of the present year, there has been received into the Treasury the sum of $111,115 46—of which amount the sum of not less than $107,000 is applicable to the payment of the interest on the public debt.

Altogether, there has been paid into the Treasury during the last fiscal year, with the addition of the short period ending on the 8th of the present month, the aggregate sum of $483,332 79—an aggregate not falling far short of $500,000, applicable to the account of the public debt.

The annual interest on our State debt, not provided for by the specific appropriations of certain designated and adequate funds is $626,821 16. It thus appears that the amount of revenue received during the past year, including the receipts since its close up to the 8th inst., falls short only in the sum of $143,488 37 of the whole amount required to pay the entire interest.

We learn further, from an authentic source, that in addition to these means there are other considerable sums, payable into the Treasury annually, now applicable by law to the payment of the interest on the State debt. These sums, it is belived, do not amount to less than $60,000; so that the actual deficit in the means of the State to pay the year's interest on her debt is less than one hundred thousand dollars.

We publish below the statement of the Treasurer showing the items of the aggregate payments into the Treasury since the close of the fiscal year up to the 8th inst.—It will be seen that the County of Somerset has paid $20,865 44, being nearly or quite two thirds of the taxes due from her for the years '41, '42, '43 and '44. This is a very gratifying indication from a County hitherto reckoned among the delinquent Counties. The example, creditable as it is to Somerset, cannot but operate beneficially in the way of recalling to their duty other Counties which have been backward in their payments.

[Reported for the Baltimore American]

Washington, Jan. 13, 1845.

SENATE.

ANNEXATION OF TEXAS.

Mr. Foster of Tennessee rose to present certain resolutions in reference to Texas annexation and prefaced their presentation with remarks of the following tenor, viz:—

That he had long entertained great anxiety upon this subject, regarding it as one that involved the harmony and integrity of the Union. He had not consulted with a single member of this body in the course he was about to pursue; nor had he ever said so much as he would now say, which was, that his social feelings had always been in favour of Texas. Had he no other reason for this?

He was but a man and could not but remember that at least one-tenth of the citizens of Texas had been citizens of his own gallant State. He had not concluded upon any form for the annexation of Texas. On this point he had great doubts; but one thing he would say, viz: that he would never consent to the annexation of foreign territory, unless it can be done upon the broad basis of our noble Constitution.

Mr. F. then sent his joint resolutions to the Chair, which were read and referred.—The resolutions authorizes the preliminary steps to bring about the ultimate annexation of Texas to the United States.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

Mr. J. P. Kennedy, of Md., rose to make a correction of the report of his remarks on Saturday, as published in the "Globe" He said he did not intend to charge, as there stated, that Mr. Belser, of Alabama, had participated in the attempt to have a resolution of censure passed upon him in Baltimore, for his Texas letter.

He ascribed the attempt to a few minions of power in Baltimore, in which Mr. Belser, he believed, had no hand.

Mr. Cave Johnson offered a resolution providing that all debate on the joint resolution for annexing Texas to the United States, should cease in Committee of the Whole, at 2 o'clock on Thursday next.

Mr. Semple, of Indiana, moved to lay the resolution on the table.

Mr. Schenck, of Ohio, demanded the yeas and nays, which were ordered, when the decision was in the affirmative—yeas 127, nays 54. So the resolution was laid on the table.

Mr. Milton Brown, of Tennessee, by general consent, offered a series of resolutions, declaring the terms on which Texas shall be annexed to the United States.

The resolutions provide that the people of Texas, by deliberation in convention, shall agree upon a constitution and a Republican form of government, preparatory to their admission into the Union as a State, which will be approved hereafter.

The debt of Texas not to be assumed by the government, but to be paid by the State government of Texas out of the proceeds of its Public Lands.

New States formed out of the Territory of Texas, south of the line known as the Missouri compromise line, shall be Slave States or otherwise as the people there shall determine.

Mr. Brinkeroff, of Ohio, opposed the various propositions for annexing Texas, before the House.

He noticed the various inconsistencies of the dominant party in supporting a measure that came in conflict with some of their cardinal principles.

He was opposed to the measure because, as it was presented to the House, it was a sectional or Southern question.

If Texas was admitted on proper terms and it was made a national question, he would go for it. The measure was hatched to advance Southern interests exclusively and therefore he would oppose it.

He thought it probable that the late election had settled the abstact question of Annexation in the affimative, but he denied that it decided the details. The people, in that election, had not agreed to assume the debt of Texas nor had they expressed their willingness that slavery should exist in the whole of the Territory of Texas.

He was in favor of settling the question of Slavery now and if it was not he would not support the measure.

The speech of Mr. B. produced a great sensation in the House and came somewhat unexpectedly to all.

Mr. Chappell of Ga. replied in part, and defended the annexation of Texas.

Mr. Holmes took the floor at half past four o'clock, after which the Committee rose and the House adjourned.

Correspondence of the American.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14, 1845.

Mr. Haywood's plan introduced into the Senate to-day for the annexation of Texas, looks to the Ordinance of 1787, establishing a territory North West of the Ohio, and the Missouri Compromise for the settlement of the terms of annexation. The question of debt is not referred to.—The Slave question being the most difficult to compromise, it is proposed that there shall be as many free States as slave States admitted. Preliminary to the admission as States, however, it is proposed to establish territorial Governments—one to be called the "South Western territory of the United States," and the other "territory of Nebiaska." From the first it is proposed to make slave States, and from the last free States.

Maryland Legislature

Correspondence of the Balt. Patriot

ANNAPOLIS, January 10, 1845.

On the night of the 15th, will be determined who is to be our Senator in the U. S. Senate. Several names are spoken of, of course, though but two or three are prominent in connection with the station, and upon whomsoever of those few, the choice may fall, he will be in the words of your correspondent, both a "first rate" and a "practical" man.

To fill the vacancy occasion by the resignation of Mr. Wootton, besides the name of Mr. Bowie, those of Thos. Duckett and Truman Cross, Esqrs. are mentioned as candidates.

It is said the Governor will make his nominations on the 20th inst. For the last two or three days, there has been a constant current to and from his chamber. It however begins now to fall off again, nearly all the petitions being presented, that will be, in person. The Hall of the House, is yet crowded, and every strange face is classed among the applicants. This goodly little city, too, sends her quota up.

You will have noticed that the proceedings of the Legislature present little besides private business. Matters of public importance are distributed to the several appropriate Committees, whose action the House awaits before they can take the several subjects in hand. A very busy season is anticipated, however, and indeed, unusual quantities of private and local business is pouring in upon the attention of the Legislature and will occupy much of the time of the session.

Nothing of public import transpired today. The Treasurer was called on to give the reasons why the Susquehanna and Tide Water Canal Companies failed to comply with the requirements of chap. 363 of last session, &c.

The Committee on Grievances & Courts of Justice were directed to enquire into the expediency of foreclosing the State's mortgage on the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal.

Nothing was done in the Senate.

The House having, in the words of one of the Delegates, "no food to eat," adjourned until Monday next, as did also the Senate.

Correspondence of the American Rep.

ANNAPOLIS, January. 13, 1845.

Mr. Potter presented a petition from Joseph Brown, of Philadelphia, praying to be allowed to bring certain slaves from Delaware into Maryland.

A communication from the Treasurer shows that but twelve incorporated companies have complied with the law of last session, requiring the tax, imposed upon their stock, to be paid at the offices of such companies. From those companies which have paid, there has been received the sum of $6,150 56.

The speaker laid before the house the replies of certain of the Registers of this State to the call of the house, to report how long they have held their several offices, and the amount of their receipts and fees.

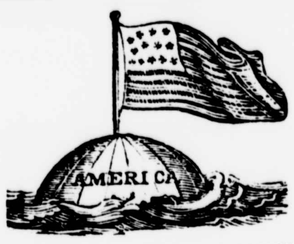

Mr. Patterson submitted a resolution, in relation to the representative sent by Massachusetts to S. Carolina,—declaring the opinion of the Legislature, that it was an unjustifiable interference with the domestic concerns of that State, and unfriendly to the institutions of the South. It comes up hereafter.

The Committee on elections were directed to take in hand the subject of bribery at elections, and report what means are proper to be resorted to, to prevent the same in future.

An order, instructing the committee on ways and means to inquire and report whether any offices, to which payments are made from the State Treasury, can be abolished without detriment to the public interests.

In Senate, Mr. Ely obtained leave to report a bill to incorporate the Ashland Manufacturing Company.

A bill authorising the County Courts to extend the time to Sheriffs and Collectors to complete their county and state collections, was reported and lies over.

EASTON GAZETTE.

EASTON, MD.

Saturday Morning, Jan. 18.

Hon. J. A. Pearce, of the U. S. Senate and Messrs. Goldsborough, Harrington and McKnett, of the House of Delegates of Md. will accept our thanks for Public documents.

THE DUEL.—A duel has been on the tapis for several days past, between the Hon. Mr. Clingman, of North Carolina, and Hon. Mr. Yancy, of Alabama, members of the U. S. House of Representatives originating in some remarks applied to the former by the latter, in a speech made by him last week on the Texas question.

The Balt. Patriot of Tuesday says:—We learned last night, by the cars from Washington, that Messrs. Clingman and Yancy had a meeting, yesterday and that after one shot, the matter was settled.

The facts of the case, our correspondent writes us from Washington, this morning are as follows:

The parties met at Beltsville, yesterday and exchanged shots once. Mr. Clingman's ball passed over Mr. Yancey's head and Mr. Y.'s struck the ground, midway between the combatants. The seconds then interfered, and succeeded in settling the matter without further hostile proceedings. The parties then, with their friends, left the ground for Washington.

Our correspondent adds, that it is not improbable some action will be had in the House, with a view to prevent any duel hereafter between members of Congress.

The New Haven papers announce the death of the Hon. ROGER M. SHERMAN, one of the most distinguished citizens of Connecticut. He died at his residence in Fairfield on Tuesday afternoon, at the age of seventy-two.

Murder.—A young man named Paul Roux, of Macon Georgia, arrived in this city from Philadelphia, on Saturday night, and put up at the house of Thos. Noland, keeper of a small tavern in South Charles street. On Monday night he was found dead in his bed, with his throat cut from ear to ear, and his skull broken in with an axe, which had been thrown under the bed after the commission of the deed. The murderer is supposed to be a young man named Henry McCurry, who roomed with the deceased on Sunday night.—Baltimore American.

The following imperial order from the great Autocrat of the Democracy, comes just in time to give the cue to his followers in Congress. Mr. Dromgoole's bill will now pass the House:

HERMITAGE, January 1, 1845.

MY DEAR MR. BLAIR? I cannot forbear, on this first day of the year 1845, to let you know that I am still in the land of the living, although greatly afflicted and debilitated. My whole family join me in kind salutations to you and yours, wishing you the joys of the season. May you all live to see many happy new years.

I observe that you have before Congress too many joint resolutions for the reannexation of Texas. This argues want of unanimity in the democracy upon this great national and most important subject. I have just received from Major Donelson, a letter dated at Washington, in Texas, from which I would infer, that if Congress expect to annex Texas to the United States they must act speedily, or it will be found to be beyond our grasp. The rejection of the advances of Texas has given offence to some, and a handle to others to press the liberal propositions of England upon the Texians, together with the splendid view of Texas independent, growing into a vast Republic, in time to embrace not only the limits of Texas, but all the domain once Montezuma's. This view, to ambitious aspirants, added to the guaranties of England of her independence, and the loan of large sums for ten years, based upon a treaty that English manufactures shall be free of duty, is gaining a party in Texas.—General Houston is still the leading star; and his influence can alone be counted upon to resist the present influence of England and its increasing power. How long this influence of England can be successfully withstood in Texas, is becoming a very questionable matter. I have taken a view of the whole ground, given to all information its due weight, and I say to you that, unless Congress acts upon this subject promptly, Texas will be beyond our grasp, and lost to the United States forever, unless regained by the sword. What will be the situation of our country, with British manufactures introduced duty free into Texas? Comment is unnecessary.

I hazard nothing in saying that, if the present Congress do not act promptly upon this subject, the next will not have the power. The consent of Texas cannot then be obtained. Great Britain will have laid the lion's paw upon her, and bound her by treaty.

I am exhausted; but, from Major Donelson's letter, and other sources of information, the danger of losing Texas seemed so imminent, that although feeble, I could not forbear to say this much to you, that you might communicate it to my friends.—May GOD bless you and yours.

ANDREW JACKSON.

LOSS OF A BOSTON PACKET. Capt. Britton, at New York from Liverpool, reports that on the 15th ult. he discovered at sea the wreck of the ship Dorchester, of and bound to Boston from Liverpool. She had been struck by a sea while lying to in the violent gale of the 12th, which took all three masts by the board, together with the second mate and Carpenter.—With great difficulty in a dark and squally night, took from off the wreck Capt Caldwell, his son, Mr. Traine, chief officer, 15 seamen and 29 steerage passengers.

FOREIGN NEWS.

[From the New York Sun, of Monday.]

TWO DAYS LATER FROM EUROPE.

By the arrival of the packet ship Rochester, Capt Britton, from Liverpool, we have received our files of papers to the 6th ult.

There have been fresh outbreaks in India. It does not look as if all was tranquil in those possessions.

The fort of Samanghur was stormed on the 18th October with success.

Every thing appears tranquil in Ireland Mr. O'Connell has got into a quarrel with the French Government.

The French papers are hard upon the Irish repealers.

The British Parliament is to meet on the 4th February.

The London Times and the British Magazine have both abandoned Puseyism—a plain sign that the ship is sinking.

The growth of potatoes this year appears to be one of the largest and best almost ever remembered, not only in England but also in Scotland, Ireland, and the Channel islands.

The inundation of the Arno having retired, the valley was found covered with the dead bodies of men and animals.

FOR SALE

A Farm on the Salt Water.

I offer for sale 240 acres of land, beautifully situated on the waters of Third Haven, and about six miles from the town of Easton in Talbot county. This land was originally very fertile, and is now capable of producing very fair crops of small grain, and is powerfully acted upon by Plaster of Paris. There are on the premises Calcarious and other manures abundantly sufficient, to restore it to a high state of fertility in a short time. It is susceptible of division into two farms one of 125 acres, and the other of 115—and there are beautiful situations for BUILDING, on each part. It will be sold to suit purchasers, either as a whole or in two farms. It rarely happens that a situation can be obtained combining the advantages of health and beauty in so eminent a degree. The buildings on the premises are suited to the accommodation of an overseer.—The undersigned will show the premises to any one desirous of purchasing: letters directed to Easton Md., will receive prompt attention. This land lies between my residence and that of Thos S Hayward, Esq., & opposite to the residence of Wm. E. Bartlett Esq
