James Davidson Mitchell in his life time took possession of all the real and other property left her as aforesaid by her deceased father aforesaid and that your oratrix never had the use possession or enjoyment of the same delivered to her but on the contrary she states and so charges that all of the aforesaid furniture was taken and disposed of by the aforesaid James Davidson Mitchell in some way unknown to your oratrix, That your oratrix is unacquainted with business of any kind and totally ignorant of her rights or of the manner in which the said James Davidson Mitchell as her trustee, transacted her business and having every confidence in him as her brother rested satisfied that his said duties as said trustee would be faithfully discharged and the said trusts strictly and faithfully carried into execution for the benefit and advantage of your oratrix, but so it is may it please yr. Honors and your oratrix so charges that the said James D. Mitchell took possession of all of said furniture, silver plate &c left her by her said deceased father as aforesaid all the different articles of which your oratrix does not recollect or know but as far as she can ascertain from information given her by others which she believes to be true and so charges in this her bill of complaint particularly the following articles, viz one dozen silver desert spoons, three dozen silver tea spoons two dozen of the very best large table spoons, two silver tea pots, one large silver cream jug one silver slop bowl silver sugar tongs three silver waiters four silver salts . . . . one large silver liquor stand with bottles one large silver castor for mustard &c large silver soup spoons and ladles number not known silver coffee pots, silver sugar bowls, silver liquor or punch bowls and other pieces of silver not recollected or at present ascertained all of great value to wit of at least the value of three thousand dollars as she is informed by others and believes and also two trunks containing among other articles the following five large damask table cloths of most costly kind, one dozen of fine damask towels four dozen of fine linen sheets, one dozen of cotton table clothes, half dozen of smaller sized cotton table clothes, four dozen of fine linen pillow cases two manchester bed quilts, and a dozen of finest linen napkins and also other quilts, sheets, blankets bed curtains &c belonging to said house in Saratoga Street aforesaid not now recollected or at present specifially ascertained all of great value to wit of at least the value of five hundred dollars as she is informed by others and believes and also one scotch carpet two parlour carpets and bed and other rooms and passages and stair cases carpetting all of the best quality and in the house of your oratrix's said deceased father of the value of three hundred and fifty dollars as she is informed and believes and also three large feather beds three curled hair mattresses for large bedsteads, one cot curled hair mattress, of the value of about $150 as she is informed and believes, and also several bedsteads to suit at least two or three cot two toilet tables one large dressing glass two small dressing glasses two wash stands one of which was mahogany and the other curled maple bureaux of mahogany sett of mahogany dining tables, one mahogany side board one mahogany secretary eighteen best finished cane bottomed chairs one dozen of best mahogany hair stuffed chairs one best mahogany sofa, four pair of andirons of good quality, four brass fenders four pair of shovels and tongs two large elegant looking glasses in the parlors, seven dozen white handled knives and forks four dozen being large and three dozen small one complete dinner set of best Liverpool China, sets of tea china earthen ware of every discription belonging to such establishment the deceased father of your oratrix being a man of great wealth and having everything towards house keeping in abundance in his said house and of the best kind also passage lamps candlesticks both silver and silver plated and of other kinds number not known to your oratrix and also one first rate pianoforte kitchen furniture of every description and many other articles not known or recollected, but when discovered will be made known to your Honors and all of which aforesaid furniture not before estimated, was of great value, to wit of at least the value of fifteen hundred dollars as she is informed and believes all of which aforesaid property was taken possession of by the aforesaid James D. Mitchell as aforesaid as your oratrix has been informed by others and believes and so charges and the said James D. Mitchell in his life time has either sold or disposed of a great part or all of the same or converted the same in some way or other to his own use or the same is in possession of his aforesaid executrix, but so it is, your oratrix has never had the use and enjoyment of the same, nor has the said James D. Mitchell in his life time or his said executrix since his death ever accounted to your oratrix for the same and your oratrix states and charges that she was entitled to and ought to have had all of said property and that said James D. Mitchell in his life time and his said executrix since his death, having used and disposed of said property as aforesaid are bound not only to account to your oratrix for the same or the full value of the same but are bound in equity and could conscience to pay to your oratrix a just and fair compensation for the same at least the legal interest upon the value of the same from the death of your oratrix's said father until the same shall be delivered over to your oratrix or the value of the same paid for. your oratrix further states and charges that not only did the said James D. Mitchell take and use said property as aforesaid but that he also as your oratrix is informed and believes took possession of the said house and slaves given your oratrix by her deceased father aforesaid and received the rents and hire of the same for a length of time after the death of your oratrix's father the time not recollected and that said house as your oratrix is informed and believes was worth at least three hundred dollars per year and said slaves one hundred for which said James in his life time or said Elizabeth his executrix since his death ought to account with your oratrix for, for the time said James D