From the National Intelligencer.

To the Editors.

Washington, January 18, 1845.

Gentlemen: I find the following extract from a letter received by the editor of the Baton Rouge Gazette from a young American now travelling in Europe. As it is highly interesting to a large number of our fellow citizens—namely, the journeymen printers—who, after toiling day and night during the session of Congress, are left in idleness during the recess, I hope you will give it a "correct" in your valuable paper. There will be no necessity for them to sit on the "Long Bridge," rod in hand, waiting for a "bite" after this.—There is another class of our fellow-citizens, and soldiers too, who will be delighted to hear of this important discovery—large, portly men, who are unable to stand the heat of our summers, and I like to have forgotten the ladies. God bless them. there will be no more old ones now.—Now, then, let us hear him:

"Professor Von Gruss Buch, of Stockholm, has very lately brought to perfection the art of producing a torpor of the whole system, by the application of cold of different degrees of intensity, proceeding from a lesser to a greater, so as to cause the human body to become perfectly torpid without permanent injury to any organ or tissue of the frame. In this state they may remain for a great number of years, and again, after a sleep of ages, be awakened to existence, as fresh and blooming as they were when they first sunk into their frigorific slumber."

As some of the persons interested in this highly important discovery may wish further information as to the professor's experiments, &c., I will give the balance of the extract.

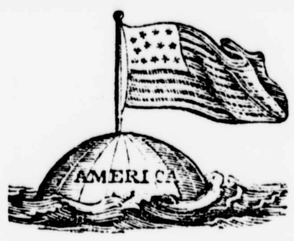

"The attention of the learned professor was first led to the subject by finding a toad enclosed in a fragment of rock ten feet in diameter, which, when taken out, showed unequivocal signs of life; but it was supposed that the concussion caused by blasting the rock occasioned its death in a few hours after. The opinion of Baron Gruithizen, who is geologist to the King of Sweden, was, that it must have been in that situation for at least seven thousand years; and his calculations were drawn from the different layers of strata by which it was surrounded. From this hint the professor proceeded to make experiments, and after a painful and laborious course of experiments for the last twenty-nine years of his life, he has at last succeeded in perfecting his great discovery.

"No less than sixty thousand reptiles, shell-fish, &c. were experimented on before he tried the human subject. The process is not entirely laid before the public yet, but I had the honor, in company with a friend, of visiting the professor.

"I shall give a slight description of one of the outer rooms containing some of his preparations. Previous to entering, we were furnished with an India rubber mask with glass eyes. This was put on to prevent the temperature of the room from being varied in the slightest degree by our breathing. It was a circular room, lighted from the top by the sun's rays, from which the heat was entirely disengaged by its passage through its glass, &c., colored by the oxide of copper, (a late discovery, and very valuable to the profession.) The room is shelved all around, and contains nearly one thousand specimens of animals &c. One was a Swedish girl, aged, from appearance, about nineteen years; she was consigned to the professor by order of the Government to experiment upon, having been found guilty of murdering her child. With the exception of slight paleness, she appeared as if asleep, although she has been in a state of complete torpor for two years. He intends, he says, to resuscitate her in five more years, and convince the world of the soundness of his wonderful discovery. The professor, to gratify us, took a small snake out of his cabinet into another room, and, although it appeared to us perfectly dead and rigid as marble, by application of a mixture of Cayenne pepper and brandy it showed immediate signs of life, and was apparently as active as ever it was in a few minutes, although the professor assured us it had been in a state of torpor for six years."

The advantages of this discovery are truly great. As soon as Congress adjourns the printer can be "friz," and laid on the shelf till the next winter, thereby getting a whole summer fat; and in case of Congress giving him nothing to do, why he can get "friz" again. The fat man can be put away during a warm summer, and "set up" again in winter "like a book." The ladies, in case it should be leap-year, can lie over until that year arrives, and be as young and handsome as ever. Only think, ye wives of naval officers, and others whose husbands are from home several years, you can be "friz" and laid away like a pickle until your lord returns. Indeed, this is a great country, and great people live in it. I have always heard that man was a machine, when the "works" gave "out" he gave "up," and now I am convinced. One word more, which is interesting to all, and I am done. If a man should be so unfortunate as to get in debt, he can get "friz," and stay so till all his creditors die, wake up, and go on his way "ticking" again.

Justices of the Orphans' Court.

John Stevens,	George Dudley,
Joseph Bruff.

Notary Public.—William Neuman.

Assessor at Easton.—George W. Scott.

Wood Corder at Easton Point.—William Jenkinson.

Wood Corder at St. Michaels.—Peter Watkins.

Surveyor of the County.—James Fitz Jarrell.

For Clerk of the County Court.—James Parrott.

For Register of Wills.—John H. Harris.

Passage of a Resolution Re-Annexing Texas to the United States.—The House of Representatives, on Saturday last, passed a resolution, by a vote of 120 to 98, providing for the admission of Texas into the Union as a State, on certain conditions.—See Congressional proceedings in another column.

Fire.—The Dwelling and Kitchen on "Cook's Hope," in this County, near Easton, the property of Mrs. Maria Rogers, and residence of Mr. Matthew Driver, with nearly all its contents, was on Thursday morning last, about 9 o'clock, consumed by fire. It is supposed that the fire originated from a spark from the kitchen chimney. The loss to the parties is considerable.

A New Comet.—A passenger in the steamboat from Mobile to New Orleans, on the evening of the 9th instant, saw in the Southwest what he supposed to be a Comet. Since then Mr. W. H. Clarke, of St. Mary's, Georgia, has had two observations of the Comet, which he describes as "far in the South, and making its way gradually Northward," as of unusual dimension, but less magnificent than the great Comet of 1843. His first sight of it was obtained on the evening of the 11th instant with the naked eye. On the evening of the 12th he again saw it. Capt. Hatch, of the brig Cordelia, at New York from Apalachicola, also saw it on the 11th instant, at 7 o'clock, P. M. off the Tortugas. He, too, describes it as a very large Comet, bearing S. S. W. 15 degrees high, and of a very luminous appearance.'

We see it stated in the Philadelphia U. S. Gazette that Prof. Kendall and his assistants of the High School Observatory in that city, have had a sight of the heavenly visitant.

Express Mail.—We perceive that the Post-Master General has established an express mail between Covington, Geo., and New Orleans, which goes into immediate operation. All letters pre-paid and marked express for Montgomery, Mobile, or New Orleans, will be sent by this mail. Also printed slips from editors of newspapers, as exchanges, will be sent. The slips to be put up in light wrappers, with the ends open. The express mail will be made up at the Baltimore Post Office each day, closing with the Southern mail at 5 o'clock, P. M.—Balt. Clip.

Another Duel on the Tapis.—We learn from a letter in the Philadelphia Gazette, that another duel is expected to take place between Mr. Clingman and a member of the Empire Club of New York city, in consequence of the remarks made by the former gentleman in his celebrated speech on the Texas question. Mr. Clingman left Washington on Saturday afternoon, in the cars for Baltimore, where, it was understood, his antagonist was waiting for him.

Duff Green.—The New Orleans Picayune of the 12th instant, has the following paragraph:—

It is now ascertained that President Jones has revoked Gen. Duff Green's recognition as a public agent. Various conjectures have been indulged in as to the cause of this extreme measure,—some of them quite derogatory to the diplomatic acumen of the United States functionary, and others a little less equivocal in their import. The Texan President, for some reason or other, whether of a personal or political character, whether because General Green insinuated a menace or a bribe to his Excellency as the rumors have it—has seen fit to repel all further intercourse with him. Be the reason for this conduct what it may a fiver pas of some sort has been made which, seen through the medium of surmise and exaggeration, looks both ugly and boding in a high degree.

Just before Governor Porter left the Executive chair of Pennsylvania, he granted an extraordinary number of pardons to convicts confined in the Penitentiary for various crimes. The particulars of fourteen of these cases are briefly stated in the Philadelphia American, from which we learn that five were for the crime of murder; one for arson; four for riot; one for burglary; two for counterfeiting; and one for keeping a disorderly house of the worst character.—These gross abuses of the pardoning power have induced a Member of the Pennsylvania Legislature to propose an amendment to the constitution for the purpose of preventing their future repetition. It is in these words:

Resolved, by the Senate, &c. That the Constitution of the Commonwealth be amended in the ninth section of the second article, so that it shall read as follows:

He shall have power to remit fines and forfeitures, and to grant reprieves, and to recommend, and by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, grant pardons, except in cases of impeachment: Provided, That in acting on Executive recommendations to grant pardons, the Senate shall sit with open doors, and in confirming or rejecting the recommendations of the Governor, the vote shall be taken by yeas and nays. But no pardon shall be recommended nor granted before a conviction shall have taken place.

Thomas W Doar declines accepting the terms offered him for his liberation from the State Prison of Rhode Island.—All that was asked of him was to swear allegiance to the Laws and Constitution of the State, the same as did Dutee J. Pearce and other leaders in the Rhode Island rebellion. Doar thinks he can make more political capital for himself and associates by remaining in prison.—Nat. Intel.

In the Mexican Chamber of Deputies, on the 11th ultimo, the intercepted letters of Santa Anna to his Ministers were read. In these letters he gives us to understand how easy it would be for him to put down the revolution. In one of them, written to Senor Rejon, he says, "I have just learned the election of Polk to the Presidency of the United States; so we must prepare for war with that Republic."—ib.

Mr. Polk.—The Glasgow Post contains the following paragraph concerning Mr. Polk: "The new President of the U. States is of Scottish origin; and his curious looking name is an abridgment of a good old Scotch one. Mr. Polk's father or grandfather is said to have been a Lancashire man of the name of Pollack.—In the somewhat peculiar dialect of the upper ward of this county, the name is pronounced 'Poke,' and hence, probably, the orthography adopted by the transatlantic branch of the family."

Anecdote of the Battle of New Orleans.

A Boy in female dress in Gen. Jackson's Camp.

The following anecdote we find in the Nashville Union. It may be old, but we do not recollect having seen it before.

Whilst the troops were in camp at New Orleans, in 1814, a person dressed in female attire was in the habit of visiting the camps with oranges and other fruit for sale. Some of the soldiers became suspicious that the fruit seller was not a veritable female and gave such information as made it proper to have the lady taken up and interrogated. When she was brought before the officers, she was seen to put her hand in her bosom. She drew out a written paper which, upon examination, turned out to be a certificate from a widow lady. She certified that the bearer was employed by her to assume the female dress, and sell fruit to the troops—that she had three sons in the army and was forced to support herself with meat and bread in their absence by her own labor—that she had resorted to the employment of the youth to supply herself with subsistence, and his appearance as a female was her device. The three sons of the lady were looked out—they recognized the hand writing of their mother, and they also knew the youth. Of course the boy was discharged; but the message which Gen. Jackson sent to the widow lady reflects everlasting credit upon his generous heart. He sent her word that she need give herself no further uneasiness about a livelihood, in the absence of her three sons—that a widow who could furnish three such soldiers, should have all that she needed for her support. He had her amply provided for.

HIGHLY IMPORTANT FROM MEXICO:

Defeat and Capture of Santa Anna—Loss of five Hundred Lives in Battle.

By the arrival at New Orleans, of the schooner Sarah Ann, papers have been received to the 4th, and private advices to the 9th inst. We copy the following from the Tropic:

Santa Anna has met another San Jacinto defeat, and is now a miserable captive in the hands of those over whom he has so long tyrannized. The "Napolean of the South" has at last found a fate as unenviable as was that of him whose name he so arrogantly assumed, at Waterloo. His star has shot from its zenith, and he whose lightest word was law, a brief period since has fallen so low that there are "none so poor to do him reverence."

The following letter from a correspondent at Tampico, furnishes us with the intelligence of the defeat and capture of Santa Anna:—

Tampico, Jan. 14th, 1845.

Dear Sir:—Dates from Mexico to the 9th instant arrived here last night, by express. A desperate battle had been fought on the plains of Appan, between Santa Anna, on the one side, and Bravo and Paredes, on the other, which ended in the total rout of the former who was captured in trying to make his escape! Five hundred men are reported to be killed, and Gen. Paredes had been despatched by Bravo, in pursuit of the routed troops of Santa Anna. Bravo, himself, was on his march back to Mexico, with his august prisoner!

This is all I have time to write.

The Tropic contains some additional news; but as it is not as late as the above we omit it. The officers who attacked Santa Anna had 10,000 men under their command. In a single march Santa Anna lost 2000 men by desertion, and subsequently 600 deserted in a body. We presume that the sentence of the Dictator will be death.

Acceptance of Mr. Johnson. The following is the letter of Reverdy Johnson, Esq., addressed to the Speaker of the House of Delegates and President of the Senate, accepting the appointment of U. S. Senator:

Baltimore, Jan. 18th 1845.

Gentlemen—Your joint letter of yesterday, informing me that I had been elected a Senator of Maryland, to represent her in the Congress of the United States for six years from the 4th of the ensuing March, has been received.

With deep sensibility to the high honor done me by my native State, I accept the trust she confides to me, and with a hope that by gaining my best efforts to the discharge of its duties, I may be able to assist in what I know Maryland has ever held dear, promoting the prosperity and maintaining unspotted and undiminished the honor and integrity of the Union.

With sincere thanks, gentlemen, to yourselves individually, for the very kind terms in which your communication was made,

I remain with great regard,
Your obedient servant,
Reverdy Johnson.

Pork in the West.—There has been a very general falling off in the number of hogs that have been slaughtered in the West this season. The Cincinnati Gazette estimates the falling off as likely to be 275,000 head less than last year. This fact, if the falling off be not made up by an increase in other places, must have, as the Gazette remarks, "an important bearing upon prices of pork."

A correspondent of the Boston Atlas says that Manly B. Townsend, formerly United States Senator from Maine, was so very green, that upon his reaching the Capitol, he could not distinguish between the State House and the United States Arsenal, but actually went into the latter building and chained his seat, and upon signing the papers presented to him by the commander, found himself regularly enlisted for seven years in the United States army!

Sickness in Kent County, Md.—The Kent News of Saturday says: "Our obituary columns presents a melancholy exhibition of Death's doings within our county, and while it excites the keenest sympathy and regret, it admonishes us of the uncertainty of human life and of the evanescent character of earthly joys.—Most of the deaths which take place in winter and spring are effected by pleurisies—these arise from wet feet, from exposure to the weather, and from neglected colds."

Died—In Chestertown, on Friday morning 24th inst. Capt. John Taylor of George.

At Millington, on Sunday last, Mr. John Newcomb, aged about 60 years. On the 11th inst. Mrs. Elizabeth Farrell, in the 82d year of her age. Near Millington, on Sunday last, Mrs. Turner, consort of Mr. George Turner. On Monday, Mrs. Spear, Consort of Mr. Ezekiel Spear.

In Kent Forest, on Saturday last, Mr. Eli Barnis. Also, Mr. William L. Newnam—Mr. John Bramble—James Bramble, (Son of John)—Mrs. Burrows, mother of John Bramble.

At Georgetown Cross Roads, on Sunday last, Mrs. Rosetta Welch, relict of the late Sewall Welch.

At Shaw's Mills, on the 13th inst. Miss Godwin, aged about 14 years.

Near Rock Hall, on the 21st inst. Mr. James C. Eagle, aged about 70 years.

At the residence of their father, Capt. Thos. Bartholomew, near McCollister's Ferry, in Kent County, on the 14th inst. Eliza Bartholomew, aged 8 years; also, on the 21st inst. John E. Bartholomew; also, on the same day, Catharine Bartholomew, and on the 22d inst. Mary Bartholomew. These interesting children died of scarlet fever, and the spectacle of three small coffins borne from a father's House to the burial ground, at the same time, was a melancholy one, and calculated to excite the deepest sympathies of our nature.—To lose a child is a great affliction but to lose four interesting children, within eight days, is a stroke which few are called to bear, and which requires divine assistence to withstand.
