POETRY.

For the Easton Gazette.

"Mind Not High Things."

Think humbly:—remember that thou art but dust;
In aught thou canst merit repose not thy trust.
Remember, thy heart is deceitful and vain:
Think humbly:—oh! think of thy nature's foul stain!

The image thy maker first stamped on thy race
How soon could the wiles of the tempter deface!
Think humbly:—temptations each moment assail;—
Unaided, thy strength to resist them must fail.

Speak humbly:—thy breath is but Mercy's free gift;
Then dare not thy voice in proud accents to lift!
If thou glory, weak mortal in sinfulness lost!
Be thy pride, in the cross of a Saviour to boast!—

Pray humbly:—in secret thy sorrows reveal
To the God who thy wants and thy weakness can feel;
To the Saviour who tempted in all things like thee,
Yet sinless, himself bended humbly the knee!

Walk humbly with God; nor thy brother despise;
He haply may wander;—but oh! canst thou prize
The force of his trial, the tears of his grief?—
Walk humbly:—thyself art of sinners the chief.! IOTA.

We Meet in Dreams.

'We are such stuff as dreams are made of,
And our little life is rounded with a sleep.'

Thou com'st to me in dreams, beloved!
thou com'st to me in dreams;
A vision of the solemn night, that o'er my spirit gleams;
I think not of thy quiet sleep, thy calm unbroken rest,
For my hand is clasped within thy own, my lip to thine is pressed;
And softly to my dreaming ear thy voice comes sweet and low;
Alas! for all the weary month since last I heard its flow!

We meet as we in life had met; I feel thy warm carress,
And thine eye hath still the same deep gaze of thoughtful tenderness;
And we speak the same fond words again, of love, and hope and trust;
And I forget my path of tears, and thy low bed of dust;
Forget the wreck that death has made, the hour that bade us sever,
And deem thou com'st in life and love, mine own again, forever!
Thou com'st to me in earthly guise, as thou were wont to come,
When thy smiles brought gladness to my heart, and sunshine to my home;
And joyfully I greet thy smiles, thine eyes pure light I see:
But, oh, beloved, in heavenly robes come yet in dreams to me!
Come! for my yearning soul would know of that far world of bliss,—
Would question if its holy joys quell every thought of this;
Would know the form thy spirit wears in those pure courts above,
And learn the language of the skies, breathed from thy lips of love.

Would question of thy high employ before the eternal throne—
Oh! in thy robes of glorious light, come! come to me, mine own!
Tell me if we shall meet in joy, when my brief race is o'er,
And hand in hand on angel wings the fields of light explore;
And whisper if a love like ours, in that celestial air,
Shall live with newer, holier powers, unchanged, unchanging there!

Little Children.

"The smallest planet is nearest the sun.
Ye stand nearest to God, ye little ones."

Nearest to God in childhood! It is true,
For then the heart wears not the deepened stain
That after years bear to it;—morn's sweet dew
Has not yet sought, in the blue sky again,
Its first fair home;—hope's sunshine is unshaded,
Joy's opening blossoms have not drooped or faded;
Life's verdant paths have not been sadly trod
By weary feet;—the heart is near to God.

Yes, ye are near to God, ye little ones!
Nearer than those whose bright eyes have grown dim
With bitter tears,—to whose sad heart there comes
No day unmarked by suffering and sin.
Ye have not found, amid earth's blooming bowers,
Shadows with sunbeams blended, thorns with flowers;
Ye sport in sinless mirth on the green sod
'Neath the blue sky;—yes, ye are near to God.

And near are ye to human hearts—more near
Than aught else can be;—for the soul will love,
E'en in the shadows of its dwelling here,
Aught that reminds it of its home above.
Ye whisper to us of a sky unclouded,
Of joy, by grief's dark mantle ne'er enshrouded,
Of paths by mortal footstep never trod;
Blessings upon you—ye are near to God.

A LUDICROUS MISTAKE.

Amateurs always attempt too much. If they would confine themselves to vaudeville or petite comedie, it would form an agreeable feature in an evening's entertainment, and vary that monotony which too frequently prevails in our salons I once tried this experiment at my own house, when it answered perfectly. Before the company had time to get tired, the performance was over, and a fresh quadrille organized. This is better than a bal costume or tablean vivans, in which the actors have all the trouble of dressing, with little or nothing to do. Sometimes a single scene or recitation may be introduced to advantage as I have seen done at Lady Gresley's and other houses.

One night Major P—— H ——, Col. C—— of G——, with one or two others, who were supping at the Bugle Inn, at Newport, agreed to amuse themselves in this manner. A scene from "Othello" was fixed upon,—Othello, by the Colonel, who in order to look the character, blackened his face all over with burnt cork.

The night was far spent, when Lady B——'s coachman, who waited to drive the Colonel home, and who had made several attempts to get the Colonel away, sent up word that "he couldn't keep his horses out any longer, and if the Colonel didn't come immediately he must drive directly to S—— without him." The latter, not wishing to compromise an old valued servant, instantly complied, and dismissing the carriage at the lodge, walked up to the house, let himself in with a latch key, and went striaght to bed, quite forgetting that his face was blackened all over.

In the morning Mrs. C—— awoke, and turning round, discovered a black man snoring by her side. Too much frightened to scream, she jumped out of bed rang the bell furiously, and wound herself in the bed-curtains.

In rushed the lady's maid and housekeeper.

"Oh ma'am! what's the matter, ma'am?" cried both in a breath.

"Nothing happened to the Colonel I hope, ma'am?" said the butler at the door.

"Hope master ain't took with a fit, ma'am!" pursued the footman, peering over the butler's shoulder.

"Oh! take it away! take it away!" cried Mrs. C——, speaking with great difficulty, and giving herself another twist in the bed curtains.

"What is it, ma'am?—what is it?" said the femme de-chambre, frightened out of her wits.

"Is it in the bed ma'am?" inquired the housekeeper, waddling up to it.

"Kna a-aw!" snored the still slumbering Othello.

"Thieves! Murder!" screamed the woman running out again.

"Thieves, Murder!" echoed Mrs. C——, applying herself to the bell da capo.

"Don't be alarmed ma'am," said the butler, bolting in, followed by the footman and groom armed with what weapons they could lay their hands on, "we'll soon secure the rascals. Lads mind your heads!" —and with this he gallantly flourished the Colonel's sabre, which he had appropriated; and, supported by the rest of the party approached the bed.

"Hallo!" roared the Colonel, starting on his "head's antipodes," for he had been awakened by the hubbub.

"Old Nick! by gum!" cried the groom, overturning his compatriots in his eagerness to escape.

"Help! murder!" vociferated Mrs. C—— stamping and jerking down the bell-pull.

"Help! murder!" reiterated the footman, scrambling out of the room on all fours, as if he were acting a stag-hound in some mythological charade.

"Here, Tom! Dick! Come back, you rascals cried the bewildered Colonel, throwing his night cap after them. "John! you old fool you, get up. Where's your mistress? If you dont get up this instant and tell me the meaning of all this, and who keeps screaming behind the curtain here I'll fling the bolster at you, I will, you old villain! Are you all mad?"

"Bless me! is it you sir?" said the butler, rising and rubbing the small of his back.

"La! my dear! is it you!" cried Mrs. C—— peeping.

"Me! to be sure it is! Who the plague should it be? What are you both laughing at? What were you all so frightened for? Did you take me for the devil?"

"We did, indeed, sir," said the butler; as soon as he could speak.

"And no wonder!" cried Mrs. C——, laughing heartily. "What in the world have you done to your face, my dear?"

"Face! What's the matter with my face?" —inquired the Colonel, who had forgotten all about the previous night's theatricals.

"Nay, you best know," rejoined his better half. 'John, bring the Colonel that glass.'

"Eh! Oh! I recollect now," said the Colonel, looking at himself. "Ha! ha! ha! Ho! ho! ho! Capital! glorious! No wonder you took me for the devil! He! ha! ha! Ho! ho! ho!—How H—— and the rest of them will laugh when they hear this. John you may go." And when the servants had left the room, the Colonel explained the matter.—English Paper.

GRAFTING CURRANTS.—The Gardener's Chronicle recommends, for the pretty appearance presented, as well for the improved flavor, to graft currants of different colors, as the red, black and white, variously intermixed, on stocks trimmed up to a single stem three or four feet high. The tops may be headed down to a dense compact head or trained as esparliars in the horizontal, or fan method, the two latter modes of training, by the free exposure to sun and air, much improving the quality of the fruit. The importance of trimming the bushes up to a single stem to improve the fruit and facilitate clean culture, instead of suffering two hundred and fifty suckers to shoot up all around into a dense brush heap, is very obvious to those who have tried both.

Electro-Magnectic Notice.

HAVING purchased an Electro-Magnectic apparatus in Baltimore, I take this method of notifying my friends & the public of the fact. This apparatus is the invention of a Mr. Sherwood of New York—the greatest adept and stickler for Electricity and Magnetism in our country. The instrument is extremely simple and its influences can be graduated to an almost imperceptible impression. Touching its remedial virtues, I know nothing experimentally; but feeling anxious to test its reputed merits, I have not hesitated to purchase one, in order that my patients, and the community at large may have an opportunity to try its efficacy. The charge for a battery will be made very moderate. To Mr. E. Dawson—whom I sent to Baltimore for the purpose of being practically instructed in the use of the machine, and who will operate in my absence—the following declaration was cheerfully given by the distinguished Gideon B. Smith, M. D.

S. M. JENKINS, M. D.

BALTIMORE, March 9th 1846.

Mr. DAWSON:—I have been using Sherwood's Electro Magnectic machine for a year or two past and have no hesitation in saying that it is the best apparatus I have ever used. I have used several others, and know of none anything to be compared to Sherwood's.

WISTER'S BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY,

THE great remedy for Consumption, & the best medeeine known to Man for Asthma of every stage, Liver Complaint, Bronchitis, Influenza, Coughs, Colds, Bleeding of the Lungs, Shortness of Breath, pains and weakness in the side, breast, &c. and all other diseases of the PULMONARY ORGANS.

A very important disease over which this "Balsam" exerts a very powerful influence, is that of a DISEASED LIVER. In this complaint it has undoubtedly proved more efficacious than any remedy hitherto employed, and in numerous instances when patients had endured long and severe suffering from the disease, without receiving the least benefit from various remedies, and when Mercury has been resorted to in vain, the use of this Balsam has restored the Liver to a healthy action, and in many instances effected PERMANENT CURES after every known remedy had failed to produce this desired effect.

Besides its astonishing efficacy in the diseases above mentioned, we also find it a very effectual remedy in ASTHMA, a complaint in which it has been extensively used with decided success, even in cases of years standing.

It not only emanates from a regular Physician, but has also been well tested in all the complaints for which it is recommended. It is not my intention, therefore, either to cloak it in mistery or in any way deceive the public by overrating its virtues, on the contrary, I shall simply endeavour to give a brief statement of its usefulness, and flatter myself that its surprising efficacy will enable me to furnish such proofs of its virtues as will satisfy the most incredulous, that Consumption may and "Can be Cured," if this medicine be resorted to in time.

Opinions of a regular Physician.

Exeter, Me. Sept, 30, 1845.

This certifies that I have recommended the use of WISTER'S BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY for diseases of the Lungs, for two years past and many bottles to my knowledge have been used by my patients, all with beneficial results. in two cases where it was thought confirmed consumption had taken place, the Wild Cherry effected a cure. E BOYEN, Physician. at Exeter Corner.

NO QUACKERY! NO DECEPTION!

All published statements of cures performed by this medicine, are, in every respect, TRUE. BEWARE OF COUNTERFEITS & IMITATIONS.

The unparalleled and astonishing efficacy of Dr. Wister's Balsam of Wild Cherry in all the diseases for which it is recommended, curing many cases after the skill of the best physicians was unavailing, has effected a large & increasing demand for it. This fact has caused several unprincipled counterfeiters and imitators to palm off spurious mixtures of similar name and appearance, for the genuine Balsam

Be careful and get the genuine DR. WISTER'S BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY. None genuine unless signed by I BUTTS. Address all orders to SETH W. FOWLE, Boston Mass.

PROSPECTUS.

The Western Continent,

A weekly newspaper of Literature and Art independent in Politics, just in Criticism.

Edited by PARK BENJAMIN,

Late editor of the New World, and W. S. THOMPSON, late editor of the Augusta Mirror, and author of "Major Jones' Courtship," "Chronicles of Pineville," &c.

The favorable auspices under which this journal is commenced, and the warm encouragement with which it has been welcomed in all parts of the country, are positive assurances of its success. The fullest arrangements have been made to carry it on with spirit, energy and effect. Editors, whose reputations are established, have been permanently engaged; the most able and popular writers have been enlisted; the abundent treasures of European literature will be brought hither and profusely lavished—indeed the whole world of letters, wherever genius flourishes and learning spreads, will be put under contribution to give strength, beauty and variety to "The Western Continent."

It presents a weekly compend of news, culled with care from every foreign and domestic source, and a digest of all kinds of information, literary, scientific, political, religious—interesting alike to the scholar and the man of business.

It is devoted to Southern and Western interests, not as opposed to those of the North and East, but as consonant with right and justice—interests bestowed by the Constitution, and indispensable to the maintenance of the Union of the States. It seeks to subdue sectional jealousies, cherish sentiments of amity, expand the affections as well as the intellect of men, and build upon the neutral ground of letters, a new temple to Concord, where all parties may meet and be brothers. Conciliation is it aim; Truth its guide.

It shall be worthy of its name—"THE WESTERN CONTINENT," our country, our whole country, new states and old states, new territories and old territories, ours by position, ours by occupation,—however ours, if ours be right—shall be contended for, defended and maintained, according to an humble ability, but with a fearless spirit.

A great deal more than this might be said; but "brevity is the soul of wit" and much can be expressed in a few words.—We shall promise little and perform much. Try us reader and judge for yourself.—Without another thought on the subject, pray forward the very insignificant sum of two dollars—it could not be better expended—and your name & address directed to

THE NATIONAL PRESS,
A JOURNAL FOR HOME;
A REPOSITORY OF LETTERS; A RECORD OF ART; A MIRROR OF PASSING EVENTS.

To be published every Saturday, at 2 Dollars a Year, in advance.

GEO. P. MORRIS, Editor & Proprietor.

A number of the most eminent literary persons of this country, have proposed to the undersigned to publish, under the above title, A REFINED AND VALUABLE NEWSPAPER,

Upon a plan combining the highest resources of National talent with the best elements of extensive popularity, and at so trifling an annual cost, as will place it within the convenient reach of all classes of society.

The control and management of this publication will form the exclusive and undivided attention of the Editor—whose long experience, ample facilities and practised care, will be exerted to select, unite and harmonise the various skill which is willing to seek development under his direction. The scope, design and character of this paper will differ from those of any journals heretofore established, while it will comprehend all that they contain of importance to the community. The contents will be fitted to engage the attention of the man of business, and be a source of elegant instruction and entertainment to the domestic fireside and family circle.

The leading characteristics of this paper will be as follows:

1. Early and Copious Intelligence of all interesting occurrences in Litterature, Society & Art, both at home and abroad

2 A Foreign Correspondence of tried popularity and acknowledged merit has been engaged, and will be commenced with the first number.

3. Productions in fiction, romance and historical narrative; Sketches of the taste and manner of the time; Essay, after the manner of the Tattler and Spectator, on subjects connected with social interests; biographical notices and anecdotes, literary and professional; bon mots, epigrams and elegant trifles of every kind; the rumors of the day and the comments that flow upon the conversation of the hour—materials of this kind will form the ordinary staple of the work.

4 The department of Criticism will exhibit a discriminating and popular survey of the Literary Productions of the day. There will be a thorough and careful chronicle of every thing of value accomplished in Painting and Sculpture and a candid and patriotic estimate of the National productions in comparison with other countries Such exposition of the character and special excellencies of what is exhibited in Music will be constantly given as may lead to the more intelligent enjoyment of that most imaginative and delicate branch of the Fine Arts.

5. No original papers will appear, but those of obvious and decided merit; and the selections (which will commonly be from the foreign journals the least known in this country) will be made with the utmost attention and care.

The predominant design of the Editor is to add to the Republic of Letters a Weekly Journal, distinctly and decidedly national in tone and features, and at the same time, to avoid all connection with mere party politics. THE NATIONAL PRESS will, in brief, combine the striking and novel attractions of the newspaper, with the more abiding interest of the higher class of periodicals. It will be printed in the folio form, on large and superior paper, on a new and clear type obtained expressly for the purpose, and will be in its whole arrangement and details, a favorable specimen of the best typographical skill of the country. In addition to these, and as one of its most valuable peculiarities, it will be, in reference to the diversity of talent will that be employed upon it, the cheapest paper in the United States.

TERMS—Two dollars a year, or three copies for five dollars, invariably in advance.

It will be sent by mail to all parts of the United States, and to the British Provinces, done up in strong wrappers, with the utmost punctuality and despatch.

Postmasters are requested to act as agents, receive subscriptions, and make remittances.

The first number will be issued on SATURDAY, the fourteenth of February next.

That a probable estimate may be formed of the number of copies that will be required, subscribers would oblige the Editor by sending in their names at as early a period as possible.

Newspapers and periodical agents & newsmen supplied on liberal terms. Burgess Stringer, & Co. 222 Broadway, wholesale agents.

Subscriptions orders, remittances, and all communications, to be addressed, post paid to
