction in the wards of the Baltimore Infirmary—This institution, which is connected with the College and in its immediate vicinity, presents at all times a number and variety of cases amply sufficient to afford to Students an acquaintance with the practical application of the principles of Medicine and Surgery. Constant opportunities occur during the session of witnessing in it important surgical operations.

The Professors of the several branches, thus provided with all the necessary and desirable means of aiding students of medicine in the acquisition of a thorough professional education will make every exertion to promote the interest of their pupils, and to prepare them properly for the arduous and momentous duties of the medical profession.
