Communications were received from the State and War Departments.

The Chair having announced that petitions were in order, Mr. Buchanan presented two from Philadelphia, asking the repair of the decayed piers at Fort Penn, and the establishment of a Lighthouse on Brandywine Shoal. Also asked, and had leave to withdraw the papers on file in relation to Joshua Shaw.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10, 1844.

SENATE

Senator Barrow appeared in his seat today.

Messages in writing were received from the President, merely of an executive character; one, however, was read, and conveyed intelligence of the settlement by the Republic of Venezuela of the indemnity in the case of the brig Morris.

Memorials were presented by the following gentlemen viz:

Mr. Crittenden, for the reduction of postage.

Mr. Johnson, for the remission of duties on certain railroad iron.

Mr. Huntington, from the American Statistical Association, asking congressional correction of certain errors of the 6th census.

Mr. Benton, concerning the bones of the mastodon, dug up in Missouri.

Leave was granted for the withdrawal from the files of the Senate of papers belonging to individuals, to Messrs. Bagby, Woodbridge, Barrow, Phelps, Rives and Huntington.

Mr. Huntington, on leave, introduced a bill relating to the appointment of assistants to the Postmaster General.

Mr. Bayard, from the naval committee, introduced a bill for the relief of James Duffy. Also, for the settlement of the title to the Pea Patch Island

Mr. Pierce, from the same committee, reported a bill for the relief of the heirs of Robert Fulton.

Texas. Mr. McDuffie, leave being granted, introduced his joint resolution for the annexation of Texas. This instrument provides that the compact of annexation and union signed by J. C. Calhoun, on the part of the United States, and J. Van Zandt, on the part of Texas, on the 12th of April last, be the law of the United States so soon as the supreme authorities of Texas have agreed to the same; and that it shall be the duty of the President of the United States, when this takes place, to announce it by proclamation, &c. On motion of Mr. Archer this was referred to the committee on foreign affairs.

Mr. Benton then rose, amidst the smiles of those around, and gave notice, that tomorrow he would ask leave to bring in a bill to provide for the annexation of Texas.

On motion of Mr. Berrien the Senate took a short executive session, and then adjourned.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

The proceedings of the House was today commenced by the introduction by Mr. Broadhead of a resolution directing an inquiry into the amount of dividends in the U. S. Bank whose charter expired in 1811, and other matters therewith connected. The resolution was adopted.

Mr. Adams, by leave, introduced a bill in favor of the owners of the schr. Industry.

On motion, 5000 copies of the Report of the Navy Department, in relation to the use of coal in the Navy, were ordered to be printed.

A bill was introduced for bringing into the market the mineral lands in Wisconsin and Iowa. It was read twice, and referred to the committee on public lands.

At this point in the proceedings, Mr. Giddings insisted upon the regular order of business, whereupon the Chair proceeded to call upon the States for petitions. A great variety were offered, and among them one by Mr. Adams, from the American Statistical Association, in relation to the errors of the last census. On motion of Mr. Adams, a committee of nine were raised to take into consideration this memorial, and Mr. A. moved its printing, but the motion to print was laid on the table by yeas 101 to nays 79.

Here Mr. John Tyler, Jr. delivered a Message in writing from the President.

Mr. Adams then presented a petition of certain citizens of N. Y., in favor of the abolition of slavery in the District of Columbia.

Mr. Black, of Ga., raised the question of reception.

Mr. Brown of Ia., moved to lay this question on the table.

Mr. Holmes, of S. C., demanded the yeas and nays on this motion.

The question of reception was not laid on the table—ayes 90, noes 99. On the question, Shall the petition be received?—the vote was ayes 107, noes 81; so it was determined to receive it.

Mr. C. J. Ingersoll after some question of order, declined to vote, as also did Mr. Black, of Ga.

A motion to lay the petition on the table was lost, ayes 88, noes 99.

On motion of Mr. Adams, who was at length victorious over all technical trouble the petition was referred to the committee on the District of Columbia.

Mr. Stewart, of Conn., presented sundry resolutions adopted by the Legislature of that State in favor of the present Tariff, Distribution, and other cardinal points of whig policy.

A number of petitions in reference to reduction of Postage, Naturalization, &c., were presented.

EASTON GAZETTE.

EASTON, MD.

Saturday Morning, Dec. 14

It is a remarkable event in the history of our people, that in an election, in which the whole nation, and its highest interests were involved, a party has succeeded without declaring any measure or policy to direct its administration, and with no other principle of action than that of opposition. The two great parties into which this country has heretofore been divided, have each had their own distinctive measures, always avowed and openly expressed; and when the result of an election has been known, the defeated party has folded its arms in quiet submission to what was admitted to be the expressed will of the people, upon known and well understood doctrines, and arrested their warfare for a time.

The case is very different in the election just concluded, and we doubt very much if the usual repose which has been found to follow on these occasions, will be enjoyed by either of the parties engaged in it. The Whigs can never rest satisfied under defeat while they know themselves to be the most powerful of the two, and while they know they have been circumvented by trickery, fraud, and a violation of law the most daring and shameful. The Locofocos are doomed to a period of discord and contention among themselves because they are made up of opposing factions, the aim of each of which will be, to appropriate to itself the spoils of victory unmolested; and because of the deceptions by which they were made to carry out the views of the most interested.

In the absence of any definite measure of the party and in view of the tricks and malpractices by which they have succeeded, the question naturally presents itself, what has the election of Mr. Polk decided? There are some of the radical and misbelieving partisans who presumptuously declare that it has decided in favor of the annexation of Texas, against the Tariff of '42, against a Bank of the United States, against the distribution of the proceeds of the Public Lands, &c.; while others of better authority perhaps, and with more readiness to admit the truth, have expressed opinions that lead to a very different conclusion. For instance, the Sunbury American, one of the devoted Locofoco presses of Pennsylvania, says:

"Mr. Polk, it is true, has not been so closely identified with the manufacturing interests as Mr. Clay, but it must be recollected that he has been sustained, and nobly sustained in this State, under many adverse circumstances, with full confidence that he would sustain the manufacturing as well as other interests of the State, according to the promise every where made by his own personal and influential friends. Mr. Polk's a man of high character and spotless integrity. He, therefore, cannot, and we think will not, basely betray those who have placed their confidence in him. He will recollect that without Pennsylvania he could never have been elected. That the People of Pennsylvania are almost unanimous in favor of a tariff, affording protection to their manufactories. That it was with a firm belief that he would foster these interests, as they had been assured by himself and his friends, that they gave him their support. To betray them now would be worse than Arnold's treason. These we know to be the feelings of almost the entire democracy of this section of the State, and we might say of the whole State. The four counties of Northumberland, Columbia, Schuylkill and Luzerne, gave him a majority of 4681. These counties possess almost boundless wealth in their coal and iron, and are, therefore, deeply interested in the tariff. They have given this large vote under the most possitive assurance that their great interests would be protected, and woe be to the man who should attempt to betray them."

The Plebium, a violent Locofoco paper, published in New York—the paper that has been pronounced by a distinguished editor as the "organ and mouth-piece of that class of voters who have elected Mr Polk," acknowledges that "in some parts of Pennsylvania the friends of Gov. Polk practised dishonesty, and represented him as friendly to the tariff of 1842."

The New York Evening Post, a paper of distinguished merit in the Locofoco ranks in that State, uses this language: "If the effect of the nomination of Mr. Polk, apparently under the auspices of those who desired the immediate annexation of Texas, instead of Mr. Van Buren, who was proscribed because he disapproved of the measure, had not been neutralised by the nomination of a Governor openly entertaining and acting upon the same opinions with Mr. Van Buren, the State would inevitably have been lost."

The inferences which we draw from the sentiments here expressed by the party themselves, are, that the election of Mr. Polk has decided in favor of sustaining the Tariff of '42, and against the annexation of Texas. The vote of Pennsylvania was secured by an assurance from Mr. Polk himself as well as from his friends, that he was in favor of a Tariff protecting the interests of that State; and New York was saved only by the nomination of a Governor notoriously anti-Texas in his opinions, who was brought forward to bear Mr. Polk upon his back, and to support him by the anti-Texas votes of the State. Another and cheering inference which we deduce from all this is, that the Whig party are decided to be in the ascendant although their candidate has been defeated, for without the aid of Whig measures and Whig doctrines their opponents could never have triumphed.

The Governor of Maryland has appointed Augustus R. Sellers, Esq. Clerk of Calvert County Court, in place of William Hance, Esq. deceased.

U. S. SENATOR.—The Hon. Thomas Corwin has been elected by the Ohio Legislature to the U. S. Senate, in place of the Hon. Benjamin Tappan, whose term of service expires on 4th of March next. He received 60 votes. The opposition cast their votes for David T. Disney, Esq. who received 46 votes.

It seems that emigration from this country to Texas during the present year has been quite as active as in previous years. The numbers of emigrants that passed through the frontier town of Van Buren, in Arkansas, is stated at about five thousand souls, and the emigration by other routes is said to have been equally as great.

COURT OF APPEALS.—The Court of Appeals of this State, for the Western Shore, commenced its December term at Annapolis on Monday the 1st. inst. when A. C. Magruder, Esq., in a brief address, announced the decease of the Hon. John Buchanan, Chief Judge of the State. The Court immediately adjourned, and with the members of the Bar, assembled to adopt suitable testimonials of respect for the deceased. Hon. Judge Archer being called to the Chair, the following resolutions, offered by John Glenn, Esq., were adopted.

Resolved, That the Members of the Maryland Bench and Bar remember with lively satisfaction, the judicial course of the deceased for thirty-eight years a Judge and for twenty-one years Chief Judge of our Appellate Court, during the whole of which period of his great anxiety to discover and protect the just rights of his fellow-citizens, was manifested by patient and diligent investigation and enlightened and accurate judgement.

Resolved, That while we feel deep regret at the departure of the deceased, as for the loss of a cherished friend and companion, we in common with the profession, will find great consolation in the recollection of his many virtues, his manly character, and the dignity and grace which adorned his public and social life, and greater consolation in referring to his example as a model of judicial excellence.

Resolved, That we make these proceedings public, and transmit them to his family as the proof of our gratitude for his many acts of personal kindness and admiration of the deceased as a public officer.

Resolved, That this meeting present these resolutions to the Court of Appeals, and request that they be entered on the minutes of the Court.

At the opening of the Court on the following morning, the Hon. THOMAS G. PRATT delivered the following address:

The death of Chief Justice John Buchanan has already been announced to this Court, and your Honors are aware that upon the adjournment of the Court, consequent upon that announcement, on yesterday, a meeting of the members of the Maryland Bench and Bar was held, to express their heart-felt grief at this public and private calamity. I have been deputed to present to this Court the resolutions adopted by that meeting, and to ask that they may be spread upon the minutes of the Court. Upon no one, perhaps, would more appropriately devolve this duty than on myself. Chief Justice Buchanan was a native of the county of my birth; his father and my grand-father occupied adjoining farms in that county, and the deceased and my father were early friends and schoolmates. To this cause I was sometimes disposed to attribute the almost paternal kindness with which I was always treated by him whose loss we now mourn—but a more accurate observation enabled me to see that it was to be attributed to that innate goodness of heart which made him the friend of the young and inexperienced; a protector of the unprotected; and to which source may also be attributed that urbanity of manner for which he was so distinguished, and which through life rendered him accessible to every gentleman.

I have often during the life of this distinguished man reflected upon his character as a Judge; and I thought he pre-eminently possessed most of the qualities essential to judicial eminence. He was for nearly half a century a member of the Court I am now addressing, & the records of its proceedings and the reports of its decisions sufficiently proclaim his judicial ability. But in those other qualities, honesty of intention, and firmness of purpose, so essential to the judicial character, he was excelled by no man living or dead.

May it please the Court, I now move you that the resolutions to which I have referred, and now offer, may be spread upon the minutes of your proceedings, and that the Clerk of the Court may be requested to transmit a copy to the family of the deceased.

Judge Archer on behalf of the Court replied:

The intelligence of the death of the late Chief Justice of this Court was received by us all with the deepest regret. We have been associated with him for many years in the discharge of official duties, and had uniformly received at his hands such marks of kindness, that he was greatly endeared to us all.

How long experience, and great legal attainments were calculated to give authority to the judgments of any Court of which he might have been a member, and he certainly adorned this Court as well by the dignity of his manners, as by the learning of his decisions. Our individual loss has been even great: we have been deprived of a valued friend and most able associate in our labors. The loss of the public has been irreparable. He stood at the head of his profession—distinguished for his experience—for his legal knowledge; for his high sense of justice. He was universally known and respected in his State, for all those qualities of head and heart which adorn our nature. But nothing which we could say would add to his fame. He has left enduring monuments of the character of his mind, in his reported decisions.

We most cheerfully order the resolutions which have been read to be placed on our records.
