Witness resuming his testimony says: "This map is made from maps furnished by the City Librarian, and from no other source, except the copy of the patent offered in evidence;" and further, this witness saith not.

William F. Flaherty, a competent witness, was then offered by the plaintiff, who being first duly sworn, testified as follows:

I am a Surveyor and Civil Engineer; I made this map or plat; (not referring to the plat testified of by the witness, Twombley, but to another one;) "I derived the information from three (3) extracts, two (2) from deeds and one (1) from a Mr. Lemmidien."

Mr. Trundle here objects, and the court directs pltff's attys to proceed to show their proper title, and that the witness shall be recalled after that is done, if necessary.

Plaintiff's attys then offered in evidence an office copy of deed from Charles Ridgely, the patentee, to his son John Ridgely, dated the 23rd day of February, A.D. 1770, and recorded among the Land Records of Baltimore County, (now in the City of Baltimore,) in Liber A.L., No. A, folio 672, etc.

Deed Howard's Timber Neck.

Charles Ridgely to John Ridgely	This indenture, made this twenty third day of February, in the year of our Lord One thousand seven hundred and seventy, between Charles Ridgely, &c., of the one part, and, John Ridgely, of the other.

Witnesseth, that the said Charles Ridgely, for and in consideration of the natural love and affection, which he hath to the said John Ridgely, his son, and also for the further consideration of five shillings, sterling, hath given, bargained and sold, and by these presents, doth give, grant, bargain and sell unto the said John Ridgely, all that parcel or tract of land, called "Howard's Timber Neck, except such part thereof as the said Charles Ridgely hath before conveyed to his daughter, Pleasance Goodwin, &c.

Which said copy of the said deed was read to the jury without objection. The plaintiff then offered in evidence an office copy of the last will and testament of said John Ridgely, son of Charles, and the codicil thereto, which are recorded in "Wills, Liber W.D., No. 3, folio 258, etc.

John Ridgely Last Will and Testament.

(The Last Will and Testament of John Ridgely.)

In the name of God, Amen; I, John Ridgely, of Baltimore Town, in Baltimore County, merchant, &c., do give and bequeath unto my son, Charles Ridgely, all my part of a tract of land, called "Howard's Timber Neck;" which said copy of said will was read to the jury subject to exceptions.

Plaintiff then offered in evidence an office copy of a lease from Charles Ridgely, son of John, to George Preistman or Presstman, dated the 2nd day of June, A.D. 1777, and recorded among the Land Records aforesaid, in Liber W.G., No. 8, folio 74, etc.:

Charles Ridgely, of John, to George Preistman.	This indenture, made this second day of June, in the year of our Lord, seventeen hundred and seventy seven, between Charles Ridgely, son of John, of Baltimore County, gentleman, of the one part, and George Preistman, Plaister, of said County, of the other part:

Witnesseth, that the said Charles Ridgely, for and in consideration of the rents and covenants hereinafter mentioned on the part of the said George Preistman, to be paid and performed, hath demised, granted and to farm letten, and by these presents doth grant, and to farm let unto the said George Preistman, his executors, administrators and assigns all that part of Howard's Timber Neck
