DEFALCATION.—John Saumenig; a book keeper in the Union Bank, of this city was a few days ago discovered to be a defaulter to the amount of about $8,000. Mr. Saumenig has been engaged in various capacities in the Bank for the last 20 years and was highly regarded for his supposed integrity. He was agent for the settlement of a large estate, and in his transactions with the bank, connected with this estate, he succeeded in embezzling the amount mentioned. It is stated that the money was spent for lottery tickets. The bank it is said will not lose any thing; as the defaulting clerk has property, and his securities can make up any deficiency. Mr. S. has left the city.

A COSTLY WORK.—The cost of getting out 1150 copies of Capt. Wilke's Narrative of the Exploring Expedition, is over $20, 000, exclusive of the cost of executing the engravings. It required five weeks to print off 500 copies, such was the care necessary to produce such a perfect work.
Clipper.

The Cumberland Alleganian of Friday has the following:

The Canal.—The Bonds have already been prepared, in suitable form, in order to obtain the required security, before its issue is made by the Company. We presume the Board of Directors will make sure of it, and not offer a Bond that will, under any circumstances, be rejected. Let them not stop with the signatures of the Companies in Allegany county. Let the District cities of Alexandria, Georgetown and Washington be waited upon, and if that is not sufficient, let individuals in Washington, Allegany and Montgomery counties be waited upon, also, and their Bonds taken.

EXTRAORDINARY NARATIVE.

The Harrison (Texas) Times, contains a series of remarkable papers, under the following title, viz: "The Female Warrior" an interesting narrative of the suffering, singular and surprising adventures of Miss Leonora Siddons, who, led on by patriotism, joined the Texan army under Gen. Houston, fought in the ever memorable battle of San Antonio, where she, after seeing all her comrades slain, was shot and left for dead. Recovering the following morning, she was captured by the Mexicans, conveyed on board the ship St. Juan, from which she attempted to escape with the surgeon in a storm, but being soon missed from the ship, they were pursued by six men in a boat, overtaken, and after a terrible struggle, she was re-captured, taken to Vera Cruz, tied behind a cart, and made to walk from there (barefoot, over burning sand, and beneath the tropical sun) to the city of Mexico, a distance of over 250 miles, where she was thrown into a prison, from whence she escaped, made a voyage to sea, and returned to her friends in March last. Full and interesting particulars written by herself.

EXCITEMENT AMONG THE "UPPER TEN THOUSAND." The N. Y. correspondent of the Philadelphia Postsays, "a novel excitement exists among the "upper ten thousand" in one of the fashionable streets in this city above Bleecker. An elegant house has been rented, furnished superbly, and all the appliances of outward aristocracy exhibited by a reputed widow lady, not many miles from Ninth street. Her fashionable equipage caught the eye of the curious neighborhood, and forthwith, it was determined that "calls" must be made and the acquaintance of the opulent and genteel lady cultivated. With such imposing appearances, it was impossible that her birth could be menial, or her wealth other than hereditary. It has been vaguely whispered within a few days, that the widow in question is a celebrated retired courtezan, who by her trade has made a splendid fortune, and now proposes to take her position among the "upper-ten thousand." The neighborhood is in a paroxysm of rage, and some of the fashionable verdant ones, are "DONE BROWN."

THE SHELL EXPLOSION IN NEW YORK.—A correspondent of the Albany Evening Journal, after visiting the scene of Monday's terrible disaster, gives some additional particulars—

Mr. Basterman, keeper of the light house at Sandy Hook, has been in the habit for some time past of raking the bay thereabout for old iron and bomb shells, which he has sold to Mr. Duvall, at $1 a piece, to whom they were worth more than this as old iron to melt. On Saturday last Mr. B. brought a quantity of these bombs, among which was one, oblong in shape, 18 inches by 10, called a square bomb, which contained in its centre a large quantity of percussion powder, and consequently, unlike the common bombs, it would ignite by mere contract or friction while they require the application of fire.

Yesterday afternoon Mr. Duvall was about weighing this petard, when he discovered that it contained a quantity of powder, and taking it out upon the sidewalk, he unscrewed the fancet, and commenced picking it with a pair of tongs, when about a pint of powder fell from it. At this instant Mr. Price rode up. Getting out of the vehicle, and leaving the horse by the walk, he approached Mr. D. saying, "You had better be careful of that powder—the boys will get it and do some mischief with it." Duvall replied that the powder was too damp to be used, and had lost its strength, whereupon Mr. Hammond, one of the workmen, said he would try some of it, and taking up a handfull, went into the shop and threw it upon a piece of hot iron upon an anvil. It instantly flashed, and Hammond came out saying that it was as strong as ever. D. added, "Well I should not have thonght it, after it has been under water so long. Why, Basterman told me he thought it was one of the Princeton experiments; however, I'll empty the powder into the gutter, where the boys can't get it;" and suiting his action to his word, he stepped forward a few feet, and then turning to Hammond asked him to get him a piece of stick. Hammond accordingly went up the alley near the shop and was returning with the stick, when Duvall, laying the tongs carefully on the walk, dropped the bomb upon the curb stone, which exploded, killing Duvall Price and Broderick, instantly, and so severely injurring Bennett, that he died between 3 and 4 o'clock this morning.

Mr. Hammond who was comming out of the alley at the moment of the explosion was thrown senseless upon the ground probably by the force of the shock alone, as no bruises are apparent upon his body, though his right leg is as black as a negro's skin from the knee to the thigh. He is unable to leave his bead to-day, but the physician entertains no fears of his situation.

Luke Torboss, jr., another workman, was standing within a few feet of Mr. Duvall, and was prostrated by the shock, but he is quite recovered this morning, and to him I am indebted for these details.

The Courier relates this as one instance of remrrkable preservation:—

"One person, a carman, named Harris, had an escape truly miraculous. He was standing in the doorway of the house corner of Charlton and Washington streets, holding in his hand a decanter of common spirits, which he had procured for washing. He was in the act of entering the door at the moment of the explosion, when a fragment of the shell, weighing some five or six pounds, knocked the decanter from his hand, and imbedded itself to the depth of six inches in the brick jam of the door-way. Had his body been advanced four inches he must have been cut in two. Fragments of the shell were scattered in every direction, and it is truly wonderful that no more lives were lost."

From the Norfolk Herald, Jan. 16.

HORRIBLE CATASTROPHE.—We are called upon to notice a most tragical occurrence which took place at the house of William Hardison, on Fox st., near Plume's ropewalk, yesterday afternoon.—It appears that Mrs. Collins, whose residence is in the vincinity of Fort Barbour, accompanied by her niece, Sarah Broughton, a young girl aged about 13 years of age, had been down town in the forenoon and while on their return home, being fatigued, they called in at Mrs. Hardison's (a relation of Mrs. Collins) to rest. They found Hardison and his wife at dinner; and while at the table, Hardison (who appeared to be much excited) drew a pistol and said something about the intrusion of cars upon his premises, and threatening to shoot them. He then cocked the pistol which in a few moments more was fired, and the ball took effect upon Sarah, just below the left eyebrow, passing entirely through the head and causing almost instant death! We forbear for the present to notice other circumstances calculated to criminate the wretched man who has caused the death of this young and innocent girl. He went immediately to the Mayor and delivered himself up, declaring that the affair was entirely accidental, as it undoubtedly was so far as the unfortunate girl was concerned. The Coroner's Inquest, however, found the following verdict: "That the deceased came to her death by the intended discharge of a pistol held by William Hardison, while in a room in his own house."

Hardison was formerly one of the Borough Watchmen. His wife is said to be an excellent woman and ill-treated by her husband. She manifested the most sincere and touching grief on the dreadful occasion.

It is a remarkable co-incidence that the house in which this bloody deed was performed, is the same in which just 24 years ago, a Frenchman named Laguadette was butchered by two Spaniards, named Garcia and Castillano. Since then it has stood unaltered and unimproved, presenting the same appearance at this day that it did when a Jury of Inquest deliberated upon the limbless, headless trunk of Laguadette.

Great Zoological Exhibiton.

The Immense Menagerie from the Philadelphia Institute will visit Easton on SATURDAY THE 12th DAY OF APRIL, 1845.

On the entrance to Easton on the morning of the 12th about 11 o'clock the GREAT FOUR ELEPHANT TEAM will appear drawing the music, followed by some twenty Wagons filled with Animals, and drawn by seventy beautiful horses

HERR DRIESBACH,

The great LION KING is also attached to this menagerie who will appear in a series of scenes with his carniverous family, caress, fondle, magnetize & even drive them in harness

There is no subject that can be named in so few words, that embraces such an extent and variety of interesting and useful information as the natural history of the savage creatures of the forest and the desert. It includes within the range of its various objects, every thing that can invite the attention, or reward the inquiries of the natural philosopher, the student, or the casual wayfarer. It furnishes subjects for investigation, which have engaged the interest of the most gifted minds, during a period of more than four thousand years It leads the mind back to the hour when the world was in its infancy, and extends down to the discoveries of the present day. In this inoffensive exhibition the whole animal kingdom, in all the multiplicity and variety of its objects, possessing sufficient interest, is brought to the actual view of the spectator, in a perfection and beauty not elsewhere to be found.

☞ The Second volume of the Philadelphia Saturday Inquirer is about to commence. The paper is one of the largest, cheapest and best, published in the United States, and is especially suited to persons residing in the Country, who desire to obtain all the news of the times, foreign and domestic, together with a liberal supply of choice literature, in a convenient form, and at a moderate price. The Inquirer contains a little of every thing adapted to the columns of a family newspaper—Stories, Sketches, Travels, Markets, Agriculture, Statistics, Poetry, Anecdotes, Essays Gleanings, Scraps Oddities, Discussions, Speeches, Biography and Science. It is printed on a large and handsome sheet, and each number contains 36 columns of well arranged matter—something to suit every taste, grave or gay, lively or severe" Persons who do not subscribe to a large daily sheet will find this weekly an admirable substitute. It contains the pith and marrow of the daily papers—it notices or discusses all the prominent topics before the public—is bold manly, yet courteous in its tone, the great object of its Publisher being to instruct and entertain without offending modesty, or uttering a sentiment that does not harmonise with pure and elevated morals A few of its departments may be briefly noticed

Stories.—The best are given from the pens of the most distinguished authors. Often as many as five appear in a single number, the aggregate amounting to more than Two Hundred per annum. Quite a Library of Romance, and of the most unexceptionable character.

Biography.—Brief sketches of the lives of the just, the wise, the virtuous and the patriotic—drawn from the most authentic sources.

Travels—Outlines and descriptions of prominent men, buildings and objects throughout the world.

Poetry.—Gem passages from the best productions of the gifted children of genius

Gleanings.—Interesting articles culled from late European publications, early copies of which are received by the steamers.

Documents.—All the reports of importance by Committees of Congress and our State Legislature, together with the great speeches of leading statesmen.

Markets.—A detailed account weekly of the Philadelphia and other markets

Local Items Washington Letters, Proceedings of Congress, European News, Scenes in Philadelphia, &c. also form features of the Saturday Inquirer, and commend it to the notice of the Merchant, the Storekeeper, the Politician as well as all who delight to gather around the Family Fireside. The paper for the past year is confidently referred to as to the nature and character of its contents.—Thousands of topics have been noticed, and volumes of agreeable information have been published in its pages. It is therefore with confidence that we appeal to the public, to come forward, and add to the list of its patrons. We promise to give to all who subscribe the full worth of their money.

Now is the time to Subscribe, now while full Files for the New Year may be obtained.

☞ The paper is carefully packed directed and forwarded by the earliest Mails

☞ Postmasters are authorized to act as agents. Address,

JESPER HARDING,
No. 57 South Third St. Philadelphia.

☞ As payments are invariably to be made in Advance, subscribers whose terms are about to expire, will be good enough to forward their subscriptions for the new year

The Pioneer Magazine of America.

GODEY'S MAGAZINE AND LADY'S BOOK, FOR 1845.

The best earnest a publisher can give of what he can and will do next year is a reference to what he has done last year, or at ANY TIME FOR THE LAST FIFTEEN YEARS. Under this view of the case it would be quite sufficient for ordinary purposes for us to say that the high character of this magazine for literary and artistical merit will be properly sustained. But we are aware that the rapid and dazzling succession of novelties which we have brought forward within the last few years naturally excites a lively curiosity, and every subscriber is saying to himself What will Godey do next?

It is merely with a view to gratify this curiosity on the part of our friends that we now proceed to enumerate some of the features of our next year's plan promising, however, that the enumeration must necessarily be partial and incomplete, from our invariable practice of seizing upon every new and brilliant form of embellishment the moment it presents itself as well as securing the services of all the Popular, Lively and Piquant Writers the moment their characters are distinctly developed and pronounced. The honour of bringing forward first rate genius into public notice and favour, and serving as a sort of prime conductor to ELECTRIC FLASHES which send their light through the whole Union, has become quite habitual to the Lady's Book.

Our original idea of illustrating American history by views of Battle Grounds we are still calmly pursuing in a style that defies all competition. The not less brilliant idea of illustrating the Heroism of American Ladies by a series of ENGRAVINGS & NARRATIVES which will serve to place in their true light the patriotism, devotion and self-sacrifice of our female ancestors in the revolutionary war, emphatically called the Heroic age of America, is also original with us. Other memorials of revolutionary history will also furnish subjects for the embellishments of the coming year.—Among the subjects already executed are the Reception of the news of Lexington Fight by Darley.
Marion's Entertainment of the British Officer, by White
Female Gallantry, by Hubart,
The Storming of Red Bank Fort, by Hamilton.
Count Donop's Monument, by Hamilton.
The Battle of Concord Bridge, by Frankenstein.
The Germantown Battle-ground, by Russel Smith.
Trenton Battle Ground, by Hamilton with a large number of others, engaged but not yet sent in by the artists. Another new and striking feature we now propose for the first time in public, having had artists engaged for twelve months in working it out. Our readers will please to note the date of the announcement of this feature. it will consist of characteristic state views, in which the peculiarities of Scenery, Costume and Customs of every State and Territory of the Union will be presented in succession. This idea will of course be claimed by others, but our readers will not forget to make dates

Our proffered premium of $200 for the best painting of a subject illustrative of American Female Patriotism has already brought a splendid array of talent into the field. The award has been postponed for another month out of courtesy to artists who have pictures still upon their easel.

The premium of $250 for the best engraving will of course bring forward a series of first rate steel plates.

In addition to all these advantages, the privilege of engraving the premium pictures of the Apollo Association will serve to form a Keystone to our splendid system of Embellishments

The public know our literary contributors well for they have long been in the habit of recognizing them as the leading writers of America in Magazine Literature—the literature which exacts from the ablest pens their most piquant and brilliant contributions, at the same time that it condenses into a compact and pleasing form the Moral, the useful and the solid in narative, sketch and essay writing.

MEZZOTINTS, MEZZOTINTS

It is only necessary to say that in this department we have Sartain, Sadd and Watter and each of them has several plates in hand We shall, we think, have one in each number next year.

AUTHENTIC FASHION PLATES

Godey's Lady's Book is the only Magazine that can be relied upon for the real fashions.

Our translators suffer nothing of merit and interest, which is suited to the design of the Lady's Book, in the Literature of Germany, France, Italy, and other nations of the European continent to escape them

Among many novel features in the literary way which are now in the course of preparation, for well known reasons we choose to announce but one in this connection, viz:

The Border Legends of America, many of which have just reached us from the distant regions which were formerly the scene of border wars and hunting expeditions, and where the exploits of the famous Indian killers and hunters still furnish themes for purely national, Ballads, Songs and Stories to their children and grandchildren by the winter's fireside

It is not necessary for us to give the names of our writers—previous numbers will show that they are the best in America.

TERMS OF GODEY'S MAGAZINE

1 copy, 1 year, $3; 2 copies, 1 year, 5, 5 copies, 1 year; $10, 11 copies, 1 yer, 20.

Any person ordering a copy 1 year for $3 or two copies one year for $5, will be presented with a copy of the novelette of The Prime Deans, by W. G Simms, and Robert Rueful by T. S Fay.
