POETRY.

ON A VERY OLD WEDDING RING.

BY G. W. DOANE.

The Device—Two hearts united.
The Motto—"Dear love of mine, my heart is thine".

I like that ring—that ancient ring,
Of massive form, and virgin gold,
As firm, as free from base alloy,
As were the sterling hearts of old.
I like it—for it wafts me back,
Far, far along the stream of time,
To other men, and other days,
The men and days of deeds sublime.

But most I like it, as it tells
The tale of well-requited love;
How youthful fondness persevered,
And youthful faith disdained to rove—
How warmly he his suit preferr'd,
Though she, unpitying, long denied,
Till, soften'd and subdued, at last,
He won his "fair and blooming bride."

How till the appointed day arrived,
They blamed the lazy-footed hours—
How, then, the white-robed maiden train
Strewed their glad way with freshest flowers,
And how, before the holy man,
They stood, in all their youthful pride,
And spoke those words, and vow'd those vows,
Which bind the husband to his bride.

All this it tells; the plighted troth—
The gift of every earthly thing—
The hand in hand—the heart in heart—
For this I like that ancient ring.
I like its old and quaint device;
"Two blended hearts"—though time may wear them,
No mortal change, no mortal chance,
"Till death," shall e'er insunder tear them.

Year after year, 'neath sun and storm,
Their hopes in heaven their trust in God,
In changeless, heartfelt, holy love,
These two the world's rough pathway trod.
Age might impair their youthful fires,
Their strength might fail, 'mid life's bleak weather,
Still, hand in hand, they travell'd on—
Kind souls! they slumber now together.

I like its simple poesy too:
"Mine own dear love, this heart is thine!"
Thine when the dark storm howls alone,
As when the cloudless sunbeams shine;
"This heart is thine, mine own dear love!"
Thine, and thine only, and for ever;
Thine, till the springs of life shall fail,
Thine, till the cords of life shall sever.

Remnant of days departed long,
Emblem of plighted troth unbroken,
Pledge of devoted faithfulness,
Of heartfelt, holy love the token:
What varied feelings round it cling!
For these I like that ancient ring.

Caudle Again.—Punch's Almanac for 1846, which forms a number of his inimitable periodical, contains some more of the adventures in life of the widowed Caudle. He marries Miss Prettyman, as poor old Mrs. Caudle always prophesied he would do, and straightway, even before the honeymoon is over, begins to show "No. 2" that she is to be Caudled, and not to Caudle,—and: in the course of these twelve new Chapters, furnishes forth abundant proof that his "No. 1" had set him an example, which he means to follow, by turning the tables on his "No. 2." In other words, (his own,) he "bends the bow the other way,"—and having led poor Miss Prettyman a sad life of it, leaves her a very consolable widow

CHAPTER II.

How Mr. Caudle begins to show something "of the Fiend that's in him."

"It is rather extraordinary, Mrs. Caudle, that we have now been married four weeks—I don't exactly see what you have to sigh about—and yet you can't make me a proper cup of tea. However, I don't know how I could expect it. There never was but one woman who could make tea to my taste, and she is now in Heaven.—Now, Mrs. Caudle, let me hear no crying I'm not one of the people to be melted by the tears of a woman; for you can all cry all of you—at a minute's notice. The water's always laid on, and down it comes if a man only holds up his finger.

"You didn't think I could be so brutal? That's it. Let a man speak, and he's brutal. It's a woman's first duty to make a decent cup of tea. What do you think I married you for? It's all very well with your tambour-work and such trumpery.—You can make butter flies on kettle-holders; but can you make a pudding, ma'm? I'll be bound not.

"Of course, as usual, you've given me the corner-roll, because you know I hate a corner-roll. I did think you must have seen that. I did hope I should not be obliged to speak on so paltry a subject—but it's no use to hope to be mild with you. I see that's hopeless.

"And what a herring! And you call it a bloater, I suppose? Ha! there was a woman who had an eye for a bloater, but sainted creature!—she's here no longer. You wish she was? Oh, I understand that. I'm sure if anybody should wish her back it's—but she was too good for me. 'When I'm gone, Caudle'—she used to say—'then you'll know the wife I was to you.' And now I do know it.

"Here's the eggs boiled to a stone again! Do you think, Mrs. Caudle, I'm a canary-bird, to be fed upon hard eggs? Don't tell me about the servant. A wife is answerable to her husband for her servants.—It's her business to hire proper people: if she does'nt, she's not fit to be a wife. I find the money, Mrs. Caudle, and I expect you to find the cookery.

"There you are with your pocket handkerchief; again the old flag of truce; but it does'nt trick me. A pretty honey-moon? Honey-moon nonsense! People can't have two honey-moons in their lives. There are feelings—I find it now—that we can't have twice in our existence. There's no making honey a second time.

"No; I think I've put up with your neglect long enough; and there's nothing like beginning as we intend to go on. Therefore, Mrs. Caudle, if my tea is'nt made a little more to my liking to-morrow—and if you insult me with a herring like that—and boil my eggs that you might fire 'em out of guns—why, perhaps, Mrs. Caudle, you may see a man in a passion. It takes a good deal to rouse me, but when I am up—I say, when I'm up—that's all.

"Where did I put my gloves? You don't know? Of course not: you know nothing."

An Eastern Shore Wonder—Remarkable Man! The Worcester Shield, a new paper just started in Snow Hill, in this State gives the following account of an extraordinary man, now living in Somerset county. The Shield vouches for the truth of its statement.

There is at this time, in a neighborhood in Somerset counnty, Md., a gentleman named Nelson, in his 91st year, who has 145 children, grand-children and great grand-children now living within the sound of his voice. In his own language, he "can stand at his door, on a calm morning, and make every one hear him, with the exception of three." He further says, reasoning from what has occurred, "if his life is spared 5 years longer, he will have 200, instead of 145 collaterals, immediately around him." He yet retains the vigor and activity of youth—is fond of sporting, and often amuses himself by hauling the seine—and sometimes stands for hours waist deep in the water, without experiencing any bad effect from it. He lost his wife about three winters ago, with whom he had lived in happy wedlock 59 years. It has been 20 years since he has had any sickness and 40 years since he has required a physician for himself. He is quite a monument of Antiquity, being perfectly familiar with the scenes of the Revolution, during which time, he was engaged in the then profitable business of oystering; and supplied General Washington's table with oysters at Mount Vernon, until his death. He has frequently been in his house and received the money for his cargo from the Great man's own hand. He says it was his custom never to buy less than fifty bushels, part of which his inland neighbors would get from him.

A MODERN NEWTON.—A debating society out in Michigan had lately submitted for discussion the subject "does the world go round or does it not?" The chairman remarked that he did not propose it because there was any doubt on the subject, but to 'fetch out' the orators. After the first speaker had occupied about ten minutes in the discussion, he sat down, and was succeeded by one of the 'lights' of the town, who delivered himself thus—

"If the world was round, it would'nt be regular and even as it is. After you'd travelled a little ways, you'd begin to slide, and slide, and bimbeby you'd tumble off at the edge if you didn't ketch a hold on something to hold on by. And then they talk of sailing round the world! Why if the world was round, and went round as they say it did, the captaing'd have nothing to do, but tie his ship to a tree and it'd go round of itself! My opponent has asked "if the world does not go round, how does the sun git round to the right place again?" I answer, for a very plain reason, it's so dark you can't see it."

"Time!" said the chairman, and the young man sat down, and it was several minutes before he recovered from the sudden shock his imagination had experienced—like some of the orators in Congress, who, at the expiration of the hour, are frequently lost in the obfuscation of their own ideas.

SCRIPTURAL KNOWLEDGE.—A celebrated character of the State of New York—made especially so by William Lyon Mackenzie—one holding a high post in the law, was lately taken ill and confined to his bed for several days. His wife, who is an angel of a woman, (as many wives are,) proposed to read for him, to which he readily assented.

"My dear, what shall I read?"

"Oh, I don't care much what—anything you please."

"But have you no choice, dear?"

"None in the world, love—please yourself."

"Shall I read a chapter or two out of the scriptures?"

"Oh, yes, that'll do very well."

"But what part of the scriptures shall I read?"

"Any part you like, love."

"But, dear, you must have some choice—some little preference; we all have that."

"No, I have, none in the world, dear; read any part you like best."

"But I would rather please you, dear John, and you surely have a preference."

"Well, well, dear if you will please me, then pitch into Nicodemus!"

"Simple Cure for Stammering.—Mr. Wakley, at an inquest he held yesterday, stated that a few days back the summoning officer told him it would be useless to call one witness, a lad, because he stuttered so excessively that he could barely articulate the shortest sentence in half an hour. Mr. Wakley, however, had him called, and telling him that, as shot could not be discharged from a gun without powder or air, so words could not come from the mouth unless the lungs had their powder, viz: air. He told the lad to inhale air or draw in his breath strongly, and the lad having done so, Mr. Wakley asked, "Can you talk now?" The boy, to the surprise of the jury, answered immediately and glibly, "Yes, I can, sir, very well." The coroner added, that inhalation or self-inflation of the lungs with air, was a sure remedy for stammering, and though it had been discovered long ago, the faculty had not, until lately, and even then only a few of them caused it to be practised as a remedy for defective articulation.—English paper.

THE NATIONAL PRESS,

A JOURNAL FOR HOME;

A REPOSITORY OF LETTERS; A RECORD OF ART; A MIRROR OF PASSING EVENTS.

To be published every Saturday, at 2 Dollars a Year, in advance.

GEO. P. MORRIS, Editor & Proprietor.

A number of the most eminent literary persons of this country, have proposed to the undersigned to publish, under the above title,

A REFINED AND VALUABLE NEWSPAPER,

Upon a plan combining the highest resources of National talent with the best elements of extensive popularity, and at so trifling an annual cost, as will place it within the convenient reach of all classes of society.

The control and management of this publication will form the exclusive and undivided attention of the Editor—whose long experience, ample facilities and practised care, will be exerted to select, unite and harmonise the various skill which is willing to seek development under his direction. The scope, design and character of this paper will differ from those of any journals heretofore established, while it will comprehend all that they contain of importance to the community. The contents will be fitted to engage the attention of the man of business, and be a source of elegant instruction and entertainment to the domestic fireside and family circle.

The leading characteristics of this paper will be as follows:

1. Early and Copious Intelligence of all interesting occurrences in Literature, Society & Art, both at home and abroad.

2 A Foreign Correspondence of tried popularity and acknowledged merit has been engaged, and will be commenced with the first number.

3. Productions in fiction, romance and historical narrative; Sketches of the taste and manner of the time; Essay, after the manner of the Tattler and Spectator, on subjects connected with social interests; biographical notices and anecdotes, literary and professional; bon mots, epigrams and elegant trifles of every kind; the rumors of the day and the comments that float upon the conversation of the hour—materials of this kind will form the ordinary staple of the work.

4 The department of Criticism will exhibit a discriminating and popular survey of the Literary Productions of the day. There will be a thorough and careful chronicle of every thing of value accomplished in Painting and Sculpture, and a candid and patriotic estimate of the National productions in comparison with other countries Such exposition of the character and special excellencies of what is exhibited in Music will be constantly given as may lead to the more intelligent enjoyment of that most imaginative and delicate branch of the Fine Arts.

5 No original papers will appear, but those of obvious and decided merit; and the selections (which will commonly be from the foreign journals the least known in this country) will be made with the utmost attention and care.

The predominant design of the Editor is to add to the Republic of Letters a Weekly Journal, distinctly and decidedly national in tone and features, and at the same time, to avoid all connection with mere party politics. THE NATIONAL PRESS will, in brief, combine the striking and novel attractions of the newspaper, with the more abiding interest of the higher class of periodicals. It will be printed in the folio form, on large and superior paper, on a new and clear type obtained expressly for the purpose, and will be in its whole arrangement and details, a favorable specimen of the best typographical skill of the country. In addition to these, and as one of its most valuable peculiarities, it will be, in reference to the diversity of talent will that be employed upon it, the cheapest paper in the United States.

TERMS—Two dollars a year, or three copies for five dollars, invariably in advance

It will be sent by mail to all parts of the United States, and to the British Provinces, done up in strong wrappers, with the utmost punctuality and despatch.

Postmasters are requested to act as agents, receive subscriptions, and make remittances.

The first number will be issued on SATURDAY, the fourteenth of February next.

That a probable estimate may be formed of the number of copies that will be required, subscribers would oblige the Editor by sending in their names at as early a period as possible.

Newspapers and periodical agents & newsmen supplied on liberal terms. Burgess Stringer, & Co. 222 Broadway, wholesale agents.

Subscriptions orders, remittances, and all communications, to be addressed, post paid to

HEMSLEY'S VEGETABLE TONIC,

PREPARED BY

R. F. HEMSLEY,

PHARMACEUTIST,—Easton Md.

NO MEDICINE has acquired in so short a time so deserved a popularity; and none is prepared to present so honorable an array of certificates from the FACULTY OF MEDICINE and private individuals throughout the State as Hemsley's Vegetable Tonic In moderate doses, regularly taken, this medicine is a sure preventive of Fever & Ague and Bilious Fever, while it affords in most instances a permanent cure when employed for the removal of these diseases In all cases of general deoility arising from old age, protracted illness, or uniform delicacy and feebleness of constitution it is without question one of the most agreeable and efficient tonics ever offered to the public. Let all who are afflicted apply to this remedy with the full expectation of perfect relief It promises nothing which it is not competent to perform; and must in a very short time be the remedy preferred to all others in the various forms of Fever and Ague and in cases of general debility Full directions for using it will accompany each bottle.

Certificates.

The undersigned, Physicians of Baltimore, having been made acquainted with the ingredients composing "Hemsley's Vegetable Tonic," have no hesitation in saying that the compound, it properly used, cannot fail to conduce greatly to the accomplishment of the object proposed in its employment; and do therefore cheerfully recommend it to the afflicted public.

The preparation made by Mr. Hemsley, Apothecary, Easton, Maryland, and known as "Hemsley's Vegetable Tonic," is in my opinion the best article ever offered to the public for the radical cure of that distressing affection, Intermittent Fever. This composition forms a pleasant bitters, and furnishes a most desirable tonic in cases of constitutional debility resulting from natural infirmity or the ravages of disease I have recommended this medicine extensively in my practice and have always found it to answer the desired purpose.

CHRIS C COX, A. M M D.

Mr R. F. Hemsley Sir:—This is to certify that for a long time I labored under the debilitating influence of that dreadful disease, Ague & Fever, and had recourse to many remedies recommended to me by Physicians and others, all of which proved unavailing. I heard of your celebrated Vegetable Tonic,' of which I procured two bottles, and before I had taken it all I was entirely restored, and have not since felt any symptoms of its return. It has accomplished more in my case than all other remedies put together, and I most cheerfully recommend it to all those persons who may be laboring under this most wretched disease.
